

1016 2. 718 Vet: Au e. 623 Tim: Geers 1920
The Bourses

Pr

Practical Discourses

UPON THE

PARABLES

OFOUR

Blessed Saviour.

WITH

Prayers annex'd to each Discourse.

VOL. II.

BY

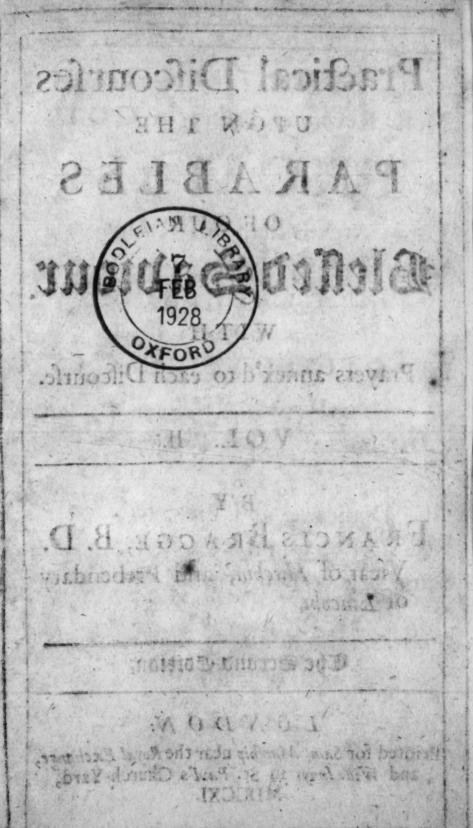

FRANCIS BRAGGE, B. D.

Vicar of Hitchin, and Prebendary of Lincoln.

The Second Edition.

LONDON:

Printed for Sam. Manship near the Royal Exchange, and Will. Innys in St. Paul's Church-Yard, MDCCXI.

PF

TO THE

Most Reverend Father in GOD,

THOMAS

Lord Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, His GRACE.

This Second VOLUME

PRACTICAL DISCOURSES

Blessed Saviour's Parables

IS

Dedicated and Presented,

WITH THE

Same Veneration as was the First,

By His GRACE's

most Humble,

and Dutiful Servant,

FR. BRAGGE.

Mod Revered Lames in COD,

The state of the same

THOMAS

Lord Archebiling of Conselves,

This Second VOLUME

PRACTICAL DISCOURSES

Blessed Samour's Parables

EI

Dedicated and Presented,

THE HILL

Same Veneration as was the Euft,

By His GRACEs

oldmult flom bel

and Duckel Servant,

FR. BRAGGE.

READER.

Hen I published the First Volume of these Discourses, being uncertain what Reception it might meet with in the World, and therefore unwilling to make it of too great a Bulk and Price; I chose to handle those Parables only which were generally look'd upon as the most Remarkable, and might be improved in the most easy and familiar way, to the pious Reader's Advantage.

But, succeeding so well, thro's God's Blessing, in my first Attempt, tempt, I of late refolv'd to go on; and apply'd my self to confider those Parables which I then pass'd by: And which, upon a more close Inspection I found (even some that at first View seem'd very little to concern us now) to be equally useful with the rest; and have endeavoured to make them so in my Comments upon them.

I shall say no more here, but that, if what I now offer to your Perusal shall do you any good, I shall think my self very happy; and let you and I return all the Praise unto God.

But succeeding so well, thro's feely But Blessing, in my first Attempt,

Tott EoL ods

258

194

PRA-

INDEX

Parable	Page
I. F the Gran	in of Mustard-Seed, ven.
and Leav	en.
	pent to hire Labour-
	vard. 37
III. Of the Man's	two Sons, whom he and work in his
And the control of th
IV. Of the Wicked I	Husbandmen. 110
V. Of a Man tak	ing a Far Journey 148
VI. Of a Creditor t	hat had Two Debt-
ors.	183
VII. Of the Uncled	in Spirit's returning.
	221
VIII. Of a Builde	r that was not able
	to

Parable	Page
to finish.	258
IX. Of the Lost Sheep.	294
X. Of the Unjust Steward.	327
XI. Of the unprofitable Servant.	362
XII. Of the Wise and Foolish Bi	ulder.
Manager and the second of the second of	392

False Grain of Multary Seed, True Sous

ERRATA.

PAge 11. Line 11. r. were to Instruct. p. 248. l. 21. r. Asurance of it. p. 376. l. 26. r. she Censures.

0 मार्थित विश्वास के अपने के प्रत्या के प्रत्या के विश्वास के प्रत्या के स्व

KIRT Of a Builder that was

V

Practical Discourses

UPON THE

PARABLES

OF OUR

Blessed Saviour;

With PRAYERS annexed to each Discourse.

Vol. Il.

PARABLE I.

Of the Grain of Mustard-Seed, and Leaven.

Matth. xiii. 31, 32, 33.

Another Parable put he forth unto them, faying, The Kingdom of Heaven is like to a Grain of Mustard-Seed, which a Man took and sow'd in his Field:

Which indeed is the least of all Seeds; but when it is grown is the greatest among Herbs, and becometh a Tree; so that the Birds 2 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. Birds of the Air come and lodge in the Branches, thereof.

Another Parable spake he unto them, The Kingdom of Heaven is like unto Leaven, which a Woman took and hid in three Measures of Meal, till the whole was leavened.

UR Lord having, in the See Vol. I. foregoing Parables of the Sower and the Tares. shewn upon how many the good Word of God that he preach'd, would be loft, and become unfruitful; and that, under the Pretence and Name of Christians, there would be very ill Men intermingled among the good in all Ages of the Church; both which would be a great Hindrance to the spreading of the Gofpel: Lest his Disciples should be discourag'd thereby from following him, his Apostles especially, who were to be employ'd in the Propagating of it throughout the World; he spoke the aboverecited Parables. The Defign of which is to shew, That how small and unpromiling foever the Beginnings of the Gofpel were; how mean the Author of it, (as to all outward Appearance) in his Person, and his Way of Life; and how worse than mean in the Circumstances of his Death; how unlikely its Doctrines were were to be embrac'd by both Jews and Gentiles; and how very uncomfortable and disheartning some of them; and all in Hopes of an unfeen Reward in a future World; and withal, that the Planters of it, after his Decease, were to be a few poor illiterate Fishermen, who were to contend with all the. Wit, and Force, and Malice of the World, and conquer Difficulties to all appearance infuperable: That notwithstanding all this, this little Grain of Mustard-Seed, which look'd so contemptibly, as if 'twere good for, and would come to nothing; should, by the peculiar Bleffing and Almighty Power of God, who only gives the Increase, grow up apace, and flourish (as that Plant did in those Countries) till it became a Tree, and that large enough to overshadow the whole Earth. And tho' like a little Piece of Leaven, or four Dough, (as the other Parable represents it) the Gospel appeared very indifferently at first, and of a very unpleasing Relish to Mens vitiated Palates; yet, by the fame Divine Affistance and Bleffing, it should be so quick and powerful, as in time to infinuate it felf thro' the whole Mass of Mankind, all People and Nations, and all Degrees of Men from the highest to the lowest, and season their Minds with its heavenly Doctrines, and reform B 2 4 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. reform their Lives, and spread its admirable Influence even to the remotest and darkest Corners of the World.

To affure his Disciples and Apostles of this, was the Design of these Parables: And 'twas but needful they should have fuch Encouragement: And they liv'd to fee it, in a great measure, made good; the Christian Religion making so wonderful a Progress, even in the Life-time of the Apostles, against the fiercest Opposition that could be made to it both by Jews and Heathens, that it was to the Amazement of every Body. And how mightily it hath prosper'd since their Decease, is evident to all Men: And we Hope and Pray that it may do so more and more, till the Confummation of all things!

In discoursing therefore upon these Parables, (which, being of the same Signification, we'll consider together) I shall not recount the particular Steps and Advances the Kingdom of God made in the World, by the Preaching of the Gospel of our Saviour, till it came to the heighth it now is at; for that would be to write the History of the Progress of Christianity, which, tho it would be of excellent Use, yet is out of the Way of my present Design: But I shall endeavour to shew by what Means it was, that the Apostles, and some of the first Believers, were enabled to go so far as they did in so great and difficult a Work, as the Planting a new Religion in the World of such a Nature as the Christian is; and how it came in so short a time as sisty or sixty Years after the Death of Christ (for twas but little more from thence to the Death of Saint John, who liv'd a great while longer than any of the rest of the Apostles) to spread so far and wide as it did, under Persecution and Oppression, and all the Ways that could be invented utterly to destroy and root it out.

1

;

e

e

Now our Blessed Lord, when he had sufficiently confirmed the Truth of his Doctrine and Mission, as the Messias, by many unquestionable Miracles, which, as Nicodemus, one of the Jewish Rulers, was forc'd to confess were so great, that no Man could perform them unless God were with him; after a Fohn 3.2.

short Stay in the World from the time of his publick Appearance in it, (not much above three Years,) was content to be betray'd into the Hands of wicked Men, and as the Representative of Sinners, used with the utmost Scorn and Cruelty, and at last made a publick Victim for the sinful World, upon the Altar of his Cross; where he expired in Torment for our sakes, and finish'd the B 3 great worship

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. worship him, and in devout Expectation of the Heavenly Gift, Suddenly there came a Sound from Heaven as of a rushing mighty Wind, and it filled all the House where they were sitting; and there appeared unto them Cloven Tongues like as of Fire, and fate upon each of them; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost: That is, Extraordinary Gifts of the Bleffed Spirit of God were then plentifully pour'd down upon them, in order to their effectual Discharge of their great and weighty. Employment, the Propagation of the Gospel of Christ throughout the World.

Thus were the Apostles endow'd by their Divine Master, with power from on high, to accomplish that Work, which far exceeded all meer Human Ability: And what those Gifts and Powers were, by Means of which they had fuch wonderful Success as from fuch small and feemingly inconfiderable Beginnings, and in fo short a time to convert fo great a part of the World to the Faith of a crucified Saviour, we shall now make it our Business to shew.

Now those extraordinary Gifts and Powers were of two forts, External and Internal; the External were these that follow:

V

th wh

G

W

a

tl

W

tl

tl

7

f

H

First, The Gift of Tongues.

Secondly, A Power of miraculously Healing Diseases, &c.

Thirdly, A Power of inflicting them.

Fourthly, A Power of Enabling other. Believers, in some Instances, to do the like by the Imposition of their Hands.

The Internal Gifts were fuch as these, First, A Faculty of Discerning Spirits. Secondly, A Perfect Knowledge of the Scriptures.

Thirdly, Extraordinary Prudence and Conduct.

Fourthly, Undaunted Boldness, Constancy, and Courage.

Each of which we shall consider in their Order, and shew how necessary such Gifts and Powers were to the first Planters of the Gospel, and how mightily it prevailed by reason of them. And,

First, The Apostles were endow'd with the Gift of Tongues, or a Habit of speaking perfectly all Languages, as there was Occasion, without any previous Study or Instruction.

Thus, Acts 2.4. 'tis faid, They began to speak with other Tongues as the Spirit gave them Utterance; and Ver. 6, &c. the Multitude of Jews and Proselytes, that then were come from all Parts to Jerusalem to Worship, Parthians, Medes, and Elamites, and several other Nations, heard them

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 9 them speak, as by turns they discours'd to them, every Man in his own Tongue in which he was born, the wonderful Works of God. And they were all amaz'd, and wonder'd (as well they might) to hear a Company of ignorant Galileans speak to them in their own particular Dialect, with as much Readiness and Propriety as they themselves could do.

II.

11-

er .

ke

le,

be nd

n-

in

ly

h k-

as

or

to

ve

1-

n

1-

Some were so ridiculously malicious as to say they were full of new Wine, and that Drunkenness, the usual Cause of Mens not being able for a time to speak well and articulately their own Mother Tongue, made them so sull of other strange Languages which perhaps they never so much as heard of before. But none that were not drunk with Rage and Prejudice, would ever have made such an Objection as this: And St. Peter's Discourse at that very time, which was so efficacious as to convert Three.

thousand Souls, was a Demon- Ad. 2. 41.
Stration that what he said was the Words of Truth and Soberness, and that the Inspiration of the Spirit of God, and not Excess of Wine, was the Cause of that Prodigy which they then faw and heard.

And a Prodigy it was, so great, that no Power less than that of God could effect it; a thing so evidently miraculous,

that

10 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. that there is no Room for any rational Doubt, or Exception against it. That a few illiterate Fishermen, whose Time was wholly fpent near the Banks of a small inconsiderable Lake in Galilee, and in all probability had never feen any Country but their own; and their Thoughts taken up with little elfe than Catching and Selling of Fish, and Mending their Nets, and whose mean Condition, and as mean natural Parts, render'd it impossible for them to acquire those Languages by the usual Methods of Study and Instruction: That fuch Men as these should all on the fudden be able to discourse fluently in any Language, as if they had been Natives of every Country in the World, and should continue to do fo as long as they liv'd, (as no doubt but they did) nay, and have Power to enable others to do the like, as we shall see they had by and by; this is fo quite out of the Course and Power of Nature, that 'tis as reasonable to imagine, that fecond Causes may so concur as to make a Brute become Rational, as that they could effect this Miracle. And if any one should suspect a Diabolical Delusion in this Matter; too many were Witnesses of it to be so impofed upon, and the Thing was too Lasting, and the Effects of it such as demonstrated it to be a great Reality. Now of fin be the N to

V

th ni of th

Sinu

V

Ptltl

V

tig

1

-

3

-

S

y

r

e

e

of

d

d

e

d

e

1-

i-

a

0

)-

g, d

V

Now as for the Necessity at that time of this miraculous Gift, 'tis plain that fince the Religion of Jesus was not to be confin'd to those narrow Bounds that the old Law was, but to be Preach'd to all Nations, and the Sound of it to reach to the Worlds End, 'twas necessary that the first Propagators of it should be furnish'd with the free Use and Command of the feveral Languages of those Places they were instructed in it; and the Apofiles that were fet apart for this great Work being all Jews, and all (except St. Paul, who was made of the Number in an extraordinary manner afterwards) unlearned, and the usual way of acquiring Languages fo very tedious, that it would be to the great Hindrance of the Progress of the Gospel; 'Twas needful that the Spirit of God should make up this Defect, by immediately infuling into them the Habit of speaking any Language whatfoever, wherever they should come, that so they might proclaim the glad Tidings of the Gospel, without any fuch Letts and Delays, as otherwise would have been unavoidable.

Secondly, They had Power given them of miraculously Healing Diseases, by a Word or a Touch, without making use of any outward Applications; and of Casting out Devils; and even of Raising the the Dead: According to that of our Lord to them after his Refurrection, Mark 16. 17. These Signs shall follow them that believe; in my Name shall they cast out Devils, and shall lay Hands on the Sick, and they shall recover: And John 14. 12. He that believeth in me, the Works that I do shall he do also; and greater Works than these shall he do, because I go to the Father: And Acts 2. 43. 'tis said, Many Wonders and Signs were done by the Apostles; several of which are recorded in that Book: And 'twas but needful that they should have such a Power as this.

For the World was then, and had been for a long time, fix'd in quite different ways of Worship to what the Christian Religion taught; the Jews in their way, and the Heathens in theirs; and to which they were so wedded, that nothing could be more difficult than to bring them off. And therefore 'twas not enough that the Apostles should barely preach up the Excellency of their Master's Religion above all others, and quote Prophecies of old to prove him to be the Saviour of the World, and promise infinite Rewards in Heaven to fuch as should comply with the Gospel, and threaten high to the ob-Stinate Refusers of it; for this any bold Sectary might do, and no more than this would have prevailed but little.

3833

The

Vol

্ 1

bro

the

lon

Por

mo

as

bat

for

COL

M

wl

wl

Do

ha

th

R

th

a

lig

W

al

N

V

0

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 13

d

·k

et

et

id

Te

to 12

.

rs

-

:

d

n

It

n

h

d

e

-

e

d

n

h

d

The Gentiles would hardly have been brought to part with the Religion of their Fathers, grown natural to them by long Use and Custom, set off with great Pomp and Splendour, applauded by the most eloquent Men in the World, and, as they thought, not destitute of Approbations supernatural and divine; and that for a Novelty never heard of before, recommended only by a few poor ignorant Mechanicks, and those too of a Nation which they hated and despis'd; and which raught fuch strange impracticable Doctrines as Self-denial, taking up the Crofs, hating the World, and the like; and all this only in prospect of a future spiritual Reward; and that not to be enjoy'd neither till after Death. Barely to perswade a Heathen by Discourse to change his Religion for fuch a one as this, at first fight, would appear to him to be, would in all probability have caus'd Derision and Mockery rather than Conversion.

And less likely would it have been in this manner to prevail upon the Jews; who, as they were naturally the most obstinate unteachable People in the World, so they were of all others the most tenacious of their own Religion, and had great Reason to be so; being assured by many unquestionable Miracles that it was from God, and having smarted so often,

and

14 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. and fo feverely formerly for their being unfaithful to it.

And accordingly we find them demanding a Sign even of our Lord himself, tho' they could not but be sensible that he spake so as never Man spake. And tho' he refus'd at that time to fatisfy the Pharifees impious Curiofity, yet at other times he wrought a great many stupendious Miracles, and appeals to them as Job. 10.38. the Proof of his being the 14.11. Christ; and says plainly, John 15. 24. If I had not done among them the Works that none other Man did, they had not had Sin.

Wherefore 'twas absolutely necessary that this Religion which the World was so obstinately bent against, to the Jews 4 Stumbling-block, and to the Gentiles Foolishness, which had so little of the World in it to recommend it, and was to be planted by fuch outwardly poor and contemptible Instruments; should be proved to be Divine by some extraordinary Evidence from Heaven: that so, however mean and unpromising its Outside might be, Men might be convinc'd 1 Cor. 1.24. that it was indeed the Power and the Wisdom of God.

Thirdly, As the Apostles had Power given them to heal Diseases and rescue from Death, so had they likewise to inflict both

Vo

bot fica

Th

ftr

St.

Pri

and

ha

bu

the

St.

sta

en

pro

De

fel

W

St.

cal

wa

ing

fell

me

H

Sa

is

ev

fe

fu

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 15 both as they saw Occasion, and the Edification of the Church required.

Thus Ananias and Sapphira were Als 5. 1.

1-

e

e

25

le

i-

IS

e

173

be

ıd

y

as

6-

in

1-

n-

d

i-

er

ht

d

er

er

ue

a

th

struck Dead by the Word of St. Peter, for keeping back part of the Price of the Land they fold for the Use and Service of the Church, (which then had no other Revenue but the Contributions of Believers) and affirming to the Apostles that it was the whole. And St. Paul struck Elymas Blind, for withstanding him and Barnabas when they endeavour'd to plant the Gospel in Cyprus, and for feeking to turn away the Deputy from the Faith, who shew'd himfelf very inclinable to embrace it; for fo we read, Acts 13. 10, &c. that upon St. Paul's telling the Sorcerer, that because he would not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord he should be blind, not seeing the Sun for a Season; there immediately fell on him a Mist and a Darkness, and he went about seeking some to lead him by the Hand: which so astonish'd the Governour, that when he saw what was done, he believed.

Of this kind is that Delivering over to Satan mention'd I Cor. 5. 5. and I Tim. 1.20. for the Destruction of the Flesh; that is, that Diseases might be inflicted by evil Spirits upon great and notorious Offenders, (who upon such Church Censures were permitted by God to do it)

thas

16 Practical Discourses upon the Vol. II. that the Spirit might be saved in the Day of the Lord Jesus. And that is a famous Instance of it mention'd by Ar-Lib. 2. connobius, who reports, that when ara Gent. Simon Magus, the Ringleader of the Gnosticks, contended with St. Peter at Rome, and by his Lying Wonders endeavoured to perswade the People, he was God, and the Great Power of God, and the like, and had for a long time bewitch'd them with his Sorceries and Enchantments, as he had formerly done those of Samaria, Acts 8. 11. and in the Presence of St. Peter, attempted from a high Tower to foar aloft in the Air and fly up into Heaven; at the Prayer of St. Peter, and the mention of the Name of Christ, the miserable Wretch fell headlong to the Ground, and in Shame and Torment dy'd of the Fall foon after.

Now, that such a Power as this was necessary in those first Times of the Church, will be evident if we consider, that the Apostles being Men of a low Condition, as to the World, and not at all affisted by the Civil Power, but violently opposed by it, and themselves often ignominiously treated, and suffering as Malesactors; That Order, and Government, which is necessary to the well-being of all Societies, could not have been preserv'd among such vast Numbers as in

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 17 in a very little time believed in Christ, unless their Want of Temporal Power had been supply'd with something spiritual that was analogous to it, and might be as effectual to create a great Awe and Regard of the Apostles in the People. Now nothing could be more conducive to this, than their being able to punish Offenders as feverely by a Word speaking as the Jewish and Roman Governours could do by the Hands of their Lictors and Executioners. And accordingly we read, that when Ananias and Sapphira were on the fudden struck dead by the Word of St. Peter, Great Fear came upon all the Church.

I.

of

1-

r-

n

of

at 1-15

le

d

t-

of

e

7-p

7, ł,

le

d

15

le

г,

W

at

)-

f-

g

n-

1-

n

IS.

n

The last of the External extraordinary Gifts confer'd upon the Apostles, that we find mention'd in Scripture, was a Power they had of endowing other Believers, in some Instances, with the like Gifts of the Spirit, by their Prayers and the Imposition of their Hands.

Thus, when many of Samaria believed at the Preaching and Miracles of Philip the Deacon, Peter and John came down and pray'd and lay'd their Hands on them, and they receiv'd the Holy Ghost. And St. Paul laid his Hands on twelve Believers at Ephesus, and the Holy Ghost came upon them, and they spoke with Tongues and prophesied.

Now this was necessary, not only to cause a profound Awe and Reverence of the Apostles in the Minds of the Disciples, which it certainly would do; but for a greater Reason. For, there being Converts made to Christianity in divers Places where there was no fuch extraordinary Descent of the Holy Ghost upon Believers, as in particular at Samaria, Acts 8. 16. nay where some had not so much as heard whether there was any Holy Ghost, as those Christians at Ephesus, Acts 19. 2. 'twas necessary for the Establishment of a Church in fuch Places. that the Apostles should have a Power of conferring fuch Gifts upon some select Persons among them, as were then requifite for that purpose, and the spreading the Gospel still farther in the neighbouring Countries: That is, fuch as themselves had been endow'd with for the same End, viz. the Gift of Tongues, and of working Miracles, and the like.

And upon this Account it was, that the Wisdom of God thought fit to fill divers Others with the Holy Ghost, in those first Days of the Church, besides those upon whom the Apostles laid their Hands.

Thus we read Acts 4.31. That upon a devout Prayer of the Believers, occasion'd by the Imprisonment and rough Treatment

Wol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 19 ment of Peter and John by the Jewish Sanhedrim, the Place where they were assembled was shaken, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost. And in like manner the Holy Ghost fell on Cornelius, a Gentile, and those with him, as on the Apostles at the Beginning; and they spake with Tongues and magnified God, and upon that were received into the Church by Baptism.

.

S

r

5,

it

i-

[e

(e ir

a

t-

nt

But then, there was this Difference between the Inspiration of the Apostles and other Believers; viz. The Apostles had each of them all those miraculous Powers and Gifts which were divided to other Believers feverally, according to the Good-pleasure of the Holy Spirit. To one was given a miraculous Faith, or fuch a Faith as would enable him to work all forts of Miracles; to another the Gift of Healing; to another Divers kinds of Tongues, &c. as St. Paul affures us, 1 Cor. 12. 9, &c. But all were not endu'd with every one of these Gifts, as the Apostles were; who being plac'd in the highest Station, and appointed by Christ to be the chief Managers of the great Work of Planting the Gospel, 'twas but fitting that they should be distinguish'd from all others by greater Variety of these supernatural Gifts, and a Power of conferring them upon others as they faw Oca casion.

But besides these extraordinary External Powers and Gifts, the Holy Ghost fill'd them with divers as extraordinary

Internal ones; as,

First, A Faculty of Discerning Spirits, 1 Cor. 12. 10; that is, a Participation in some degree of that God-like Power of looking into Mens Hearts, and knowing whether they were sincere or no in what they pretended to.

Thus when Simon Magus made Profession of his believing in Christ, and was thereupon baptiz'd, and then offer'd Money to Peter and John that he might have the same Power he saw them have, of giving the Holy Ghost to whom he would, by the Imposition of his Hands; Peter rebuk'd him, and said, Thy Money perish with thee; For Thy Heart is not right in the Sight of God; I perceive thy vile

Purpose in making this Offer, and That thou art in the Gall of Bitterness, and in the Bond of Iniquity. And in the Case of Ananias and Sapphira he presently discern'd their fraudulent Intention in detaining Part of the Price of what they fold for the Churches Service, and making as if it was the whole.

Now this wonderful Gift, as 'twas a great Motive to Sincerity in fuch as had already embraced the Faith, and their conti-

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 21 continuing uncorrupt in their holy Profession, and Performance of all the Duties of it in fingleness of Heart, and purity of Intention, (which is a thing of no mean Consideration) since if they did not, they knew the Apostles would foon find them out; so it was highly needful, in order to the Detection of false Pretenders to it, Impostors, and hypocritical Deluders of the Brethren under a specious shew of Holiness, and pretence to miraculous Powers; and for the more effectual Exercise of Ecclesiastical Discipline upon fuch as most deserv'd it; and was a great Security to the Infant Church from the unspeakable Damage of admitting Wolves in Sheeps Cloathing into any Place of Trust, or Share in her Government, or the Ministry of holy Things.

What infinite Mischief would such a one as Simon Magus have done had he been receiv'd (as he defired) into any facred Office in the Church? What Slaughter would he have made of the Flock? Bringing in damnable Herefies, backing them with Signs and lying Wonders, appearing all the while as one di-vinely inspir'd, and like an Angel of Light, who was indeed one of the worst Emissaries of the Spirits of Darkness! We know how that Man of Sin prevail'd to the Ruin of innumerable Souls, and

sa neir

nti-

nad

5 n

of

g

at

f-

as

0-ve

of

he

S;

ney

ht

ile

er,

of

of ras

eir

of:

the

it

the great Disturbance of the Church, even after the Apostles had found out what he was, and publickly rebuk'd and rejected him: What then would he not have done had he been shrowded under a fair Disguise, and pass'd without Discovery! To prevent this Danger, which might have prov'd almost fatal to a rising Church, 'twas necessary the Holy Apostles should be endow'd in some measure with that truly Divine Power of searching the very Secrets of the Heart. As they were

Secondly, With the deepest clearest Knowledge in the Mysteries of the Gospel, and an Ability of Interpreting Prophecies and other obscure Places of Scripture, those especially that had any Relation to the Messias.

This is call'd, 1 Cor. 12.8. The Word of Knowledge, and Chap. 13. 2. The Gift of Prophecy; and 'tis what our Lord promified them a little before he left the World, Joh. 14. 16. namely, that the Holy Ghost should Teach them all things, and bring all things to their Remembrance what soever he had said unto them. And John 16. 13. the Holy Ghost is call'd The Spirit of Truth, and him that should Guide them into all Truth.

Thus we find St. Peter, who before was so ignorant in the Secrets of the Gospel, and so slow of Apprehension when

our

d

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 23 our Lord discours'd of the great things of his Kingdom, (as is evident from feveral Passages in the Evangelists,) that the meek Jesus gave him this sharp Rebuke, Get thee behind me Satan, for thou savourest not the things that be of God; We find this backward Scholar, immediately upon the Descent of the Holy Ghost, become able to instruct the whole World in the deepest Points of Faith; to bring Light to dark Prophecies, and demonstrate from them that God had made the Crucified Jesus both Lord and Christ: As we may fee in that Discourse of his, Acts 2. and elsewhere in divers places.

n

d

0

e

7,

d

it

y

A

1, es

0

of

of 1-ıll

be

3.

of

m

re f-

n

Now 'twas absolutely necessary that the Minds of the Apostles should be thus greatly Enlightned, and thoroughly Instructed in every Part of the Mystery of Godliness, and endow'd with a sull and clear Understanding of the Scriptures; because what they writ and taught was to be the standing Doctrine of the Christian Religion for ever; and any Ignorance or Mistakes in them, would have entailed Error and Impersection upon all suture Ages: which to have suffer'd in the first Preachers of the Gospel, would not have been consistent with the Wisdom and Goodness of our great Lawgiver.

Besides, they were to encounter with all the Learning of the Jewish Nation;

24 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. they were to dispute with the Doctors of their Law, the Scribes and Pharisees, Men obstinately resolv'd against Christianity, and cunning to oppose it. They were to convince these Men out of their own Scriptures, that Jesus was the Christ, which could not be done to any Purpose without their thorough Understanding of them, and great Readiness in solving Difficulties, and confounding whatever Objections should be raised from them. For, but any one thing weakly urg'd and maintain'd, would presently have been catch'd at, and made an Argument of the Falsity of the whole; and any the least Ground gain'd upon the Apostles would immediately have been cry'd up as a total Rout: And therefore 'twas but needful that their Speech and Preaching Should be in Demonstration of the Spirit and of Power.

Thirdly, They were endowed with the greatest Prudence and Conduct in the Management of this great Affair, and enabled to give unpremeditated and convictive Answers to such of the Heathen and Jewish Governours, as should queftion and oppose them; according to that of our Lord, Luke 21. 12. Te Shall be brought before Kings and Rulers for my Names sake; but settle it in your Minds not to premeditate what ye shall answer, for I will give give your

Vol

or 1

not

Fat

16.

rit

is,

for

in

fuc

du

do

Te

on

on of

de

OI h

p

tl

r

t

t

a

vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 25 give you a Mouth and Wisdom, which all your Adversaries shall not be able to gainsay or resist: For, as 'tis Matt. 10. 20. It is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father that speaketh in you. And John 16. 13. he tells his Apostles, that the Spirit should shew them things to come; that is, not only enable them to foresee and foretell, but be their Director and Guide in the suture Exigencies of the Church.

II.

ors

es,

ri-

ey

eir ft,

fe

ng

g er n.

nd

en

be

st

ld

0-

d-

ld

of

le

1-

ni-

n

t

e

7

t

11

e

Now the Necessity of their having fuch extraordinary Prudence and Conduct is evident in that they were to break down the Wall of Partition between Jews and Gentiles, and enclose them in one Fold, and unite them in one Religion, under the Discipline and Government of Jesus Christ. Now, who that considers what inveterate Hatred there was on both fides one against the other, and how they both join'd in Hating and Opposing Christianity, but must think it a thing of the greatest Difficulty, and that required the Wisdom and Conduct of an Angel, nay of God himself, so effectually to accommodate Matters between them. as to make them of one Heart, and of one Mind, and to love as Brethren, to be of one Faith, submit to one Baptism, and acknowledge one and the fame great Lord, even him who not long before fuffer'd as a Malefactor upon a Cross without the Gates of Ferusalem.

26 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

And as for their wonderful Quickness in returning fuch Answers as should Rop the Mouths of their Heathen as well as Jewish Opposers, without the least Hefitancy, and perfectly ex tempore, without any Preparation before-hand: Confidering how they were to be fet upon, unlearned as they were, by all the Grecian and Roman Wits, and pump'd and fifted, and asked enfnaring Questions by the Disputers of this World, as St. Paul calls them, and their fubtle Oppositions of Philosophy and Science; they had need of a divine Prompter to furnish them with prudent and unexceptionable Anfwers, fince one Baffle or Nonplus on the Apostles side would have been of unfpeakable ill Consequence at that time, and a Shock scarce ever to be recover'd.

In the last place, The Apostles were endow'd with undaunted Boldness, Confrancy, and Courage, in the Discharge of their sacred Ministry. For so we read of St. Peter and St. John, who in our Lord's Life time were so extreamly timerous, that one of them, tho' his Bosom Favourite, lest him in his greatest Necessity, and with great Consternation sled when Judas had betray'd him, and the Soldiers seiz'd on him; and the other, three times, with horrid Oaths and Imprecations, deny'd that ever he knew

Vol him hea

end thin the

Go

Jev the im mic Ho all ty > thi blo

an

int

R grath to

A

L

b S

Sol

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 27 him: We read of these once basely faint-hearted Disciples, that after they were endow'd with Power from on High, nothing could affright them, or discourage them from promoting the Interest of the Gospel.

II.

ess

op

as le-

thıfi-

on,

rend

by

aul

ons

em

in-

on

inne,

d.

ere

011-

of

ad

ur

ne-

om

Ve-

led

he

er,

m-

w

m:

How undauntedly did they answer the Jewish Sanhedrim, or chief Council, when they question'd them about healing the impotent Man, Acts 4. so that their Enemies could not but wonder at them! How constantly did they persist against all Opposition, even to the last Extremity! the one being crucify'd for the Name and Testimony of Jesus, the other thrown into a Caldron of boiling Oyl, and being miraculously preserved from perishing in that Torment, afterwards, for the fame bleffed Caufe, ended his Days in Banishment. And as these, so the rest of the Apostles, after constant Preaching the Religion of their great Master, with great Pains and Diligence, up and down the World, zealously exhorting all Men to embrace it, to the evident Hazard and Loss of all that could be dear to them here below; at last seal'd the Truth of their Doctrine with their Blood. They had tryal of cruel Mockings and Scourgings, of Bonds and Impri-Hebr. II. Sonments, they were ston'd, sawn in Sunder, Stain with the Sword, destitute, afflicted, 28 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. flicted, tormented, and to all outward Appearance were of all Men the most miferable; but yet bore all with the noblest and unshaken Constancy and Courage. The heroick Bravery of St. Paul is particularly remarkable, and the latter half of the Acts is almost wholly taken up in recounting it; and himself has given us an Epitome of his Sufferings, 2 Cor. 11. 23, 66, and at last he suffered Martyrdom under Nero, by the Sword. Now, how necessary extraordinary Assistance and Support from above was to carry them through fuch fevere Tryals as thefe; is evident at first sight; they being more than enough to fink, the greatest natural Courage, that was not kept up by divine Comforts and Refreshments. should these Champions of the Christian Cause have failed, what the Fate of their Followers would have been, is eafy to imagine. Wherefore God upheld them with his almighty Arm, and with his right Hand he strengthned them.

And as these extraordinary Effusions of the blessed Spirit were in those early Times necessary for the Apostles; so was it likewise necessary that divers other Believers should then partake of them also.

For the Number of the Apostles being so small that they could not possibly in their own Persons preach the Gospel

n

Vol.

n ev

they

Gill

and

the

fary

ploy

ter

Car

and

ftle

fine

we

bar

like

Ap

alf

Po

Su

M

Su

fr

nı

as

N

it

a

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 29 n every place, nor be long resident where they had preach'd it, new Conversions Gill requiring their Presence to confirm and fettle Matters of Government, and the like; and it being thereupon neceffary that many others should be employ'd in the Ministry, to Dress and Water what they had Planted, and take due Care of its Growth and Improvement, and likewise to Plant where the Apoftles themselves could not come; and fince those other Persons so employ'd were to publish the Gospel in foreign barbarous Nations, and to meet with the like Difficulties and Opposition as the Apostles did; 'twas necessary that they also should be endow'd with the like Powers and Abilities, and have the fame Supports to enable them to discharge their Ministry with the like Resolution and Success.

I.II.

Ap-

mi-

olest

age.

par-

half

p in us

II.

tyr-

ow,

nce

rry

efe,

ore

ıral

di-

Ind ian

neir

to

ons

rly

vas

Be-

0.

be-

oly

pel

in

'Twas by these Means that the Gospel, from such small and unpromising Beginnings, in so short a time made such a wonderful Progress as it did, and that against the utmost Endeavours of wicked Men and Devils to hinder it, and make it come to nothing.

Thus did this little inconsiderable Seed, as it appeared at first, soon shoot up, and grow into a stately Tree, and, like the Tree of Life in the midst of the Garden

of

of God, spread its salutary Branches sar and wide; and has now taken so deep and firm a Root, that all the Powers of Hell, with all their Storms and Underminings, shall never be able to prevail against it.

Immediately after the Apostles had receiv'd those extraordinary Inspirations and Gifts of the Holy Ghost, St. Peter's first Sermon converted three thousand Souls; and the Kingdom of God daily increas'd to a Miracle, and the Number of

Disciples multiply'd in Jerusalem Adis 6.7. greatly, and a great Company even of the Priests were obedient to the Faith.

And what vast Numbers of Christians were there in a short time at Corinth, at Antioch, in Macedonia and Ephesus, and even in Rome it self, the chief Seat of the Prince of Darkness, where the Disciples were fo remarkably zealous,

Rom. 1.8. that their Faith was spoken of throughout the World! Every Place was in a few Years filled with Christians; no Cruelty or Barbarity towards them could stop the Progress of the Gospel; the Blood of the Martyrs made the Church still more fruitful; and at the End of three Centuries, no long space for so great a Change, the whole Roman Empire, which was the greatest part

Vol

part

Beli

now

ous

is g fore

Sea to t

fall

Ser

long him

bles

doti

Na

fille

evi

ty .

vid

hat

ren

wh Py

Ch

fuc

Pre

inf

of thi

bri

11.

far

ep

er-

of ail nad ons er's ind ily r of em ven to ftiath, and the oles us, of ery ith toof yrs and ong ole

test

part

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 31 part of the then known World, became Believers in a Crucified Saviour. And now is verified the Saying of the Malicious Pharifees, Behold, the World is gone after him! According to fob.12.19. the Prophecy of David long before, His Dominion Shall be from Pfalm 72. Sea to Sea, and from the River to the Ends of the Earth. All Kings shall fall down before him, all Nations shall do him Service; His Name shall be continued as long as the Sun, and Men shall be blessed in him; all Nations shall call him Bleffed. And bleffed be the Lord God of Israel, who only doth wonderful Things; bleffed be his glorious filled with the Majesty of his Glory!

And fince our Holy Religion is thus evidently from above, and by the Almighty Power and peculiar Blefling and Providence of God, the Sound of the Gospel hath reached even to us; and we of this remote Part of the World, from the Place where it was at first planted, are so happy as to be Members of the Church of Christ: Let it be our Care to Live as fuch, and Walk worthy of our Holy Profession; that this Divine Leaven may influence our whole Soul, and the Seeds of Christian Virtue grow mightily, and thrive, and flourish in our Hearts, and bring forth Fruit in all our Conversation.

Name for ever, and let the whole Earth be of God, spread its salutary Branches sar and wide; and has now taken so deep and firm a Root, that all the Powers of Hell, with all their Storms and Underminings, shall never be able to prevail against it.

Reli-

Immediately after the Apostles had receiv'd those extraordinary Inspirations and Gifts of the Holy Ghost, St. Peter's first Sermon converted three thousand Souls; and the Kingdom of God daily increas'd to a Miracle, and the Number of

Disciples multiply'd in Jerusalem Alis 6.7. greatly, and a great Company even of the Priests were obedient to the Faith.

And what vast Numbers of Christians were there in a short time at Corinth, at Antioch, in Macedonia and Ephesus, and even in Rome it self, the chief Seat of the Prince of Darkness, where the Disciples were so remarkably zealous, Rom. 1.8. that their Faith was spoken of throughout the World! Every Place was in a few Years filled with Christians; no Cruelty or Barbarity towards them could stop the Progress of the Gospel; the Blood of the Martyrs made the Church still more fruitful; and at the End of three Centuries, no long space for so great a Change, the whole Roman Empire, which was the greatest

part

Vol

part

Beli

now

ous

is go

the

to to

Sera

long bleff

doth

Nan

fillea

evid

ty F

vide

hatl

rem

Py

Chi

fucl

Pro

influ

of (

thri

brin

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 31 part of the then known World, became Believers in a Crucified Saviour. And now is verified the Saying of the Malicious Pharisees, Behold, the World is gone after him! According to fob.12.19. the Prophecy of David long before, His Dominion Shall be from Pfalm 72. Sea to Sea, and from the River to the Ends of the Earth. All Kings shall fall down before him, all Nations shall do him Service; His Name shall be continued as long as the Sun, and Men shall be blessed in him; all Nations shall call him Blessed. And bleffed be the Lord God of Ifrael, who only doth wonderful Things; bleffed be his glorious Name for ever, and let the whole Earth be filled with the Majesty of his Glory!

7

1

0

d

e.

S

s,

of

y

)-

of

rs

d

g

le

st

rt

And fince our Holy Religion is thus evidently from above, and by the Almighty Power and peculiar Bleffing and Providence of God, the Sound of the Gospel hath reached even to us; and we of this remote Part of the World, from the Place where it was at first planted, are so happy as to be Members of the Church of Christ: Let it be our Care to Live as such, and Walk worthy of our Holy Profession; that this Divine Leaven may influence our whole Soul, and the Seeds of Christian Virtue grow mightily, and thrive, and flourish in our Hearts, and bring forth Fruit in all our Conversation.

Reli-

Religion is an Active Principle, and must needs be so, the chief Ingredient of it being a sincere Love of God above all things; and Love is always a busy working Passion, and employs all the Powers and Faculties of the whole Man in doing what may render him most acceptable to the dear Object of his Love.

Let it be feen then, that we have Souls full of this Love of God, and our compassionate Saviour, by devoting ourselves entirely to their Service; and that, and that alone, will demonstrate the Truth of our Religion. For 'tis as impossible that any Man should be truly Religious, and not heartily make it his Business to recommend himself to the Divine Object of his Worship by a diligent Performance of what he hath required of him, and told him will be grateful to him; as 'tis for a Man to behave himself with Indifference, and a neglectful Difregard towards one he paffionately loves. A Man may behave himself civilly, and with due outward Respect, and give a Complement now and then to those he has but little real Value or Esteem for, and there is an end; but he feels himself quite otherwise affected towards those that have won his Heart, for whom he thinks he can never do enough, and is always contriving how he may please them best,

and is l

Re wh fped dre For he his the nor the affed him that fo a

and

ry I

Cri it h still hov

mai as c

and

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 33 and in whose Company and Conversation is his chief Delight.

II.

nd

of

all

·k-ers

ng

to uls

m-

nd

of

nat

nd reect

ice

nd

tis

In-

tolan

lue

le-

out

ere

0-

he

onest.

ind

And therefore 'tis plain, that Man's Religion is no more than Complement, who when he has paid his outward Respects to God and his Redeemer, and addressed himself to them in the usual Forms, in a cold customary manner, as, he fees others do; thinks he has done his Duty, and concerns himself no further: There's no hearty Affection in this, none of those Warmths which glow in the Breasts of those that have truly devoted themselves to him; and where there are those Warmths within, those affectionate Emotions of Soul towards him, as our chief Good, every Power and Faculty will be fet on Work in an easy unforc'd natural Way, to Express that exceeding Love we have for him, fo as may be most likely to gain his gracious Acceptance, and be most satisfactory to ourselves.

For true Affection will shew it self by something more than a sair Word, and a Cringe; and is restless and dissatisfied till it has done the best that it can, and is still sull of Thought and Contrivance how to do it better. And therefore the main Ingredient of true Religion being, as our Lord himself hath assured us, the Loving God with all our Hearts and Souls,

D

our

34 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. our Mind and Strength, it will have this Influence upon us; and if we find but little of the Influence, we may be fure we have as little of the Religion. For to conclude in a Word or two, wherever that is planted in an honest and good Heart, 'twill grow apace and flourish like a Grain of Mustard-seed, and be as fruitful in the Works of Piety as that Plant was in Judaa, (of the mighty Growth and Increase of which, the Jews, in their Talmud, give us some strange Instances:) and 'twill be as active too as Leaven, and give a new and holy Ferment to the Soul, and make our Thoughts and our Difcourse savour of Heaven, as becomes those whose Inheritance is in that glorious Kingdom; and 'twill excite our heartiest Desires to attain it, and engage our best Endeavours to prepare and fit ourselves for it by a truly Christian Life. Amen! Bleffed Jesus, so may thy Kingdom come!

The PRAYER.

I

MOst Holy Jesus! Thou Eternal Son of the Blessed God! who in the Days of thy Humiliation for Sinners, didst appear Fo and not the dom with most from

K

dia

cia

fied

fini and mon the men thy

una Sba

Sco all nes

18

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 35 as a Root out of a dry Ground, without Form and Comeliness, and wert despised and rejected of Men, who esteem'd thee not; but yet didst manifest thy Divinity, by many wonderful Works to all that did not obstinately shut their Eyes to all Convi-ction; and of thy infinite Mercy didst endow the first Planters of thy Holy Gospel with such miraculous Powers as should demonstrate the Religion they taught to be from God; whereby all Nations came to the Knowledge of that Salvation which thou didst purchase for them with thy most precious Blood: For ever ador'd and magnified be the unsearchable Riches of thy Power, thy Wisdom and thy Goodness, which are infinitely exalted above all Bleffing and Praise; and may the Glory of thy Name be spread still more and more through every dark Corner of the Earth, and every Human Creature with Joy and Wonder embrace the Faith of Jesus, and entirely submit to thy Heavenly Government here, and partake of the Happiness of thy heavenly Kingdom above!

1.

is

it

re

0 er

bd

ke ul

as

nd

el-

:)

nd

ul,

if-

es

lo-

ur ge

fit

ife.

om

of

of near

II.

O thou Righteous Branch *, *Jer. 23.5. under thy healthful Shadow we shall be safe, defended from the intolerable Scorchings of thy Father's Wrath, and from all the Rage and Fury of the Spirits of Darkness; O grant that we may always fly to thee D'2 for 36 Practical Discourses upon the Vol. II. for Refuge, and lodge securely under thy Protection, and make sure of thy Favour, which is better than Life it self, by an unfeigned Faith, Obedience, and Love! And may thy Heavenly Doctrine and Instructions have such a powerful Influence upon my Soul, that my Understanding being throughly enlightned by thy Truth, and giving an entire Affent to all thy Revelations, may guide my Will to the Choice, and my Affections to the hearty Pursuit of my true Interest and chief Good: That so, no longer living to my self, but to thee, who hast so loved me as to give thy self for me, a Sacrifice and Atonement for my Sins, to satisfy the just Anger of my Offended God, I may not only Sit under thy Shadow with great Delight, but, thy Fruit likewise may be sweet unto my Taste; and I may make it the great Pleasure of my Life to tread in thy blessed holy Steps, and grow in Grace, and the Knowledge and Love of thee my most compassionate Redeemer: till at length my weak infirm Mortality shall be swallowed up of endless Bliss and Glory: Through thy Merits and Mediation, O most Blessed and Eternal Jesus! Amen, Amen.

For

An

An

An

The

BLZ

PARABLE II.

1id

15

30

re

he

ef

lf,

ve

nt

my

Sit

at

ise

ay

ad

ice,

oft

my

up

thy

and

LE

Of a Man that went to Hire Labourers into his Vineyard.

Matth. xx. 1, &c.

For the Kingdom of Heaven is like unto a Man that was a Housholder, which went out early in the Morning to hire Labourers into his Vineyard.

And when he had agreed with the Labourers for a Peny a Day, he fent them into his Vineyard.

And he went out about the third Hour, and faw others standing idle in the Marketplace.

And said unto them, Go ye also into the Vineyard, and what soever is right, I will give you; and they went their way.

And he went out about the fixth and ninth Hour, and did likewise.

And about the eleventh Hour he went out; and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the Day idle?

They say unto him, Because no Man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the Vineyard; and what soever is right, that shall ye receive.

D.3

Se

38 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Vo

Sha

do

in t

Ob

Mo

fo

fay

we

til

th

as

C

T

di

fo

n

n

T

So when Even was come, the Lord of the Vineyard saith unto his Steward, Call the Labourers, and give them their Hire, beginning from the last unto the first.

And when they came that were hired about the eleventh Hour, they received every Man a Peny.

But when the first came, they supposed that they should have received more, and they likewise received every Man a Peny.

And when they had received it, they murmured against the Good-man of the House, Saying, These last have wrought but one Hour, and thou hast made them equal with us which have born the Burthen and Heat of the Day.

But he answered one of them, and said, Friend, I do thee no Wrong: Didst thou not agree with me for a Peny?

Take that thine is, and go thy way, I will give unto this last even as unto thee.

Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? Is thine Eye evil because I am good?

So the last shall be first, and the first last; for many be called, but few chosen.

OUR Lord, when he spoke this Parable, seems to intend to obviate the Objection he foresaw would be made by the Jews, against the Gentiles being hereafter received by him, to an equal Share

I.II. Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 39 the Share with them, in the Bleffings, and Prithe vileges, and Rewards of that New Kinglire, dom of God which he came to establish in the World: For They, having born the Burthen and Heat of the Day, in a long out Observance of the Ceremonial Law of very Moses, (which was a Yoke so heavy and fo galling, that St. Peter could hat hey fay, Neither We nor our Fathers Ad 15.10. were able to bear it) he knew would think much that at last the Genuruse, tiles should be made equal to them, whom they us'd to look upon with Contempt, one as Strangers and Foreigners to the Comual ind monwealth of Ifrael, and whose very Conversation was esteemed a Defilement. This he forefaw they would by no means id, 104 digeft, but murmur at it, as a thing very unreasonable and unjust; and thereill fore, to justify his Proceeding in that manner, and furnish his Apostles with a th fufficient Answer when any thing of this nature should be objected to them, he m represents the Case fully and clearly in the ¥ ; Parable above recited; after having introduced it by faying, (as a Key to open the Meaning of it) that many that are first shall be last, and the last shall be first, a-Chap. 19. ult. te le

al

C

For the Kingdom of Heaven, says he, (by which, in this place, may probably be signified, not the Gospel State only, D 4 40 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. but the whole State of the true Religion from the first) is like unto a Man that is a Housbolder, which went out early in the Morning to hire Labourers into his Vineyard. By which may be meant either the first Revelation that God was pleas'd to make of his Will to Adam in Paradife, (which was the Early Dawn of the World,) thereby to engage him betimes to his Service, and prevent his being led away by the great Deceiver, to his Ruin; and his promising him, the better to Gen. 1, 26. 8c. encourage and fecure his Obedience, fuch a Reward at prefent as should fully compenfate the fincerest Duty he could pay him; (and we need not question but he gave him Hopes too of a nobler Recompence hereafter:) Or it may signify the great Goodness of God to our first Parent and his wretched Offspring, after the Fall; who was pleased to commiserate their fad, Condition, and by little and little made known his Will to them anew, and in the Days of Abraham, and the Patriarchs, expresly agreed with them for a Peny a Day, upon Condition of their faithful Obedience to him; affuring them that the best Service they could perform should be abundantly rewarded, in a ylendor w most rich and fruitful Country which he would shew them, 3042 then which it f whe Defi (W Vine he d he t rifh Serv fran tho go the gio bei ly get and hav bel tio to thi

Sta

tal

it.

W

R

Vol.

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 41 them, and fix them in Possession of, and which for the Pleasantness and Plenty of it should be a second Paradise. when he went out upon this gracious Design to gather to himself a Church, (which he often stiled his Vineyard, to fignify how much Isaiab s. he delighted in it, and the Care he took that it should thrive and flourish,) and to employ Labourers in the Services of it; 'tis faid he found them standing idle in the Market-place, (whither those that wanted Employment used to go to be hired.) By which is fignified the careless thoughtless Life, as to Religion, which the World then liv'd; Men being wholly taken up with low earthly Pursuits, how to Buy, and Sell, and get Gain, to provide for their Pleasures, and fatisfy their fenfual Appetites, not having God in all their Thoughts, or at best having very false and unworthy Notions of him, and almost wholly given to Idolatry. When the World was in this degenerate, and truly deplorable State, then it was that God began to take pity on it, and to call some out of it into his Vineyard, and teach them? how to labour in it in fuch a manner as would be pleasing to him, that so in due time they might receive the promifed Reward. After

II.

on

25

he

er

'd

ſe,

he

es

ed

uto

e-

·en-1;

ve

ce

at

ld l;

ır

le

V,

le

or

ir

n

n

a

1.

V

1,

42 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

After this, he went out again about the Third, and then at the Sixth, and Ninth Hour, and did likewise. By the two first of which, is reprefented the Times of the Jewish Church under Moses, the Judges, and first Kings, when that Dispensation was brought to its Meridian Perfection, and God had amply rewarded the Pofterity of Abraham, whom he called more early into his Vineyard, and fully made good all his Promifes to him, relating to the Good Land, which he faid he would give him for a Possession, and to his Seed after him. And by the Ninth Hour is reprefented the time of the Prophets, when that Church began to decline, and the bleffed Days of the Meffish were approaching. And about the Eleventh Hour, towards the Close of the Jewish Occonomy, He went out and found others Idle, and faith unto them, Why stand ye here all the Day Idle? That is, God then made a final and general Invitation to all, both Jews and Gentiles, to leave their former Vanities and evil Courses, and unprofitable Ceremonies, and jointly to come into that universal Church which he fent his eternal Son to be the Founder of: and by that Question of his, Why stand ye here all the Day idle? together with the Answer to it, Because no Man hath hired us; I suppose is meant the Gentiles, being hitherto Vol hith led or if t hav fait Jen per of ye

and fha

Lanin is a bri

the

Ho who

tru thi

Wa Go Vi

up

hitherto passed by, and not expressly called by God to labour in his Vineyard, or to make a part of his Church, (tho if they desired it, they might all along have been admitted into it) but then he saith unto them, as expressly as to the Jews, Go Ye also into the Vineyard, and perform the Duty that shall be required of you, and what soever is Right that shall ye receive. Tou also shall be Incorporated into the Church and People of God, and for your diligent and faithful Service, shall not fail of a suitable Reward.

I.

he

ft

10 n

Π,

e-

de

to

ed

15 ts,

e,

re

fh

ers

ye

en

all, ros

ne

of:

nd he

red

ng

rta

So when the Even was come, the Lord of the Vineyard said unto his Steward, Call the Labourers, and give them their Hire, beginning from the Last unto the First. (Which is a Circumstance contrived the better to bring in what follows.) And when they came that were hired about the Eleventh Hour, they received every Man a Peny. But when the first came, they supposed that they should have received more, and they likewife received every Man a Peny. And when they had received it they murmured, &c. The true Meaning of which I suppose to be this; That when the Fullness of Time was come, in the last Dispensation of God, the last Call into his Church or Vineyard by Jesus Christ, who finished the Great Work of Man's Redemption upon the Cross; The Apostles having first 44 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. first Preached the glad Tidings of the Gospel to the Jews, (who, for the most part, rejected them,) then call'd in the Gentiles, and propos'd to them for their. Encouragement, the fame full Reward that was promised to the Jews, upon their fincerely embracing the Faith of Jesus, and submitting to his Government: That henceforth God would be no Respe-Galat.3.28. Eter of Persons; that no Difference should be made between the People of Israel and other Nations; but whoever would believe in Mat.28.19. Christ, and Repent, and be Bap-Mar. 16. tised, and fear God, and work 15. 16. Righteousness, should be accepted Ads Ic. 34, 35. of him, and receive the fame -44.45. Gifts of the Holy Spirit, as we find they did, and have equal Title to Salvation.

This it was that caused such Murmuring and Discontent among the Jewish Converts, that the Gentiles who had laboured but one Hour, should in all Respects be made equal unto them who had born the Burthen and Heat of the Day; and therefore deferv'd a proportionably greater Reward. This raised their Envy against the Gentile Christians, and put them upon endeavouring to make them submit likewise to the Law of Moses;

and

Vol.I

and v fierce and o

excel

gives

the Y

the

Obje

for

Frie

agre

25, 4

ever

this

66 h

66 C

c6 }

cc 1

66 1

46

66

66

6

66

66

66

46

66

46

66

66

Bu

Vol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 45 and was the Occasion of those fierce Contests between them, Ass 15. and of Saint Paul's writing his excellent. Epistle to the Galatians, which gives a full Account of this Matter.

.II.

the

floi

the

eir.

ard

ws.

ng

lit-

ce-

De-

Fe-

en

S;

in

p-rk

ed

ne

ve

to

r-

7-

d

-

d

d

1

-

t

But the Answer which the Lord of the Vineyard made to the Murmurers in the Parable, was enough to filence all Objections and Quarrels of this nature; for he faid to one of them, for all; Friend, I do thee no wrong; didst not thou agree with me for a Peny? Take that thine is, and go thy way, I will give unto this last even as unto thee. As if our Lord, by this Representation, had faid; "God. " hath never failed in the Performance " of his Promises to the Jewish Nation, " but hath rewarded their Services to " the full at all times, and even far be-" youd what they could pretend to de-" ferve. And now, they shall be admit-" ted to an equal share with others in " the Privileges and Recompences of the "Gospel, upon such Conditions as are " proposed equally to all. But why they " should expect greater Favours than o-" thers, I can see no Reason. And since " no Sinner can possibly merit any thing at the hands of God, but after he hath " done all he can, is still an unprofitable " Servant; and the Promise of any the " least Reward is of meer Grace and Fa-

46 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. " vour: every one ought humbly and " thankfully to receive what God is " pleas'd to promise him, as an Encouragement of his Obedience, without " repining that others, who have not, " it may be, been so long in the Vine-" yard, have yet as much bestow'd upon them; For, is it not lawful for God to do what he will with his own? Will " you be fo arrogant as to direct him " how to dispose of his Bounty? Is your " Eye evil because God is good? Are you " fo base as to envy those who partake of the fame Mercy as you do; and " grudge because God is pleased to make " others happy as well as you? This is " vile indeed!

So the first shall be last: Those that were first called into the Church of Christ, as the People of the Jews were, will be the last that will enter into it, (though at length we are affured that hap-Rom. II. py time shall come,) and the last shall be first : Those that were last invited to the Christian Faith, as the Gentiles were, were the first that in any great Numbers embraced that bleffed Offer; and of whom the Christian Church did at first, and does now, chiefly confift. For though many be called, yet few are chosen: Though the Gospel was preached to the whole People of the

Vol. the ? as to amo the t00; hear yet : in t that tifec live dire wil Gre reje of and fair Oh ma be the Bl hi

it

I

C

De

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 47 the Jews, yet few so sincerely embrac'd it as to be fuch as our Lord could reckon among the Number of his Chosen. And the same is true of the rest of the World too; vast Multitudes, though they have heard the joyful Sound of the Gospel, yet stop their Ears against it, and persist in their Infidelity; and many of those that feem to believe, and have been Baptised, and call themselves Christians, yet live at fuch a lewd Heathen Rate, as is directly contrary to their Profession, and will cause Christ to disown them at the Great Day of Retribution, and for ever reject them with these cutting Words, Depart from me, I know ye not, ye Workers of Iniquity.

II.

ind

ou-

out

ot.

ne-

up-

iod

Vill

ım

our

ou

ike

nd

ke

is

ere

as

he

at

p-

he

at

h,

at

at li-

N,

ıl-

1-

of

ne

is

Having thus shewn the true Meaning and Design of this Parable, which, as I said at the Beginning, was to obviate the Objection our Lord foresaw would be made by the Jews, against the Gentiles being received to an equal Share with them in the Rewards, and Privileges, and Blessings of the Gospel; and to surnish his Apostles with a sufficient Answer to it: I shall now proceed to make some Improvement of it to our Practice.

I. And First, it gives us so full and clear an Account of the great and unfeigned Desire God has all along had, and still has, of the Happiness of Mankind, and the gracious Methods he hath taken in order to it; as must needs excite the utmost Admiration, and Praise, and Love, of those that will consider it with due Seriousness and Attention.

and

For 1st, (Give me leave to enlarge a little upon fo comfortable an Argument) there was no Age of the World wherein he did not affectionately call and invite 'em to Embrace that which was their true and great Interest, and give them fufficient Direction and Encouragement to pursue it heartily, and effectually to attain it. He had no fooner created Man, and formed a Creature of great Excellency, after his own Image and Likeness: but he took Care to make him as good, and as happy, as that his excellent Nature was capable of being; to preserve that his Image and Likeness entire, unfullied, and undefaced, that he might always look with Delight upon that noble Reflection of himself, and always, as at first, pronounce it very Good.

And in order to this, (knowing the fatal Consequence of Idleness and Sloth) he found out betimes a suitable Employment for him; and not only placed him in a delightful Paradise, to dress

Gen. 2. 8. it, and to keep it, as a means to preserve his Body in perfect Health and Vigour, but filled his Soul with with ful K a Lav most he e (as v gave Fruit wife Resp The as g And him Para deed no e not how radif mul Rati it n rous Eve den oper

God

of F

had imp

he h

Vol.I

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 49 with excellent Endowments, and all ufeful Knowledge; and writ upon his Heart a Law that was holy, just, and good, and most agreeable to his Nature, to which he expected he should pay Obedience, (as well as to the Positive Command he gave him of not eating the Forbidden Fruit) and which Obedience, by his allwife and good Contrivance, should in all Respects tend directly to his Happiness. The Recompence of his Duty Here, was as great as this World could afford: And as to what Hopes God might give him of a Future Reward in the Celestial Paradife above; though the Scripture indeed is filent, yet Innocence, although no express Promises were made, could not but have glorious Expectations. And how delightful foever that earthly Paradife might be, yet the Pleasures of it must needs be so far short of what a Rational Soul is capable of enjoying, that it must leave it still empty, and desirous of fomething beyond it, as we fee Eve was, when she coveted the Forbidden Fruit, which she was told would open her Eyes, and make her like to God. And those clear bright Notions of Heaven, which we may suppose Adam had before he fell, and which were much mproved and enlarged by the Converse he had with its bleffed Inhabitants; could not

II.

en

he

ve,

ue

ea

it)

in

ite

ue ffi-

to

it-

ın, el-

s;

d,

ave

n-

le

at

ne

1)

y-

m

Ss

to

ul th

50 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. not but make him, even amidst all the Delights of his Paradife below, full of Longing, ardent Aspirations, after that infinitely more Glorious and Blifsful State, in the constant Presence and Enjoyment of his Maker. And therefore, unless God had promis'd him, or at least given him some Hopes of that Happiness likewise in due time, (and which indeed is his only true Happiness) as the Reward of his faithful and entire Obedience here; he would have been uneasy and diffatisfied even in the State of Innocence, which can by no means be supposed. But if, together with such a delightful Life here, as had he not fallen he would have liv'd, he had a Promise of a full and endless Felicity above; this must needs have made him a happy Creature indeed, and fuch as God feems to have at first design'd he should be.

For no doubt but he design'd him for all that Happiness of which he had made him capable, and so earnestly desirous of enjoying; and therefore we may well suppose, that during his State of Innocence, he did not only enjoy the height of earthly Pleasure; but likewise had good Ground to hope, upon Condition of his constant Obedience, that he should at length exchange Paradise for Heaven.

Vol. And there to his firml feducation would had to dition ced

Bu y al the I forts Insta and ? were the (nftea Igno inftea ight have out c orn and whic have nal!

on t

And

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 51 And what greater Encouragement could there possibly be, for a most exact and entire Duty, than this?

.II.

the

of

hat

sful

En-

ore,

at

ap-

ich

as tire

een

tate

eans

uch

not

d a

v a.

him

as

1 he

1 for nade

us of well nno-

eight

had

on of

ould

ven.

And

Thus did God call our First Parents into his Vineyard, and engage them early in his Service; and one would think for firmly too, that nothing could ever have seduc'd 'em from it. And how happy would it have been for their Posterity, had they not forfeited that bleffed Condition in which their good Creator placed them!

But alas! How foon was the Cafe fady altered! and the Hopes of Heaven, the Favour of God, and the chief Comforts of this Life too, all lost in one dire Instant! Instead of the unspeakable Joys and Tranquility of Innocence, their Souls. were fill'd with the Remorfe, the Shame, the Confusion, and Horrors of Guilt; nstead of almost Angelical Knowledge, Ignorance, and Error, and Delusion; and instead of perfect Health in a most delightful Paradife, from which they should have been translated into Heaven without dying, Diseases and Sorrow.in a fororn curs'd World, over-run with Briars. and Thorns, and then a painful Death, which, without infinite Mercy, would have been the Entrance into Death eternal! And all this too, they intail'd upon their wretched Offspring. What a dismal

E 2

dismal Alteration was here, as the just Punishment of Ingratitude and Disobedience to so good a God!

But fee how great the Divine Mercy is; there was an early, though

Gen. 3.15. mysterious, Promise made of a

Recovery; and many Advances towards it in the succeeding Ages of the World; divers gracious Calls did God make of Labourers into his Vineyard; or, in other Words, divers Revelations did he give to Mankind of his Will, and the way to regain his Favour, and sufficient Encouragement all along to incline them to observe it. And because the Mind of Man was fo darkned by a long Course of Wickedness, and the Law that God had written upon his Heart as the Rule of his religious and moral Actions, thereby fo obliterated, and as it were blotted out that it was of very little Use: Therefore God faw it needful to make those Revelations more Plain and Express, as we find he did to the Patriarchs and to Mofes, and fubjoin to them fuch Promifes of Reward to the Obedient, as would strike home upon the Senses, (which then were all in all,) and fo by degrees to win them over intirely to his Service by Arguments that were then most prevalent, and at the same time enlighten their

Vol. heir tle, Kno of N from het then ts tr be e way Men ered gard tual who a beti then cy fi Word Grace all M with upon This mad poor fat in were into

with

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 53 heir Understandings, by little and little, with the noblest and most beneficial Knowledge. And thus the great Defign of Man's Redemption was carried on from one Step to another, till the Prophets spoke still more expresly of it as hen near approaching, and made known ts true Nature, and by whom it should be effected; and thereby prepared the way for its Reception, and invited all Men to embrace it when it should be ofered; and that upon more spiritual Regards than before, as became the spiriual Kingdom of the Messias, who was to be the Mediator of Hebr. 8.6. better Covenant than was made with the Fathers, and that establish'd up- . on better Promises. -And when that bleffed time was come, 1.11.

just

edi-

ercy

of a nces

the

God

ard:

will.

and

in-

And

was ked.

writ-

s re-

y fo

out

efore

eve-

we

Mo.

nifes

ould

then

win

Ar.

reva-

their

And when that blessed time was come, then were the Arms of the divine Mercy spread wide open to receive all the World; then appeared that wonderful Grace of God, which brought Salvation to all Men that would accept it, and comply with those reasonable and easy Terms upon which it was offered to them. This was that gracious Call which was made at the Eleventh Hour, when we poor Gentiles, that had so long before sat in Darkness and the Shadow of Death, were taken pity on, and hired, and sent into the Vineyard, to work the Works of Evangelical Righteousness, and had the Promise of equal Reward with others upon our diligent and faithful Service, tho' we began so late.

Then were we called from the most fatal Idleness, and Neglect of our best Interest, and put in a way to work out our own Salvation; we were taken from the Market, and fent into the Vineyard; from the World, and receiv'd into the Church; we were delivered from our former vain, and vicious, and filthy Conversation, and all the miserable Conse. quences of it; and restored to Quiet and Peace of Mind, true Comfort and Pleafure here, and intitled to Heaven here. after. O, what a bleffed, happy Change is this! That we who were Strangers from the Covenants of Promise, Eph. 2.12. having no Hope, and without God in the World, should be made Fellow-citizens with the Saints, and of the Housbold of God!

Lord for his Goodness, and dePsal. 107. clare the Wonders that he hath done for the Children of Men! For he gathered them out of all Lands, from the East and from the IVest, from the North and from the South; when they went astray in the Wilderness out of the way, and found no City to dwell in; hungry and thirsty, their Soul

Vol.
Soul
them by t City
eter

falen

L

cati

and

Hea

Min

bein

as

Laj

Gra

Chr

ter Ho

Vi

is c ano

Re gree by a the

L

w

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 55 Soul fainted in them: Then he delivered them from their Distress, and led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a City of Habitation, even the glorious and eternal Mansions of the Heavenly Jeru-Salem!

Let us therefore walk worthy of the Vocation wherewith we are called; Ephes.4.1. and not as if we were become Heathens again, in the Vanity of our Mind, having the Understanding darkned, being alienated from the Life of God; and as past feeling, giving our selves over unto Lasciviousness, to work all Uncleanness with Greediness; for we have not so learned Christ. But let us put off, as concerning. the former Conversation, the Old-man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful Lusts, and be renewed in the Spirit of our Mind. And let us put on the New-man, which after God is created in Righteousness and true Holiness.

We are called unto Glory and 2 Pet. 1. 3. Virtue, to the former as the Reward of the latter; and have exceeding great and precious Promises, that by these we might be Partakers of a divine Nature, having escaped the Corruption of the World through Lust. Let us endeavour therefore to excel in Virtue now, that we may be Crowned with Glory in Heaven; and as he that hath called had thers Vice,

II.le

most best

Out from

ard: the our

Cononfe.

and Plea-

hereange

ngers mi/e,

God zens ld of

the

l dehath

2 84-East ana

n the d no

their

Soul

in all manner of Conversation.

Vo

rec

215

w

no ne

he

ca

no

an

m

Sp

10

Bu

a

gr

ev

af

af

de

or fe d

c

f

t

We are now actually engaged in the Service of Christ, and therefore cannot excuse our standing all the Day idle, by saying no Man hath hired us: Baptism is our general Call into the Vineyard of our Lord, and we have particular Calls too, by the good Spirit of God, to move and stir us up to a faithful Performance of our Duty; it becomes us therefore to labour diligently in it, that at length we may have our Reward.

II. For Secondly, When God has done fo much on his part to make us Happy, we must co-operate on ours, and industriously improve those gracious Opportunities he hath put into our hands for our eternal Good.

We must not think our great Master has sent us into his Vineyard only to laze, and saunter away our Time, to gaze about us, and admire the Excellency of the Fruit, and commend the Labours of others, without doing any thing our selves; No, he hath hired us to Work there, and in our several Stations, according to our best Ability to promote the slourishing Estate of it still more and more. And upon Condition of our so doing, he that is faithful and true hath assured us, that whatever is right we shall receive.

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 57 receive. He hath not indeed agreed with us for a Peny a Day, as he did with those whom he hired at first; that is, he hath not given fuch express Promises in the new Covenant of Temporal Rewards, as he did in the old; and the Reason is, because the Duty he hath laid upon us now, is more Spiritual and Excellent, and requires the Labour of the Mind more than of the Body; and therefore a Spiritual Reward, as 'tis more valuable, to is more fuitable and adequate to it: But we have abundant Security of fuch a Reward ast hat, according to the Degree of our Industry and Diligence; and every Leaf almost of the New Testament affures us of a proportionable Increase of Grace here, and Weight of Glory hereafter. However, had we nothing more to depend upon than this general Promise of our bleffed Lord, What soever is right, that shall ye receive; we need not fear being fent empty away: nay more, we need not doubt of receiving much more than we can possibly pretend to deserve, from him whose Goodness and Bounty is infinite, unless 'tis our own Fault, and we forfeit the Reward by standing all the Day idle, and not endeavouring to perform the Service. For nothing more certain, even in the Christian Religion, tho? the most gracious and merciful Institution that ever was, than this; no Labour,

III.

holy

the not by our too,

and e of e to

we

one ppy, idu-

rtuour

fer

, to

Laning to

ons,

and fo

Ball ives

48 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. Labour, no Reward. And what St. Paul faid relating to bodily Idleness, He that will not work, neither let him eat, is perfeelly the Sense of the Gospel with Refpect to spiritual Laziness and Negligence; and will be found a fad Truth by many when Christ shall come to enquire into what we have done, and give us a Recompence according to our Works. None but the good and faithful Servant shall taste of his Master's Joy; and the flothful and unprofitable shall be bound Hand and Foot, and cast into outer Darkness, where shall be weeping and gnashing of Teeth for ever.

Vo

me

and

do

me

mo

an

Bu

an

CL

fi

D

d

F

4

There was Duty to be perform'd in the State of Innocence; and tho' it was a Service that was perfect Freedom, pleafant and delightful, yet it was a Service; and the Works of it, tho' not a fervile Drudgery, yet required Thought, and Application, and Diligence; and 'twas no more good for Man even then, to be idle, than to be alone. How much more then, are we now oblig'd to Industry, when our Work is become (tho' by our own Fault) fo much more laborious and difficult, and as indispensibly required of us as ever, in order to our receiving the Reward! A hearty Endeavour 'tis true, (and bleffed be God's Goodness for it) will be accepted instead of a compleat Perfor-

BA

Performance of the Work; for 'tis not meerly the Burthen that any Man bears, and the Abundance of Work that he can do, that renders him acceptable to the merciful God, and who is infinitely above being in the least advantag'd by our utmost Services, but the willing Readiness and Sincerity of Mind with which he applies himself to do the best that he can. But then, nothing less than that will do; and the want of it will admit of no Excuse.

LII.

Paul

that

per-

Re-

gli-

by

uire

is a ant

the

und

irk-

·in vas

ea-

ce:

rile

nd

ras

be

ore

Y,

ur

of.

he

ie,

:)

at

-10

Thus in the Parable, those that were hired at the eleventh Hour, because they sincerely and diligently perform'd their Duty in it, to the utmost of their Power, receiv'd as much as those who pleaded that they had born the Burthen and Heat of the Day. They equall'd them in an honest Industry and Diligence, and therefore their Reward was equal too.

Not but that he who actually labours more Abundantly, and for a longer time than others, and is constantly doing extraordinary Service to God and his Church, and does it upon an unblameable Principle, shall have a suitable Recompence; for here is all that can be to recommend a Man to God's peculiar Favour and extraordinary Bounty: But then, because the Work receives its Value from the hearty Diligence, and good Inten-

Intention with which it was wrought; when a Man is truly fincere in what he does, and his Industry great, tho' his time of Labour be short, yet his Reward shall not be less than that of those who had longer Time and more Opportunity, but yet did not make greater Improvements in their whole Day, than he did in an Hour or two at last.

Vol

bef

fma

yet

wa

Ex

ling

Ca

tru

15

Of this we have a pregnant Instance in the Blessed Apostle S. Paul, who was call'd last of all to that high Office, and tells us that he was born out of 1 Cor. 15. due time, and so in some Sense 8, 9. the least of the Apostles; and yet, 2 Cor. 12. because He labour'd more abun-11, 12. dantly than they all, he was in nothing behind the very chiefest of them, in Signs and Wonders, and mighty Deeds, and abundance of heavenly Visions and Revelations, while here on Earth, and no doubt has an equal Share of Glory with them

We see then, there is no Exemption from labouring in our Lord's Vineyard, in our several Stations, and according to our best Ability; and if we hope to receive the Rewards of Christianity at last, we must diligently and faithfully perform the Duties of it now. And there can't possibly be greater Encouragement than there is for every one sincerely to do his best;

in Heaven.

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 61
best; because a hearty Endeavour, tho' a Man's Strength and Ability is but small, and 'tis late before he begins, will yet be very graciously accepted, and rewarded bountifully, even beyond our Expectation. For, if there be first a willing Mind, (as the Apostle says in the Case of Charity, and which is equally true as to all other Duties) it is accepted according to what a 2 Cor. 8.12.
Man hath, and not according to what be hath not.

I.II.

tht;

he

his

ity,

vedid

nce

nd

of

ıse

et,

m-

in nd la-

bt

m

n

d,

0 ł,

n t

n

S

Let no Man therefore despair of God's Mercy, tho' 'tis the eleventh Hour, the latter end of his Life, before he complies with his Saviour's Call to Repentance and a holy Conversation: for, tho' his refusing so long hath added very much to his Guilt, and made his Work much more difficult; yet a hearty Endeavour even then to work the Works of Righteousness, will meet with a favourable Acceptance from him who desireth not the Death of any Sinner, but rather, that be should turn from his Wickedness, and live. But then, he must redeem the Time he hath loft with extraordinary Diligence for the future, and walk exceeding circumspectly, and improve every Minute to the best Advantage, as the only way to make fome Amends for his former Idleness, and great Neglects, and wasting so much of the precious Opportunity God gave him of working out his Salvation, either in doing nothing towards it, or else in the Service of the Devil and his Lusts. Having often in his Mind, as a Means to excite and quicken his Industry, the Words of our great Lord, Rev. 22. 12. Behold, I come quickly, and my Reward is with me, to give to every Man according as his Work shall be.

III. But Thirdly, Be it early or late that we have begun to labour in the Vineyard, and tho' our Diligence hath been never so great; tho' we have really born the Burthen and Heat of the Day, or else done the Work of many Hours in one, by an extraordinary Industry and Zeal; yet we must have a care of thinking too highly of our Performances, and pretending to merit any thing by them, much less any extraordinary Recompence at the Hands of God, and likewise of envying those whom he pleases to make the Objects of his peculiar Favour.

Tis true, God hath in general promif John 10. ed, that what ever is right he will

27. 28. give us, and if we abound in the 1 John 2. work of the Lord, our Labour shall 25.

Rom. 2. 7. not be in vain; and more parti cularly, that everlasting Life in his glorious Kingdom above shall be the

Re-

Re

272 1

ano

Chi

ous

Per

Fer

wil

Du

nel

mij

cer

Fo

the

tion

is not the

Lo

wh

nit cei

clo

ou

it,

Re

fur,

the

but

Fa

. for

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 63 Reward of those who by patient Continuance in well doing, seek for Glory and Honour, and Immortality, which is the Hire of the Christian Labourer, as a long and prosperous Life in the Land of Canaan, was the Peny a Day, for which he agreed with the Jews. This he has promifed to all that will perform the Conditions, and do the Duty he requires of them with Faithfulness and Diligence; and what he hath promised he is able to perform, and will most certainly, unless the fault be our own. For no Man ever did, or shall serve God. for mought; doubtless there is a Reward for the Righteous, and their Expectation Shall not be cut off; for God Heb. 6. 10. is not unjust, that he should forget their Work, and Labour that proceedeth of Love. And when the Evening comes, when Time shall be swallowed up of Eternity, we shall every one be called to receive our Hire; as we are affured in the close of this Parable.

e

e

a

y

1-

1,

e

P

fill

be

all

1-

n

e

e-

All this is very true, and we may and ought to labour in prospect of it, encouraging our selves by Heb. 11. often looking at the Recompence of Reward, to a constant Diligence in full Assurance of Hope unto the End; that so we may not be slothful, Heb. 6. 11. but followers of them, who thro' Faith and Patience inherit the Promises. But then then we must consider, that these Promises did proceed from the meer Grace and Favour of God, who had a Previous Right to our utmost Service; as being our great Creator, in whom we Live and Move, and have our Being, and who can't possibly receive any the least Benefit or Advantage from the joint Labours of his whole Creation. And therefore, says our Lord, when ye have done all In. 17. 10. these things that are commanded you, say, we are unprofitable Servants, we have done that which upon Innumerable Obligations already laid upon us, was our Duty to do, without any further Expectation of Reward. We are abundantly paid beforehand for all that we can ever do for our Good God, should we labour in his Service with all Fidelity to Eternal Ages.

With what Face then can any one pretend with those in the Parable to Merit more than God has promised, when those very Promises, are of his meer Bounty, and Goodness, and Infinitely beyond what the Best of us can pretend to deserve! Indeed, we all deserve alike; that is, none of us deserve any thing,

But Indignation and Wrath, Tri bulation and Anguish, which is the just due of every Soul that doth evil.

And therefore, if God of his great Mercy is ineft our as fu as if Thou magi Boun think in his may

Vol.

may Fo ulia there er D ven, make ng; ot o ed P belov Thou is P lave he C his is oul s to ent; et th

For n

s for

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 65 cy is pleased to make us such large and inestimable Promises, as the Reward of our Poor Worthless Duty, and we are as fure of them if we perform the Duty, as if we had them in Hand; methinks we should rather go away rejoycing, and magnify our great Master's undeserved Bounty and Goodness, than enviously think much and repine that others share n his Bounty, and fare as well, and it may be better than we.

H

04 ce

us

ng

nd

1't

Or

is ys

all

led 27-

n-

on

T-

re ve

ld

ty

e-

it

fe

у,

nd

e-

at

g, i-

is il.

r-CY

For as for God's making some the Peuliar Objects of his Favour here, and thereby feeming to design them for greater Degrees of Glory than others in Heaven, which is apt to raise our Envy, and nake us Murmur at God's unequal Dealng; I'm fure I should be very unworthy, not only of the lowest Room in that blesed Place, but of the least Blessing here below, should I have One Dissatisfy'd Thought about it. If God makes good. his Promise of eternal Life to me, who have been to failing in my Performance of he Condition he required in order to it; his is fo great a Mercy, as should fill my oul so full of Praise and Love, and Joy, s to leave no room in it for any Disconent, at anothers greater Happiness, et that other be who and what he will. for why (bould my Eye be evil because God s so wonderfully Good? Is it not lawful for hims

66 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.
to do what he will with his own, and bestow his peculiar Favours as he pleases?

The Bleffed in Heaven are Wifer and Better, and more grateful to their great Benefactor, than to think much at any of his Disposals of this Mature; and there is nothing there but mutual Love and Rejoycing at each others Happiness, tho' One Star differs from another Star in Glory, and many that were here supposed to be first, are last, and the last first. But all joyn together with the greatest Ardour and Transport in Hymnsof Praise to God, and Songs of Triumph. And thus should we on Earth be perfectly fatisfied, whatever Difference he shall please to make between one Man' and another in conferring his Divine Gifts and Graces, or any other of his Bleffings on them, and chusing out some before others to be extraordinary Instruments of his Glory in this World, and to enjoy as extraordinary Degrees of Happiness in the next. For he that knows the Hearts of Men, is the best Judge whom to prefer before others; and 'tis not what we think of our Brethren or our felves, that fignifies, or should fignifie any thing in this matter, but what God thinks, who cannot think amifs, or be mistaken. Besides, were there no other Reason for his proceeding thus, but his Good Will Vol. and and can felf, is p of c rece Fav of th Rea of th Mar trao and upor with kno crea hap the out Ill-1 is th felf and and we

py Par

Gru

and

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 67 and Pleafure; this would be fufficient, and there needs no other. For he that can pretend to deferve nothing at all himfelf, has no wrong done him, tho' another is preferred before him. If a Company of condemned Rebels are Pardoned, and received to Great Degrees of their Prince's Favour, the very least of which the best of them does not deferve; they have no Reason certainly to complain that some of them are diftinguished with peculiar Marks of his Affection, and receive extraordinary Expressions of his Bounty, and are admitted to a nearer attendance upon his Person; and greater Intimacy with him than the rest; for Reasons best known to himself. Perhaps this might create Envy in those that are not of the happy Number, and a hard thought of the Prince too for his Partiality; But without all Reason, and with a great deal of Ill-Nature and Ingratitude. For no Man is the less Happy (unless he makes himfelf fo) because another is happier than he; and'tis nothing but Pride and Self-Conceit and an unthankful Undervaluing of what we already enjoy, that makes us Envy and Grudge at one another's better Fortune.

I.II.

tow

and

reat

y of

теге

Re.

tho

lory,

be be

But

lour

to itis-

Chall

and

Fifts

ings

fore

ents

njoy

ness

nom

vhat

ves

ning

nks,

ken.

fot

Will

and

Were we throughly sensible of the happy difference between Condemnation and Pardon, between being Vessels of Wrath, and Vessels of Mercy, between a fearful

F 2 Expec-

out it; is a Cordial that will so Cheer and Rejoyce the Heart of him that has a due Apprehension of the dismal Condition he was in before, as utterly to drive out all gloomy sullen Discontented Thoughts, and make him perfectly easy and satisfied in his bleffed Change.

So that the Doctrine of Election, if rightly understood, and nothing else of a worse Nature added to it, has nothing in it that can justly offend or startle any Man. There is no Injury done by it to any one, no Injustice or Hardship in it in the least; nothing but what is highly reasonable and sitting, and what is so far from lessening, that it very much exalts the Mercy and Goodness of God, and Increases the Happiness of Mankind, and adds to the Glory and Beauty of the Church.

Every Good Christian is Elect and Precious, chosen out of the World, redeemed from its Vain and Filthy Conversation, and made one of God's Holy Ones, and

pecu-

Vol.I

becul

Elect.

iver

Dbed

are n

Choic

Orna

reat

Exan

pecu

naj

pacit

Inte

to N

first

ple

one

Eter

Apo

and

a Sh

on (

that

Gif

rent

ple

as I

civ

wh

eve

ftic

T

vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 69 peculiar People; and the Saints, or the Elect, fignify in Scripture those that have given themselves up to the Faith and Obedience of Christ. But some of these are more eminently so than others; the Choice Jewels of the Kingdom, the bright Ornaments of our Holy Religion, the great Lights of the World, and shining Examples of an extraordinary Piety, and peculiar Instruments in God's Hand, some in a publick, others in a more private Capacity, of advancing his Honour, and the Interest of his Kingdom, and doing good to Mankind.

ol.II.

In-

Eter-

d not

are

We,

æles.

ercy

ould

vith

and

due

n he

t all

ghts.

ified

ght.

orfe

that

Man.

one,

eaft;

able lef-

Mer-

eafes

s to

Pre-

med

ion,

and

ecu-

Thus, when the Christian Church was first established, tho' every sincere Disciple of Jesus was very dear to him, and one of his chosen ones, and an Heir of Eternal Glory; yet all were not Apostles, or Prophets, or Pastors 1 Cor. 12. and Teachers, and intrusted with a Share in the Government and Edification of the Church. And those that were, had Diversities of-4.5,6. Gifts, and Operations, and different Administrations in it, as God was pleased to divide to every Man severally, as his Divine Wisdom faw most conducive to the Benefit and Advantage of the whole. And 'tis but necessary that in every Society, there should be such a Diffinction of one Member from another;

fome

fome employ'd this way, fome that, fome plac'd in a higher Station, fome in a lower; And (as St. Paul ar 17, &c. guesto this very purpose) each Member is useful in his Place, and each have need of other: So that, as in the natural Body, the Eye, or the Head, the noblest and ruling Members, can't say to the Hands or the Feet, the Inserious, and working drudging parts, we have no need of you: just so it is in the Spiritual Body of Christ, which is his Church. Now, if it be so necessary to the Good Government and Edification of the Church, and so conducive to God's Honour, and the Salvation of Mankind, that there should be divers Orders of Men in it, of different Excellency, and Ability, according to the different Services he shall please to employ them in; What more reasonable, than that God should make choice of whom he pleases for those several Employments, and confer proportionable Degrees of Honour upon them, and endow 'em with suitable Gifts? And when they have faithfully Discharg'd their Trust; what more Congruous and Fitting, than for him to reward them in a more extraordinary manner in the Church Triumphant above?

Here is a manifest Preserence indeed, of one before another, and some that are

are

Vol

first

God

defi

but

that

fucl

is al

this

ing is fo

Pla

inv

bra cul

of

yet

tha

me

his

hai

lov

He

be

eft

ha

15

me

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 70 first in their own esteem may be last in God's, and the last may be first; but God defigns it not to the Prejudice of any, but rather to every ones Advantage; fo that no Man has reason to complain of fuch a particular Election as this, (which is all that can be prov'd relating to it from this Parable) and 'twill be very displeasing to God, if our Eye is Evil, when his is fo very Merciful and Good. Thus, Many are called, but few chosen; that is, (as I conceive it fignifies in this Place) among the great Numbers that are invited to the Gospel, and heartily embrace it too; but few are chosen to be the peculiar Favourites, and as 'twere Ministers of State to the Majesty of Heaven.

I.I.

that,

e in each lace,

t, as

Tead.

fay

OUF.

ie no

tual

bood

the Ion-

that

n in lity,

hall

nore

rake

eve-

orti-

em.

And

rg'd

and a in

the

eed,

are

yet all shall have the Labourers Penny, that do their Duty Faithfully and Diligently in their Station, how low and mean soever it may be. What ever is Right our great and good Master will certainly give to us all; and so boundless is his Bounty, that Eternity can never exhaust it, to those that sincerely love him, and obey from the Rom. 6.17. Heart that form of Doctrine which he delivered to them. And even the lowest Degree of that Happiness which he hath prepared for his Servants in Heaven, is such as Eye hath not seen, nor Ear hear'd, neither can it now enter into the Heart

F 4

ct

Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. of Man to conceive. Wherefore, Let us be stedfast, Unmoveable, always abounding in the Work of the Lora, for as much as we know that our Labour shall not be in vain in the Lord.

The PRAYER.

AND thou most gracious God! the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hast bles. sed us Gentiles, with all spiritual Blessings in Heavenly things in Christ, and Eph.1.3,8c. hast chosen us in him, that we should be Holy and without blame before him in Love; and hast called us to the Adoption of Children to thy self, according to the good Pleasure of thy Will, and to the Eter. and Praise and Glory of thy Grace, whereby thou hast made us accepted in the Beloved: We humbly bow our Knees unto thee, be-Geeching thee to give unto us the Spirit of Wisdom and Revelation in the Knowledge of thee; That the Eyes of our Understanding being enlightned, we may know what is the hope of our Calling, and what the Riches of the Glory of the Inheritance of the ' Saints, and how great thy Compassion and Mercy hath been towards us, who hast QuickVol

4 ne · T

6 m 6 in

e in

6 an co

27 · L

6 th " G

6 6 · w

grei Go who

tur 6 F 4 d

· 1 6 t

and Sce tio

ma

M til

An

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 73

ned us, when we were Dead in Eph 2. 1.
Trespasses and Sins.
And do thou strengthen us with might by thy Spirit in the Eph. 3. 16.

II.

ling

we

nin

ther bles-

ings and twe

him

tron

the

ter-

reby

red:

be-

it of edge

and-

at is ich-

the

and uick-

ned

inner Man, that Christ may dwell in our Hearts by Faith, and being rooted and grounded in Love, we may be able to comprehend what is the Breadth and Length, and Depth, and Heighth, and to know the Love of Christ which passeth Knowledge, that we may be filled with all the fulness of God! And to thee be Glary in the Church, by Christ Jesus, throughout all Ages, World without end! Amen.

II.

And thou, O blessed Jesus, who art the great Lord of the Vineyard, the Head and Governour of the Christian Church, and in whose Hands are the Hearts of all Men to turn them whithersoever thou pleasest; ' Have Mercy upon all Jews, Turks, Infidels and Hereticks; take from them all 'Ignorance, Hardness of Heart, and Contempt of thy Word; that at length they may effectually hear and obey thy gracious Call, and come in Unanimously, and submit to thy Scepter, and all the World may see the Salvation of God; that so thou who in infinite Mercy hast been a Light to lighten the Gentiles, mayst be the Glory of thy People Israel. And Grant, O bleffed Lord! that I who had the 73 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. the Happiness to be sent into thy Vineyard in my tender Years, and call'd betimes to thy Faith and Service, and have been fully instructed in all things Necessary to be believed and done in order to my favourable Accept. ance with thee, and have wanted no manner of Encouragement to a sincere Performance of my Duty: U grant, that all this Goodness may have its due Effect upon me, and bind me inseparably to thee, by the Cords of Love! But what Shall I say in excuse for my past Negligence and Sloth, and even worse, much worse! How unaccountably have I trifled away abundance of my precious time, and Spent it in the Market rather than my Closet, or the Temple, in Vain and Worldly, rather than Heavenly Pursuits; and Stupidly took but very little Care about the One thing needful! O'my compassionate Redeemer, with Pity look upon me; and tho it be the Ninth or Eleventh Hour, the Decline, or the Evening of my Life; yet call me so powerfully by thy prevailing Grace, that I may apply my self in earnest to work out my Salvation with Fear and Trembling; and thro' thy unspeakable Mercy, may at last receive that Inestimable Reward, which thou art pleas'd to promise to sincere Obedience. In thee, O Lord, do I trust, O cast not out my Soul; and thine be the Praise, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen!

PARA-

Vol.

Of

ma

An

WI

W.

in

by

an Ia I.II.

d in thy in-

nner

ance

bind ove!

Paft

ifled

and ofet, ther

took eed-Pi-

b or

ning

s thy self

able

mise do I

e be ver.

A-

PARÀBLE III.

Of the Man's Two Sons, whom he Commanded to go to Work in his Vineyard.

Mat. xxi. 28, &c.

A certain Man had two Sons; and he came to the First, and said, Son, Go work to Day in my Vineyard. He Answered and said, I will not; but afterward he repented, and went.

And he came to the Second, and said likewise; and he answered and said, I go Sir, but went not.

Whether of them Twain did the Will of his Father? They say unto him, the first. Jesus saith unto them, the Publicans and the Harlots go into the Kingdom of God before you.

His Parable was spoken to the chief Priests and Elders of the Jews, when they came to Jesus as he was teaching in the Temple, and demanded of him by what Authority he acted as he did, and took so much upon him, as he had lately done, in riding in Triumph into Jerusalem,

76 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. salem, and admitting the Hosanna's of the People, as to the Son of David,

Vol.I

recite

of th

that ther.

in hi

terw

Repe

him

Sir,

Mat

ply'

his 1

est,

mai

atel

I fa

lots

As

« y

"

66 j

66 I

66

66

66

16

66

66

46

66

ver. 12. and then Casting out those that bought and sold in the Temple, and overthrowing the Tables of the Mony Changers, and the Seats of those that sold Doves, who were allowed to drive that Trade there for the Convenience of those that came to Offer, and to Sacrifice.

To which Demand, he wifely waved giving a direct Answer, knowing they lay upon the Catch to find fome matter of Accusation against him; and put another Question to them, viz. whether the Baptism of John, was from Heaven or of Men? Which was so contriv'd, as you may see, v. 25. 26. that after confulting together, they thought it their best way to say they could not tell. To which our Lord rejoins, neither tell I you by what Authority I do thefe things: Tho' by this he intimated plainly enough, that he and John (who was by all held to be a Prophet) acted by the same Authority, and received their Commission from Heaven.

And then, to give a due Reproof to those Hypocritical Pretenders to extraordinary Holiness, and exact Obedience to the Divine Commands, when there was nothing of it in reality, and make them condemn themselves with their own Mouths; He proposed to them the above

reci-

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 77 recited Parable; and asked them which of the Two was the Obedient Son, He that Rudely and Undutifully told his Father, when he Commanded him to Work in his Vineyard, that he would not, but afterward bethought himself better, and Repented and went; or he that smoothed him over with good Words, and faid Igo, Sir, but never thought any more of the Matter, and went not? To which they reply'd as they could do no other, He did his Father's Will, not that spoke him fairest, but who effectually did as he Commanded. And then, our Lord immediately returned upon them and faid, Verily I say unto you, that the Publicans and Harlots go into the Kingdom of God before you. As if he had faid, " Notwithstanding all " your specious Pretences to the greatest " Sanctity, All your high Professions of " Zeal for God, and devoting your felves " intirely to his Service; and large Pro-" mises of what you will do in Obedience " to his Will, and Vainglorious Thanking him that you are not as other Men are, Extortioners, Unjust, Adulterers, or even " as that Publican, and the like: He that " fees your Hearts knows the Rottenness " and Falshood of them, that all is but " Hypocrify and empty Appearance; " and there is more likelihood of even the " vilest fort of People, and the greatest

Sin-

I.II. the vid.

that and

ves.

ade

ved lay

of

ism en?

fee,

ier, hey

ins,

bese

nly

all me

ffi-

to

or-

to

vas

em

NA

ve

Ci-

77 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

" Sinners, coming to a true Sense of their Duty, and hearty Performance of it,

" and fo of attaining the Reward of it at

" last, than of your doing so, that have " laid aside all Sincerity, and Impiously

" think to impose upon God by a fair out.

" fide, and a few fine Words.

And the Event shew'd this to be true; for several Publicans, as Matthew and Zatheus; and Harlots, as Mary Magdalene, and that other Mary, Lu. 7. 38. who washed Jesus Feet with her Tears, and anointed them with precious Ointment, and wiped them with the Hairs of her Head, were converted from their sinful Courses to the Faith of Christ, and became great Instances of sincere Holiness, and most exemplary Religion; but of the Pharisees, and Seribes, and Rulers, so sew could be wrought upon by all that our Saviour said or did, that they themselves could say, Have any of the Rulers or the Pharisees be-Fobn 7.48. lieved on him? And our Lord tells us the Reason of this, in

How can ye Believe, who receive Honour one of another, and seek not the Honour that cometh from God only? They had no real desire of following and embracing Truth, and recommending themselves to the Favour of God by unseigned inward Piety: But their sole Aim was by making a great

out-

Vol.

outv

al O

part

by t

Hol

the

they

Seat

chie

Cov

bett

Desi

poci

knev

us t grea

God

of I tem

and fo m

to a

rife

that

but

with

Rui

You

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 78 outward Shew of Religion, in a punctual Observance of the Ritual Ceremonial part of it, to be cry'd up and honour'd by the People, as exceeding Devout and Holy Men; to be call'd Rabbi, and have the respectful Greetings of every Body they met, and be placed in the highest Seats in the Synagogues, and have the chief Rooms at Feasts; and under the Cover of fo great a Reputation, be the better able to compass their avaricious Defigns. And no Wonder that fuch Hypocrites as thefe (as he that knew their Hearts has affured Mat. 23. us they were) should be at the greatest Distance from the Kingdom of of God, and most of all averse from the Religion that Jesus taught; which consisted bes, of Humility, and Self-denial, and conuptempt of the World, and Purity of Heart, lid, and hungring and thirsting after nothing any fo much as real, undiffembled Righteoufness; which were by no means agreeable, ord to a Proud, Ambitious, Intrieguing Phain rifee. The most Lewd and Prophane, that made no Pretences at all to Religion, one but liv'd in an open Contempt of it, and hat with the undutiful Son here in the Parable, real politively refus'd to be ty'd up to the stiff uth, Rules of it, were in a more hopeful Con-Fadition than they; and when the Heat of ety: Youth was over, or they fmarted for their reat Folly out-

II.

eir

it,

at

ve

fly

ut.

1e;

71-ene,

bed

bem

ith

ted

of

Re-

be-

44.

Folly (as the Prodigal Son did) by Sickness or Want, or had their Consciences awakned by some Rousing Discourses, or the like; They might probably come to themselves, and Repent, and return to their Duty: But the other had too much of the Devil in their Temper to be made true Converts; and were much more likely to turn Atheists (if they were not fo already) than good Christians.

Indeed, nothing is more Incurable than an inveterate Hypocrify; and nothing will fooner cause, it than contenting ones felf with the outward formalities and shews of Religion, without fixing a true feeling Senfe of it in our Hearts. This will in time bring us to have numb'd and stupid Consciences, which hardly any thing will affect but the Hour of Death, or the Day of Judgment, and then 'twill be too late. And 'tis fo provoking a Piece of Mockery, with great Appearance of Devotion and Sincerity to profess to believe in God, and make as if we worshipped him, and promise faithful Service to him, and the like; when after all, we do what we can to dishonour him, and live in direct Opposition to our Faith, and all our folemn Vows and Protestations: That we can't but think it will be highly refented by him, and if he should quite cast us off for it, and give us over to a reprobate . Senfe

Vol. I Senfe thing upon more the C ing of Sin expressions of the set of the set

I. Son when Vine

lease art (

Disco

to fh dece and any Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 81 Sense, an unseeling Insensibility to every thing that is good, We must lay our Hands upon our Mouths, and confess that 'tis no more than we deserve. Thus much for the Occasion, and true Sense and Meaning of this Parable.

Since therefore our Lord has assured us expresly, that Except our Righte-

1.11,

ick-

nces

10 e to

to uch

ade

eror

not han

ing

nes

and rue

his

and

any ith.

will ece

Deeve

ped

im,

hat

di-

our

we

ted

off

ate

ousness shall exceed the Righteous- Mat. 5.20.

ness of the Scribes and Pharisees, we shall in no Case enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, and what sort of Righteousness that is, we have seen but now; since there is very much of that kind of formal unsincere Religion in the World now as well as them, and 'tis of such dreadful Consequence; and since it will go a great way towards the Cure of this satal Disease to be thoroughly persuaded that we art deeply insected with it: I shall in Discoursing upon this Parable endeavour to shew;

I. First, How too much like the Man's Son we are, who promis'd his Father fair, when he order'd him to go Work in his Vineyard, but yet never went, and thought no more of the Matter; and

II. Secondly, How Miserably we shall deceive our selves, if we think fine Shews and fair Promises in Religion will do us any Service, and be accepted of God,

G

where

82 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. where the Heart is not so deeply impresd with a Sense of it, as to influence our Lives, and make us intirely obedient to his Will.

I. And First, That we are very much like the Man's Son in the Parable, who promis'd his Father fair but did nothing; I'm afraid will appear but too Evident upon an Impartial Examination, into the Profession we make of our Faith, and the pretended Performance of our Duty, and the Acts of our Religious Worship and Devotion. In all which Instances, I doubt we shall find more of Formality and Pretence, than of Sincerity and Truth.

To begin with the Profession of our Faith; which we very often make with seeming Seriousness and Attention, and the main end of which is to influence our Practice; and yet how very disagreeable to it are our Lives! as if we did not really believe what we profess, only for Fashions sake we say as others do, and concern our selves no farther. Thus, to descend to fome particulars.

We daily profess that we believe there is a God, that is, if we know and consider what we say, a Being of infinite Perfection, the Eternal Fountain of all other Beings, and who is of unbounded Power, and Knowledg, and Wisdom, and Goodness; the Author of all our Comforts, essen

Vo effe and this we of t not tire Act way a R ing we beli our Lov do and Thu is it con our and mu Do Wi vine Ene fo 1 Pre

ast

Th

Ch

1.II.

efs'd

Our

t to uch

who

ing;

dent

the

the

and

De-

oubt

Pre-

Out

with

and

our s able

eally

ions

Our

d to

here

con-

Per-

ther

wer, ood.

orts,

ITen-

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 83 effentially pure and Holy, Just and Trne, and the like; Now what Influence has this upon our Hearts and Lives? Have we fuch a Religious Awe upon our Spirits, of this most Holy and Adorable Being, as not to dare, even in our most secret Retirements, to commit a Vile and Wicked Action, being Conscious that we are always in his Divine Presence? Do we lay a Restraint upon our very Thoughts, being perswaded that he knows them? Do we truly love him above all things, as believing him above all things to deferve our Love; and does this Love (as all true Love does) make us fincerely careful to do whatever will be Pleasing to him, and avoid whatever will offend him? Thus we must confess it should be; but is it so? Is it not rather directly to the contrary? Don't we shew by almost all our Actions, that we love the World, and the Gratification of our own Lusts, much better than we do our God? Nay, Don't we too too often by our daring Wickedness, fly in the Face of his Divine Majesty, and joyn with his Grand Enemy in Rebellion against him? And fo little Regard have we to his constant Presence with us, and Inspection over us, as to make no scruple of doing such base Things before him, as the Presence of a Child, or the meanest Servant we have, would cause us to forbear. Now such behaviour as this, is so wholly inconsistent with a sincere belief of a God; that it Demonstrates the Profession of such Belief, how sair and specious soever, to be very little better than a bare pretence.

But further, We Profess to believe in Jesus Christ our Bleffed Lord and Saviour, who underwent most bitter Sufferinsg, and died a most painful Ignominious Death, to attone for our Sins, and fave us from the endless Punishment of them; and rose again for our Justification, and ascended into Heaven to prepare Mansions of Glory for his faithful Disciples; and will at last come with Power and great Glory to enquire into every Mans whole course of Life, and render to every one according to it, and receive the Righteous into Life and Happiness Eternal, but banish the Wicked into everlasting Misery. Now, one would think a firm Belief of fuch Great and Concerning Things as these, should give a mighty Turn to our Lives; and make us all over Love and Obedience to our great Deliverer, and who hereafter will be our Impartial Judge, and upon the Sentence of whose Mouth will depend our Happiness or Ruin to Eternal Ages.

Methinks we should make it above all things our great Care to Conform to the most Wise and Good Methods of Recon-cilia-

Vol cilia exac he o ry i Mer we Con the (for a cifie open than We End mine er's in al Bodi shou arise cend of L fent ' of it, laid

A
of or on in beco

and

Woo

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 85 ciliation to God which he hath fet us, and exactly to perform the Conditions that he our great Mediator hath made necessary in order to our being Partakers of the Merit of his Blood. And nothing should we abhor, and shun so much, as the Commission of those Sins which were the the Cause of all his Agonies; and which for any Christian to be fond of, will Crucifie him a-fresh, and again put him to an open Shame, and pierce his Heart, deeper than the Spear of the barbarous Centurion. We should rather make it our resolute Endeavour to fuffer Sin no longer to Domineer it in us, who are now our Redeemer's purchased Possession, and therefore in all Reason, ought to Glorify him in our Bodies and our Spirits, which are his. Thus should we die unto Sin, and with him arise unto a New and Holy Life; and ascend to Heaven with him upon the Wings of Love and Devotion, despising the prefent World with the Vanities and Follies of it, and have our Conversation above, as becomes Followers of fo Divine a Master. and that have so inestimable a Treasure laid up for us in Heaven.

I.

h t-

at

ebe

in

ır,

nd

th,

m ose

ed lo-

ast

of

ng

ife

the

w,

eat uld

ind

to fter

noc

end

es.

all

the

on-ilia-

And since we look for a Resurrection of our dead Bodies to an eternal Duration in a State of most exquisite Bliss or Woe, according as our Behaviour has been in this first Life; Methinks we should walk here with the greatest Circumspection imaginable, as those that must give a strict account of every step they take, and have every Thought and Word as well as Work brought into Judgment, that so we may be prepared to give up our Accounts with Joy. Such, one would think, should be the effect of a real Belief of a future State, and a Day of strict Scrutiny and Just Recompense at the close of all things.

G 3 should

But alas! with the most of us, how much is it otherwise! How little Sign of a Hearty Perswasion that these things are fo? For instead of walking circumspectly, we live at Random; instead of having an awful Sense of the great Day of Account, and making due provision for it, we put the thoughts of that evil Day far from us, and go on in our Impieties as if 'twould never come. All our Contrivance, and all our Endeavours are employed upon this Life, as if here only we had Hope, and this were our Home, the only place of our abode; and as Improvident are we for the Life to come, and as loath to part witht his, as if here were our All, and when we went from hence we should be no more.

How does this fuit with a Belief of a Refurrection of the Body, and everlasting Life in another Spiritual World? Thus Thus
our little mighto al

whice too rable a fee

> plan are we beforming

> >]

OVE

beli

ked of tia an ag an ha

D

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 87 Thus we fee, as to thefe great Articles of our Belief, our Profession of Faith is but little more than an empty Sound; and it might too easily be made Appear so, as to all the rest.

So that, in this First Instance, (and which is the Ground-work of all) we are too much like the Man's Son in the Parable, who put his Father off only with a few good Words; being as little Influenced by the Faith we profess, as if we believed quite contrary.

1.II.

Cir-

that flep

and

into ared

uch,

t of

Day

ence

low

1 of

are tly,

ring

Ac-

we

'om

uld all

this and of

we

art

and

be

fa

ıft-

d?

lus

Let us now enquire, whether our plaufible Pretences to Christian Obedience are of a better kind or no; and I'm afraid we shall find as great Insincerity here, as before, and that like the Pharisees we promife much, and Pretend to a great deal, and yet do but little or nothing.

For First in general, Whereas we have over and over Promifed and Vowed, to keep All God's Holy Will and Commandments, and walk in the same All the Days of our Life, we Pay him at best but a Partial Obedience; and make bold to pick and choose out of his Laws what is most agreeable to our Temper and Complexion, and fo, least Difficult, and which we have least Temptation or Desire, to break; and think by our Performance of those Duties, to Compound for our Neglect or Breach of the rest. And even this Obedience

But to press this Matter Home, I shall single out two or three particular Instances of our Duty, and those of greatest Moment, and enquire in what Manner we pay Obedience to them.

and Needy, than which nothing is more earnestly urg'd upon us in Scripture, and which our Lord has told us shall be more particularly enquir'd into at the Day of Judgment: And what more is there in this for the generality, than a little Empty Pity, when that which is needful for the Relief of their Necessities, is unnaturally withheld? Those that are a Step above these, and do give something, how seldom is it according to the Ability that

Vol.II
God h as of
with Chari
ed, a grant
be fe than ed in wou

com pect com mee

deed

ano the cere For for give He Trof (a

to

God has given them; how Grudgingly and as of Necessity, rather than cheerfully and with a ready Mind? and how often is the Charity of more liberal Persons misapplied, and thoughtlessy scattered among Vagrants and Counterfeits, such as should be sent to the House of Correction rather than have an Alms; and which is collected into a Sum, and bestowed discreetly, would cheer the Hearts of many that indeed deserve Compassion?

So that Obedience to this great Duty, comes very short of what might be expected from true Disciples of the most compassionate Jesus; and tho' we often meet with a Shew of it, yet a substantial thorough Charity is very rare.

ol.II,

y by

ons,

ows

Ian,

Re-

OWS

but e to r to

iich

it.

im.

nall

antelt

ner

oor

ore

ind

ore

of

in

m-for tu-

a-

W

od

2. Secondly, Forgiveness of Injuries, is another Duty of our Holy Religion, of the highest Importance, for upon our sincere Performance of it depends our own Forgiveness at the Hands of God. For so our Lord expressly, If ye forgive Men their Trespasses, your Mat. 6.14,

Heavenly Father will also forgive you: But if ye forgive not Men their Trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your Trespasses. And yet, how little is there of it in the World! How few rise higher, (and that for the sake of good Breeding oftentimes more than of Religion) than to be outwardly Fair and Civil to such as have

have done them an Injury, while their Hearts at the same time are sull of Rancour and Revenge? It may be they may faintly say to a Good Man that would make Peace, God forgive them, for I do; but if a Fovourable Opportunity happens the next Minute, all this shall be forgot, and Revenge take place.

Some are for the Hellish Distinction, of forgiving but not forgetting; but this signifies no more, than that I'll pretend to forgive till it lies in my Power to requite, and then I'll glut my Malice to the full.

But is this to forgive one another as God for Christ's Sake hath forgiven us? What can be a greater piece of Mockery than to pretend at this rate to obey this great Command, which indeed is directly to Transgress it, only we give it another name.

3. Thirdly, And to mention no more, Repentance, (tho' it infinitely Concerns us to be fincere in it, for otherwise we shall for ever Perish, yet) as we usually manage it, hath as much of Deceit in it, and as little of Reality, as any thing besides.

For instead of a deep Sorrow, and Pungent Remorse for Sin, Productive of an intire Hatred of it, and thorough change of Life, 'tis seldom any more than a faint Sigh or Two, a formal listing up our Hands and Eyes, and saying, Lord have have Tone affect atte

time into of or are for to b good wef S goo and Dea wit eve and vifi Go fle feq fine ear fta the ma

ly

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 91 have Mercy upon us, in a more mournful Tone than ordinary, and a heedless unaffectionate Repetition of some penitential Expressions, to the Sense of which we attend but little.

Perhaps at Two or Three more folemn times of the Year, we vouchfafe to look into our Breafts, and call to mind fome of our past Wickednesses, and it may be are fomething more in earnest than we use to be, and feem to be refolved to reform for the future; when no fooner is the good time over, but all's forgot again, and we foon grow as bad as ever.

II.

eir

an-

ay

uld

do;

ens

ot,

on, his

to

ite,

as

for-

eat-

at

nd,

it,

ore,

rns

we

lly

and

and

e of igh

nan

up

ord

ave

Some are for repenting when they are good for nothing elfe, when they are Old, and Sick, and Decrepid, and upon their Death-Beds; any time but the Present is with them the most seasonable, and every thing must take place before God and Religion, and the making a good Provision for their Immortal Souls. Good God! that ever Men should dare to Trifle thus with things of fuch infinite Confequence! and yet, how feldom do we find one that goes farther and Repents in earnest! I might mention many more Instances wherein we are as faulty as in these; But this is enough to give us a Sense of our great Infincerity in the Performance of our Duty, and how provokingly we mock God, and fatally deceive our felves, 92 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. felves, by resting in empty Pretences, and a few Good Words, without that Honest hearty Obedience, which alone God will Accept and Reward.

Proceed we now, to make one Inquiry more, namely, into the Nature of our Religious Worship and Devotion; and see whether this is not of a Piece with the rest, as meer a Formality, and specious

Nothing.

As for our Religious Worship, or those outward Expressions of Reverence to God, which are generally made use of in our Publick Religious Assemblies; how very seldom is there a Correspondent Awe, and inward. Veneration of that Divine Being upon our Minds!

How often do we bow our Bodies low, in the Places of his more especial Presence; when our Hearts at the same time refuse to be humbled before him! How often do we lift up our Hands and Eyes towards Heaven; when all the while our Souls are Groveling in the Dust, and taken up with Vain and Worldly Thoughts, and but too often defiled with Impure Imaginations! How often do we pay Reverence at the Mention of the Name of Jesus, and kneel before him like Good Subjects, and Humble Supplicants; and yet live like incorrigible and stubborn Rebels!

Juc

ol.II.

Our]

he fam

ve dran

ur Hei

Though

eldom

ught,

retend

nd u hem,

rreve

arly,

Mann

einou

night with a

ness,

Displ

curr'c

ellin

tent

cern

Wre

edg

befo

is ab

And

how

not

gra

pro

tho

ol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 93 Our Devotion likewise is too often of he fame vile stamp. For how often do ve draw near to him with our Lips, when ur Hearts, our Affections, and our very Thoughts too, are far from him! How eldom do we give that due Attention we ught, to the Sense of those Petitions we retend to offer up to him; and how cold nd unconcerned are when we repeat hem, and huddle them over with equal rreverence and Inadvertency! Particuarly, in what a Shameless, Remorfeless Manner, do too many of us confess our heinous Sins, before the Holy and Alnighty God; How little touch'd are we with a Sense of our Infinite Baseness, Vileness, and Ingratitude, and of that heavy Displeasure of God which we have incurr'd! Indeed, it looks more like the elling a Story, and relating some indiffeent Matters of Fact, that but little contern us, than a guilty felf-condemned Wretch's Humble and Penitent Acknowedgment of Crimes of the deepest. Dye, before a most Just and Holy Judge, who is able to punish him with Eternal Death; And when we beg for Pardon and Mercy, how faintly do we do it, as if we were not much concerned whether 'twere granted or no! And when Absolution is pronounced upon the truly Penitent, by

II.lo

and nest

will

uiry

Our

fee

the

ous

ose

to

in

ow

ent

hat

w,

ce;

ife

en ds

ils

qu

id

i-

e- '

of

d

d

n

those whom the compassionate Jesus hath

Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II commissioned to do it; how little are we affected with that, which should rejoyce us above all things in the World! And when we beg for the greatest of Bleffings the Graces and Affiftances of the Hol Spirit, in order to our walking before God to all well-pleasing; we do it in such a heedless careless Manner, with so little Warmth and Importunity, as if we thought them scarce worth much En treaty; and not near fo valuable as a confiderable Addition to our Fortunes, which we follicite for when there is Occasion with much more Life and Spirit, and earn estness than we say our Prayers.

How frozen too, (to our Shame be it spoken) are our Affections when we pre tend to return Thanks to our great Bene factor, for his Constant Tender Care over us, and the many Wonderful Expressions of his Love, especially in the amazing Instance of our Redemption by the Death and Sufferings of his Eternal Son; which yet is of infinitely more value to us than a Thousand Worlds! And when we approach that Holy Table, where our dear Lord is fensibly fet before us as Crucified for us, and are made Partakers of his most precious Body and Blood, and should be Inflamed with the highest pitch of Love and Gratitude, and Praise at the Remembrance of his bitter Agonies for our fakes,

and

Vol.II

and th

ikewi

Sins,

o W

ring t

part c

How

hard

Flam

how

ligati

grow

be as

and

Atte

App

conf

of or

Stud

Salv

shall

com

ofit

Wa

don

faid

and

we

wa

Lif

pui

A

vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 95 and the Happy Consequence of them, and likewise sull of Shame and Sorrow for our Sins, and of firm Resolutions, of doing so Wickedly no more for ever; even during the Performance of this most solemn part of Christian Worship and Devotion, How Cold, and Lifeless are we! how hard do we find it to keep up the Holy Flame till the Ministration is over; and how soon do we forget all the facred Obligations we then laid upon ourselves, and grow as Vain and Worldly, and it may be as Vicious as ever!

ol.II

e we

JOYCE

And

fings.

Holy

God

ich a little

Wt

En-

Con-

hich

fion.

earn-

be i

pre

Bene-

Over

Tions

g In

eath

hich

ana

ap.

dear

ified

most

ld be

Love

nem-

akes,

and

And as our Prayers are thus Heartless, and void of of true Devotion; so is our Attention to the Word of God more in Appearance than Reality. We feldom confider it as the great Rule and Measure of our Actions, and make it our chief Study as that which will make us Wife to Salvation, and according to which we shall be Judg'd at the great Day of Recompence; But out of Custom or Curiofity, we fometimes fpend an Hour that Way, and pals our Judgment with Freedom enough upon what the Preacher has faid, and make it a matter of a little talk; and there's an End. And if at any time we are touch'd and awakened with a warm affectionate Perswasive to Good Life, and for a while lay it to Heart, and purpose to do accordingly; How soon does of Practical Discourses upon the Vol. II. does Business or Pleasure drive all out again, and leave us very much the same we were before!

So that without more Words upon a thing fo evident, 'tis plain that both our Faith and our Obedience, our Worship and our Devotion, have too often more of Appearance than Reality: and tho' we make a fair shew in all these Instances, and with the Man's Son in the Parable give Good Words, and profess and Promise much; yet very little is done that will effectually recommend us to our heavenly Father's Favour and Acceptance.

Indeed, the Best Men are not without their Infirmities, and cannot be always alike Warm and Vigorous and Attentive in God's Service; and fometimes bodily Indispositions and Distempers, may cause great Numbness and Confusion, Wanderings and Unsteadyness in the Religious Exercises of a very sincere Christian. But then, this is not frequent, nor is it fuffered to continue long; much less are they easy and unconcerned at their Coolness, and Remissness in their Duty; but rather heartily Bewail and Lament, and Pray, and Strive against it, and endeavour to make up with double Diligence and Fervour for the future, what has formerly been wanting. Still there is such a Principle of fincere Religion within, as gets Ground Vol.II Groun oppole oppoid out d spection But

God veft Veire Corrical

Form

Christ conde II. How

ligion feribe ceive and fa with ceedi

For we excul-

as if upon

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 97 Ground of every thing that hinders and opposes it; tho' it be slowly and not without disficulty, and a constant Circumspection.

But he whose Religion is made up of Formality, Glozing, and Fawning upon God with Words and Gestures of the highest Veneration, and that Promise an intire Obedience; when yet, those Theatrical Nothings are his All, and he concerns himself no farther: This is the Pharisaical Christian, whom our Lord in this Parable condemns.

II. The next thing to be done is to shew, How highly displeasing to God such a Religion must needs be as we have now described, and how miserably we shall deceive our selves, if we think fine Shews and fair Promises will be accepted of him, without intire Obedience to his Will, proceeding from Integrity of Heart.

For besides, that this is rank Hypocrist and Dissimulation, than which nothing is more abominable to the God of Truth, and which our Lord has more sharply inveighed against, and more severely Threatned than any thing besides, and for which there can be nothing offered in excuse; besides this, it implies the most base and unworthy Apprehensions of God, as if he were apt to be pleased and won upon by the outward Ceremonies of Ado-

H

ration

ol. II.

on a our Thip re of

we ices,

Pro.

that nea-

out yays tive

dily

anous

But Ferhey

ess,

ay,

errly

ets

ind

98 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. ration and Worship, and lov'd to see his his Vassals Cringe and Prostrate themselves before him, and give him glorious Titles, and complement him highly; and if this were but done Regularly and Constantly, and with much of Shew and Ostentation, he would dispense with the want of inward Purity of Heart, and that which is true Holiness of Life.

And what does this imply, but that we dont take him to hate Iniquity with fo perfect an Hatred as he fays he does; or elfe, that we think he is fo fhort fight ed as not to be able to discover the Iniquity through the Counterfeit Veil of Religion that we throw over it; or elfe that he is fo fondly taken up with the Pagean try of our outward Services, as not to be at Leifure to look into the Recesses of our Hearts? Or if we believe that he can and does fee to the bottom of our Pretences, and discovers the Cheat, (as most certainlyhe does,) we must, if we dare still to go on in it, either believe that he is Impotent and cannot Punish it, or else (with Epicurus) that he is a God wholly employ'd in enjoying the Happiness of his own Heaven, and utterly regardless of the Asfairs of this lower World. And what can be more Hateful and Provoking, than a Religion that implies, and proceeds upon, fuch Notions of God as these!

Vol

think twi For in to utte Puri voui

to th

T Purp is br the l repro burn nuall or di unto unto Caich State vena to be hind Prai deret the ! Pfali wail

Vria

crific

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 99

1.II.

e his

nem-

rious

and

Con-

and

n the

and

that

with

does;

ight.

Ini.

Re.

that gean.

to be

f our

and ences,

tain

ill to

Im.

with

em-

own

e Af-

at can han a pon,

And

And tho' Perhaps we may not actually think in this Vile manner of him, yet 'twill be all one in his fight as if we did. For he hath all along expressly declared so in both Testaments, and that nothing will be acceptable to him, but rather his utter Aversion, without Sincerity and Purity of Mind; and an Honest Endeavour to regulate all our Actions according to the Rule that he hath set us.

Thus to begin with what is said to this Purpose in the 30th Psalm; where God is brought in, thus speaking to the People of Israel. I will not - v. 8.

reprove thee for thy Sacrifices or thy burnt Offerings, because they were not continually before me. Will I eat the Flesh of Bulls or drink the Blood of Goats? No, Iffer unto God Thanksgiving, and Pay thy Vows unto the most High. But unto the Wicked, saith God; what hast thou to do to declare my Statutes, and that thou shouldst take my Covenant into thy Mouth, seeing thou hatest to be reform'd, and hast cast my Words behind thee? Whoso Offereth me Thanks and Praise he honoureth me, and to him that ordereth his Conversation aright, will I shew the Salvation of God. And in the next Pfalm, 16, 17. Ver. After David had bewailed his Wickedness in the Matter of Uriah, he tells God, Thou desirest not Sacrifice, else would I give it thee; thou de-H 2 lightest lightest not in Burnt offerings. The Sacrifices of God are a Broken Spirit; a Broken and a Contrite Heart, O God! thou wilt not Despise,

And the Words of the Evangelical Prophet are very remarkable to this Purpose, Isa. 1.10, &c. Hear the Word of the Lord, ye Rulers of Sodom; give Ear unto the Law of our God, ye People of Gomorrah (i.e.) ye that are like those accursed Cities in your wicked Practices; To what Purpose is the Multitude of your Sacrifices unto me, faith the Lord?

I am full, or Cloy'd or Nauseated, with the Burnt-offerings of Rams, and fat of sed Beasts; I delight not in the Blood of Bullocks or of Lambs, or of He-Goats. Bring no more vain Oblations; Incense is an Abomination unto me; the New Moons and Sabbaths, the calling of Assemblies I cannot a way with, it is Inequity, even the solema Meeting. And when ye spread forth your Hands I will hide mine Eyes from yon, yes, when ye make many Prayers I will not heat. And what was the Reason of all this? not an absolute dislike of those Rites themselves, for he had enjoin'd the People strictly to observe them; but 'twas because of their great Wickedness, Your V. 15, Hands are filled with Blood, ye are Guilty of Murder, and which is next door to it, Cruel Oppression of

Vol. he were Veng butw mina phet, ve cle from Lear the C for th form Saith appe take be as fon,

Tin the Ox in ficethe Nech he of Incertain will that trem fect

Snow

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 101 he Widow and the Fatherless, which were Sins that cry'd aloud for Vengeance, and turn'd all their 17. outward Shews of Worship into an Abomination. And therefore faith the Prophet, in the Name of God, Wash ye, make e clean, put away the evil of your doings from before mine Eyes; Cease to do Evil, Learn to do Well; seek Judgment, relieve the Oppressed, Judge the Fatherless, plead for the Widow. Come now, after the Performance of this, and we will reason together, faith the Lord; this is the only way to appease my Anger, and if ye sincerely. take this Course, tho' your Sins be as Scarlet, they shall be white as Snow; tho' they be red like Crimfon, they shall be as Wool. To which Purpose too is that Passage, in the 66th of Isai. 3. He that killeth an

.It.

cri-

oken

wilt

lical

Pur-

the

unto norrsed what un-

with fed

locks

g no

omi-

Sab-

ot 4

lema your yea, heat.

not

hem-

trict afe of

Tour

l, ye

vhich

on of the

Ox is as if he slew a Man: He that sacrificeth a Lamb, is as if he cut off a Dogs Neck: He that offereth an Oblation, as if. he offered Swines Blood: He that burneth Incense as if he bless'd an Idol; and why? because they have chosen their own Ways, and their Soul delighteth in their Abgminations. But upon this Man 1fa. 66. 2. will I look graciously, even upon him that is of a Poor and contrite Spirit, and trembleth, or is Inwardly, and Deeply aflected, at my Word.

And

102 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

And agreeably fays the Prophet Amos, Ch. 5. 21, 22. I bate, I despise your Feast. days; tho' ye offer me Burnt-offerings I will not accept them, neither will I regard the Peace-efferings of your Fat Beasts; but let Judgment run down as Waters, and Righte. ousness as a mighty Stream. And Micah, very elegantly and Pathetically, Ch. 6.6. 7, 8. Wherewith shall I come before the Lord and bow my self before the high God? Shall I come before him with Burnt Offerings, and with Calves of a Year oid? Will the Lord be pleased with Thousands of Rams, or with Ten Thousands of Rivers of Oyl? Shall 1 give my first born for my Transgression, the Fruit of my Body for the Sin of my Soul? He bath shewed thee, O Man, what is Good, and what of all things will be most acceptable to him; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, to love Mercy, and to walk humbly with God?

Thus we see, God hath all along declared by his Prophets, and that even during the Old Covenant, when Rites and Ceremonies were so much insisted on, so strictly injoyn'd and so to a tittle to be observ'd; even then, when People look'd no further than this, which was indeed but the Shell and Surface of Religion, and took no Care of the Precepts of Moral Righteousness, and Purity of Mind; We see, He plainly declares, that all outward

Vol.I Obserther tende

Ar press ftam Delig Wor ritua favs felf f from our i ceffi or V Hea of hi feve befo in d Hy to and full qui of 1 ado as t fee bre

Ob-

tio

m

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 103 Observances will be of no Avail, but rather provoke him still more, unless attended with true Holiness of Life.

And nothing can be more plain and express in this matter, than the New Testament is. Which tells us that the Great Defign of our Lord's coming into the World was to introduce an Internal Spiritual Religion; and St. Paul fays expresly, that he gave him-Tit. 2, 14.

felf for us, that he might redeem us

I.II.

mos,

east.

will

· the t let bte.

icah.

6.6,

Lord

all I

and

d be

with 11 1

the

oul?

00d,

cep-

76-rcy,

de.

du-

and

fo

ob-

no

out

nd

al

Ve

rd

b-

from all Iniquity. And our Bleffed Saviour in all his Discourses, presses the necessity of sincere inward Holiness upon us, or which is the same thing, purity of Heart and Life. This was the Defign of his whole Sermon on the Mount, and several of his Parables, particularly this before us; and he never was fo fevere as in denouncing Woes upon Woes to the Hypocritical Scribes and Pharifees, Men to all Appearance of great Strictness, and Sanctity, and Zeal; but yet within full of Extortion, and Excess, and all Iniquity, and who did all their Works out. of Pride and Vain Glory, to be feen and admired of Men. With fuch Wretches as these our Meek Lord himself feems to have no Patience, and breaths nothing towards them but Damnation, and that even greater than ordinary, in the fad Portion of Hypocrites, where is weep-

weeping and wailing and gnashing of Teeth for ever.

'Tis needless to shew how exactly the Blessed Apostles agree with their great Master in this matter, (and they would be no true Apostles of his if they did not) and all along in their Writings urge upon us true undissembled Holiness, as we hope ever to see and enjoy our

Heb. 1:. 14. Lord in Heaven.

So that quite throughout the Bible, 'tis very evident that a hearty fincere Obedience to the eternal Law of Righteousness, is that which God expects from us, if we would please him and recover his Favour; that outward Expressions of Reverence for him, when void of inward Piety, and a Good Life, is the most hateful Thing to him in the World, and no other than an Impious Piece of Mockery which he will most severely Punish.

Let no Mantherefore think to put God off, as the Idle Son here in the Parable did his Father, with specious Professions of Duty, and fair Promises of Obedience, without Performance; Lest the Publicans and Harlots go into the Kingdom of God before him, and after all his high Pretences, his dismal Lot be in the Portion of Hypocrites.

H' in hoffio 9 Tell off

Re

Vol.

Mock

fows ,

to th

fhall

only

shall

forth

Nett

ings

Grea

in t wor

Subf

of g deed

Glor

fayi

peti

goin

Pof

rot

and thin

Pre

Wi

lica

thi

He

We

Be

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 105

Be not deceived, God is not Mocked; for what soever a Man fows, that shall be also reap; and according to the Nature of Men's Religion, such shall their Reward be at last. If it be only Husk and Shell, and Outfide, it shall, like the Field of the Sluggard, bring forth nothing but Thorns and Nettles; the stinging Upbraid- Prov. 24.31. ings of a Guilty Conscience, Great Disquietude and Perplexity of Mind. in this World, and Ten thousand times worse hereafter. And 'tis only a real Substantial Piety that brings forth plenty of good Works here, that shall, or indeed can be Recompensed with Eternal Glory above.

For can any Man in his Senses be fo Weak and Besotted, as to think that the faying a few Words by Heart, the Repetition of a fet number of Prayers, the going to Church, and using such and such Postures and Gestures there, which a Parrot and a Monkey may be taught to fay and do as orderly as he; Can any Man think that this alone, will be a sufficient Preparation for the pure Joys of Heaven? Will this alone make his Soul of an Angelical and Godlike Temper, or can he think that he can ever be Happy even in Heaven it felf without it? Is there fuch an irresistible Charm, in the bare Repetition

Be

I.II.

s of

the

reat

ould not)

pon

we ible,

cere

igh.

ects

re-

oref.

void

the

orld,

e of

rely

God

fable fions

edi-Pub-

m of

Pre-

tion

106 Practical Discourses upon the Vol II. tion of a Penitential Form, as immediate. ly to change the Soul throughout, and of Vile and Devilish, to make it fit for the Converse of Saints and Angels, and of God himfelf? Is there fuch strange Force in the bare Words of every Prayer we fay, as if we do but run 'em over, tho' at never so heedless a Rate, they shall presently storm Heaven, and infallibly bring down whatever Graces and Blef. fings were expressed by them, (I don't fay Desired, for that they too seldom are or very coolly at best) and without any more to do, give the Mock Supplicants Possession of them, and make them Good and Holy whether they will or no? Strange Delufion! That ever a Rational Creature should give Credit to fuch Impossibilities as thefe!

Wherefore to shut up all in a Word or Two.

If what has been discoursed upon this Parable be true, and any Man's Conscience smites him, and says, Thou are the Man that Mockest thy God, and deceivest thy own Soul by a Religion that has little or nothing in it but Formality, and an empty Appearance, which, how sair soever, will signify nothing at the Day of Jugment, unless it be to encrease thy Damnation; if thou art this wretched Creature, and what has been said may justly

Vol. juftly thee in the men ence

be fo

not to Con and and versathe I and any Ten and reap

A are bid and tabl Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 107 justly be applied to thee; then it concerns thee to Consider, and revolve it seriously in thy Mind, heartily to Bewail and Lament thy former Insincerity and Disobedience, and to take all possible Care that it be so no more for ever.

ol II.

liate.

r the

d of

orce

r We

tho'

shall!

libly

Blef.

lon't

are any ants

Good

ange

ture lities

rd or

this

nsci-

ceiv-

and fair

y of

thy

ched

may

aftly

And as for those that are so Happy, as not to be Guilty in this Matter, and their Consciences clear them from this Charge, and bear them Witness that in Simplicity and Godly Sincerity, they have had their Conversation in the World; Let them give God the Praise, and go on in their good way, and be always upon their Guard, lest at any time they be surprized by the subtil Tempter, and fall from their Integrity and Stedsastness; for in due time they shall reap, if they faint not.

The PRAYER.

I.

AND thou most Holy God! To whom all Hearts are open, all Desires and Designs are known, and from whom no Secrets are hid; who requirest Truth in the Inner-parts, and to whom sincere Obedience is more acceptable than the most costly Sacrifice and all the

So-

108 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. Solemnities of outward Worship: Create in me a Clean, an Honest and Good Heart, and Renew a Right Spirit within me! And may [never rest in a specious Profession of Religion, and satisfy my self with empty Pretences, and a fair Appearance; but make it my great Endeavour to recommend my felf to thy Favour by a constant Performance of all Christi. an Duty. I have the greatest Reason to be fensible, that without thy gracious Affistance, I can neither believe nor do aright; U there. fore do thou so enliven and increase my Faith, that it may influence my Affectious, and work by Love! That it may enable me to overcome the World, and resist all its Temp. tations and Allurements, with Constancy and Courage; and with unwearted Diligence to press on in my Christian Course, with Patience and firm Hope, of endless Rest and Joy, in thy Eternal Kingdom!

Vol.I

le Go

peing porldi

Honor

and V

by the dom

upon the u

deav

time to P

again

Inter

An pent o

II.

For ever preserve me, I befeech thee, from the impious Mockery, of a dissembled Reverence in thy Service, and counterfeit Devotion; and grant that all my Addresses to thee, whether in Publick or in Private, may be animated with true Piety of Heart. That every Petition, and Act of Praise may flow from a Soul intirely devoted to thee; and full of Holy Love, and humble Expectation, of all needful Blessings, from thy Inexhaustible

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 109 le Goodness. That so, these Sacred Duties eing never polluted by Vain-Glory, or any porldly Aim, but purely designed for thy Honour and the Relief of my own Necessities and Wants; they may be graciously accepted by thee, and answered, as thy Infinite Wisdom shall see most expedient for me!

ol.II.

ate in

and

mayl

egion.

ences,

great

Fa-

rifti.

to be ance,

here.

my

ZONS,

e me

emp.

and

ce to Pati-Joy,

from vervotihee. y be 'hat flow and ion, stible

And may I so deeply, and so earnestly repent of what I have hitherto been Guilty of upon this account; as immediately, and with the utmost Seriousness and Application, to endeavour after the Power of Godliness for the time to come! That so thou mayst be inclin'd to Pity and to Pardon me, and receive me again to thy Favour, thro the Merits and Intercession of thy Divine Son, my ever blessed Saviour, Jesus! Amen, Amen.

PARA-

PARABLE IV.

Of the Wicked Husband-Men.

Mat. xxi. 33, &c.

There was a certain Housholder which Plant. ed a Vineyard, and hedged it round about, and Dig'd a Wine-press in it, and built a Tower, and let it out to Husbandmen, and went into a far Country.

And when the Time of the Fruits drew near, he sent his Servants to the Husbandmen, that they might receive the Fruits of it.

And the Husbandmen took his Servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

Again he sent other Servants more than the first, and they did unto them likewise.

But last of all he sent unto them his Son, say. ing, They will reverence my Son.

But when the Husbandmen saw the Son, they said among themselves, This is the Heir, Come, let us kill him, and let us seize on his Inheritance.

And they caught him, and cast him out of the Vineyard, and slew him.

When the Lord therefore of the Vineyard cometh, What will he do unto those Husbandmen? They Vol.

Sb. for the land made nary fafect all corrept to made continuous and conti ness upo

mer

upo

the

all

ble

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 111
They say unto him, He will miserably destroy those Wicked Men, and will let out his Vineyard unto other Husbandmen which shall render him the Fruits in their Seasons.

UR Lord's Design in this Parable, was to convince the Scribes and Pharifees, and chief Rulers of the Jews, of the base and most provoking Returns they and their Predecessors for a long time had made to God, for those many extraordinary Bleffings and Favours he had vouchfafed to that Church and Nation above all other People in the World; and to reprove them for it in fuch a manner, as to make them condemn themselves, as they did V. A.I., and with their own Mouths confess the Justice of the severest Punishments that God should think fit to lay upon them, for fuch intolerable Wickedness and Ingratitude. And in discoursing upon it, we will

First, Briefly explain the several Parts of it, and apply it to our selves; and then

I.II.

lant.

bout,

ilt s ana

near,

men,

and oned

2 the

Say.

they

leir,

e on et of

com-

and-They Secondly, Make some more particular Improvement of the 37th Verse, Last of all he sent unto them his Son. And

First, for the Explication of the Parable.

There

112 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

There was a certain Housbolder, he tells them, which planted a Vineyard; by which he meant God's making choice of the Pc. Herity of Abraham for his peculiar People, and forming them into a Church and Na. tion, which should be under his particular Care and Direction; and to whom he himself gave Laws both relating to the Good Government of the State, as being their King, and to his own Worship, as their God. And those Laws were so excellent, (as they must needs be, being framed by the only wife God) that Moses might well fay as he does, Deut. 4. 8. What Nation is there so great, that hath Statutes and Judgments so Righteous, as all this Law which I set before you this Day?

After he had thus planted his Vineyard; to fecure it from Injuries, he Hedged it round about. That is, his watchful Providence did in an extraordinary manner Defend and Guard that People from their Enemies, whom he had driven out before em by his Almighty Power; and by the fame Power kept'em in quiet Possession of that Good Land, that fruitful ch. 5. 1. Hill, as Isaiah calls it, which he won for them by his Out-stretched Arm, and which without a miraculous Restraint upon the Neighbouring Nations must have fallen again into their

Hands,

Vol.I Hand by th peare and c was l greffo encou a fent Prote Thoul heir J d it

Tears Ha Provi He di ower urnif uisic ed W nd m oit; heir nd tl ects es, a pon vholl hat w ify e erula

Thron

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 113 Hands, when thrice a Year all their Males by the command of God appeared before him at Jerusalem; Ex.34.23. and consequently their Country was left naked and exposed to every Aggressor. But to prevent their Fears, and encourage their Obedience, and give them a sensible Demonstration of his peculiar Protection; he assured them that no Man should then so much as Desire their Land, and the Event shew-dit to be amazingly True for many

.II.

ells

Pc-

ple,

Va-

alar

he

the

ing

ex-

loses

1. 8.

bath

es all

ird;

d it

Pro-

ner

heir fore

the

n of tful

tch-

acu-

ring heir

nds,

lears. Having thus Planted, and wonderfully Provided for the Security of his Vineyard, He digged a Winepress in it, and built a By the former is meant God's urnishing them with whatever was reuisite to their full Instruction in his Blesed Will, and to urge it home upon them, nd move them effectually to observe and oit; that so if they were Unfruitful, or heir Fruit did not come to Persedion, nd they did not enjoy the cheering Efects of Obedience in their own Conscienes, and the Favour and Blessing of God pon them for it; the Blame must be vholly their own. And as for the Tower hat was Built in it, it may figify either litterally the City of erusalem, where was plac'd the chief throne of Judgment, and the magnificent 114 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II cent Temple there, to which all the Tribes of Ifrael were to refort, to perform their most Solemn Religious Worship, as in the Place of God's more especial Presence: whereby both a free Course of Civil Iu. flice was preferv'd, and likewife Unit and Uniformity in Religion, which are the great Support, as well as the Glory of a Church and Nation: Or it may fignif that Church's being Defended and Main tained by the Secular Arm, whereby it was protected against the Insults of wick ed Men, and grew and flourished under the tender Care and Safeguard of the Ga vernment; which in fo degenerate a World as this, is necessary to the outward Prosperity and Peace of any Church.

Now when all things were put into this excellent Order, and the Vineyard made ready to be Dress'd and Cultivated, and nothing but that wanting in order to in bringing forth Fruit for Him by whom it was planted; The Great Lord of it List out to Husbandmen, and went into a far Country. That is, He Intrusted this his Favourite Plantation, about which he had taken such extraordinary Care, to those whose particular Business it should be to look well after it, and do what was need ful to its making a Good Return, viz The Priests and Levites, and Scribes, and Rulers, who had a Share in the Manage ment

Vol.I

nent

Hono

Public

o go

ad p

Enqui

nade.

An

ear,

hat th

he Se

hofe

whon

hem

orget

gain

eate !

nent:

nent

brete

our a

he la

ut fo

vith 1

equii

But

ants

rom

ing t heir

ies,

ed.

wol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 115 ment of the Affairs of that Church to the Honour of its Divine Founder, and the Publick Good. And then, he left things o go on, according to the Measures he had prescrib'd, 'till he should think fit to Enquire after the Improvement they had nade, and see what his Vineyard produed.

And when the Time of the Fruit drew ear, he fent his Servants to the Husbandmen, hat they might receive the Fruits of it. By the Servants here, is meant the Prophets, hose extraordinary Ministers of God, whom he fent to that People to remind them of their Duty when they began to lorget it, to reprove them for their Iniquiies, and denounce God's Judgments gainst them, if they did not speedily Apeate his Anger by Repentance and Amendnent: And likewise for the Encouragenent of those that were truly Good, to bretel what wonderful Instances of Faour and Mercy he design'd for them in he latter Ages; and not for them only, out for all the World, that would comply vith those gracious Conditions he should equire in order to it.

But the unwelcome Freedom these Serants of God took with all Degrees of Men rom the Highest to the Lowest, in expoing their Faults, Upbraiding them for heir Ingratitude, and the ill Return they made

I 2

ribes
their n the nce;
l Ju.
Jinity
n are gnify
Main

1.11

wickinde e Ga Vorld

Pro-

by i

this made and to its om it

a far is his ie had

those

be to needviz

, and

ment

116 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. made to the Great Author of all their Blef. fings and Comforts, and who had been To peculiarly Kind and Good to them above all other People; and withal plain. ly telling them what would be the fad Consequence of this at last; this, the they evidently shew'd their Divine Commission for doing it, did so enrage those who rather should have been humbled by it, that they took those Servants of God and beat one, and killed another, and stone another; us'd 'em most barbarously, asi they were the greatest Malefactors, who vet came for no worse Purpose than n prevent their Ruine.

Thus our Lord Pathetically exposts lates with them, Mat. 23.37. O Jerusalen Ferusalem, Thou that killest the Prophets and stonest them that are sent unto thee, up on this Merciful Errand; How often would I have gathered thy Children together even as a Hen gathereth her Chickens under he Wings, but ye would not! Behold your Hou is left unto you desolate. And St. Stephen, agreeably in his cut ting Discourse to the Jews, Which of the Prophets, fays he, have not your Fathers per secuted? and they have Slain them white shewed before of the coming of the Just on of whom ye have been now the Betrayers an Murtherers; By which he exasperate them fo bitterly against him, that as the Father

Tol.II.
Lather Lage, and stould Purpos of Rig which he from the until the

Vicke ing a the Mo

But

God to who many human ter; the han the numer of to many before yould help harg het t

ver,

Tol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 117 Pathers did, so did they, and with surious Rage, Gnass upon him with their Teuth, and stopped their Ears against any that should Disswade 'em from their Cruel Purpose, and cast him out of the City and soned him: swelling thereby that Stream of Righteous Blood still higher, which had been shed upon the Earth Mat. 23.35. Som the Blood of Righteous Abel until then; and adding to the Cry it made to Heaven for Vengeance, upon that most Wicked Generation, which in so provok-

ol.II

Blef.

been

them

lain.

e fad tho'

Com.

thole

ed by God

Cones

ast

who

an to oostu

Salem, phets,

e, up

would eva

er ha

Houle

And

is cul-

of the

rs per-

which

A one

rs and erate

s their

Heaven for Vengeance, upon that most Wicked Generation, which in so provoking a manner made such haste to fill up the Measure of their Fathers Iniquities.

But so great was the Long-suffering of God towards those Wicked Husbandmen, who not only neglected their Duty to his Vineyard, but treated his Servants fo inlumanly, who came to advise them beter; that he again fent other Servants more than the first, (as the Prophets were more umerous in the Times that were near-It to the coming of the Messias, like so hany Harbingers to prepare the way efore him) to try if that his Goodness vould lead them to Repentance. aftead of making this Right Use of it, hey grew more vile and hardned than ver, (as is evident from what Malachi harges them with, who was the last Prohet that was fent to them) and dealt as I by those Servants, as they had done 118 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. by the first; and thereby, one would have thought, had Treasured up Wrath, without any further Interposal of Mercy against the Day of Wrath, and Revelation of the Righteous Judgment of God. Yet, notwithstanding all these Provocations, which nothing but Infinite Goodness would have born fo long; he crowns all with an Amazing Act of Condescension, and as the last offer of his Favour, and highest Expression of his Kindness to them, and earnest desire of their Hap

Mar. 12.6. piness, He fent unto them his only his well-beloved Son, Saying, the will reverence him when they fee him; and hearken to his Instructions and Reproofs, and be inclined by him to render the acceptable Fruits of Holiness to their Great

Lord.

And if so much Goodness, and Sweetness of Temper, so many admirable Difcourses, back'd with so many amazing and Beneficial Miracles, and fuch unblameable Holiness of Life; if all this which shone with so great Lustre in the bleffed Jesus, even thro' the mean Vell of his Humanity, and bespoke him tobe the Son of the most High God, as well as the Son of Man: if all this would not create the Profoundest Reverence of his Person, mixed with the most Arden Love, and produce the most ready and

Vol.I intire fhoul fran

WI the ' had fo had i he wa take ter N the o all lik resol they who his 1 bring Duty

Bu Perv ed 1 were cept King conf felve and is, t reaf was plet

fron

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 119 intire Obedience to every thing that he should enjoyn, 'twould be wonderfully' strange indeed.

ol.II.

vould

rath,

1ercy

ation

Yet,

ions,

dness

ns all

fion,

and

hem,

Hap-

only,

the

and 10015, e ac-

reat

weet-

Dif.

Zing

un-

this

n the

Vei

to be well

not

f his

dent

and

rire

What shall I do? says the great Lord of the Vineyard, when the Husbandmen had so cruelly handled all the Servants he had sent to them; What shall I do? as if he was at a stand what farther Course to take with them, to reduce them to a better Mind. And then, as his last Reserve, the only way lest to do it, and which in all likelihood could not miss of Success; he resolves to send his Son, whom he thought they could not choose but Reverence; and whose winning Behaviour, joyn'd with his high Authority, would not fail to bring them to Repentance and their Duty.

But instead of this, so great was the Perverseness and Obstinacy of these Wicked People, when they saw the Son, so far were they from giving him such a Reception as was due to the Heir of the great King of Heaven and Earth; that they consulted together, and said among themselves, this is the Heir, come let us kill him, and let us seize on his Inheritance. That is, tho' the Jewish Priests and Rulers had reason to believe that the Blessed Jesus was the expected Messias, from the Completion of ancient Prophecies in him, and from his convincing Discourses, and a-

I 4 maz-

120 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. mazing Miracles, and could not withold an inward Affent to his being fo; yet the Meanness of his outward Appearance, the purity of his Doctrine, preaching up Self-denial and Poverty of Spitit, &c. and declaring that his Kingdom was not of this World: This was so contrary to their Pride and Ambition, and Senfuality, that they were resolved not to confess it but rather to Dispatch him out of Hand, that they might quietly enjoy that State and Wealth, and Honour, which they were then in Possession of, and preferr'd before all that Christ could bestow upon them in Heaven.

And accordingly, (as our Lord spoke Prophetically of his Death, and the manner of it) they proceeded to execute what they had plotted against him, and caught him and cast him out of the Vineyard, and stend him: Embrewing their vile Hands in the most Sacred and Innocent Blood that ever was.

But whatever fond Hopes they might have of fecuring to themselves by this Means, their Worldly Pomp and Greatness; this most Unjust, Ungrateful, and barbarous Action proved the Ruin of what they thought it would preserve. For when the Lord of the Vineyard cometh, (whose Power no Creature is able to resist, nor to escape his Vengeance) what will

Vol.I e do a ion Prieft Parab not cl hofel ard t bim t Wor and t Paral ceive ackn the I fed] vine this as no twa that the

> Dep That deft to a ter, and larg

> > WI

Luk

Vol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 121 e do unto those Husbandmen? To this Quesion which our Lord asked the Chief Priests and Pharisees, at the close of the Parable, they answered, (as they could not chuse but do) he will miserably destroy hose Wicked Men, and will let out his Vineard to other Husbandmen, which shall render him the Fruits in their Seasons. All the World must own that this is but Just; and they themselves against whom the Parable was spoken, and who did Perceive it to be fo, could not but acknowledg it: and fo great is the Power of Truth, especially when presfed Home upon the Conscience by a Divine Reprover, they were forced to pass this Terrible Sentence upon themselves as no more than their just Desert. And twas a Sentence, indeed fo very terrible, that their Hearts funk within them at the very Thoughts of it, and St. Luke tells us, they added this Lu. 20. 16.

II.lo

hold

yet

ance,

g up

. and

ot of their lity,

Is it,

land, tate

they

err'd

upon

poke

man. what

tught d flew

1 the

that right

this

reat-

and

n of erve.

meth,

o re-

t will he Deprecation to it, God forbid!

There is a great deal of dreadful Emphasis in those Words, He will miserably destroy those Wicked Men; And which were to a Tittle fulfilled about forty Years after, in the Total Ruin of that Nation; and that in fo dreadful a manner, as is at large described by Josephus, an Historian of their own, who was an Eyewitness of it, that the like was

not

122 Practical Discourses upon the Vol II not from the beginning of the World to that time, no, nor ever shall be. And as for his Letting out his Vineyard to other Husband. men, which should render him the Fruits in their Season; That, tho' the Expression is fofter, yet threatens as great an Evil, the Subversion of their Church and Religi. on: Both which most Heavy Judgments, they lie under even to this Day. God hath taken a way the Hedge of his Ancient Vineyard, (as he Threatned, Ifa. 5. 5.) and suffered it to be eaten up; and broken down the Wall thereof, fo that tis trodden under Foot; he has laid it Wafte, fo that 'tis not Prun'd nor Dig'd, and there comes up nothing but Brians and Thorns; and the Clouds of his Bleffing have never fince rained upon it. And the Christian Church is now made his Vineyard, as the Jewish was before; and by the Divine Mercy it is so enlarged, as to be capable of receiving all the World, and even those abandon'd fews, when God shall please to take off the Veil that hath for long hindred them from feeing the Things that belong to their Peace: which Bleffed Time he haften, for the fake of his Infinite Compassions! And the Care of this his Vineyard thus enlarg'd, he has committed to his Beloved Son, who is the chief Dreffer and Culti-

Vol vate it in ftles Bifh ers, End ish, Seald ligen cefs. H fpre: ed mi are li there nour been in all of CI est P Excel only TI of P and th them nings and n

there

there

of M

vater

vater of it; and He was pleased to intrust it in his Absence, sirst to his Blessed Apossels, and ever since to their Successors the Bishops; and they to the Inserior Labourers, whose Business it is to do their utmost Endeavour that it may Thrive and Flourish, and bring forth the Fruits in their Seasons. And great hath been their Diligence, and admirable has been their Success.

II

at

lis

d-

111

on vil,

gi.

its,

iod

1.5.

and hat

d it

riars Blef-

1 it.

e his

, as orla, vhen

that eeing

eace:

r the And is en-

loved

Culti-

How far and wide hath this Vineyard spread her Branches! the Hills are covered with the Shadow of it, and her Boughs are like the goodly Cedars, and never was there better Fruit, and more to the Honour and Satisfaction of God, than has been produced by the Christian Church in all Ages. 'Tis true, the first Times of Christianity did bring forth the greatest Plenty; but the Fruit is of the same Excellency that the Church produces now; only it must be confessed to our Shame, there is much greater Scarcity of it than there was at first.

The Christian Doctrines, and Rules of Practice, are the same now as ever, and the Encouragement to observe and do them are the same, and so are the Threatningstoo, to those that resuse Obedience; and now as well as then there is an Order of Men set apart purposely to urge all this upon 124 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. upon us; and (which indeed is all in all) the Affistance of the Good Spirit of God to enable us to perform our Duty, is still afforded us in fufficient Plenty: And one great Bleffing the present Church of Christ enjoys, which the Primitive did not, and which one would think should mightily promote its bringing forth all the Fruits of Righteousness in great abundance, and that is, Peace and Quiet, the Favour and Protection of Kings and States; which for some hundreds Years opposed the Primitive Church with all possible Malice and Cruelty, and Persecuted it with the greatest Violence, so that Blood and Slaughter, and Inhumane Torments, were every where the Lot of the Disciples of Jesus.

And yet, then did the Church flourish most in real Holiness; the true Life and Spirit of the Christian Religion appear'd then in Persection, notwithstanding all those terrible Discouragements; and the more its Enemies endeavoured its Ruin, the more still it spread even to a Miracle, conquering every where by Patience and Constancy, and Meekness, and unparallel'd Virtue, and overcoming Evil with

Good.

Tis true, They had then extraordinary Aid from above, and were mightily strengthened by the Spirit of God in the Inner

Vol.1
Inner
they vere
then,
of G effect rous
as th when no do
and

earne are a and ' ven, ness to n eafil ing t fo fa perfe on v any thin high dwi ty S are flicti rally

'em

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour, 125 Inner Man; and 'twas but needful that they should be so, considering what severe Trials they were to undergo: but then, the usual and common Assistances of Grace, one would think should be as effectual to keep Religion Alive and Vigorous in the prosperous State of the Church, as those more extraordinary Ones were, when Persecution rag'd against it; and so, no doubt they would, were we as Hearty and Sincere, and as much Christians in earnest as they were.

II.

11)

od

till

ne

rift

nd ily

its

nd

nd ich

ri-

ice

ith

nd

ts, ci-

ish

nd

r'd

all

the

in, cle,

ind

al-

ith

ary tily the

ner

But the Truth is, Prosperity and Ease are apt to make People Careless, Vain, and Wanton, and to forget a Future Heaven, when they enjoy fo much Happiness at present: And this, as it exposes to many Temptations, fo it makes Men eafily yield to them, without confidering the fad Confequences of what looks fo fair and inviting; and provided they perform the outward Exercises of Religion with Decency, and are not guilty of any Scandalous and Notorious Vices, they think they do very well, and aspire no higher. And by this Means Religion dwindles away into Formalities and empty Shews, and the substantial Fruits of it are but rarely met with. Whereas Affliction, and a State of Danger, is naturally apt to rouse People up, and make 'em stand upon their Guard and look about 126 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. em; and with all Seriousness and Diligence prepare for a better place, when they find fo little Comfort and fo much Ill-treatment here. It cures Men's Vani. ty, and Quickens their Devotion; effectu. ally Weans them from the World, and raises their Thoughts above: and then, when the Time of Trial comes, they are ready for it, and prepared to make a Noble Defence, and even to Sacrifice their Lives, rather than do a Base, Unworthy Action, and prove false to Him, whody'd a Shameful and most Tormenting Death, to rescue them from Hell. Now this makes Christianity look like it felf, in its Native Beauty and Lustre, and mightily advances the Glory of its Divine Author, and is of all things the most grateful to him.

So that 'tis the Peaceful Condition of the Church, the constant Sunshine of Prosperity, that has made this Vineyard of Christ luxuriate so in these latter Ages, and run out into Suckers and supersuous Branches, and bear so little Fruit to what it did at first. But then let us not think that this is the Natural effect of the Favour and Goodness of God, who design'd by those benign Influences of his to make it still more Fruitful; No, no, 'tis wholly owing to Men's Idleness and Negligence, and abuse of his continu'd Bleffings fings gracio and what that the veral his just of Embero whence whice folik were of the great and might feeli and d

Ar

the tho for star all to o

Eye

Off wh Ch

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 127 lings to Purposes quite contrary to his gracious Intentions in bestowing them: and which is so highly provoking to him, that tho' the Vineyard shall never be totally destroy'd, yet se- Mat. 16.18. veral Parts of it have already felt his just and heavy Vengeance; and more tis to be feared will'do fo too, unless they take the Advice of the Angel to the Church of Ephesus, and Remember from whence they are fallen, and Repent, Rev. 2.5.

and do their first Works.

LII.

Dili.

hen

uch

ani-

Au.

and

en.

are

oble

heir

thy ly'd ath.

this

its

tily

101,

to

of

of

ard

ges,

ous

hat

ink

Fa-

n'd

ike

ol-

gli-

lef-

ngs

And, O that this Church of Ours, which is fo excellently establish'd, and fo like the Primitive in Faith and Doctrine; were as like it in the Exemplary Lives of those of its Communion! O that the great and continued Mercies of God to us, and his intermingled Judgments too, might awaken us in this our Day into a feeling Sense of the things that belong to our Peace, before they be hid from our Eyes; and fosten our obdurate Hearts, and lead us to Repentance!

Let every one of us Pray earnestly for the Peace of our ferusalem, and Live as those that heartily wish her Prosperity; for nothing will fo afcertain God's constant Favour to her, and Protection against all her Enemies, as a daily and plentiful Offering of those Fruits of Holines, which she continually exhorts all her Children to bring forth!

128 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

And, Bleffed be God, her ferious and affectionate Exhortations have not been wholly in vain: And whatever high Pre. tences some may make to extraordinary Sanctity, who are not of her Communion, and whatever Aspersions their Envy may throw upon us; I believe from my Heart. there is not more fincere true Goodness, both of Clergy and People, in any Part of the Christian Church, than in this: And this we trust will incline God to continue to be our Support and Defence.

But still we must own our Defects; and those that have none, let them cast the first Stone at us. And as we must own them, so for the fake of all that is dear to us, let us never rest till we have sup. plyed what is wanting to make us throughly acceptable to God. And the way to de it is to live up to our Profession, to walk by our excellent Rule, to have our Conversation and our Doctrine all of a piece, and as becomes those, who are so Happy as to be Members, of the purest Christian Church in the World; and which constantly teaches us the same Lesson our

Bleffed Mafter and his Apostles Tit .2 11,86. did, That denying Ungodlines and Worldly Lusts, we should live Soberly, Righteously, and Godly in this present World; looking for that Blessed Hope, and the Glorious Appearing of the great God, ana ol.II ind ou elf fo niqui People our I which we ea and if we sh the A Praise ple of be!

> And his Pa oour

II. partic But L Which ignify aft an Divin row is, dition Gentil ings, of Juc Gospe which s his Eterna ol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 129 and our Saviour Jesus Christ, who gave himelf for us, that he might redeem us from all Iniquity, and Purify unto himself a peculiar People, zealous of Good Works. This is our Doctrine, and these are the Fruits which God expects from us and which we earnestly urge every one to produce; and if our Practice were but agreeable, we should be as dear to God as the Apple of his Eye, and have a Zeph. 3. ult.

Praise and a Name among all People of the Earth. O when shall this Once be!

I.II.

and

een

Pre-

lary

100, nay

art,

refs,

Part

And

nue

cts;

cast

nust lear

up.

gh-

do

ralk

on-

ece,

ppy

isti-

on-

our Hes

and So-

fent

and

od,

And thus much for an Explication of this Parable, and a brief Application of it to our felves.

II. I proceed now to make fome more particular improvement of the 37th. ver. But last of all he sent unto them his Son. Which Words are of great Regard, and ignify, that the Christian Religion, is the aft and most compleat Revelation of the Divine Will to Mankind; by which, as it sow is, without any Revisals of it, or additions to it, all the World, both Jew and Gentile that have heard of its glad Tidings, shall stand or fall for ever at the Day of Judgment. Or in other Words, the Gospel State, or the New Covenant which God hath made with Man in Christ, s his Final Dispensation in order to Man's Eternal Happiness; and whoever hears of this 130 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II this new Covenant, and is Invited to en. ter into it, and either wholly Rejects it, or neglects to perform the Conditions of it, must Perish without Remedy. Last of all, fays the Parable, the Lord of the Vineyard fent his Son, to require the Fruits of it, Saying, They will reverence my Son; But when instead of this, The Hus. bandmen cast him out of the Vineyard and flew him, nothing follows but their most Miserable Destruction.

Divers Dispensations have there been of the Merciful God in order to fallen Man's Recovery of his Favour, and Attainment of that Happiness for which he at first defign'd him; and which 'twill not be amis to touch upon a little.

Noah, who was the Tenth Gen. 5, & in a direct Line from Adam, (fo 6. Chap. foon had all Flesh Corrupted his Gen. 6. 12. 2 Pet. 2.5. way upon the Earth) was the first I Pet. 3.20. we read of that was fent as a Preacher of Righteousness to the Wicked World; to try if he could reform them, and perfwade them to fuch a Repentance as might avert those Judgments which they had fo much deferved; and which, upon their obstinate Impenitency, after a long time of Tryal and Forbearance, God was refolved to shower down upon them, and did so to the Destruction of all but Noah and his little Family.

After

Vol.I

Afi when d to dness pread Comp n for he Fa which nero zion, dolar World by hi Good tion a ation Mank der of Aft very r of Isra nto E Life o very l hewe ind D

he on

high I Rupe ivera

they (

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 131

After the Renovation of the World, when the Waters of the Flood were retreatd to their proper Mansions, but Wickdness, like a second Deluge had overpread the Face of it again; the God of Compassions revealed himself and his Willn some measure to the Patriarchs, and in he Families of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, which by his Bleffing foon grew very Nunerous, he fow'd the Seeds of true Reliion, and put a very great check to that dolatry and Iniquity with which the World was so generally Corrupted; and by his extraordinary Favours to those Good People, and their Pious Conversaion and Good Example, gave great Inviation and Encouragement to the rest of Mankind, to leave their wonted Vanities ind Delusions, and Worship him who is he only true God, and a Bountiful Rewarler of those that Diligently seek him.

Afterwards, when by a particular and very remarkable Providence, the Children of Israel were remov'd from their own Land nto Egypt, and there cherished during the Life of Joseph, but after his decease dealt very hardly with; God then, more openly hewed himself to be their God, and by a high Hand and Outstretched Arm, by many stupendious Wonders wrought their Deliverance from that insupportable Slavery they Groaned under; and was their Guide

K 2

en. s it, ns of

I.II

Last the

cemy Hus.

land most en of lan's

nent t demis

enth , (fo d his first as a cked

nem, ance

hich

hich, ter 2

God rem,

but

After

132 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. to conduct them to the Promised Land, and gave them Laws from his own Divine Mouth, and written with his own Finger, and took them into his own immediate Government. 'And because they were a very Rebellious People, continually pro. voking their great Governour to Anger, therefore Sacrifices, which had been for a great while difus'd, were again revived by his special Command, as Attonements for their Sins; whereby God at once demonstrated to them what they themselves had deserved, and what his Justice strictly required; and likewife how Gracious he was to admit the Life of a Beaft, in the room of that of the miserable Offender.

By this Means great Advances were made under the Mosaick Oeconomy towards lost Man's Recovery; but still there wanted something to render it Compleat: And indeed, That was design'd but as a

Preparatory Institution, a kind Col. 3. 24. of Schoolmaster to Bring or Educate to Christ. It consisted chiefly of Rituals and outward Observances, which could make little or no Improvement of the Soul of Man; without which twas impossible for him to recover that Likeness to God in which he was

Likeness to God in which he was created, and in which consists his Happiness. The Gifes and Sacrifices that were then offered, could never

Vol.I make ! tainin that th take as brews only really those Life in tumci crifice that g of tim he Si votion their and th chang them [e Mank first A Impro rom] Priest ker's and m Will, perfectiontin this V

I.II. and, vine ger, liate re a pro. ger, fora ived ents e deelves rict. cious n the er. were 7 tohere leat: as a kind Eduhiefnces, rovehich that e was nsists s and never

make

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 133 make him that did the Service perfect, as pertaining to the Conscience; it being not possible that the Blood of Bulls and of Goats sould take away Sins; as the Apostle to the Hebrews excellently argues. No, these were only Figures and Types of what should really be in the Days of the Messias; when those Shadows of Purity of Heart and Life in their frequent Washings and Circumcifion; of Pardon of Sin in their Satrifices, thro' the Merit of the Blood of hat great Sacrifice, which in the fulness of time should be offered once for all, for he Sins of the whole World; of true Devotion in their Incense, and of Heaven in their Temporal Promises: When these and the like Shadows should be happily changed into the Substance of the Things themselves; and the Happiness which Mankind lost by the Disobedience of the first Adam in Paradice, be Recover'd and Improv'd by the Second, who came down rom Heaven. This was the true High-Priest, who successfully mediated between God and Man; appeas'd our Maker's Anger by the Sacrifice of himself, and made a full Revelation of the Divine Will, by a Sincere and Hearty, tho' not perfect Observance of which, we should continue in his Favour, and be Happy in this World, and become capable of the pure Joys of Heaven, whither the Bles134 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II fed Jesus is gone before, to appear in the Presence of God for his Church, and prepare Mansions for his faithful Servants, that where he is, there they may be also.

Of this Bleffed Gospel State, the Prophets prophecied long before; and some of them in Terms so plain and express, and in a manner so particular; that it looks more like a History of what was past, than a Prediction of what should be to come, so many Ages after. But they were design'd by God as so many Heralds to proclaim the coming of the great Messias, and prepare the World for His Reception, in whom all the Nations of the World should be bleffed.

Thus all the former imperfect Essays towards the Recovery of fallen Man, were completed by Jesus Christ the Righteous, the universal Saviour. Thus is the last Hand put, and the finishing stroke given on God's part, to the Great and Glorious Work of our Redemption; and now, henceforward, and for ever, there is no other Name under Heaven, whereby

Joh. 14.6. Jesus, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, and who himself hath affured us, that no Man can come to the Father but by him. For what could be done more in order to the Salvation of finful Man, than has been already done

Vol. by G and factio of N Son Crof on; twee Life all N quir' a firi of N ferin Bloo is ma Ober fery far A Nata as we thing and Deg tion with will and miti ever emb fall

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 135 by God in Christ? Here is a Full, Perfect, and Sufficient Sacrifice, Oblation and Satiffaction made for the Sins of the whole Race of Mankind, by Jesus Christ the Eternal Son of God, his fuffering Death upon the Cross in our stead and for our Redemption; Here is by him, as the Mediator between God and Man, a perfect Rule of Life and Manners given to the World, and all Mens Obedience to it indifpensibly requir'd, as the Condition, together with a firm Faith in Christ as the only Saviour, of Man's reaping the Benefit of his Sufferings, and fharing in the Merit of his Blood: And Eternal Life and Happiness, is made the Reward of this Faith and Obedience, and as Eternal Death and Mifery the Punishment of the contrary.

And the Christian Law, is in its own Nature most highly reasonable, and such as will improve the Soul of Man in every. thing that is Excellent and Praise-worthy; and 'tis by all Men practicable, in fuch a Degree as may be sufficient to their Salvation: That is, Sincerity, tho' attended with fome Failures and Imperfections, will be accepted instead of Perfect Duty; and he who knows and pities our Infirmities, has given his Bleffed Spirit, to be every ones Guide and Affistant that will embrace his help; and if we chance to fall in this our Christian Race, we have

K 4

me to could

Vol.II

n the

pre.

ants,

Pro-

fome

press.

lat it

Was

ild be

they

ralds

Mef.

Ref the

ys to-

Were

eous,

e last given

rious

now,

is no

ereby

nat of

ruth,

mfell

on of

done by 136 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. Liberty to rise again by Repentance, and prosecute our Course asresh, and may for all this reach the Prize at last.

And to this Covenant of Infinite Grace and Mercy, All Men are now invited; Greek and Jew, Barbarian, Scythian, Bond and Free. All that will, may come free. ly, and Drink of this Water of Life; and whoever will believe in Jesus, and become his Disciple by Baptism, and depart from all Iniquity, shall be a happy Partaker of all the inestimable Privileges conferred upon the Christian Church, and need not doubt of a persect Reconciliation to his Maker.

And if such a Dispensation as this, be not God's Last Method of recovering sallen Man, 'tis very strange. Can there be a more acceptable and meritorious Sacrifice than the Blood of his Eternal Son, to make Attonement for his rebellious Creatures? And can any thing in Nature be a more Cogent Motive to the utmost Love and Duty of poor condemned Wretches, than to have a Pardon procured for them in such an amazing Mannet as this?

Can there be more Holy, Just, and Good Commands, than our Blessed Redeemer hath given us; and which are swifely contrived, that 'tis impossible, in the very Nature of Things, that we should

fhou after And en t our Frai ftan cure affu men Glor lasti Plea can us fi God nish his Flan Dev a m than pren Hel kind fationess to b orde

Nol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 137 should be truly Happy either here or hereafter, unless we pay Obedience to them? And can there be more tender Care taken to adapt the Service required of us to our Strength and Ability, to consider our Frail Nature, and Hazardous Circumstances, and Pity our Infirmities, and procure all necessary Aid and Assistance, and assure us too, of all sitting Indulgence when we do amis?

II.

and

for

race

ted;

Bond

free.

and be-

part

Par-

COn-

and liati-

g fal.

ere be Sacri

Son,

ellious

ature t most

mned

proculanner

t, and

d Reare fo

ble, i

Thould

Can there be any greater Encouragement to our hest Services than a Crown of Glory Eternal in the Heavens, and an everlasting Enjoyment of the Inconceiveable Pleasures of that glorious Place? And can any thing be more effectual to deter us from perfifting in our Rebellion against God, than the Threats of an Eternal Banishment from his Divine Presence, and his Heavenly Kingdom; and in endless Flames and Tortures to Cohabit with the Devil and his Angels? And can there be a more Diffusive Mercy, and Goodness, than thus to Invite All Men to their fupreme Happiness, and give them all the Helps that reasonably can be desired in order to their effectually attaining it?

It being so evident therefore, that Mankind is now under God's Final Dispensation, relating to their Eternal Happiness; how careful ought every one of us to be, lest by our Insidelity, or Incorrigible

gible Wickedness, we fall short of this wonderful Grace of God; and by negled.

ing, lose, so great Salvation!

Before, in the times of Man's Ignorance, and comparatively Dark and Imperfect Knowledge of God's Will, and of the Nature and Guilt of Sin, and the Rewards and Punishments of ano many things that were not as they should be: and the Impersection of former Dispensations, may in a great Measure be their Excuse. But now, Men being taught all necessary Truth and Duty, as clearly as is possible; God commandeth all Men every where to Repent, as they hope to share in the Benefits of this New Covenant in Christ. And of what sore Punishment shall they be thought Worth, who when God hath done such Wondrous Things to savethem, by his Eternal Son; Trample all his gracious offers under Foot,

But let such Consider, and Tremble when they consider, that this is God's Final Tender of Grace, and Pardon to them; and which if they refuse, he will be no more intreated. Those that will not comply with the Method God now takes, by the Mediation of Christ to save them, must expect no further Favour; for this and oppose him as violently, as if he were

vol.II
is their
and their and r Sins;
Judgar
rible
they shall
to an fery,
to m
they

we Wich by re Servery variety refol

dese the the Gla

F

fho hu

an

is the last Opportunity of making their Peace that ever they shall enjoy, and the end of the World draws nigh, and no more Sacrifice shall there be for Sins; nothing but a fearful Expectation of Judgment and stery Indignation at that Terrible Day, when the same Jesus whom they would not receive as their Saviour, shall be their Judge, and Sentence them to an Inexpressible, but justly deserved Misery, because 'twas put into their Hands to make themselves for ever Happy, but they Slighted and Despised it, and were resolved upon Ruin.

Tol.II

this

glea.

Igno

Im.

nd of

e Ro

ano.

d at ot as ction

great

Men

and

com.

t, as

this

what

rthy,

rous

ion;

cot,

vere

hen

inal

m;

no

not

res,

em,

his

15

Wherefore, as we hope to be fav'd, we must have a Care of being like the Wicked Husbandmen in the Parable; and by no means give Ill Treatment to the Servants of the great Lord of the Vineyard, much less to his glorious Son.

And if the meanest of God's Ministers deserve our Reverence, for the sake of the Authority by which they Act, and the Message that they bring, even the Glad tidings of Peace and Salvation, earnestly perswading us to accept them, and be reconciled to God; much more should we Reverence his Son, and pay an humble and ready Obedience to whatever he shall require.

And what is it that he requires of us, and they by his Authority in his Absence, but 140 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. but what in all Reason and Gratitude should be given him, the Fruits of his Vineyard; which he hath planted with the choicest Vine, and Cultivated with the greatest Care, and Preserv'd and Blessed by a peculiar Providence, and would fain fee prosperous and flourishing? And this, not that he stands in need of any thing that the whole Creation can afford, for 'tis from his Inexhaustible Fulness that all things have deriv'd their Being; but purely for our own Benefit, that by Improving under the Means of Grace he hath hitherto bestow'd upon us, we may be capable of still more and more, and he may continue to delight to do us Good.

And of what Kind are the Fruits that we are to return him? Truly, no other than what a Wiseman would above all things defire to produce for his own fake, were they not required of him by his Lord; fuch as Meekness and Humility, Temperance and Chaftity, Justice and Honesty, Charity and Brotherly Love, Moderation of our Passions, and the rest of those admirable Virtues which concern our felves and our Neighbour; and a Heart full of Love and Gratitude and Devotion to that Bleffed God, to whose undeserved Bounty we are Indebted. for all our present Comforts, and to whose boundless Mercy for all our Future Hopes.

Vol.II.
What
well a Lord of as this to tho who b us in M

An there Mafte Men' much becau

their

fo dir

have f

Yicid fcien Sinfu woo Judg fhal Mif here Me > in Dat gree

> > ring

tue

What

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 141
What can be more Kind and Good, as well as Just and Fitting, than for the Lord of the Vineyard to require such Fruit as this? and how thankful should we be to those, and Love and Honour them, who by his Commission continually put us in Mind of this our Duty which tends so directly to our Happiness, and shall have such a Recompence of Reward?

And yet this is the very Reason (for there can be no other) why both our great Master and his-Ministers have so little of Men's Affection and Reverence, and so much of their Hate and Contempt. 'Tis because we require good Fruit of them, and will not suffer 'em to go quietly on in their Fatal Barrenness.

II.lo

tude

his

1 the

the

effed

fain

this,

hing

r'tis

t all

ure-

-VO

nath

be

he

hat

her

all

ike,

his

ity,

and

ve,

rest

ern

da

and

ofe

for

ofe

es.

nat

'Tis because we disturb 'em in their Vicious Courfes, and awaken their Consciences by our Reproofs, and dash their Sinful Pleasures with Gall and Wormwood, by telling them of Death and a Judgment to come, when the Wicked shall be thrown into Hell, and infinite Misery be their Portion who forgot God here; and that nothing can procure us Mercy then but a Life of Holiness and Virtue now: 'Tis this makes us such Thorns in Mens sides, for these are such cruel Damps to the Jollities of Vice, and the greedy pursuit of Riches, and the towring Projects of the Ambitious, as Flesh and and Blood can't bear; and therefore must endeavour, by their Discountenancing and ill Usage of those Messengers of ill News (as they esteem them) to get rid of

as foon as they can.

The Name of a Christian they are wil. ling enough to bear, and like very well to be told of going to Heaven when they die; and were this all that our Lord and his Servants talk'd of they could be content to hear of it sometimes, and pay some Regard to those who preach to them no. thing but Happiness and Glory: butwhen we shew them the way that must lead to it, and tell them how constantly they must insist in that way, which appears fo rugged and unpromising to Men of their Inclinations, and course of Life; this they can't relish at all, this 'tis that makes them fo Uneafy, and fo much our Enemies.

But if we say nothing more than the Truth; and 'tis a Truth of such infinite Consequence; and the very same that Christ and his Apostles have often said before us, and commanded us to declare Impartially to all Men: 'tis strange that for so good an Office we should be so ill thought of, and so Unkindly treated!

Should we Gloze and Flatter, and footh Men up in their Dangerous Wandrings, what Character should we deferve

fust Rome, fulness on us guish, to bring the last of t

Vol.II

erve

berhal

ind a heithe

pught

Negle

But reman Seven but t that d lespise ut he

ore th

or thi

t the

Let i

vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 143 erve from 'em then? for a little while perhaps we might have their good Word, and a kind look, (and it may be not neither; it being so well known what we night to insist upon, that our Treacherous Neglect of doing it will be turn'd to our lust Reprorch) however, the time will come, when they will curse our unsaithulness in so great a Trust, and Gnash upon us with their Teeth in bitterest Anguish, for not Importunately urging them to bring forth those Fruits of Righteoustess, which they then will find were absolutely necessary to their Salvation.

.II.

nust

ing

ill

d of

Wil-

well

hey

and

con.

ome

no.

hen

lead

they

ears

n of

Life;

that

our

the finite

that faid

clare

that fo ill

and

Wan-

e de-

ferve

If therefore the World hate us, we know that it hated our Blessed John 15. Master before it hated us. If we were of the World, the World would love his own; but because we are not of the World, but he hath chosen us out of the World, therefore the World hateth us; and all for this cause only, because we tell Gal. 4. 16.

t the truth. O base Ingratitude!

But let the World take notice of these remarkable Words of our Lord, to the Seventy Disciples whom he sent Lu. 10. 16. but to Preach his Gospel; He hat despiseth you, despiseth me, and he that despiseth me, despiseth him that sent me. Let it take notice that all the Ill usage and Indignities offered to Christ's Ministers, thro' them strike at their Master; and and Terminate upon God at last, from whom their Authority is originally deriv. ed. And what can be expected from such provoking Behaviour, but utter Ruin?

Upon the whole then; when the Servants of the Great Lord of the Vineyard come to urge us to render him the Fruits in their Seasons, let us receive them as becomes those that have so near a Relation to Him, and comply with their Exhortations to the best of our Ability: And since in infinite Condescension, he was pleased to send his Son in these last Days to us, upon so gracious a Message, as to offer pardon to a vile Rebellious World, upon Condition of their rendering him better Fruits of obedience for the suture;

even that Divine Son of his,

He. 1.2, whom he hath appointed Heir of all things, and is the Brightness of his Father's Glory, and the express Image of his Person; shall we say with the Wicked Husbandmen in the Parable, This is the Heir, come let us kill him? Let us crucify him asresh by our Impieties, and put him to an open Shame? Now God forbid! No, let us shew him all possible Reverence, and express it by a chearful Observance of all his Blessed Will; and so shall we be Coheirs with him, Mar. 1. 2.7. and then, his Inheritance will indeed be ours. Amen, Blessed Lord, Amen! The

Vol.II

FTER bown Manki Patria nlight thee, ind in o thy recioi laimin vould ut hav nd pra oor un eeply a Resentn love u May W hurch,

ich peci

riously

e unde

ant Fri

.11.

om iv.

om in? Serard

uits as ela-

Ex.

And

Was

Days

S to

orld,

him

ture;

his,

ir of

ess of

mage

7 ick-

is is cru-

and

God

ffible

arful

nd fo

him,

ll inlessed

The

The PRAYER.

I.

ETernal God, thou Great and Good Father of the Universe, who in all Ages hast bown thy tender Care of the Happiness of Mankind, and by various Revelations to the. Patriarchs, to Moses and the Prophets, didst nlighten their Minds in the Knowledge of hee, and taughtst them how to please thee; ind in the fulness of time, didst Purchase othy felf an univerfal Church by the precious Blood of thy Dear Son, Prolaiming to all the World, that who foever would believe in him should not Perish, ut have everlasting Life: For ever bleffed end praised be this thy wondrous Love to thy. oor unworthy Creatures! and may it so eeply affect us all, as to produce the highest Resentments of Gratitude, and a Return of ove unfeigned, and most constant Duty! lay we particularly, of this part of thy hurch, which thou hast distinguished with ich peculiar Marks of thy Favour, Consider riously what extraordinary Obligations we e under to an exemplary Piety, and abunant Fruitfulness in every Grace of the Spirit! For

For what could have been done

Isa. 5. 4. more to this Branch of thy Vineyard, that thou hast not fer. 2. 21. already done it? O let it not therefore turn a Degenerate

Plant; and when thou justly lookest that it should bring forth Grapes, of Excelleng suitable to the noble Stock, and fruitful Soil, and all the Care and Culture us'd about it; O may it not bring forth Wild and Sown

Fruit, and provoke thee to lay it waste, and blast it with the breath of thy Displeasure!

II.

We confess, O Lord, with Shame and Confusion of Face, that we have too much deferv'd the Fierceness of thy Anger, and'in of thy infinite Compassions that we are mi already consum'd; O do thou still in Wrath remember Mercy, and let thy continual Pity cleanse and defend that Church which hitherto thou hast covered with the Wings of thy Providence, and protected from all her Enemies round about. We know it cannot continue in fafety without the Succour, so many crying, down with even to the Ground; Preserve it there fore evermore by thy Help and Goodness; and grant that all the Member of it, from the highest to the lowest, in the several Stations, may make it their since En

Vol. Ende ness,

ders in

ful Ri mayst them churc nd N

Vol.11. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 147
Endeavour to pluck up every Root of Bitterness, both in themselves and others, and cast out every Poisonous Hurtful thing that hinders its abounding in full Clusters of acceptable Fruit. That so, making a due and grateful Return, for thy uncommon Favours, thou nayst be graciously inclined still to continue them to us, and at last admit us into the Church Triumphant above. Thro the Merits and Mediation of Jesus the Righteous, thy eloved Son, our Lord. Amen.

L

PA-

Wrath
ntinual thurch, ith th
rotectes Ve know
out thi
with in there
p and Member
in their fincer
En

II.

one

thy

not

not ate

at it

leng

Soil,

t it;

OWTE

and

e!

e and uch dend'tis

PARABLE V.

Of a Man taking a far Journey, &c.

Mark xiii. 34, &c.

The Son of Man is as a Man taking a fur Journey, who left his House, and gave Authority to his Servants, and to even Man his Work, and commanded the Porta to Watch.

Watch ye therefore, (for ye know not what the Master of the House cometh, at Even, or at Midnight, or at the Cock-crowing, with the Morning) lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping.

And what I say unto you, I say unto d. Watch.

OUR Bleffed Lord, being at Jeroft lem, not long before his bitter Surferings and Death, upon his Div. 1. ciples beholding with Admintion the magnificent Building of the Temple, and vast Bigness of the Stones, that were made use of; took of casion to tell them of the Destructions

Vol. hat bould hat] And fame! o te and w hings hould ejecti leas' Accou nd th ratify aith Tryal. ome i kewi kewi vhen their S heir S om the Mife As food

the the

San, n

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 149 l.II. hat Temple, that One Stone hould not be left upon another hat should not be Thrown down: And upon the further Enquiry of Peter, James, John and Andrew, who defired him o tell them when those things should be, &c. nd what should be the Sign when all those hings, (which he had formerly foretold, hould come upon that Wicked City for ejecting him,) sould be fulfilled; He was leas'd to give them a more particular a fo Account of that dreadful Destruction, d gave nd the forerunners of it, not so much to even ratify their Curiofity, as to confirm the Porta aith of Believers in that severe time of Iryal, when they should see all things t wha ome to pass so exactly according to his Even, rediction fo many Years before; and ing, a kewise as a kind warning to them, enly k then they faw those Signs, to make the est Provision they could for nto al heir Safety by a timely Flight om that unhappy City, which vas fo Irremediably devoted Feruli Mifery and Ruin. er Su As for the Time of that Destruction, he his Di old them in general, that that dmin eneration should not pass 'till v. 30. ilding I these things were done; but of th the Day and Hour, knew no ook a Ction dan, no not the Angels in Heaen, neither the Son, but the Father. And then then he advises them to be upon their confiant Guard, and to walk with great Caution and Circumspection, and to be very frequent in the Exercises of Devo tion; Take ye heed, Watch and v. 33. Pray, for ye know not when the time is. And to give them the quicker Sense, and more lively Apprehension of what he said, he represent it in the Parable above written, and draws the same Conclusion from it, Watch y therefore, &c. Lest coming suddenly he sind you sleeping; and what I say unto you, I say unto all, Watch.

So that this Parable, and those others to the same purpose in the 24th of & Matthew, and 21st of St. Luke, were in our Lord's Primary Intention defigned to forewarn his Disciples of the sad Times that were coming upon Jerusalem, and engage them in a watchful Preparation for them; but that Destruction of theob stinate Jews, being by all look'd upon as a Type of God's Just Vengeance upon irreclaimable Sinners at the Final Judg ment, and our Lord feeming to lead us to do fo, by making an immediate Transition in St. Matthew's Gospel, from di coursing upon that terrible Judgment up on the Jewish Nation, Chap. 24, &c. to a Description of the Judgment of the last Great Day upon all the World, V. 314

Vol.II.
of Ch.
being r
and th
our Sa
mprov Purpof
espect
Day w
will jud Man n
his Etc.

But ion of on of ng his enfior he G by his ng his or Ho he tho And h chief fles a the C Christ vernn partic the l and I

would

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 151 of Ch. 25. And the same Preparation being necessary for the one as the other, and the same Cautions being given by our Saviour relating to both: We may improve the Parable to very good Purpose, by considering it with Mas. 25. 13. espect to that Tremendous Day which God hath appointed, when he will judge the World in Righteousness by that Man whom he hath ordained, even Jesus is Eternal Son, our ever Blessed Re-eemer.

ol.II

COn.

great

to be

)evo.

and

n the

1 the

ppre.

fents

raws

ch je

find I say hers

f St

e in

ima ima

and

tion

e ob-

1pon

apoq

udg.

dus

rân-

dif

up.

c. to laft

31.

But first we shall give a brief Explicaion of the Parable in order to it. By the on of Man's taking a far Journy and leavng his House is signified our Lord's Asension into Heaven after he had finished he Glorious Work of our Redemption by his Death and Refurrection; and leavng his Church, which is his great Family or Houshold to the Management of those he thought fit to Intrust in his Absence. And he gave Authority to his Servants, the thief Ministers of his Kingdom, the Apofles and their Successors the Bishops, and the Civil Powers too when they became Christan, to take Care of the Good Government of it; and to every Man, every particular Member from the highest to the lowest, he assign'd his proper Work, and Duty in his Station, of which he would require an Account at his Return, and 152 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. and commanded the Porter to watch. is, gave a strict Charge to the Clergy, those that by their Office are to watch for the Souls of their Brethren, and have the Power of the Keys committed to them, to admit into, and to shut out of the Church; to be very Vigilant for the Good of the Holy Society in general, and of every Soul in particular under their Inspection, and to preserve them, as much as in them lay, in a good Condition for their Great Lord's Return: Wakeful and Circumspect, Diligent and Industrious in their feveral Places, that all things might be in a good Readiness for him, Left coming suddainiy he should find them sleep. ing, Idle, Careless and Negligent, which would be of the worst Consequence, and bring upon them the severest Punishment. And because the Time of his coming was fo uncertain, both as to the Day and the Hour, for ye know not when the Master of the House cometh, whether at Even, or & Midnight, at the Cock Crowing, or in the Morning; therefore it became every one to be ready, and that he might be fo, to Watch. And what I say unto you, saysour Lord, meaning his Apostles, I say unto all, Watch.

This may be fufficient by way of Explication, of what is so plain in it self. I shall therefore proceed to consider this

Para-

Vol.

Paral

Fudge

the]

them

vide

all

that an il

buna

at b whe

Prot

over

our forme

then

thin

mof

our

rela

app

and

lasti

the Day

ther

of o

2

I

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 153 Parable with respect to the great Day of Judgment, and endeavour fo to represent the Terrors that will attend it, as to make them an Argument to perswade us to provide for that dreadful Time by a Life of all Holy Conversation and Godliness: that fo we may not be furpriz'd by it in an ill Condition to appear before the Tribunal of Jesus, nor be asbam'd before him at his coming whenever it shall be, or whenever Death shall put an end to our Probation here, and as it were, bind us over to that great Affize; but having our Accounts ready, and our felves in fome measure prepared, we may give them in with Joy and not with Grief.

And in order to this, I shall do three.

things.

ol.II.

That

ergy,

vatch

have

hem,

f the

Good

nd of

r In-much on for al and

trious hings

n, Left

fleep.
which

, and

ment.

g was nd the

or at

in the

fo, to

ysour

nto all,

of Ex-it self.

er this

Para-

1. First, I shall consider what may be most moving with respect to the Time of our great Lord's fecond coming.

2. Secondly, What may most affect us relating to the Persons that are then to appear before him, and be judg'd by him; and.

3. Thirdly, What may leave the most lasting good Impressions upon us as to the Manner of proceeding at that terrible Day, and the several Sentences that will then be past, and their Execution.

1. As for the first particular, the Time of our Great Lord's second coming, Three

Things

Things are to be taken Notice of; (1.)
That 'tis utterly unknown to us when that time will be; (2.) That in all Probability 'tis not now far off; (3.) That when it does come it will be suddain and surprizing, and usher'd in with affrighting Signs and Forerunners, and very Strange and amazing Appearances.

I. First, 'Tis utterly unknown to any created Being when that time will be, This is evident from our Lord's express Words quoted before, of that Day and Hour knoweth no Man, no not the Angels in Heaven, neither the Son, but the Father only; and here in the Parable, ye know not when the Master of the House cometh, whe. ther at Even or at Midnight, or at the Cook Crowing or in the Morning; Watch ye there. fore: As much as to fay, in what Age of the World, or in what part of any Man's Life the Day of Judgment shall be; or the Day of Death, which will confign every particular Person to it, is persectly in the Dark to all but God himself: and. therefore, 'tis fit every Man should live in a serious awful Expectation of it, and endeavour to be ready for it by a truly Pious Course of Life, that whenever it shall come it may be to his Advantage.

And indeed, The uncertain time, of a certain event, upon which depends a Man's whole greatest Interest, must needs

Vol.I be a fideri parat in fu be hi it w God, hath he ha make vision ther o it, an and I their with to fla never anoth Mat. Lord as if! gan t and a to en tion, Com it, no

himfo and V Use of shoul

he

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 155 be an irrefistible Motive, to any confidering Man, to a constant careful Preparation for it, left at length he be caught in fuch ill Circumstances as will inevitably be his Ruine. And I don't question but it was for this Reason that our Good God, who fo truly defires our Happiness, hath made this matter fo great a Secret as he has. For the known time of an Event. makes Men too apt to Defer their Provision for it till 'tis too late, and the further off it is, the less notice they take of it, and very frequently 'tis quite forgot; and because 'tis not likely to fall out in their Time, they are too Prone with those St. Peter mentions, 2. Pet. 3. 4. to flatter themselves that it will never be. And the wicked Servant in another Parable spoken to this purpose, Mat. 24. 48. when he thought that his Lord delay'd his Coming, run riot presently as if he would never return at all, and began to smite his fellow Servants, and to eat and drink with the Drunken. Wherefore to engage us all to a Watchful Preparation, he hath conceal'd the time of his Coming, and intrusted no Creature with it, no not the Humanity even of the Judge himself: and may we be such Faithful and Wife Servants, as to make that Good Use of his Secrecy which he design'd we should; and as St. Luke expresses it, have

II

(.)

en

0-lat

nd

nt-

ry

ny be.

ess

and zels

her

not phe-

ock

ere.

e of

an's

10 fign

ally

and.

live

and

ruly

rit

, of

is a

eeds

156 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Ju. 12. 35, Lights burning, that in what Watch foever our great Master shall come, we may be found ready waiting for him, and busied in a Conscientious performance of our proper. Duty! and for ever Blessed will be those Servants whom their Lord when he cometh shall find so doing!

2. But Secondly, As 'tis uncertain when this Time of Christ's Return will be, so in all Probability 'tis not now far off: I'm fure 'tis almost Seventeen Hunthe end of all things was at hand; and if the Computation of the Jews deferves any Regard, who tell us that fix Thousand Years at most, shall be the Measure of this World's Continuance, that Number is so near compleated, that it can't be long before it will have an end; and we, making such great haste to fill up the Measure of our Iniquities, do proportionably hasten our Lord's Coming to the Final Judgment. And indeed the Affairs of the World at this time are such fair Advances towards the Completion of what Christ said should Mar. 24. come before the End was, * that Lu. 21. 28. that alone would induce me to think, that it is even now nigh at hand When these things begin to come

Vol.II: come to Heads, And lea her Bra Leaves in like n come to the D be in t fiery. Care from Spirit. Hono Shall in Va of our give a either an Ir be fo

Defender us be for time, does zing Sign and

Mat Mar

of 1

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 157 come to pass, then look up, and lift up your Heads, for your Redemption draweth nigh, And learn a Parable of the Fig-Tree; when her Branch is yet tender, and putteth forth Leaves, ye know that Summer is near, so inlike manner; when ye shall see these things come to pass, know that it is nigh, even at the Doors, Mar. 13. 28. And shall we be in the near Neighbourhood of fuch a fiery Tryal, and make it no part of our Care to Refine and Purify our Selves from all Filthiness both of Flesh and Spirit, that we may be found Vessels of Honour fit for our Great Master's Use? Shall we lavish away our Opportunity in Vanity and Folly, and the Service of our Lusts, when very shortly we must give a strict Account of all that we have either thought, or faid, or done, before an Infinitely Just and Holy Judge; and be for ever rewarded according to our Defervings? Now God forbid! Rather let us be sober, and watch unto Prayer, and be so much the more careful to redeem our time, as we see that Day approaching. For,

I.II.

Our

hat

fter!

ing

Ous

and

noc

hen

lo I'm

in-

nd;

defix

the

ce,

hat

nd;

10-

ing eed

le-

ald

nat .

to

W

me

does come, 'twill be suddain and surprizing, and ushered in with affrighting Signs and Fore runners, and very strange and amazing Appearances. Thus, in Matt. 24. 27. the Coming of the Son of Man is compar'd to the sudden Flashings of Lightning; in the 37, 38, 39. to the 158 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II Deluge in the Days of Noah, which was fo far from being expected by that Wick. ed Generation, (notwithstanding the Warnings given them by that Good Man, and the Preparation which for many Years he himself was making for it in building the Ark) that they were Eating and Drinking, Marrying and giving in Mar. riage until the very Day that Noah entred into the Ark, and knew not, were in no Apprehension of it, until the Flood came and took them all away; so also shall the coming of the Son of Man be. And, Mat. 25. 5, 6. 'tis liken'd to a Cry made at Mid. night when all slumbered and slept. And, I Thef. 5. 2. St. Paul tells us, that the Day of the Lord so cometh as a Thief 2 Pet. 3. 10. in the Night, (and St. Peter fays the fame) for when they shall say Peace and Safety, then sudden Destruction cometh upon the secure Wicked World, as Travel upon a Woman with Child, and they (ball not escape.

De-

As for the Fore-runners of his coming which shall alarm the drowzy World, and be the last Warning and Call to Repentance that ever shall be given; our Saviour hath given us a terrible Description of them, Lu. 21.9, 10. where he says there shall be Wars and Commotions, Nation rising up against Nation, and Kingdom against Kingdom, and great Earthquakes in divers places, vol.II.

places, ful Sign
Heaven
tions,
Waves
cy'd of Jerusal
the fir

on of Goo Terro thefe! and A runne and th neffes the fu from and G Mom Dark speak acco and inev luvi fhall fions

and

look

ther

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 159 places, and Famines, and Pestilences, and fear-ful Sights, and great Signs shall there be from Heaven; and upon Earth distress of Nations, with Perplexity, the Sea and the Waves roaring: All which, tho' prophecy'd of, and fulfill'd in the Destruction of Jerusalem, yet look'd still forward to the final Doom of the World, the Ruin of that part being a Type of the Destruction of the whole.

1.11

Was

ICK.

the

lan,

any

10 ting

Tar-

tred

no

ame

the

Mat.

Aid.

nd,

Day

hief.

ays

Say

ion

as

hey

ing

ld,

le-

Dur

ip-

ys

ron nst

ers

es,

on of the whole.

Good God! How great will be the Terror and Confusion of such times as these! And how inexpressible the Horror and Amazement when after such Fore-runners the dreadful Scene shall be open'd and the Last Day begin! When the soft-nesses of Luxury shall be broken off by the sudden Shrieks of terrissed Wretches from every Quarter, and the Splendors and Gaieties of the World, in a Moment covered with thick goel 2.30, Darkness, (as Joel prophetically —3.15. speaks of that Day of the Lord) accompany'd with a Atinking Vapour, and frequent Irruptions of Flame, as if in every place there was an Atna, or a Vesuvius: When the Revels of the Night shall be disturb'd with dreadful Convulsions of the trembling Earth, and Flashes of strange Fire that foel. 2. 31. look like Streams of Blood rather than Light, break in upon the Beds of Uncleanness: When dire Prodigies shall fill the Heavens, and Distress all around upon the Face of the Earth, and the Sea at the same time swelling to an amazing highth, a hideous Noise proceeding from the rowling of its mighty Billows, as if those Bars God's Providence had set it were now to be remov'd, and It impatient till it were done, and its proud Waves at Liberty.

When this fo great, fo sudden, so terrifying a Change shall come,

Lu. 21. 26. well may Mens Hearts fail them for fear, and for looking af. ter those things which are then coming on the Earth. And, O how miserable will those Wretches, be who have the inward Horrors of a Guilty Conscience added to these outward Terrors (and which will make them still more terrible) and are thus overtaken in the midst of their Wicked. ness and Forgetfulness of God! and how happy beyond all Expression those that shall be found employ'd in the Duties of our Holy Religion, their Lamps full and trim'd, and in a readiness when their Divine Bridegroom comes, to go out to meet him with Cheerfulness and Joy! And thus much for the Time of our great Lord's fecond coming. I come now in the

II.

Tol.II.

II.

hen to

by hin

Men,

alive,

the E

Estate,

vere r

Crimin

Darkne

inal Se

hat be

Nation

re mu

Seat of f him fe

eous r

elf tel

e set

t. Pet

lained

Dead:

ns, ka

ind t hen b

s we

hem

ome hi

And

all'd

Day.

Tol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 161

ol.II.

Pro.

tress

arth,

lling

Voise

righ-

Pro.

b'vc.

and

ter-

ome,

fail af-

g on

will vard

d to

will

thus

ked-

now

hat

s.of

and

Di-

to oy!

eat

in

II.

II. Second place to confider what may most affect us concerning those that are hen to appear before him, and be judg'd by him; and they are all the Sons of Men, that ever liv'd, or shall be then alive, both Good and Bad; and likewise the Evil Angels, who kept not their first Estate, but left their own Habitation, and vere reserved like so many condemned Criminals, in everlasting Chains under Darkness, unto the Judgment and inal Sentence of this last Great Mat. 25. Day. Thus our Lord affures us 2 Cor. 5.10. hat before him shall be gathered all Rom. 14.12. Nations, and St. Paul fays that re must ALL appear before the Judgment eat of Christ, and every one of us give account f himself to God, and so even the Righeous not excepted; and our Lord himelf tells us that the Sheep shall e set on his Right Hand. And Alls 10.42. t. Peter tells us, that he is orsined of Gad to be the Judge of Quick and Dead; and St. Paul fays to the Corinthins, know ye not that we shall Judge Angels, nd the Devils know that they shall hen be brought to receive their Doom, s we may Collect from what some of hem said to Christ, Mat. 8. 29. Art thou ome hither to torment us before the time?

And if we ask, how shall all these be all'd or summon'd to this universal Judg-M ment?

160 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. ment? we are told it shall be in the most awful Manner that is pos. fible; even with a great Sound Mat. 24.3 1. of a Trumpet fill'd with the Breath of an Arch-Angel, or an Arch. Angel's Voice refounding like it; reaching to the four Winds, or all the Corners of the Earth, pierc. ing to the bottom of the Deep, and the dire Abodes of the Spirits of Darkness, univerfally heard, and univerfally obey'd Men and Devils, the Righteous and the Wicked, the Dead and the Living; all immediately preparing to attend the Issues of that wonderous Day. And the manner of their Appearance, according to what I can collect from Scripture, will be this. After the Earth and the Sea have given up their Dead, and by the Almighty Power of God every de parted Soul is reunited to its own Body which shall then be made ready to to ceive it, and those that are then alive have received a Change equivalent to Death; The Good Angels, being guide by the Omniscient Judge, shall make a exact Separation, in this confus'd Ap pearance of all forts, of the Righteon from the Wicked; and the former the shall place all together on his Right-hand and the latter on his left, as our Lor assures us, Mat. 25.

Vol.

will Alar whol Diso Myri the m with from it roa than periff and . the I they thems lie con when fame the aff Mansi arife furthe La were prejoyci dance, fudder

shail for the have

Aposta they Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 161

And what an amazing Scene of things will there then be, when at that shrill Alarm, given by the Arch-Angel, the whole Creation shall be in a Hurry and Disorder! The Sea-shores filled with Myriads of People coming up out of the mighty Waters, none now looking back with Joy upon that Merciless Element from which they are Delivered, tho' it roars louder, and swells higher far, than when with Shrieks and Cries they perish'd in it; but rather with Wondring and Anxious Eyes looking forward to the Terrors of the Land, and wishing they could again go back, and shroud themselves in the Caverns of a Rock, or lie conceal'd in the Bottom of the Deep: when the Graves on Land, shall at the fame time every where be open'd, and the affrighted Inhabitants of those Dark Mansions, like Men awakned by some to to fudden Noise from a deep Sleep, shall arise full of Terror and Amazement; and the Living, who but just before perhaps guided were putting the Evil Day far from them, rejoycing in their Prosperity and Abund Ap dance, and swimming in Luxury and Riot, theough thail fee and hear all this, and be driven er the to the place of Judgment, with those that chand have just lest their Tombs, Shoals of Apostate Spirits mixing with them as they go, who shall then be dragg'd M 2 from alive ent to ake an

.II.

the pof-

und the

rchlike

inds,

ierc.

the

ness,

ey'd;

d the

; all

the

nd the

rding

pture d the

nd by ry de Body

And

from their Subterraneous Dungeons, and brought upon the Earth, and probably be rendred visible, as the Good Angels then will be; and all the Circumstances of Horror round about, together with the united Howlings, Shrieks, and Lamentations of such whose Consciences have condemn'd them beforehand: when at length the bright Ministers of this great Judge, shall curiously fort each Person in his proper place, and Pick and Cull out of this vast Number

Mal. 3. 17. the Jewels of the Kingdom, and abandon the rest to the Company of Hellish Fiends and Furies, in dread. ful Expectation of their Doom: Good God! What an amazing Scene of things will there then be! What a strange mixture of Passions will there then be seen! On one Hand, what Expressions of Comfort and Hope, what tokens of longing Defire to fee their dear Saviour and best Friend, among the virtuous few! And on the other, what Ghastly Looks, what Dread and Anxiety, what hideous Wailings and Outcries, will be observed quite through the innumerable Multitudes of the Wicked! How will the then wish in the Bitterness of their Souls that in their life-time they had thought more seriously of this time of Terrors and been influenc'd by it to make Religi vol. I on the form of it, then of! A time impromake fuch a here, the B in a F to cor rable mann his p the fe

As Appe Texts forma Ange with ing a past,

into taken come

go in

vol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 165 on their Business in good earnest; that so Mercy might have been shewn them then, when they stand so much in need of it, but which, in the Condition they then are, they know they must despair of! And how should we, who as yet have time and space given us for Repentance, improve it to the best Advantage, and make it our great Employment to attain such a Temper and Disposition of Mind here, as may then rank us in the Number the Blessed!

I.II.

and ably

gels

nces

with

La-

nces

vhen

this

each

and

mber

mpa-

read.

Good

hings

mixfeen!

as of

ofa

viour

few!

ooks,

deous

ferv'd

Multi-

they

Souls

ought errors,

Leligi-

III. And now, all things being thus in a Readiness, I come in the last place to consider what may leave the most durable good Impression upon us, as to the manner of the Judge's Appearance, and his proceeding at that terrible Day, and the several Sentences that will then be past, and their Execution.

As for the manner of the Divine Judge's Appearance, there are three or four Texts of Scripture that will give us Information. In Acts 1. 11. we find two Angels telling our Lord's Disciples, when with wondering Eyes they were looking after him as he ascended from them into Heaven; this same Jesus which is taken up from you into Heaven, shall so come in like manner, as ye have seen him go into Heaven. Now, how that was,

from their Subterraneous Dungeons, and brought upon the Earth, and probably be rendred visible, as the Good Angels then will be; and all the Circumstances of Horror round about, together with the united Howlings, Shrieks, and Lamentations of such whose Consciences have condemn'd them beforehand: when at length the bright Ministers of this great Judge, shall curiously fort each Person in his proper place, and Pick and Cull out of this vast Number

Mal. 3. 17. the Jewels of the Kingdom, and abandon the rest to the Company of Hellish Fiends and Furies, in dread. ful Expectation of their Doom: Good God! What an amazing Scene of things will there then be! What a strange mixture of Passions will there then be feen! On one Hand, what Expressions of Comfort and Hope, what tokens of longing Defire to fee their dear Saviour and best Friend, among the virtuous few! And on the other, what Ghaftly Looks, what Dread and Anxiety, what hideous Wailings and Outcries, will be observed quite through the innumerable Multitudes of the Wicked! How will they then wish in the Bitterness of their Souls that in their life-time they had thought more feriously of this time of Terrors and been influenc'd by it to make Religi vol. I on the formake fuch a here, the B in a F to cor rable mann his pr

past,

As Appe Texts forma Angel with ing af into taken

come

vol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 165 on their Business in good earnest; that so Mercy might have been shewn them then, when they stand so much in need of it, but which, in the Condition they then are, they know they must despair of! And how should we, who as yet have time and space given us for Repentance, improve it to the best Advantage, and make it our great Employment to attain such a Temper and Disposition of Mind here, as may then rank us in the Number the Blessed!

III.

and ably

gels

nces

with

La-

nces

vhen

this

each

and

nber

mpa-

read.

Good

hings

mix-

feen!

is of

of a

viour

few!

ooks,

leous

ferv'd

Multi-

they

Souls

ought

rrors

eligi

III. And now, all things being thus in a Readiness, I come in the last place to consider what may leave the most durable good Impression upon us, as to the manner of the Judge's Appearance, and his proceeding at that terrible Day, and the several Sentences that will then be past, and their Execution.

As for the manner of the Divine Judge's Appearance, there are three or four Texts of Scripture that will give us Information. In Acts 1. 11. we find two Angels telling our Lord's Disciples, when with wondering Eyes they were looking after him as he ascended from them into Heaven; this same Jesus which is taken up from you into Heaven, shall so come in like manner, as ye have seen him go into Heaven. Now, how that was, M 3 the 164 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.M the 9th Verse of that Chap. informs us, where 'tis faid, a Cloud received him out of their Sight; wherefore, as on a Cloud he went up into Heaven, so on a Cloud he will from thence return to Judg. ment. And accordingly he tells us him. felf Mat. 24. 30. that we shall then see the Son of Man coming in the Clouds of Heaven, with Power and great Glory. What this Great Glory is, he likewife tells us, Lu. 9. 26. where he fays, that he shall come in his own Glory, and in his Father's, and of the Holy Angels; where, by his own Glory, 'tis very probable is meant, that Glorious Celestial Body with which he now fits at the Righthand of God, and of which his Appearance to the Aposties at his Transfiguration gives us fome Notion, Mat. 17. 2. When his Face did Shine as the Sun, and his Raiment was white as the Light; to which is agreeable that Vision of St. John, Rev. 1. 13. when in the midst of the Golden Candlesticks he beheld one that was like the Son of Man, his Head and his Hair were white as Wool, as white as Snow, his Eyes were as a flame of Fire, and his Countenance was as the Sun shining in his Strength. By his Father's Glory may be meant a bright Circle, as of flaming Fire, furrounding him; for fo God did generally use to descend

Vol.I as is Old " when upon Body call'd ly St. that (Heav Venge which A FI his E enligh tremb Prefer and t Right Glory

By doub Heav Trius Solem Tran St. Prevea gels; shall and He le ol.M us, out loud loud udg. him-1 fee ds of lory. Wife at he a his here, le is Body ightpear. zuration, s the white that en in ks he Man, 1 ool, flame s the Farcle, him; end

Sands

25

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour 165 as is evident from feveral places of the Old Testament; in particular he did so when he gave the Law to Moses upon Mount Sinai, and this Exo. 19. 18. Body of Fire is in Exod. 24. 17. call'd the Glory of the Lord; and accordingly St. Paul tells the The falonians, that Christ shall be reveal'd from 2 Thef. 1. 8. Heaven in flaming Fire, taking Vengeance on those that know not God; to which the Pfalmist alludes, Pf. 97. 3, &c. A Fire goeth before him, and burneth up his Enemies round about; his Lightnings enlighten the World, the Earth saw and trembled, the Hills melt like Wax at the Presence of the Lord of the whole Earth; and then follows, the Heavens declare his Righteousness, and all the People see his Glory.

By the Glory of the Holy Angels, no doubt is meant those Myriads of the Heavenly Host, who with a Shout of Triumph shall attend him at this great Solemnity; and minister to him in the Transactions of this Dreadful Day. Thus St. Paul tells us, I Thes. 1. 2. He shall be revealed from Heaven with his mighty Angels; and Ch. 4. 16. The Lord himself shall descend from Heaven with a Shout; and the Prophet Daniel says, He beheld, and thousand Thou-sands Minister'd unto him, and ten thousand M 4 times

168 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.
times ten thousand stood before him, and the Judgment was set, and the Books were opened.

And what a glorious Appearance will there then be, when the Eternal Son of God, arrayed with Robes of Majesty, bright as the Light, shall be seen to come down from on high, making the Clouds bis Chariot, and walking upon the Wings of the Wind, shining with Beams of Glory like those of the Mid-day Sun; when now, no longer a Man of Sorrows and acquainted with Grief, he shall be encircled with a mighty Hoft of Angels, making frequent and loud Acclamations to the Honour of his ever Bleffed Name, and as he descends, the Voice of Arch. Angels, and loud Thunders, and Light. nings, preparing his way before him, and making the Earth Tremble at the presence of its God. When at length he shall have fix'd his Throne for Judgment, and in this Grandeur, and Resplendent Equipage, which infinitely exceeds all worldly Glory, every Exercise 1. 7. Shall fee him, and they also that pierced him: How ravish'd will every Good Christian be, to see his once despised afflicted Saviour, then become the Praise, and Worship, and Wonder of the Universe! his Manger, his Poverty, his Bloody Sweat, his Stripes, his Reproach-

vol.II
es, hi
chang
and A how might wipe comp
and p
of Gl laid t

cerity An to th what most nate will made what and . cious fultir they Abus Scou bear whic and will Rays which

and

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 169 es, his Thorns, his Cross; All this, then chang'd into the greatest Glory, Power, and Majesty, that ever the World beheld! how full of Joy unspeakable to see their mighty Deliverer come thus attended to wipe all Tears from their Eyes, and compleat their Happiness to Eternal Ages, and put upon their Heads those Crowns of Glory, which his great Bounty had laid up for those that love him in Sincerity!

1.II.

and

were

will Son

efty,

ome ouds

ings

Glothen

and engels,

tions

ame,

rch.

ight.

nim, the

h he udgplen-

ceeds

Eye

that

will once come

nder

verty,

oaches;

And on the other fide, (I tremble but to think it) what Shame, what Horror, what Agonies, will fill the Souls of those most miserable Wretches; whose obstinate Wickedness or Unbelief (which will be the same thing then) hath made this Judge their Enemy! With what Astonishment, Confusion of Face, and Anguish of Spirit, will those Malicious Jews, for Instance, and cruel infulting Soldiers, behold him; whom once they Hated, Mock'd and shamefully Abus'd, bound hard with Cords, and Scourged unmercifully! How will they bear the Splendors of that Countenance, which once in Scorn they Blindfolded, and Buffeted, and Spit upon? What will they think when they shall see bright Rays of Glory round those Temples, which once they crown'd with Thorns; and those very Hands and Arms now ftrengthfrengthned by Omnipotence, and ready to execute the just Vengeance of God upon them, which once they cruelly extended on the Cross, and through the tenderest Parts smote Nails to fasten him to the (as then esteem'd) Accursed Tree!

What equal, nay what greater Con. sternation will seize on those, who here were either Atheists or Insidels; or though they did pretend to be his Followers, and trod his Courts, and knelt before him, and lifted up their Hands and Eyes to him in his Sanctuary as to their God and Saviour, and had the Honour to be call'd by his Name; yet by a course of Wickedness which he hates, liv'd in open defiance of him, and by their profligate Conversation, not only disparag'd their Holy Profession, but made all the wondrous Things he did and fuffer'd, for their Happiness and Salvation, of none Esfect!

'Tit not to be express'd, nor now conceiv'd, what Misery will then be felt, by all that have refus'd Obedience to him; and either rejected him with inexcusable Insidelity, or Dishonour'd, and Griev'd him by an irreligious Life. And may our own Experience never make us more sensible of it, than we now are! which to prevent, there is no other way,

Vol.II
and fi
tue to ferve a towar
look

proce As t will Worl ing to least I every ness of Partic Angel ing di execu not or Judge tis all our V Thoug our L then Paul the hi make and t

Jesus.

way, than more and more to confirm and strengthen our Faith, and add Virtue to it, and sincerely endeavour te preserve a Conscience void of Offence both towards God and Man; and then we may look up to him with Comsort. But to proceed.

1.11

ady

God

ex.

the

sten

rfed

Con-

here

ough

vers,

efore

Eyes

God

to be fe of open

1gate

their

won-

their

Ef.

felt,

h in-

our'd,

Life.

never

other

way

As for the Process at this Great Day, t will be openly in the Face of the whole World, in exact Righteousness, according to every Man's Works, without the least Partiality or Respect of Persons; for every Eye shall fee him, and be a Witness of the Justice and Equity of every Particular of his Proceedings: the Bleffed Angels standing round about him attending diligently, and ready immediately to execute his most equal Sentence. not our Works only shall be brought into Judgment, (whether Secret or Publick, tis all one to the Omniscient Judge) but our Words likewise, and even our very Thoughts; for of every Idle Word our Lord has told us, we shall Mat. 12. 36. then give account; and St. Paul fays, he will bring to Light 1 Cor. 4. 5. the hidden things of Darkness, and make manifest the Counsels of the Heart; and that God shall judge the Secrets of Men in that Day by Christ Rom. 2. 16. Jesus.

172 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

so that then, every Thought, Word, and Work, shall be publickly Examin'd and Recompenc'd according to its Deferving; and no Highth or Eminence of Condition in any Respect whatever, shall Awe, or Bribe, this Just and Holy Judge; for there is no respect of Persons with God, and all things shall be transacted with impartial Justice before his dread Tribunal.

And what an intolerable Shame will it be to the Sinner, to have all his Filthiness laid open thus to all the intelligent Creation! how will he endure the Sight of his brutish Vices, when stripp'd of those Counterfeit Charms which once fo bewitch'd his Affections, and expos'd in their own Native Ugliness and Deformity! What a Confusion will the Hypocrite be in, the formal outside Saint, when his Disguise shall be taken of, and fecret Intemperance and Lust, A varice and Fraud, Pride and Envy, and Malice, discover'd, under the venerable Appearance of extraordinary Sanctity, and Christian Virtue? How blank'd will those Great Men be, who here met with nothing but Flattery, and Honour, and Applause, and Woe be to him, however authoriz'd, who dar'd to be their Reprover; when they shall see their Wickedness made as publick as that of their Vassals, their Guilt hightned by the great reat ad of Piety ; iven t ngs, a heir a

On Satisfa all the heir f cellent Meeki Conte denya on eitl becom and be matio Heave menti they cious to a S ness o in bei past, Amen

the \

was o

their

reat Advantages and Obligations they ad of being shining Examples of true Piety; and those false Praises that were iven them turn'd into stinging Upbraidings, and unspeakable Terrors of Concience; and now, no other Fruit of heir abus'd Greatness appear but this, hat mighty Men shall be mightily Tormented.

On the contrary, what Inexpressible Satisfaction will the Righteous feel, when Il the World shall see their Sincerity, heir fecret Piety and Charity, and extellent Temper of Mind; and when that Meekness and Humility, Patience and Contentedness, Moderation and Selfdenyal, which heretofore was look'd upon either as Hypocrify or Madness, shall become their Praise and their Glory, and be applauded with the loud Acclamations of all the bright Inhabitants of Heaven! If their Sins likewise shall be mention'd in that day (as some believe they will) 't will be to shew how efficacious fincere Repentance was in Order to a Sinner's forgiveness, and the greatness of the Divine Mercy and Goodness in being fo ready to Pardon what was past, upon a true forrow for it, and Amendment for the Future: that to all the World may fee how defirous God was of the Salvation of all Men, and that their Ruin must be charged upon themfelves:

ol.II.

Dece of Shall

dge; God,

im,
nal.
will lthigent

ght

once oos'd De-

Hy-

off,

and rable

tity, will

with and ever Re-

ick-

the

reat

172 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

so that then, every Thought, Word, and Work, shall be publickly Examin'd and Recompenc'd according to its Deferving; and no Highth or Eminence of Condition in any Respect whatever, shall Awe, or Bribe, this Just and Holy Judge; for there is no respect of Persons with God, and all things shall be transacted with impartial Justice before his dread Tribunal.

And what an intolerable Shame will it be to the Sinner, to have all his Filthiness laid open thus to all the intelligent Creation! how will he endure the Sight of his brutish Vices, when stripp'd of those Counterfeit Charms which once fo bewitch'd his Affections, and expos'd in their own Native Ugliness and Deformity! What a Confusion will the Hypocrite be in, the formal outside Saint, when his Disguise shall be taken of, and fecret Intemperance and Lust, A: varice and Fraud, Pride and Envy, and Malice, discover'd, under the venerable Appearance of extraordinary Sanctity, and Christian Virtue? How blank'd will those Great Men be, who here met with nothing but Flattery, and Honour, and Applause, and Woe be to him, however authoriz'd, who dar'd to be their Reprover; when they shall see their Wickedness made as publick as that of their Vassals, their Guilt hightned by the great Vol. II. reat ad of Piety given t ngs, heir that m

On Satisfa all th their f cellen Meek Conte denya on eit becon and b matic Heav ment they cious to a ness o in be past, Ame the

was

their

reat Advantages and Obligations they ad of being shining Examples of true Piety; and those false Praises that were even them turn'd into stinging Upbraidings, and unspeakable Terrors of Concience; and now, no other Fruit of their abus'd Greatness appear but this, that mighty Men shall be mightily Tormented.

ol.II.

Vord,

nin'd

De-

ce of

shall

dge;

God,

im-

nal.

will

Ithi-

gent

ight

of

once

b'so

De.

Hy-

aint,

off,

A:

and

able

ity,

will

with

and

ever

Re-

ick-

heir

the

reat

On the contrary, what Inexpressible Satisfaction will the Righteous feel, when all the World shall fee their Sincerity, their fecret Piety and Charity, and excellent Temper of Mind; and when that Meekness and Humility, Patience and Contentedness, Moderation and Selfdenyal, which heretofore was look'd upon either as Hypocrify or Madness, shall become their Praise and their Glory, and be applauded with the loud Acclamations of all the bright Inhabitants of Heaven! If their Sins likewise shall be mention'd in that day (as some believe they will) 'twill be to shew how efficacious sincere Repentance was in Order to a Sinner's forgiveness, and the greatness of the Divine Mercy and Goodness in being so ready to Pardon what was past, upon a true forrow for it, and Amendment for the Future: that to all the World may fee how defirous God was of the Salvation of all Men, and that their Ruin must be charged upon themfelves; felves; fince upon fuch easy reasonable Terms they might have been Happy if they would. And how will this add new Degrees of Torment to the Wicked, to see how merciful a God they have made their Enemy; and that with less Pains and Trouble they might have been sav'd, than they have taken to be sor ever Damn'd!

And if this, of the mention of the Sims of the Righteous at that Day be true; how exceeding careful should we all be to avoid the very least Appearance of Evil in what we think, or speak, or do, because every thing shall be brought into Judgment; and some Shame doubtless will attend the Publication of whatever was finful, tho' the Sting be taken out by a sincere Repentance.

I come now to the Close of all, which is the feveral Sentences that shall be past, and the manner of their Execution. After the Books have been thus open'd, as St.

John expresses it, and every Rev. 20.12. one's Desert sully known, then will the just and equal Judge, with the most endearing Sweetness, first pass this enravishing Sentence upon those on his Right hand, Come ye Mat. 25.34. blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the Foundation of the World; and instant-

Vol.I ly wi find t Cloud Air , Affeff of th vils, ment the I Saint. to con of the godlil Paul that t ge not At those fed, what ful N fhall Hoft in th ver with heav Righ they and fus,

ceed

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 173

ly with ineffable Transport, they shall find themselves Caught up in the Clouds to meet the Lord in the 17bes. 4.17.

Air, and joyn with him as Assessor in the final Condemnation of the Wicked, both Men and De-

ol.II

nable

py if add

cked.

have n less

been

e for

e Sins

true:

ell be ice of

r do.

nt in.

oubt.

what.

taken

which

paft,

as St.

every

then

udge,

, first

those

ze ye

it the

from

tant-

ly

Af-

of the Wicked, both Men and Devils, according to that Prophecy of Enoch, mentioned by St. Jude, 14, 15. Behold the Lord cometh with ten Thousands of his Saints, to execute Judgment upon all, and to convince all that are Ungodly among them, of their ungodly Deeds, which they have ungodlily committed: to which that of St. Paul agrees, 1 Cor. 6. 2, 3. Know ye not that the Saints shall Judge the Worla? know genot that we shall judge Angels?

Aud what new Life and Vigour will those most cheering Words Come ye Blefsed, Inspire into their Happy Souls? what Raptures will they feel at that blifsful Meeting in the Clouds, when they shall be welcom'd by the Triumphant Hoft of Saints and Angels, and embrac'd in the Arms of their dearest Saviour, never more to be separated from him, but with him to enjoy to all Eternity those heavenly Pleasures that are at God's Right-hand for ever more! How will they bless their former Pious Labours, and all their Suffering for the fake of Jefus, which are now repaid with an exceeding and Eternal weight of Glory! How 176 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. How will they love the Memory of their Spiritual Guides, who have been faithful to them, and fhew'd them the Right Way to fo great Bleffedness! And how will those Spiritual Guides rejoyce to see fuch happy Fruit of their Labours, and to deliver up their Charge in Safety to the great Shepherd and Bishop of our Souls! And how will all be inflamed with Holy Ardours of Defire and Love, at the fight of fuch infinite Goodness, and fuch infinite Excellence and Glo-

After this, the Divine Judge, accompanied with that most August Assembly that will then stand on each side of his Throne, will proceed to pronounce this terrible Sentence upon the Miserable Wretches on his Left hand, and in which the fallen Angels likewife will be involved, Depart from me ye Mat. 25. 41. Cursed, into everlasting Fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels. " Depart from me the Fountain " of Happiness and Perfection, of Life " and Joy; from me, who once dy'd " for you in Torments, that you might " escape those Flames in which you now " for ever must Welter and be Tortured. " Depart into those dismal Abodes preof pared for the accurfed Spirits of Dark-

" nefs, which now; for your being like

" them

ol.II. the lion

Port Ete

pair have grac

ten and

And nd to her, b enten ounce who l re to Heaver reat n pith fi

Vorks ind t udge els, a hat d hem in ball be

Agree phet A eth tha

and all Wicked

someth.

ol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 177 them in base Ingratitude and Rebellion against God, must become your Portion: Depart into the Regions of Eternal Fire, and Horror, and Defpair, which you can't but own you have justly deserv'd, by despising the gracious Tenders that have been often made you, of everlasting Life and Happiness and Glory. And now, nothing remains to put an nd to this Great Day and Time togeher, but the Execution of this dreadful entence. Soon therefore after it is proounced upon those accursed Creatures who have fo throughly deferv'd it, we re told by St. Peter that the Heavens shall pass away with a 2Per. 3.10. reat noise, and the Elements melt ith fervent Heat, and the Earth and the Works that are therein shall be burnt up; nd the Son of Man (faith the great [udge] Shall fend forth his Angels, and they shall gather them Mat. 13. hat do iniquity, and shall cast 41, 42. hem into a Furnace of Fire, there ball be Wailing and Gnashing of Teeth. Agreeable to that of the Prophet Malachy, behold the Day com- Mal. 4. 1. eth that shall burn like an Oven. and all the Proud, yea and all they that do Wickedly, shall be stubble; and the Day that someth, faith the Lord of Hosts, Shall burn thoms

51.II.

their

thful

ight

how

o fee

and

y to

our

med

ove,

refs.

Gloom-

nbly

his

ance

fera-

d in ll be e ge

pre-An-

tain

Life ly'd

ight

NOI

red.

pre-

ark-

like

them up, that it shall leave them neither Root nor Branch; but not so as utterly to Destroy them, for that would put an end to their Misery, which we are affured thall be Eternal, and therefore St. John tells us, then shall Men Rev. 9. 6. seek Death and shall not find it, and shall flee from them; and accordingly the Punishment of the other World is ex.

press'd by Eternal Death, to signify the extremest, but never sinished Agonies of the Damn'd in Hell.

And would to God we could all be perfwaded, feriously and often to revolve these Terrors in our Minds, and avoid those sinful Courses that will infallibly bring them upon us, before it be too late!
That seeing this terrible end of all things is at hand, and will steal upon us, as Thies in the Night, and, as the Parable that occasion'd this Discourse assures us, we know not the time when our Great Lord will come; we would observe his Gracious good Advice, and Watch and Pray, les coming suddainly be find us Sleeping! Since we really look for such things, and all this material Frame of the World shall be dissolved (as St. Peter says) be dissolv'd, (as St. Peter fays,) 2 Pet. 3. 11. What manner of Persons ought we to be in all Holy Conversation and Godliness! looking beyond the present per-

Vol.I

perish

Worl

neare

chief

great

or He

Takin

any tin

ed wit ness,

and so

as a Si

on the therefo

accoun

that f

the So

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 179 perishing Scene of things, to the Eternal World, to which ever Hour brings us nearer and nearer; and making it our chief Buliness to prepare against that great Decisive Day, when either Heaven or Hell-will be made our Portion for ever. Taking heed to our selves, lest at any time our Hearts be overcharg- Lu. 21. 34. ed with Surfeiting and Drunken- &c. ness, and the Cares of this Life, and so that Day come upon us unawares: For as a Snare, shall it come on all them that dwell on the Face of the whole Earth. Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted Worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man. fixed for endless does .. And fince that I for come will this to Mertis of my Blelled adviour, be toliaited lieper, as well as everiafting, willis!

is orbeitable by an outenate Course of on O'grant that I may haff in the Way in loads to it with all populate way apportunities foethion, and endeavour to audity his for sts oure Enjoyments with the atmost Di

. digence and Application, and thene nothin too on the to do or lugger that I may arealand and rising nothing here below, but is it at untnierruvied frappinele and Cons

ol.II.

either

ly to n end

affur.

e St.

Men

nd it,

Death

y the s ex-

y the

les of

e per-

Volve

avoid llibly

late!

hings

45 1

arable

es us,

Lord

cious

, les

Since

nd all

Thall

fays,) eht ve

n and refent

per-

eon with the my take arreval at a stable a Bullite an A H B Alove! 2 M.

That is the only Rection of Stabilite an

The PRAYER.

. Strategier

Day, when either Heaven.

e made pur Portion for ever.

MOST Gracious, and All-wise God! who hast plac'd us here in a state of Probation for a suture Life, and as Pilgrims journying to our Eternal Home; make me every day more and more sensible, I beseet thee, that all things here are Flitting and Uncertain, that the present World is not my place of Settlement, but I am travelling apace to that which is, and where I shall be fixed for endless Ages.

And since that Life to come will, thro' the Merits of my Blessed Saviour, be infinitely happy, as well as everlasting, unless I make it otherwise by an obstinate Course of Sin; O grant that I may insist in the Way that leads to it with all possible Care and Circumspection, and endeavour to qualify my self for its pure Enjoyments with the utmost Diligence and Application, and think nothing too much to do or suffer that I may attaining and value nothing here below, but as it is conductive to my safe arrival at that Blissul Kingdom above!

That is the only Region of Stability and Rest, of uninterrupted Happiness and Glory

Vol.II
O there this W
me to r
my Aff Treasur
in the Devoti

ler to thased nost proper gain to thou a visbing ollow Come, nd of niseral ne for ind the But

o delas

ppear usness, us We

o mar

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 181

O therefore, wean me from this Perishing, this Wicked miserable World, and enable me to raise my thoughts to Heaven, and fix my Affections there unmoveably, where my Treasure is, and vigorously to press after it in the ways of sincere Holiness, with great Devotion and Ardent Love!

Plen .II. Reddings

are is Compation with

Thou Blessed Jesus, art my Divine Lealer to that heavenly Country, and hast purhased for me an Inheritance in it with thy nost precious Blood, and art gone before o prepare a place for me, and wilt come gain to receive me to thy self, that where hou art, there I may be also.

O Dearest, Gracious Lord, what enravising Words are those! Master, we will bllow thee whither soever thou goest? Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly, make no delay to deliver me from this Body of Sin, and of Death, and put an end to this my niserable Exile from thee! O, do but sit ne for thy Divine Presence and Enjoyment, and then make no long tarrying!

But who may abide the Day of thy Coming, and who shall stand when thou ppearest, to judge the World in Righte-usness, and give to every one according to its Works! And shouldst thou be extreme o mark what is done amiss, the best of

N:

14.5

God! te of

ol.II.

eseech and not e me

elling all be

o' the nitely make Sin;

that cum-

Di-

in it,

isful

lory;

us must fall under the strict Scrutiny. But there is Mercy with thee, therefore shalt thou be feared; To thee doth my Soul slee, O Lord, my trembling guilty Soul, and in thy Word thy gracious Promise of forgiveness, upon my true Repentance, is my Trust: For I know

Psal. 130. there is Compassion with thee, therefore grant me true Repentance and thy Holy Spirit, that the rest of my Life here after may be Pure and Holy, in watchful expectation of that time of Recompence; that I may tast away the Works of Darkness, and put on the Armour of Light: that so when thou shalt come again in thy glorious Majesty to judge both the Quick and the Dead, I may rise to the Life Immortal, and being sound acceptable in thy Sight, may be received into thy eternal Joy; thro' thy own Merits and Mediation, who livest and Reignest with the Father, and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, World without end. Amen.

Exile from thee! O, og but his by Detrue Presence and Enterinent.

who may abide the Day of thy sons, and who thall frand when thou

" Works! And bould't thou be extreme mark what is done amily the best of make no long tarrying.

ARAY and give to every one according in

Vol.II.

Of a

Fefus

which

Har

ly f

white

to t

Simon

fees h

Eat v

proba

rathe

may

ting

Civi

Tews

they

havi

And w

ol.II

But efore my

Pro.

thee,

d thy

here-

that

, and when

ajefty

1 may

found

d into and the the

God,

IRA.

PARABLE VI.

Of a Creditor that had two Debtors.

Luke vii. 41, &c.

Jesus said, there was a certain Creditor, which had two Debtors; the one owed Five Hundred Pence, and the other Fifty.

And when they had nothing to Pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him most?

Simon answeed and said, I suppose that he to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, thou hast rightly Judged, this. One of the Pharafees having defired our Lord to V. 36.

Eat with him, (out of Curiofity, Mat 22. probably, or fome Ill Defign, Lu. 14. 1. rather than true Respect; as may be collected from his omitting those usual Expressions of Civility that were always paid by the fews to those they had a value for, when they entertain'd them;) And our Lord having accepted the Invitation, hoping

Eternal Good: It was foon nois'd about the Town that Jesus sat at Meat in the Pha. rifee's House. And indeed, it was a thing that might well be the Subject of the Peoples Discourse, that Christ and a Pha. rifee should be so friendly: that a Pharifee should invite one to his Table who had fo sharply and fo often inveigh'd against the Sect he was of, and openly expos'd their Vileness and Hypocrify; and that Christ should vouchfafe his Company to one of those Serpents and Vipers, as he once call'd them, and against whom he had denounced fomany dread-Mat. 23. ful Woes, and who he could not but know hated him mortally, and were always contriving his Destruction. This was fo remarkable, that it might well be taken notice of, and told about the City, especially it being the first time, that we read of, of Jesus and a Pharisee eating together, tho with Publicans and Sinners he had often done so. But our Blessed Master; who came to seek and to fave that which was lost, was ready to embrace every occasion that was offered him, of Promoting the Salvation even of his most inveterate Enemies; and he that was the great Physician of Souls, was best pleased when he visited those that to improve that Opportunity to the Man's

184 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Vol.II that h who Partia

Savio

was a his B those point as occ Adva

> (two ed wi Parab

in La

to Go
But '
to do and to we a
for F
the S
shall Convenient Gove

is fer

Edif

Grac

Vol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 185 that had most need of his Help, be they who they would, without Prejudice or Partiality, as became the compassionate Saviour of the World.

II.

an's

out

ba.

ning

the

Pha-

rifee

had

linft

b'soo

that

y to

s he

n he

read.

could mor-

his

able,

t be-

f, of

tho'

often Ma-

and to was

t was

ation; and

Souls,

thole

that

And we may observe, that when he was at such Entertainments, he made it his Business to instruct the Company, those especially that invited him, in some point or other of his Heavenly Doctrine, as occasion offered, and was most for their Advantage; as we may see particularly in Luk. 11. 37, &c. and Luk. 14. 1, &c. (two other times after this, when he dined with a Pharisee) and likewise in this Parable which is now before us.

An excellent Example this, and would to God it were more followed than it is! But 'twas his Meat and Drink to do the Will of him that fent him, Job, 4.34. and to finish his Work; and when we are inspired with the like true Zeal for Religion, the Honour of God, and the Spiritual Good of our Brethren, we shall likewise endeavour to make our Conversation as useful as we can, and with Prudence (which must Direct and Govern every thing) to feason it with Salt, with fomething that col. 4,6. is ferious and good to the use of Epe. 4.29. Edifying, that it may minister Grace to the Hearers.

ndiday pecilons.

186 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II

Now there was a Woman in the -V. 37. City which was, or had been a Sinner, one of a Lewd Life, a notorious Prostitute, to whom the Jews gave the Title of Sinners, as a Brand of peculiar Infamy, fo just a Notion had they of that foul Sin; and when she knew that Jesus fat at Meat in the Pharifee's House, as un. welcome a Guest as she could not but know the should be to the Pharifee, (which fort of Righteous People in their own Conceits, could not endure the Sight of fuch Wretches, and esteem'd them. felves greatly Polluted, should they chance to touch them) the refolves to go where that Bleffed Person was, who by his admirable Sermons had awaken'd her Conscience into a true Sense of her great Wickedness, and reclaim'd her from her former most Vile and Destructive Course of Life; and shew some Expressions of Love and Gratitude to him, in hopes likewife of hearing more of his heavenly Difcourse, which now she relish'd above all ons things. And with her the

_v. 38. brought an Abablaster Box of Ointment, and stood at his Feet behind him, weeping whole Floods of Tears of Penitence, of Joy, and Love; even to plenty enough to wash his Feet withal, (which the rude Pharifee had neglected to call for Water for) and then with great TenTen rence Head

Vol.

with T could notic the ' raifec rifee an O he wer Propi and n eth bi fuch ner. our S ty P prom her Cont guag fo h done ture

B know that anfw

there

phet

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 187 Tenderness, and Affection, and Reverence, she wiped them with the Hairs of her Head, and kiffed them, and anointed them with the Ointment.

II

the n a

ous

the liar

hat

esus

un-

but fee,

heir

ight

em-

ance here

ad-

Con-

rear

her urfe

ns of like-

Difre all

the

Oint-

ehind rs of n to ithal,

ected

great Ten-

This extraordinary Occurrence, as it could not but make all wonder that took notice of it, especially those that knew the Woman's former Character: fo it raifed this reflecting thought in the Pharifee (and glad he was that he had fo fair . an Occasion for it) This Man, if he were, as he pretends to be, a v. 39. Prophet, would have known who, and what manner of Woman this is that toucheth him, and not have fuffered her to take fuch Freedoms with him, for she is a Sinner. Thus did this Hypocrite measure our Saviour by himfelf, and as his haughty Pride, and felf Esteem, would have prompted him to do, even to have thrust her away with the greatest Scorn and Contempt, faying in the Pharifaical Language, stand off, for I am holier than thou; to he fuppos'd our Saviour would have done, had he known what a vile Creature the was; and because he did not, therefore he concluded him to be no Prophet. The state of the state of

But our Lord, who was fo far from not knowing what fort of a Woman this was, thathe knew the proud Pharifee's Thoughts, answered them in the Parable above re-

188 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. cited; and faid, Simon, Ihave somewhat to Say unto thee; and he said Master -V. 40. Say on. There was a certain Creditor that had two Debtors, the one ought bim five hundred Pence, and the other fifty. and when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both : tell me therefore which will love him most? Simon answered and said, I suppose that he to whom he forgave most. And he faid unto him, thou hast rightly judged. And then to apply the Parable home, he turned to the Woman, (who was overjoy'd, no doubt, to fee him take fuch notice of her) and said unto Simon, feest thou this Woman? This poor self-condemn'd. Sinner whom thou fo despisest, and valuest thy Righteous self so much above her: I entred into thine House, up. on thy invitation, and yet, fo wanting wert thou in common Civility to me (which we fee the meek lowly Jesus could take notice of, and which none of his Disciples therefore should be failing in, but be Courteous to all Men) thou gavest me no Water for my Feet, " Pet. 3. 8. as if that usual cheap Refreshment were too good for me; but she hath wash'd my Feet with much more precious Liquor, her Tears, and wip'd them with a Towel that never before was feen to be put to such aUse, even with the Hairs of her Head. Thou gavest me no

bento

Vol. II Kėfs, hadst such a invite of kind come fince the with t

Oil the Shew'd worth > preffic and L Where Sins n loved n

" As

foc wit

" Pric

" high " as g " bee

bet

her give

Kis

Vol. II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 189 Kis, when I first entred thy House, thou hadst not Charity enough for that, to fuch a one as I; whom though thou dift invite to eat with thee, yet 'twas not out of kindness, but that thy Table might become a Snare to me; but this Woman, ince the time that I came in, hath not ceas'd, with true Gratitude and Affection, to kifs my very Feet. Mine Head with common Oil thou dist not anoint; that would have hew'd much more Respect than I was worthy of, but this Woman hath anointed in Feet with Precious Ointment, as an Exbression of the great Reverence and Love that she has for me. v. 47. Wherefore I say unto thee, her Sins which are many, are forgiven, for she loved much; but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little. As if he had said, "As great a Sinner as this Woman hath been, and whom therefore thou dost " fo contemn and despise; and art ready " with much Haughtiness and Spiritual Pride, to thank God that thou art not " so vile as she is, and valuest thy self so highly because of thy greater Holiness; " as great a Sinner as this Woman hath "been, let me tell thee, she is now much better than thy felf. Her Sins, upon her hearty Sorrow for them, are for-"given her; and because they are so, * THERE-

I.II.

at to

aster

ditor

ught

ifty;

inkly

bich

Said.

most.

ghth

rable

Was

take

mon,

con.

fest,

nuch

up-

ting

me Tefus

e of

iling

u ga-

Feet,

resh-

me;

nore

them

feen the.

e . 110

Kis,

190 Practical Discourses upon the Volli.

" * THEREFORE (be So the Original " loveth much. The In. Word fignifies, as well " vitation I have given as for, and is so used " to all that are mean in several places of and heavy laden with Scripture, and should be fo Translated bere " the Burthen of their " Iniquities, to come to ME, that I may " give them rest; and the Sense my pub. lick Discourses have wrought in her, " of the intolerable weight of that Bur. " then, having made her weary of it, and defirous to throw it off, and en-" clined her to apply her felf to me for " Help; she hath found Mercy, and she " knows she hath, and this, (as well it " may) causes these great Expressions of " her Love, and Joy, and Gratitude; " mixed with a Holy Sorrow and Con-" trition. But as for thee who thinkelt " thou standest in little or no need of " Pardon, or if thou didft, wouldft difdain to receive a Fromise of it from me; " therefore thy Love's as little to me, and "thou haft express'd thy felf according-" ly. Her Debt was great, and the " own'd it, and was deeply fensible of "her utter Inability to discharge it; " and therefore was the more fensible of "the Mercy of having it freely, forgiven " her, and hath made a fuitable return of Thankfulness and Love. But thing " thou FIFFEE

Vol.I

" for

" on " felf

" we

" abl

After again Pardo forgize Peace. his make ceiving evil of encountry and the peace of the peace o that a pen Mind Shew

ing ti

(moak

him fo

Hathis H

I mig Great

lies 1

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 191
"thou thinkest is small, if any; and there"fore thou art but little affected with "the Promise I make of forgiveness up"on thy belief in me, and deemest thy "self but little obliged to me for it: tho?
"were thy Debt as small as thou thinkest" it to be, thou likewise art as utterly un"able to discharge it of thy self, as she
"was.

After this, Jesus again and v.48,50.

again assured the Woman of her

ILlo

lbe

e In.

iven

meary

with their

may pub.

her,

Bur-

f it;

l en-

e for d she ell it

ons of

ude;

Connkest

ed of t dif-

n me;

, and ding-

d she ole of

e it;

ble of

given

eturn

thine

thou

again affured the Woman of her Pardon; and said unto her, thy Sins are forgiven, Thy Faith bath saved thee, go in Peace. Thus did the Son of God imitate his most Merciful Father, in kindly receiving all that truly turn to him from the evil of their doings; in cherishing and encouraging Repentance, and not breaking the bruised Reed, nor quenching the moaking Flax; and in making the Heart that was broken to rejoyce. Thus was a penitent Sinner preferred before a high Minded Pharisee, with all his outward Shews of Holiness; and he that exalted himself was abased, and she that Humbled her felf was Exalted.

Having thus shewn the Occasion of this Parable, together with the true meaning of it, and the Context relating to it; I might, in discoursing upon it, shew the Greatness of the Debt, that, as Sinners, lies upon the Best of us; and our utter

Ina-

Inability of our felves ever to discharge it; and the wonderous Goodness and Mercy of God in so freely remitting it, thro' Jesus Christ: But having formerly considered these Particulars up.

Vol. I. on the Parable of the merciful Page. 125. King, Mat. 28. 23. I shall now only shew what Return we should make for such great and undeserved Grace and Favour, as the compassionate God hath been pleased to shew us, thro' the Sufferings and Mediation of his Blessed Son; what Love and Gratitude, what true Contrition and Compunction of Spirit it ought to cause in us, and how this Godly Sorrow, and this Gratitude and Love, should influence our Lives and Conversations.

And what less than such Affections as these, should be excited by this wondrous Mercy and Goodness of God to us thro Christ? who forgave us so vast a Debt when we had nothing to pay, and restor'd us to a state of Grace and Favour with him, from a State of Wrath, and endless Woe, which we were in before! This as it should work in us the greatest Degrees of Shame and Sorrow, and sharpest Remorse, for the base Returns we have made to so Good a God, our greatest Benefactor and best Friend; whose Will we still oppose, whose Holy and Just Laws

Laws
Great
him, confta
us fucl
cy of ful wid fet our dours
ing th
feth ki

ur Re s this Heave is Me hat wo ve refl ngrati And reater v and reatn readfi rdent inite (rom to nent o

Will elf by Just

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 193 Laws we still Transgress, and whose Great Enemy we still join with against im, notwithstanding all his Kindness constantly shewn to us: So it should give es fuch a charming Idea of the Excelleney of the Divine Mercy to fuch ungrateful wicked Creatures as we are; as should et our Breasts all on a Flame with the Ardours of Divine Love; admiring and adoing that Love of God to us, which paseth knowledge, and gratefully devoting our whole felves to his Service for the fuure. And this will Increase and Persect ur Repentance; for 'tis fuch Godly Sorrow s this, proceeding from the Love of our Heavenly Father, and a feeling Sense of is Mercy and Goodness to us; hat worketh Repentance to Salva- 2 Cor. 7. 10. ion never to be repented of, when ve reflect upon our horrid Baseness and ngratitude to him.

II.lo

arge

and

g it,

nerly

up.

rciful

now

We

ferv.

affiow us,

of his itude,

action

how

itude s and

drous

thro

Debt

nd re-

avour

d end.

This

st De-

arpelt

e have

At Be-

Will

Juft Laws And the truer our Repentance is, the reater will be our Love; the more deep-yand intimately sensible we are of the reatness and vileness of our Sins, and the readful Consequences of them, the more redently shall we Love, and Bless that ininite Goodness, which hath delivered us rom the Guilt, the Power and Punishment of them, and reconcil'd us to himself by the Blood of his dear Son.

Thefe

194 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

These were the Passions which caus'd those Floods of Tears which this convert. ed Sinner poured out upon the Feet of her Saviour: With this Pathetic Mixture of Sorrow and Shame, and Love and Gratitude, and Holy Purposes and Resolutions for the time to come, was her Soul fill'd, after the happy Change was made in it, by the Grace of God. And thus should it be with us, who partake of the fame Mercy, from the fame most Compassionate Good Being, who defireth not the Death of any Sinner, how Great and Provoking foever, but rather that he may turn from his Wickedness and live.

But how should this Love and Gratitude of ours, this Contrition and Compunction of Spirit, Influence our Lives and Conversations? True Love and Gratitude will not be idle, but always doing fome thing that shall express the fincerity of those Affections, according to the Person's best Ability; and true Repentance is no barren thing, but must and will be continually bringing forth Fraits that Fohn 3. 8. are Meet and Proper for it: And what those genuine Fruits of Repentance are, and what those Expresfions of Love and Gratitude, we shall now confider. To begin with the Fruit of Repentance.

Vol.

tion i and e ednel Leffe tion (ing it is de Grief this w penta the H his pa his g that c endea Sins v conde ted? Fault with, pent in his ness o ved t ly ac tude more fended accep for h

and a

I. The

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 195

1. The first of which that I shall mention is, the penitent Sinner's humble, free and entire Confession of his past great Wickedness to God, without endeavouring to Lessen or Excuse it, and unseign'd Detestation of it, and firm Refolution of forfaking it for ever after; And when the Soul is deeply affected with true Shame and Grief for Sin, and repents in Earnest, this will naturally follow. For true Repentance is a Contrition, or breaking of the Heart of a Sinner, upon Account of his past Vileness, and base Ingratitude to his good God. Now, can we suppose that one of a truly broken Spirit would endeavour to conceal or extenuate those Sins which he so heartily grieves for, and condemns himself for having committed? Men use to Palliate and Lessen Faults that they don't intend to part with, and confequently don't indeed Repent of: but he that is fully convinced in his Judgment, of the great Wickedness of his Sins, and is in earnest resolved to leave them utterly, will readily acknowledge the inexcusable Turpitude of them, even before Men, much more before the Searcher of all Hearts, and against whom he hath chiefly offended. And no better Plea, or more acceptable Apology can a Sinner make for himself to God, than this; Nay, CIS

l.II. us'd vert-

her re of rati-

ill'd,

ould fame

onate Death

oking from

itude uncti-Contitude

fomety of rion's

is no conti-

s that And nits of

xpres. Thall Fruits

The

196 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. 'tis the only one that will stand him in any stead. For to endeavour to hide his Guilt, or make it less than indeed it is, and fet a fair Gloss upon his Wicked Actions, or at least take off some of the Deformity of them by Artful Methods of Extenuation; this is not only Vain and Foolish, because all things lie naked and open to the Eyes of God, who fees the inmost Secrets of our Souls, and knows all our Defigns, and Intentions, and is acquainted with all the Circumstances and Aggravations of our Sins better than we our felves; but 'tis highly Provoking too, as if we thought God might be impos'd upon by a fair fmooth Story, and his Justice blinded by the Arts of Oratory, and his Vengeance diverted by the Plea of Unavoidable Infirmity and Surprize, and fuch like thin Coverings of Guilt: and 'tis a certain Sign too, that the Sinner is far from being fo Humble and fo Penitent as he should be, when he stands thus upon his own Defence and Vindication.

But he that with Shame and Confufion of Face prostrates himself at the Feet of Jesus, as the Woman here in the Gospel did, and there lays open all his Vileness without Reserve, and Bewails and Laments it, with bitter Sighs and Tears;

Vol.I that I of it, the In es him God, can ho Sufferi Blood on the and m ferve come: s a P tests a the Pa Cleans One, blot ou them n this not re ous Co rave n elves, onfess o forg rom all

grees

He that ot Pro

th then

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 197 that labours for no Excuses or Palliations of it, and confesses not the Fact only, but the Iniquity of the Fact, and acknowledges himself worthy of the fiercest Anger of God, that he deserves no Favour, nor can hope for any, but thro' his Saviour's Sufferings for him, and the Merit of his Blood; and fo casts himself intirely upon the Divine Mercy, with Repeated and most fincere Resolutions, that he will ferve him more faithfully for the time to come: He that doth thus, shews that he s a Penitent indeed, that he truly Detests and Loaths his Sin, as well as fears the Punishment of it, and desires to be Cleans'd as well as Pardon'd. And to such One, God will be very Gracious, and blot out all his Iniquities and Remember them no more; provided he continues in this Good Mind, and does not relapse again into his vici- 1 Fobn. 1. ous Courses. If we say that we 8.9. have no Sin, says St. John, we deceive our elves, and the Truth is not in us; but if we onfess our Sins, God is Faithful and Just o forgive us our Sins, and to cleanle us rom all Unrighteousness; to which grees that of the wife King; Pro. 28.13. He that covereth his Sins Shall ot Prosper, but whoso confesseth and forsakth them, shall have Mercy.

II.

in

ide d it

ked

the

ain

ked

fees

OWS

d is

than king

im-

and

Plea

rize, uilt:

Sin-

nd fo

tands dica-

onfu-

Feet

Gof-

Vile-

s and rears;

To

198 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II

To what has been faid of a Sinner's thus confessing his Sins to God, it may not be amiss to add something concerning Confession to those that represent him here in Spiritual Things, the Ministers of Religion; which together with absolution where it may be had, tho' for very good Reasons our Church does not think necessary to Salvation, as the Church of Rome does, yet recommends

*See the first Exbortation in the Communion Office, before the Celebration; and the Rubric in the Office for visiting the Sick, just before the Absolution. very great Use and Benefit in the most Important Work of Repentance, especially in their Approaches to the Holy Sacrament, and the time of Sickness and Danger of Death *

For Repentance, being absolutely necessary to Salvation, (tho' Auricular Confession is not) and there being so many fatal Mistakes daily made about it; it is certainly the wisest Course, in this as well as other Cases of the greatest Concernand Dissiculty, to have the Assistance of Persons that are best able to direct us to true and safe Measures. Now such, in Assis of Religion, are the Clergy, who are by God constituted the Guides of our Souls, and who by their constant Attendance to things

Vol.II things posed than Way; culiar tious their] too P voura let Th versio marte and f (tho' pass a felves despai Reaso (as t well : a true we o Now that fet ov our S need or for who who

Matt

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 199 things of this Nature, may well be fupposed to have a greater insight into them, than those whose Business lies another Way; and may likewife hope for a peculiar Bleffing from God, in the confcientious Discharge of what he hath made their Duty. We are generally apt to be too Partial to our felves, and judge too favourably of our own Actions, and so may let That pass with a very slight Animadversion, which yet indeed deserves the Imartest Correction, and deepest Sorrow; and fome there are on the other hand, (tho' but few) that are too fevere, and pass a more dreadful Sentence upon themselves than God will pass, and sink into despair, when really they have great Reason to hope well: so that very often (as to the State of our Spiritual, as well as bodily Health,) another may give a truer Judgment of our Condition than we our felves, and be of great Use to us. Now, who fo fit to be that other, as he that by God's Providence is particularly set over us for that purpose, to watch for our Souls, and Administer whatever is needful to preferve them to Eternal Life; or some one of the same Holy Function, who acts by the same Authority, and of whose Prudence and Ability in such Matters we have Reason to be well satisfied?

ol.II

ner's may

ncer.

esent Mini.

with

o' for

s not

the ends

as of

Be-

por-

ance,

Ap-

v Sa-

neof

er of

ne-

Con-

itis

well

nand

Per-

true

ffairs

e by

ouls,

ce to

nings

But

200 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

But now; how can a Man direct in an Affair, that he knows little or nothing of? How can a Physician be expected to cure a Distemper that is conceal'd from him? How can a Surgeon Heal a Deep and Dangerous Wound, that he has not feen, and fearch'd to the Bottom? He may give present Ease it may be by some general Application, but if he proceed no further it may be Mortal for all that.

So in the Difeases, the Wounds and Bruifes, and Putrifying Sores of the Soul, for which Repentance, joyn'd with True Faith, is the only Remedy; unless the Ghoftly Physician knows what 'tis that Wounds and Wasts the Conscience, and has it without Referve laid open to him, how can he judge of its Malignity? and consequently must be mightily at a loss how to apply himself to the Cure. How can I tell that fuch a one has a truly Gody Sorrow for his Sins, and fuch as will work Repentance to Salvation, unless I am particularly inform'd what his Sins have been? And if I don't know what Judgment to give of his Repentance, how can I ease his Mind of the Scruples, the Fears, and Uncertainties that perplex him, and administer true, solid, lasting Comfort to him, and relieve the Agonies of his anxious Soul? some general Discourses may perhaps skin over the Wounds of his Con-

Vol.II fcience while grow more

Th great fession gion Dark lofe t and H greate which

rable

An comn every of La draw us of Relig our we : that vatio us fro mitt dang Dife mean

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 201 science, and give him a little Quiet for a while: But in the mean time they will but grow worse within, and soon become more painful and dangerous than ever.

II.lo

n an

hing

d to

from Deep

not He

ome

ceed

at.

and Soul,

with nless that

and him,

and

How

Godly

work

parhave

udg.

r can

ears,

nfort

anx-

may Con-

fci-

Thus we may in brief see of what great Use and Benesit, particular Consession of Sins to the Ministers of Religion is; how they must proceed in the Dark without it, and the Sinners Soul lose the great Advantage of their Wise and Pious Directions in a matter of the greatest Concern in the World, and in which, if a Man miscarries, he is miserable for ever.

And therefore I can't but feriofluy recommend it, as our Church does, to every Christian; especially upon the Bed of Languishing, when their great Change draws nigh. And let not Shame deprive us of one of the greatest Comforts of Religion, the Advice and Affistance of our Spiritual Guides, at a time when we shall stand in need of all the Helps that can be, to promote our Eternal Salvation. And if Shame would not keep us from getting the best Help, and submitting to it, should our Bodies be in danger by never fo vile and shameful a Disease; methinks Shame should by no means make us run the Hazard of the Eter202 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II Eternal Loss of our Souls, rather than disclose the Diseases of them in order to their Cure.

Besides, which will affect us with the greatest Shame think we, the making known our Sins to one Grave, Discreet and Good Person, that he may affist us in our Repentance, and the clearing our Consciences of their Guilt; or their being exposed to all the World at the Day of Judgment, to our everlasting Shame and Confusion? And therefore, if the Comparatively little Shame that will be caus'd by the former (and which indeed is fo far from being really a Shame to us, that 'tis our great Commendation) if this will prevent the intolerable Shame and Torment of the latter, (as 'tis very probable it will) methinks of the two Shames we should choose that, which is beyond Comparison the least. And thus much for the first Fruit of sincere Repentance, an Humble, Free, and Full Confession of our past Wickednesses, and that not to God only, but to those Holy Persons who have the Care of our Souls committed to them by him, and are his Substitutes in the great Affair of guiding us to a Happy Eternity.

Vol.II II.

will be spection that a those forme Gust a his Co

For tily co an A and to a deep Vilend but w Temp fludio proba

it.

As Rebel and I be to Ingrafuch flingi be at to hi his P firml

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 203

II. A second Fruit of True Repentance will be great Carefulness and Circumspection to avoid all Appearance of Sin, that greatest of Evils, for the Future; those Sins especially which the Penitent formerly committed with the greatest Gust and Pleasure, and which now so gall his Conscience and disturb his Mind.

For no Man that sincerely and hearily condemns himself for such and such an Action, and is really asham'd of it, and truly grieved and sorry for it, from a deep and feeling Sense of its Baseness and Vileness, and Inexcusable Wickedness; but will be exceeding watchful against all Temptations to it for the Future, and studiously avoid everything that might probably lead to a fresh Commission of
it.

As suppose, a Man that had been a Rebel and a Traitor to a most Gracious and Beneficent Prince, should at length be touched with so deep a Sense of his vile Ingratitude, in returning so much Evil for such great Goodness, and should feel such stinging Remorse in his Mind, as not to be at rest till he had humbled himself to to his injur'd Sovereign, and obtain'd his Pardon, and his usual Countenance, firmly resolving to be inflexibly Dutiful and

I. A

II.le

han

of To

the king

creet

t us

r be-

Day

the

ill be deed

o us,

and

pro-

ames yond

nuch

ce, an

f our

God

have them the

appy

204 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. and Loyal to him for the time to come. and suppose the Prince's Lenity to be fo great as to admit him again to his Pre. fence and his Favour; Don't we think, that as long as his Resolution of Allegi. ance and Fidelity held firm, he would be extremely careful to break off all Cor. respondence with his former Gang, and be deaf to all Seditious Whispers, Mur. murings and Complaints, and like a Good Subject endeavour Faithfully to discharge his own Duty, and employ his Mindon. ly upon that? This certainly is the Courfe, that one who truly repents of his Rebellion against his Prince would take, to prevent his being decoy'd into it again; and fuch also will be the Behaviour of a hearty Penitent, for his vile Ingratitude in Rebelling against the Infinitely good Majesty of Heaven.

Whatever were the particular Instances of his Sin, whoever were the Prompters or Inticers to them and Companions in them, whatever were the Motives and Inducements to them; he will avoid all, as he would the Plague, or even Hell it felf; be continually upon his Watch and his Guard, at least at first, in the beginning of his Reformation, and Jealous of every thing that had formerly Enfnared him, left he should be again surpriz'd, 11116

Vol.II. v wha d nev he Sp arnest repent s ever ofift fu

III. ance, ure, a ver v dnesse God is et w nemb lecting atisfa es it, rievos nd A Vile a demn Punist 13iAn

For on as natura ing be we ar meml

by

yol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 205 by what he truly hates, and is full resolved d never more to be Guilty of. This is the Spirit of one that has Repented in earnest; and he that has it not, will soon repent of his Repentance, and be as bad is ever. This is so plain that I need not insist further upon it, and proceed to a

ol.II

me:

be fo

Pre.

hink,

llegi.

rould

Cor.

Mur.

Good

arge

d on-

urle,

Re-

e, to

gain;

of a

itude

good

stan-

omp-

nions

tives void

Hell

atch

e be-

alous

ıfna-

iz'd,

III. Third Fruit or effect of true Repenance, and that is a Holy Shame, Displeaure, and Indignation at our felves, whenver we look back upon our past Wickdnesses, as we should often do; (for tho' God is pleas'd in Mercy to forget them, et we should have them often in Renembrance) we should be so far from relecting upon them with any Pleasure and atisfaction, that as our Church expreses it, the Remembrance of them should be rievous unto us, and we should Detest nd Abhor our felves for becoming fo Vile as ever to commit them, and condemn our selves as worthy of all those Punishments that God has threatned to nflict by Reason of them.

For, whatever a Man really looks upon as a vile and shameful Action, he will naturally be angry with himself, for having been Guilty of it; and nothing that we are throughly asham'd of, can be remembred with Delight and Complacency,

206 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. cy, but will rather grate and vex the Mind, and cause a Sigh and a Tear rather than a smile. And therefore when a Sin. ner is become fo truly fensible of the Base. ness and Ingratitude of his former Vici. ous Courses, as to Repent of them in earnest; whenever he looks back upon them it will be with felf Abhorrency and Indignation, and a Blush. And confequently he that can call to Mind, and relate to others his finful Ex. travagancies, by way of Mirth and Plea. fantry, and takes Delight in doing for tis plain he is not fo throughly asham'd of them as he should be, and therefore does not heartily repent of his having committed them: for what Men truly repent of, they are asham'd of too, and Shame is a troublesome uneasy Passion, and naturally causes self-Abhorrency and Condemnation. So that, tho' a Man may have left off to commit fome Sins, and will fay, it may be, that he fees the Folly of them, and cry God forgive me, when he speaks of them, and the like; yet if he's pleas'd and tickled at the mention of them, and loves to talk of this and that piece of Lewdness and Debauchery which he acted formerly: 'tis a very ill Sign that His Heart is not yet right in him, that he is still in the Gall of Bitterness, and $ 100 vol.I the Befent il of Ab Confi fon of than For t would nation Ange ing a as im lighte

Wick

what and which St. Parthat i under ly Affect the caus'd and there cy, a felf-P

test a

at, t

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 207 the Bond of Iniquity; and that some prefent ill Consequence of his Vices, or want of Ability to practife them, or some other Consideration of that Nature, is the reafon of his not doing as he has done, rather than a real hatred of the Sins as fuch: For then, the Remembrance of them would cause much Shame, and Indignation, and inward Regret, and Holy Anger, and vexation at himself for acting at so base and vile a rate; it being as impossible for a true Penitent to be delighted with the Thoughts of his past Wickednesses, as it is, for a Man to love what he abhors.

II.lo

the

ther

Sin.

Bafe

Vici-

n in

upon

and

And

all to

Ex.

Plea.

fo:

am'd

refore

ly re-

, and

Mion.

y and

Man

Sins,

es the

ve me,

like;

men-

is and

chery

ery ill

n him,

s, and

the

4. Another Fruit of True Repentance, and which will naturally follow that which I mentioned last, is what St. Paul stiles spiritual Revenge; 2 Cor. 7.11. that is, the fubduing and keeping under, by prudent Severities, those unruly Affections of the Body, which betrayed the Sinner into fo much Mischief, and caus'd him fo much Shame and Sorrow and bitterest Remorfe: And where there is true felf-indignation, Abhorrency, and Condemnation, there will be self-Punishment too. For what Men detest and Abominate, and are truly angry at, they would Punish if they could, and those

208 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. those that have Power and Authority do actually revenge and punish; and accord. ingly St. Paul calls the Civil Magistrate, who hath the Power of the Rom. 13.4. Sword committed to him by God, A Revenger to execute Wrath on him that doth Evil, and which if he neglects to do, he betrays his Truft, and connives at Evil, and bears the Sword in vain. And therefore, as every Man is authorized by God to Correct himfelf for whatever he finds amis, and is obliged to do fo by feveral express Commands of Christianity; so, whoever is truly mov'd with Indignation against himself for fuch and fuch Wickednesses, and condemns himself as worthy of severe Chastifement for having committed them, will exercise this Power of self-Revenge, and mortify the Deeds of the Body, with its disorderly Apperites and Lusts, denying its irregular Cravings, and bringing it into Subjection to the Spirit.

As to the Methods and Measure of this Discipline, 'tis too copious a Subject to be infifted on at the End of a Discourse; but in general, it should be more or lese severe, according to the nature of the Sins for which the Man is to Punish himself, and likewise Vol.I accor of th All Rigor ferve in ne Spirit than 1 of w ties v down pline and [the fu

Bu

not b when he tha defers his lo too li fincer has o to Sa

Th ed of allow fon is will i 'tis th

and a

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 209 according to the Constitution and Temper of the Sinner.

All Men are not able to bear the like Rigourous Treatment, nor do all Sins deferve the like, nor all Mens Bodies stand in need of the like; and in some, 'tis the Spirit that wants to be humbled more than the Flesh, the Pride and Arrogancy of which, the Exercise of Bodily Severities would heighten rather than bring down. And therefore this kind of Discipline must be manag'd with great Prudence and Discretion, by those that would reap the full Benefit of it.

But the it must be regulated, yet it must not be wholly omitted, and will not be, when a Man is throughly a Penitent; and he that spares himself, when he so well deserves Punishment, shews that he loves his lower self too well, and hates his Sin too little, to deserve the Character of a sincere and hearty Convert, and one that has out of a truly Godly Sorrow repented to Salvation.

This is the only Revenge that is allowed of by our Holy Religion, and 'tis not allowed only, but enjoyn'd; and the Reafon is, because there is no Malice or Ill-will in it but against Sin (for to the Sinner 'tis the greatest Kindness in the World) and against Sin we can't be too bitter and

P

im-

the wife ac-

l.II.

do

ord.

the

by

cute

hich

ruft,

mora

Man

melf

blig-

ands

ruly

nfelf

con-

Cha-

iem,

enge,

with eny-

ging

re of

Sub-

of a

ould

g to

210 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

implacable. And as great a share as Love and Charity, and Tenderness, and Forgiveness have in the Christian Institution, he that is not in this Sense acted with Hatred and Revenge, and does not even Crucify his Rebellious Flesh, when there is just Occasion, can never be Christ's true

Disciple. A hard both

Having thus mentioned some of the Fruits of sincere Repentance, and such, as where they are without Dissimulation, will be attended with a through Resormation and Amendment of Life; we shall now consider how the Love and Gratitude of a True Penitent ought to express themselves when he is become duly sensible of the Greatness of his past Sins, and of the Divine Mercy and Goodness in pardoning him, and admitting him to his Favour upon his true Repentance.

felves in earnest Desires of Continuing in God's Favour, and of such Assistances of his Good Spirit, as will enable the Pentent to be intirely Obedient to his Righteous Commands for the Future.

'Tis natural for a Man to defire to please those whom he truly loves, and when he is admitted again to a Friend-ship that he highly values, and which he once had forfeited by base ungrateful Acti-

Vol.I

perfe accep

Th

nefs
he ha
yet for know for it ction dustri

and really

fwer
An
if the ward Thus
to ke
we he bove wond felve prefs vine
how

the F

Affin

portu

what

ons,

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 211

ons, he will covet nothing more than to perfect that Reconciliation, by the most acceptable Services he can perform.

1.11.

ove

orion,

with ven

re is true.

the

1, 25

ion,

rma-

fhall

itude

hem-

le of

the

ning

WOUT

hem-

ng in

es of

Peni-

ghte-

re to

and riend-

ch he

Adi-

ons,

The grateful Sense he has of the Goodness of his offended Friend, who, tho' he has done so unworthily by him, has yet so readily pass'd by all upon his Acknowledgment of his Fault, and Sorrow for it, as to take him again into his Affection and Esteem; this will make him industriously careful to make use of every Opportunity of making some Return, and glad when it lies in his Power, and really troubled if his Ability will not answer his Desires.

And thus will our Love and Gratitude. if they be fincere, express themselves towards God, and our Bleffed Saviour Jefus. Thus shall we make it our great Business to keep our selves in their Favour, whom we have fuch Infinite Reason to love above all things, and to whom we are fo wondroufly obliged. And if we find our felves unable (as who but does?) to express our Love and Gratitude to our Divine Friend and Benefactor as we ought; how should we fly by earnest Prayer to the Fountain of spiritual Strength, for his Affistance! begging him with great Importunity to help our Infirmities, to supply what is wanting in our own poor weak Ability.

Ability, and in some measure put us into a Capacity of rendring a fuitable Return and keeping up that Friendship inviolate which we have the greatest Reason to value above our very Lives.

What can a truly grateful Breast that's deeply sensible of the Goodness of God to Sinners, and full of unfeigned Love to. him again, more earnestly desire than this? And therefore, where fuch Defires are wanting, and the Man continues as cool and indifferent and regardless of any thing of this Nature, as formerly; he must not look upon himself to be so throughly Apprehensive of the Divine Mercy to him as a true Penitent should be, who when really grieved and wearied with the burden of his Sins, has found a Compassionate Deliverer that hath eas'd him of it; and he may and ought to conclude, that having fo little fign of Love and Gratitude in his Soul, he has as little of fincere Repentance.

2. Secondly, A Sinner that has repented in earnest, and is affected with true Love and Gratitude for the great Mercy of God to him in Christ Jesus, will be under the constant Ame, of a Reverential regardful Fear of offending him; such as is that of an obedient Child towards an Indulgent Father, or of Loyal Subjects towards a

Prince

Princ evide a Chi very afterv and I tal to Fathe

Vol.I

Infan affecte conde nous I ameno

Care

behav Dutifu thereb

felf to his Blo Favou earnef ther's and R ing in Father

Diliger Will? bear pr dience

Goodn ing fro

Prince they love. And this will be very evident if we represent it thus. Suppose a Child that has been very undutiful, to a very kind, wife and good Parent, should afterwards become fensible of his Baseness and Ingratitude, in making fo ill a Requital to a Father that had been indeed a Father to him, and shewn the tenderest Care of him in all Respects from his very Infancy; and be at length fo throughly affected with this Confideration, as to condemn himself as guilty of a most heinous Fault, and resolve for the Future to amend it, and accordingly humbles himfelf to his offended Father, promising to behave himself with all Obedience and Dutiful Respect to him for the Future, and thereby obtains his Father's Pardon, and his Blefting, and is received again into Favour: Will he not, if he has been in earnest all this while, observe all his Father's Commands with the greatest Regard and Reverence, and be so fearful of failing in his Duty, and again incurring his Father's Displeasure, as with the greatest Diligence, and Exactness to perform his Will? And will not this affectionate Fear bear proportion with his former Difobedience and Undutifulness, and his Father's Goodness in forgiving him; and proceeding from Love and Gratitude, as well as Interest,

io n, te to t's

od
to an res

as iny he fo ine ould

ried and a

con-

Love Iittle

ented Love

God er the

rdful at of lgent rds a

rince

Interest, be sincere, and hearty, and last ing? Certainly it will. And he that pretends to be forry for his former Faults, and yet has as little Regard to his Father's Commands as ever, and stands in fear of nothing but Correction, and it may be not much of that neither; can never make any Wise Man believe, that he was ever truly grieved for his past Undutifulness, or has any true Love for his Father, or grateful Sense of his repeated Goodness to him.

And just thus is it in a Sinner's Repentance for his Undutifulness to his Father which is in Heaven. He that is a true Penitent, and as fuch, is affur'd of Forgiveness through Christ, and has a grateful Sense of that great and undeserved Mercy, and feels the Love of his Good and Gracious God, and most compassionate Redeemer, shed abroad in his Heart; need not be told that he must be afraid of displeasing him again, that he must have an awful Regard to all the Expresses of his Will, and serve him with Reverence and Godly Fear. fomething within him that will Prompt him to this more effectually, than any outward Exhortations can do ; Thousand of which will fignify but little, where there is not a Principle of true Love interett.

Vol.II. Love fore, God t thing ned to pays dience a grea tude Salvat Strang 'till h tial Fo him a ther, cause above tifuln Ingra affect he m and i the co Penit en Dam le; indec

fuch

and

and

as ev

Love and Gratitude within. And therefore, he that knows no other Fear of God than as an Avenger, and dreads nothing but the Punishments he has threatned to inflict upon obstinate Sinners, and pays him fometimes a little forc'd Obedience upon that score only; this Man is a great Stranger to that Love and Gratitude which flows from Repentance to Salvation, and confequently as great a Stranger to that Repentance too; and 'till he finds that he has a filial reverential Fear of God, and stands in awe of him as good Children do of a kind Father, and keeps from offending him, because he loves him, and values his Favour above all things, and looks upon undutifulness to him as the Dregs of base Ingratitude: 'Till he find himself thus affected towards God, whatever dread he may fometimes have of his Vengeance, and be scar'd by it now and then from the commission of a Vice; he is no true Penitent, and will not be esteemed as fuch by God. For very bad Men may and do fear him at such a rate as this, and yet continue as profligate and bad as ever; and a Sinner may be afraid of Damnation, (and he's a hardned Wretch indeed that is not) and yet love God never the more, nor his Sins ever the less, and

III.

last. pre-

ults, ner's

r of be ever

Was

ifulher.

ood-

Re-

his at is d of as a

nde-

his om-

his must

that

the

with

has any

Ten

ittle;

true

ove

and after all, be actually damned for them at last.

3. In the last place, the Love and Gratitude of a true Penitent to his Merciful God and Saviour, will engage him not only in a Heedful, but a Zealow Performance of Religious Duties for the future; that he may make fome fmall Amends, by a more than ordinary Warmth and Fervour in them, for his past Trans. greffions, and Coldness, and Negletts. and Redeem his mispent Time by double Diligence. Thus would we do by an offended Prince, a Parent or a Friend, whose Favour we are very desirous perfeetly to regain; and endeavour to recommend our felves to them by more than ordinary Services, and be Zealow Promoters of their Honour and their Interest: that so we may recover our forfeited Reputation, and demonstrate the Sincerity of our Sorrow for what is palt, and in some measure make Attonement for it.

And therefore, if we find it otherwise with respect to God, and are as indifferent and cool as ever in the Service of the injured and offended Majesty of Heaven, who is our Divine Parent, and best and greatest Friend, and of whose Mercy we have had such great Experience:

How

Vol.II

How ever be of ou Disple Pardo little sufficient vice, Prince received

Pr Beha and is of Peter man the i Rep it b real Rep Exp Goo he cy, tha Re La > and Te

II.lo

for

and

Mer-

him

low

the mall

mth

anf-

ects.

able

an

end,

per-

re-

ore

ous

heir

our

the aft,

ent

vise

ffe-

of ea-

nest rcy

e:

How can we think that our Hearts have ever been duly affected either with a sense of our sad Condition when under his Displeasure, or of the Greatness of his Pardoning Goodness, when we have so little Love and Gratitude to him as is not sufficient to make us as Hearty in his Service, as we would be in that of an earthly Prince, or Parent, or Friend, who had received us into Favour again, after we had justly incurred their Anger?

I'm fure the Account we have of the Behaviour of true Penitents in Scripture, and which is recorded for our Imitation, is of another Nature; and David, and Peter, and Mary Magdalen, and the Woman here in the Gospel, were by so much the more Zealous in Religion after their Repentance, as they were forgetful of it before. And nothing can be more reasonable, and becoming a Sinner that Repents in earnest, and has had great Experience of the Infinite Goodness of God in forgiving him his vast Debt when he had nothing to pay, but (without Mercy,) must have sunk under it for ever; than to love much, and add Zeal to his Repentance, (as the lukewarm Church of Laodicea was advis'd to do, Rev. 3. 29.) and employ that Vigonr and Heat of Temper in a fervent Devotion, and exemplary emplary Virtue, which he once abus'd to an eager Pursuit of his Lusts. And as he formerly, to his Shame, had been remarkable for a notorious Sinner, that wrought all uncleanness with greediness; fo to make it his Endeavour for the time to come to be as remarkable a Penitent, and as much taken notice of for Righ. teousness and true Holiness; and like John the Baptist, be a Preacher of Repentance to others, and a burning and a shining Light, in the midst of a crooked and perverse Generation. Luke 3. 3, 8. John 5. 35. Eph. 2. 15. This is the best way to confirm our Pardon, so that it shall never be recalled: and if we never repent of our Repentance, but bring forth Fruits worthy of it, with Perseverance, throughout the whole Course of our Life; we may then be affured that the Compaffionate God will never repent of his shewing Mercy to us, who desireth not the Death of a Sinner, but rather that he may turn from his Wickedness, and live.

that muthing to pay. but a without Mer-to to love much, and the Zeal to his Pentaging Vas the laster sear Church of the time to the contract of the second cand exemplary

and have funk nover it for ever.

the employ that Vigory and Heats of

Vol.II

" for u ten

" tri

" ou

" ed

" th

Suffe

when

Wra

gran

Obj

me .

(

ten

Soft

do

Son

goo

bu

T

The PRAYER.

The Collect ALmighty and Everlasting for Alb-Wed-" II God, who hatest nothing nejday.

" that thou hast made, and dost

1.11,

to

as rehat s;

me nt,

gh-

ike

en-Bind

15.

to

ver

of its

h-

we

ate

ng

th. rn

ne

" forgive the Sins of all them that are Peni-" tent, create and make in us new and con-" trite Hearts; that we worthily lamenting " our Sins, and acknowledging our Wretchedness, may obtain of thee the God of all

" Mercy, perfect Remission and Forgiveness, " through Jesus Christ our Lord!

Thou Lord, art full of Compassion, Long-Suffering, and of great Pity; Thou Sparest when we deserve Punishment, and in thy Wrath thinkest upon Mercy; O therefore grant that by thy Grace, we may become fit Objects of Forgiveness, and then we know we shall receive it of thee!

II.

O, How charming are the Thoughts of the tender Bowels towards us! How should they Soften my Spirit, and make my Eyes run down, with Tears of Penitence and Godly Sorrow, for my past base Ingratitude to so good a God!

How should I abbor my self, for my Abuses of thy forbearing Love! and throwing my self at thy Feet, with Shame and Confufion of Face, how bitterly should I lament my strange Perverseness to so kind a Parent; in encouraging my self in Disobedience because thy Pity still puts off my Punishment!

O may I never more be guilty of such horrid Baseness, and unaccountable Madness and Folly! But remember that thou art fust and Holy, as well as Merciful; and wilt not finally spare the obstinately Guilty!

And may I be so wise, as Immediately to improve the Blessed Opportunity of recovering thy Favour; and not with a hardened Impenitent Heart treasure up Wrath to my self against the day of Wrath! But while 'tis called to day, Hear thy most gracious Voice, which kindly invites me to be Good and Happy!

Thou Lord, hast freely forgiven me a vast Debt, which 'twas impossible for me ever to discharge; O Grant, that I may love thee infinitely for it, and have thy Praises ever in my Mouth! and manifest the Truth of my Gratitude and Repentance, by dedicating my self from henceforth, and for ever, intirely to thy Service! And do thou mercifully accept my best, tho' poor Endeavours, through Jesus Christ, my Savioun and Redeemer! Amen, Amen.

PARA-

Vol.I

When

M

fee

ml.

fin

an

Sp

th

la

fir

al

ne

C

this

there seffed

be b

Then

He J

1 u.

Ry

in ch ess

ist

to

er.

ed

my ile

143 od

ast

to

bee

ver

of ca-

ver,

er-

rs,

Re-

A-

PARABLE VII.

Of the Unclean Spirit's returning.

dest of wall and a sign of the sign of the

When the Unclean Spirit is gone out of a Man, he walketh through dry Places, feeking Rest; and sinding none,

He saith, I will return unto mine House whence I came out, and when he cometh he findeth it [*empty] swept, *Mat.12.44. and garnished.

Then goeth he and taketh to him seven other Spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there; and the last state of that Man is worse than the sirst. [* Even so shall it be * Mat. 12.45. also unto this wicked Generation.]

In the 22d Verse of the 12th Chapter of St. Matthew, and the 14th Verse of this 11th of St. Luke, we are told, that there was brought to our Lord one possessed with a Devil, blind and dumb; and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw, to the great Wonder

Wonder and Amazement of the People; who thereupon concluded him to be the Son of David, the great Messias that was then expected. But the envious spiteful Pharifees, who were refolv'd not to be convinc'd of that great Truth themselves, and as much as in them lay to keep the People from being so; put this Hellih Gloss upon that Great Miracle, He casteth out Devils through Beelzebub the chief of the Devils, v. 15. As if there was a Confederacy between that great Deceiver and Christ, to seduce the Jews by lying Wonders, from their Obedience to that Law which God gave them by Moses; and impose a new false Religion upon them, under pretence of his being the Messias, when indeed he was no other than a vile Impostor. But this, how plausible soever it might feem at first fight, was indeed so very weak, that none but a bigotted Pharifee, whose Reason was blinded by implacable Hatred and Malice, would e'er have urg'd it; and our Lord foon made them alham'd of it, if any thing could shame em, as we may read in the 17th Verse of this Chapter, and the 25th, and following Verses of the 12. Matt. And in the 31st of that Chapter he lays home to their Consciences what an unpardonable Sin they had been guilty of, in blafpheming against Vol.I again to th to wi ligion by th God, cline nefs, of M the V Holy in the that it ar agair Stubl Grac Salva fest a they great God to ac prov conc much Devi envy

Happ

Wor

ever

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 223

II.

e;

the 7as ful

be

es,

he ish

eth

of 011-

ind

on-aw

im-

un-

heri

Im-

rit

l fo

ha-

im-

e'er

nade

bluc

7th

and

d in

e to

able

ning

ainst

against the Holy Ghost, and ascribing that to the Power of the Devil, made use of to withdraw the People from the true Religion, to their Ruine; which was done by the Affistance of the good Spirit of God, on purpose that they might be inclined by it to embrace their chief Happiness, and believe in Him whom the Father of Mercies had fent to be the Saviour of the World. This was the Sin against the Holy Ghost, Never to be forgiven, neither in this World, nor in the World to come; that is, to all Eternity, Matt. 12. 31. And it argu'd fuch refolv'd wilful Blindness against all Conviction, such inflexible Stubbornness and Obstinacy against all the Gracious Methods that God took for the Salvation of Mankind; and was so manifest a joining with the Devil in doing what they could to frustrate and disappoint that great good Work which the compaffionate God fent his Divine Son into the World to accomplish, that nothing could be more provoking, and more deserve God's irreconcileable Displeasure. There was so much of the Temper of Hell in it, such Devilish Enmity both to God and Man; envying God the Glory, and Man the Happiness of the Redemption design'd the World by Christ; that it was but just for ever to exclude such Wretches from it, and give give them up to a Diabolical Hardness of Heart, as they had given themselves up before to a near Resemblance of that cursed Spirit, in other Hellish Dispositions of Soul.

224 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

What fort of People are guilty of this unpardonable Sin now, is fometimes made a Question; and we need not look far for them in this Atheistical Infidel Age, How many there are among us that ridicule our Saviour, and his Miracles, stile him an Impostor, and his wondrous Works no other than Juggles and Delufions, every one knows too well. And if to think and openly to talk at this rate; to perfilt in such vile Opinions, and publickly to maintain and justify 'em, and make it their great endeavour to gain Profelytes to them; if this be not the very Sin against the Holy Ghost, I'm fure 'tis next door to it: And the hardned Obstinacy of those that have been guilty of it, against all the Reafon and Argument that can be used to bring them off, and to which they can make no material Objection that has not been baffled and confounded over and over; this looks as if they were given up for it to a Reprobate Sense, and under an irrevocable Condemnation. I pray God those that are this way inclined, may ferioully confider this, before they proceed too

Vol.II. too fa Salvat ceed.

After the Affisha Certain him, I that the own Sto she is to she is to she is the did No they appear the Co 10-12 Degree Ifa. 38 and C bove, him, havin

Comn

Proph thing But after questi Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 225 too far, and out wit themselves of their Salvation beyond Recovery! But to proceed, 11.

of

up

lat

ns

113

de

far

ge.

di-

ile

ks

ry

ık,

filt.

to

eir

to nst

to

ofe

the

to

can

not ·

and

up

an

God

eri-

ceed

too

After our Lord had filenced the Objedion of his casting out Devils thro' the Assistance of the Prince of the Devils, Certain of the Scribes and Pharisees attack'd him, Mat 12.38. being extremely nettled that their first Charge was so much to their own Shame; and were urgent with him to shew them a sign from Heaven, Luke 11. 16. that they might be satisfy'd 'twas God had sent him, and enabled him to do what he did, and not the Infernal Powers.

Now by a fign from Heaven, I suppose they meant, some strange Præternatural Appearance of the Heavenly Bodies, at his Command (as when the Sun and Moon at the Command of Joshua stood still, Josh. 10-12, 13. 2 Kings 20. 11. and went ten Degrees backward at the Prayer of Isaiah, Isa. 38.8.) or else some sudden Thunder, and God's speaking articulately from above, to assure them that he came from him, and the like; Instances of which having been in the time of Moses and the Prophets, they expected the same, or something of like Nature from him then.

But this unreasonable Curiosity of theirs, after he had already wrought enough unquestionable Miracles to satisfy any unprejudiced judiced Person, he did not think fit at that time to gratify; tho' afterwards we find God spake to him at his Request audibly from Heaven, in a Voice like Thunder. John 12. 28, &c (as he had done before at his Baptism, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased, Mat. 3. 17.) and the Sun was strangely darkned at the Time of his Death, Luke 23. 44, 45. when the Moon was in the Full, which is contrary to the usual Course of Nature, and was never known to be so before nor since; But he then refused to comply with their Defire, knowing their Intention was only to Nonplus him if they could, not that they had a mind to be convinc'd them. felves, which a thousand Signs would not have done, they were fo obstinately set against him. And therefore, instead of an evident Sign from Heaven, he in a Mystical manner told them of a Sign they should hereafter have from the Earth (and which when rightly understood, would be the most convincing Sign of all, v. 29. 30.) namely, that as Jonas was three Days and three Nights in the Whale's Belly, so the Son of Man should be three Days and three Nights in the Heart of the Earth, Mat. 12. 40. by which he foretold (tho' they apprehended him not) his Resurrection after three Days Burial: Though even that we fee by the Event, Vol.1

Even

doc. H relati that the 1 woul him confe vour it, by with Spirit interi Spirit throu that . Ball As if

" a " hin

" po

eff an

" the

" op

" by

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 227 Event, was not able to convince the Priests, and Scribes, and Pharisees, Mat. 27. 62, &c. 28.—11, &c. V.31, 32.

Having faid this, with fome other things relating to the Happiness the People of that Age had in enjoying the Presence of the Messias, and how inexcusable they would be for rejecting him, and treating him as they did, and how dreadful the consequence would be at last; he endeavours to make them more apprehensive of it, by fpeaking the Parable above recited. with Allusion to his casting out the evil Spirit, which had occasioned the whole intermediate Discourse. When the unclean Spirit is gone out of a Man, he walketh through dry places, &c. and the last state of that Man is worse than the first, even so shall it be also unto this wicked Generation. As if he had faid,

"Like as when the Devil is cast out of a poor Wretch that was possessed by him, he is enrag'd, and endeavours if possible to return, and take a new Sei"zure of his miserable Prey; which if he effects, he tyrannizes more than ever, and is not to be ejected again but with the greatest Dissibility: So this wicked "Generation, which hath so happy an " opportunity of being entirely delivered "by me from the fad Bondage of Satan,

Q 2

and bly der, fore red 17.) the hen :0nand nce: their only that nemnot v fet of an ftical pould vhich e the 30.) s and he Son Vights c. by ended

Days

by the

Event,

.11.

hat

ind

"and the vile Slavery of their Lusts, and "restored to the glorious Liberty of the "Children of God, and which they see I am able to accomplish by the manisest Power I have over the Spirits of Dark. "ness, and which those evil Spirits are in constant dread of; this wicked Generation, I say, if it resuseth so great Mercy, will be more enslaved to those cruel Tymants than before: Who will domineer it intolerably when this Danger that threatens them is over; and my coming to save the World, will if it rejects me,

"but add to its future Misery.

Having thus seen the occasion and meaning of this Parable, we proceed now to consider the several Parts of it, and apply it to our felves.

When the unclean Spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places. Seeking Rest, and sinding none.— That the Devil and his Angels are call'd Foul and Unclean Spirits in the New Testament, can't but be observed by every one; and the reason is, that we may be rightly informed in the nature of them, and know what designs they have upon us in their Temptations, and what will be the Consequence of our listning to them. They are the great Enemies of every thing that is Holy, and Pure, and Good; and are made up of Spiritual Fil-

Vol.I Filth and C titude busin as the vile A phan of Irraciples the V Devi as britten That

Fanc Mino Imag while meno Pleat nefs, when it be

I gi

worf

the [

gion.

in th

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 229

Filthiness, such as Pride and Envy, Malice and Cruelty, Hatred and Revenge, Ingratitude, Falshood and Deceit: And their business is to make us as foul and impure as themselves, to pollute our Souls with vile Affections, obscene, wicked and prophane thoughts, to engage us in a Course of Irreligion and Vice, to corrupt our Principles, and make us live as without God in the World; and in short, to make us as Devilish in our Temper and Disposition, as brutish in our Lives, and as much at Enmity with God, and Virtue, as they can. That so they may bring Dishenour upon the Divine Majesty, Contempt upon Religion, and Shame and Misery upon Mankind in this World; and at last rejoice in their Eternal Torment with themselves in Hell.

Now this they do by working upon our Fancy and Imagination, and filling our Minds with vain, impure and impious Images and Representations; and all the while giving them a false turn, and recommending them under the Appearance of Pleasure, or Honour, or Wealth and Greatness, as Satan serv'd our Lord himself, when he drew a most charming Landskape of the Glories of the World, and plac'd it before him, and told him, All this will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me, Mat. 4. 9.

Q3

And

ations, of our teneten

II.

ind

the

eel

fest

ark-

e in

era-

rcy,

Ty.

neer

that

ning

me,

and now

and

t of a

eking

Devil

nclean

't but

eason

in the

eligns

230 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

And when we are thus prepar'd, then they help us to Opportunity and ill Advice and Example; and still keep plying our Fancy, by raising mighty Hopes and Expectations in us, and painting it with delightful Scenes of wonderful Happiness from such and such Enjoyments, and such a way of Life.

By this means they endeavour to engage us in what will be our Ruine; and with Hellish Cunning make us their Tools to do their Work upon our selves, and bring about our own Destruction: And all the while bubble us into an Opinion, that 'tis all out of Kindness to us, to make us enjoy our selves, and live pleasantly, and be happy.

SHA

But let us remember that they are Unclean Spirits, earnestly bent upon making us as wicked and as miserable as themselves; and let us scorn to be so shamefully imposed upon by them. And whenever we find our Fancy roving after sensual, or any other sinful Objects, and our Thoughts taken up with impure Imaginations, and we seel our selves begin to be delighted with them; let us summon up all our Reason and our Religion to resist their Institutations and drive them out: And sly to God by Prayer for his Protection, as earnestly as if we saw one of those foul Fiends in

Vol.II the n upon foon pleat my w shall able 'tis u the V great hurry And triun hath does mife ly in and

Hever shun to it cy! and whi our who gest ditio

and

the

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 231

the most frightful Shape, coming to seize upon us. For this imaginary Impiety will foon grow into a strong Defire of compleating it by Action; and our great Enemy will take Care that no Encouragement. shall be wanting from Company, and suitable Objects, and Conveniency, and then 'tis usually too late to bethink our selves; the Violence of the Temptation will be for great as to take full Possession of us, and hurry us on impetuoufly to actual Sin. And then how does the Infernal Tyrant triumph over his wretched Prey which he hath thus decoyed into his Net! And how does the wretched Prey, if fenfible of its miserable State, bewail and lament its Folly in being seduced by the great Deceiver; and if not fenfible of it, then is its Condition most deplorable of all.

How carefully therefore should we avoid even the least Appearance of Evil, and shun the first Tendencies and Inclinations to it, and every wicked Thought and Fancy! Even as carefully as we would avoid and thun the Apparition of an evil Spirit; which tho' invisible (Blessed be God) to our Senses, yet is present to our Minds, when we are haunted with impious Suggestions, and vile Imaginations.

But notwithstanding the Watchfulness, and Cunning, and infinuating Arts of sin the 1.11.

hen

Ad-

ing

and vith

ness

uch

age

vith

to

ing

the

ris

en-

and

Un-

ing

em-

ully

ver

10 ghts

and

ited

ea-

nsi-

v to iest-

these dangerous Enemies that lurk so close within us; their Attempts will be in vain unless we prove treacherous to our selves. and by complying with them provoke our Divine Guardian to leave us to their Mercy. For if God be present with us by the Assistance of his Holy Spirit who can be against us? What can the united Force of all-the Spirits of Darkness signify against a Soul that is under the Protection of the Almighty? And that, every Soul is, that does its best endeavour to resist the wicked one, trusting in God's Aid, and flying upon all occasions to him for help. Can't He think we make as strong Impressions of Virtue upon our Minds, as the Devil can of Wickedness and Vice? Can't he draw the Beauty of Holiness upon our Fancy and Imagination with as much Life and Spirit, as the Fiend can paint the Pleasures and Enjoyments of the World, and of Sense? And has not Religion infinitely greater Attractives to those that contemplate it with due Seriousness and Attention, than Sin in its best Dress, and with all the Advantages that can possibly be given it? And are not the Bleffed Angels as ready and as able to give us favourable Opportunities of growing in Grace, Mat. 18 10. Heb. 1. 14. and improving in true Piety and Goodness, and practifing the Virtues Virtu our [betra odds Relig Legic will t we o and j difre the 1 upon cheri the 7 our recor and o Pleaf the V and Paffi cutio Opp App

ever

we c vails

Hea

fron

blan

grat

Vol.II

vol.11. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 233

1.11

ofe

in,

ves,

oke

neir

by.

can

orce

inst

the

hat

ked

ing

an't

sof

can raw

ncy

and ures l of

tely

em-

ten-

vith y be gels

able Mat.

the

tues

Virtues that Christ has taught us, and made our Duty; as the unclean Spirits are to betray us into Vice ? So that indeed, the odds is more than a little on the fide of Religion; and let the Devil and his black Legions oppose it as much as they will, it will thrive and flourish in our Souls, unless we our selves are resolv'd to the contrary. and join with them against it. But if we'll difregard, and it may be obstinately refist the Motions of the good Spirit of God upon our Souls, and be very fond of, and cherish the Infinuations and Injections of the Tempter; if we'll shut our Eyes and our Ears against every thing that would recommend Virtue and Goodness to us, and employ all our Thoughts upon the Pleasures of Sense, and the Enjoyments of the World, and listen with great Attention and Delight to whatever will blow up our Passions to an ardent Desire, and Prosecution of them; and greedily embrace all Opportunities of gratifying our Bodily Appetites, and as carelesly neglect whatever tends to the Good of our Souls: If we do at this rate, no wonder if Vice prevails against Virtue, and Earth against Heaven, and the Devil carries us away from God. But we see whom we must blame for it, even our vile, unnatural, ungrateful felves; and this very Consideration will will be a great Aggravation of our Misery in Hell, namely, that when we might have fought with great Advantage against our Spiritual Enemies, and as glorious Conquerors triumph'd for ever in the Regions of the Blessed; we basely deliver'd our selves up into their Power, and chose to follow the great Destroyer in the ways of Sin to that place of endless Torment, rather than to tread in the Blessed Steps of our Redeemer, and in the Paths of Holiness to arrive at Heaven. What weeping and wailing, and gnashing of Teeth, will be caus'd by such Reslections as these!

This is that, which unclean Spirits do their utmost to bring us to: Whose Hatred is so bitter and implacable against us, because God hath shewn us Mercy, when he hath deny'd it to them; that they can never rest but when they are doing something or other that may tend to deseat his gracious Intentions towards us.

Thus in the Parable we are told, that when the unclean Spirit is by the Power of God forc'd to depart out of any Man he has posses'd; He walketh through dry places, roaming about in unfrequented Defarts, and barren lonely Mountains, the usual haunt of Devils, in great Vexation and Discontent, and Rage, at his being depriv'd of an Opportunity he had got of recking vol.I recki of the but f that is in ing I and return was clice poor L tecti thefe and for o Hell pror Day from med prep wha live of i vin

inv

ture

and

Wr

Vol.II, Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 235

recking his Spight and Malice upon one of the hated Race of Adam: Seeking Rest, but sinding none, for all the Satisfaction that the Spirits of Darkness are capable of, is in doing Dishonour to God, and bringing Mischief and Ruine upon Mankind; and therefore was resolv'd, if possible, to return to the Habitation from whence he was thrown out, v. 24. and begin to pradice his Hellish Arts of Torment upon the poor Creature again.

1.11.

fery

lave

Our

onions

Our

e to

s of

ra-

os of Holi-

ing,

will s do

Ha-

It us,

hen

can

ome-

t his

that ower Man

b dry

ented

, the

peing

ot of

king

Lord, how thould we blefs thee for protecting us from the Asfaults and Terrors of these Infernal Furies, here in this World; and how should we dread being abandon'd for ever to their unrestrain'd Cruelty in Hell! And nothing more terrible can be pronounc'd against the wicked at the last Day, by the great Judge, next to Depart from ME, ye cursed; than that which immediately follows, into Everlasting Fire, prepar'd for the Devil and his Angels. For what elfe can be expected from being deliver'd up into the hands and full Power of those merciless Executioners of the Divine Vengeance, and who bear fuch an inveterate Hatred to us; than all the Tortures that the Wit of the Devil can invent, and his Power can inflict! And O! How inconceivably Miserable will be those Wretched Souls, who feel the inward Stings Stings and Upbraidings of their own guilty Consciences, at the same time that they endure those other Torments; and rested with intolerable Anguish, that all this they brought upon themselves, against all that God could do to preserve them from it, but now, must lie down under it to all

Eternity!

But as much Satisfaction as evil Spirits take, in seducing us from God, and bringing us to so much Misery, they are all the while heating Hell, that slaming Furnace of God's Wrath, still hotter for themselves; and the more Mischief they do here, the greater and more intense shall be their Torments there. For the Fall'n Angels are to be judg'd at the Great Day of Recompence, as well as wicked Men; thus St. Jude expressly saith, The Angels which kept not their sirst estate, but less their own Habitation, he hath reserv'd in everlasting Chains under Darkness, unto the Judgment of the Great Day, Jude 6.

Now every one that appears before that Dread Tribunal, we are affur'd shall be judg'd in Righteousness; and if the greatest Sinners amongst Men, shall then be doom'd to a suitable Degree of Punishment, why should it not be so likewise in the Condemnation of wicked Spirits? And that some of them are wickeder than others.

other Para Spiri again took wick high misc they Day teoms this, dou Kno of: expi Obj evil Bloc the fam OWI wie eacl

Pra

afte

less

ana

and

wel Fire

Vol.1

Vol. II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 237 others, is plain from that Passage in this. Parable, where 'tis faid, that the Unclean Spirit, when he returned to get Possession again of the House whence he came out, took with him Jeven other Spirits more wicked than himself, v. 26. So that 'tis highly probable, as was faid, that the more mischievous they are to us, the more Wrath they do treasure up for themselves against the Day of Wrath, and Revelation of the righteous Judgment of God, Rom. 2. 5. And this, if true (as I can see no Reason to doubt but it is) Creatures of such great Knowledge as they are, cannot be ignorant of: But yet so restless is Malice till it has expressed it self to the Hurt of the hated Object of it, and so sweet is Revenge to evil Spirits, as well as to wicked Flesh and Blood; that they'll greedily execute it to the utmost of their Power, tho' at the fame time they know 'twill add to their own Misery at last. So near of Kin are wicked Men and wicked Spirits: So like each other now in Disposition and in evil Practices: And so like shall they be hereafter, in their Condemnation to the endless Pains of Hell. They are all of their Father the Devil, as our Lord expresses it, and the Works of their Father they will do ; and at length the whole curfed Family shall welter together in Lakes of unquenchable Fire. But to proceed,

II,

nilney lect

ney hat

ir,

rits ng-

the ace

do hall

ll'n Day

en;

heir. last-

idg-

that be

eat-

e in

And

ners,

When the Unclean Spirit was return'd to his former Habitation, he found it empty, swept, and garnished; no Opposition was made to his Re-entry, no better Guest receiv'd in his Room, no Watch, no Guard. but all things as 'twere in a readiness for his peaceable Reception. Then goeth he, full of Joy at so favourable an Opportunity of recovering what he had loft, and taketh with him Seven other Spirits more wicked than himself, the better to secure his Pos. fession, and the more effectualy to glut his Revenge upon the miserable Wretch for his former Shame and Disappointment; and they enter in, and dwell there, as in their settled Home, and the last state of that Man is worse than the first : As we may well believe, they would use one that had escap'd their Hands more cruelly than ever.

Now this expresses, very lively, the watchful Diligence of our great Adversary, to get us again into his Power, after Christ hath rescu'd us from him; and our own unaccountable Carelesness and Security, tho' in such hazardous Circumstances; together with the dreadful Consequences of it. St. Peter says, Your Adversary the Devil, as a roaring Lyon, walketh about seeking whom he may devour, I Pet. 5.8. And our Lord tells us, He was a Murtherer from the beginning, John 8. 44. But he is enraged

vol.II enrag' our B a Prey especi him a tance ty, an

> Work good ine of > > Seci ctua

our

he

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 239

JI.10

rn'd

ptj.

Was

re.

ard.

for full

y of

keth

cked

Pof.

t his

for

nt;

s in

that may

had

ver.

the

rfa-

fter

Our

ecn-

ces;

nces

the bout

5. 8.

erer ne is ag'd

enrag'd more than ever against us, since our Blessed Redeemer hath snatch'd us as a Prey out of his Teeth; and against those especially, who once were led Captive by him at his Will, but by a sincere Repentance have essectually regain'd their Liberty, and renounc'd him openly, and all his Works; and by their exemplary Piety and good Advice, endeavour heartily the Ruine of his Kingdom, in others as well as themselves.

Those that have thus thoroughly escap'd his Clutches, and by the Grace of God are entirely deliver'd from him, and live in open Defiance of him; these are the chief Objects of his Hatred and Spight; and all his Hellish Wit and Cunning is set a work once more to get Possession of them. For he is the great Deceiver, as well as the Destroyer, and As a Lyon greedy of his Prey, he lurketh in secret places; lays Traps and Ambushments that he may surprize those whom he can't conquer by open Force, and bare-fac'd Temptations; using the fame fly Arts that he did when he tempted our Bleffed Saviour in the Wilderness. And fince Spiritual Pride, and Prefumption, and Security, will do his Work upon us as effeaually as Lewdness and Debauchery; when he can't effect it this way, he endeavours to do it that, and is too often successful.

But

But now, when he is so busy in contriving our Ruine, and we may be fure will let flip no Opportunity or Advantage we shall give him over us, but will improve it to the utmost; shall we be unconcern'd and careless, and think our selves safe, when we have fo Cruel, fo Crafty, fo Potent, and Restless an Enemy to deal with: And take little or no Thought how we may best secure our selves from him? F.s. pecially when by fo great a Miracle of Mercy we have been once already delivered out of his hands? Have we so little Sense of our past Misery, and our present Danger of being betray'd into it again; as not to look about us, and be upon our Watch and our Guard? Would a Man that knows his House is beset with Thieves, Mat. 24 43. take no care of his Doors, but lay himself down to sleep, as securely as if all was fafe and quiet? Let us therefore, as St. Peter adviseth, be sober and vigilant, and always in a readiness to resist, being stedfast in the Faith, 1 Pet. 5. 9. For if we resist the unclean Spirit He will fly from us, Jam. 4. 7. and being like the strong Man arm'd (in the 11. Luke 21.) prepared to defend our House with Courage, our Goods will be at Peace : But if when he steals upon us unawares, he finds our Armour laid aside, and all things in a negligent negli near sing f from a fo the

in to

Vol.I

an E fhame once often regain from he fha we me there the prescuiredee tion, stian with stant furprite to the mait 1

vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 241 negligent Posture, as if no Enemy was near; no wonder if he overcomes us, being so much stronger than we, and takes from us all our Armour wherein we trusted, so that we shan't be capable of making any more Resistance; and divides our spoil, in token of his intire Conquest over us.

And what Favour can be expected from an Enemy that is exasperated by being shamefully beaten out of what he was once Master of, and vigorously resisted and often repuls'd when he has endeavour'd to regain it; what Mercy can be hop'd for from such an enrag'd Enemy, whenever he shall get into Possession again?

Our Lord tells us, that the last State of that Man will be worse than the first, and we may well imagine it to be so; and therefore it highly concerns us, when by the powerful Grace of God we have been rescu'd from the sad Slavery of Sin, and redeem'd from our former evil Conversation, to fortisse our Souls with every Christian Vertue: That so we may be able to withstand the open Assaults of our Spiritual Adversaries, and likewise by a constant watchful Guard prevent our being surprized by those whose Cunning is equal to their Force, and who always be in wait to deceive.

. Now

R

we ove n'd

III

tri-

vill

afe, Poth:

we Ef-

of

rerttle

ent in;

our Ian

ves,

ors, rely

ere-

and fift,

For

fly

21.)

ouit if

nds

in a gent

242 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.11.

Now upon what particular Accounts the last state of a Christian that has been once a Penitent, will be worfe than the first. if he relapse again into a Course of Sin; it will be worth our while to enquire, And it will be worse, First, as that figni. fies more wicked; for the unclean Spirit in the Parable, when he return'd to the House whence he came out, took with him feven other Spirits more wicked than himself: Se. condly, 'twill be worse as that fignifies more hopeless and irrecoverable; for all those wicked Spirits, 'tis said, enter in and dwell there, take a fixed Possession, and make it their abode, and there is no mention made of their being cast out any more.

I. The Condition of those who having once recover'd from a Course of Sin fall into it again, is worse than it was at first, as that signifies more wicked. They become guilty both of more and greater Sins than ever; the ejected unclean Spirit at his return, brings with him seven other Spirits, and those more vile and unclean than himfelf.

That it is so in Fact, is but too evident from Experience; none being so profligately wicked as those, that after a Fit of Sickness, or some great Affliction, or surprizing Accident, have taken up for a while, and liv'd like Christians, but at length

Vol.

leng Sin. Rep fom

Wo extr

ness

N

lapí cur' abo

> fion that fort

him ove Hea

with for men

> wh of Go

pel har bo

· Se. nore hose well ke it made

1.11.

the once

first,

Sin;

uire,

gni-

it in ouse

Geven

havf Sin as at They eater Spirit other clean

ident orofliit of r furfor a out at ength Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour, 243 length have fallen again into a course of Sin. As if they heartily repented of their. Repentance; and endeavour'd to make fome Attonement to the God of this World, for fo long leaving his Service, by extraordinary Diligence in it for the time to come : Giving themselves intirely over to lasciviousness, and to work all Uncleanness with more greediness than ever, Eph. 4. 19.

Now the true Cause of this finful Relapfe, is the Difeafe not being thoroughly cur'd and driven away; but still lurking about (like the Unclean Spirit in the Pa: rable) ready to return upon the first occafion. That is, 'twas not true Repentance that put the Man upon this short-liv'd Reformation, but fomething that fcar'd him for the present, and made him bethink himself a little; but when the Fright was over, he grew the same again. Had his Heart been really contrite, and broken with a deep Sense and pungent Remorfe for his past Sins, and his Mind and Judgment relating to them quite chang'd from what it was, and the Bent and Inclination of his Soul, in earnest turn'd from Sin to God and Religion: This would have expell'd the Poyson effectually, and he would have become a new Creature, as 'twere born again, and renewed in the Spirit and Temper R 2

Temper of his Mind; and have begun a fasting Course of Life upon new Principles of Action, and Ends and Motives directly contrary to those he had before. But when the Frame and Disposition of a Man's Soul continues as it was, though a Restraint may be put upon him for a time. and he may feem to himself and others to grow better; yet the good Fit will not last long; he'll soon begin to grow care-Iess and indifferent to Religion, and then to be a weary of it; and foon after to bate its dull Rules, and hanker after his former Pleasures and Enjoyments; and then to throw its galling Yoke quite off, and make the best use he can of his recovered Liberty, that he may redeem the Time he has loft, and live apace for the future.

Relapses are generally more violent than the first Illness; and till the Constitution and Habit is alter'd and rectified, the Diseases whether of Soul or Body, tho' their Course may be stop'd or diverted for a while, yet will return with greater Fury, and be more impetuous, than they were at first. And the Reason is, because there is no Change of Nature within; that is just as it was, only curb'd and restrain'd by outward Force, which does but enrage and exasperate it; and when the Restraint

Vol.

before B

feth neve port tatio Diff poo Def Cre witl hard him Leil find to t Ter into clin ftra

> Di far wh the

> > ar

tion

ter

kec

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 245 is remov'd, 'tis a great deal worse than before.

1.11.

na

ici-

di-

ore.

fa

ha

me.

ners

not

are-

hen

to

his

and

off,

-00°

the

the

han

tion

Di-

heir

or a ury,

vere

here

et is

in'd

rage

aint

18

But besides this, when the Soul relapfeth into Sin, the great Enemy of Souls never fails to be ready to improve the Opportunity; and by great variety of Temptations and Allurements to heighten the Disease beyond a Cure, and quicken the poor Wretch on in the ways that lead to And when the unhappy Destruction. Creature does of himself run down Hill with great speed from Heaven, 'tis no hard matter for the unclean Spirit to hurry him on still faster; that he may have no Leisure to look back and consider, and find it impossible to stop, till he comes to the Fatal Precipice; and with infinite Terror, tho' then to no purpose, drops into Hell for ever. So that when evil Inclinations that have been sharpned by Restraint get loose, and meet with Temptation and Opportunity, and fuch a Prompter; no wonder if the Man grows wickeder than ever.

And 'tis owing in great Measure, to the Diligence and cunning Infinuations of the same cursed Tempter, that when those who have been bred up in Piety from their Youth, are seduc'd by ill Company, and Example to vicious Practices; they are often more extravagantly lewd than others, and from young Saints, according to the Proverb, become old Devils, and are hardest of all to be reclaimed. For this is an extraordinary Prize to the Spirits of Darkness, and their Great Ruler will make use of all his Art and his Power to fecure them, and prevent their Retreat; nothing shall be wanting to make them hardned in Wickedness, insensible and past feeling to any good Impressions, as if their Consciences were sear'd with a hot Iron, as the Apostle expresses it, I Tim. 4. 2. For fince good Education leaves a great and happy Prejudice in Favour of Religion, upon the Mind, and the Prepoffessions of it are not easily worn out; the Devil knows it to be needful utterly to blot out every thing of that Nature if possible, and darken the Understanding, and lay Conscience alleep, as well as corrupt the Will, and engage the Affections; and by a continu'd Run of sensual Pleasures intirely Alienate them from the Life of God, Eph. 4. 18, 19. So that nothing but God's peculiar Protection can prevent their being the very worst of Men, (as indeed they usually are) and that they have forfeited, by deferting his Service, and joyning with the Spirits of Darkness against him.

R 3 others,

And this is one Reason why new Converts to any Heresy, or such as Apostatize from

from

Vol.II

They much not and

to the clear Spir feld dwe Mal

mif

Hu

ver

Apo and har a H

ha Re fo fic

re

h

1

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 247

from Christianity, are of all the most bitter and inveterate Enemies to the Truth. They have given the great Apostate so much Power over them (which he will not fail to make use of to the utmost) and provok'd God so justly to leave them to themselves and their Enemies Mercy; that he makes intire Properties of them, and generally keeps them so for ever.

II. For Secondly, When once the Unclean Spirit is return'd, with Seven other Spirits more micked than bimself, 'tis very seldom but that he keeps his hold, and dwells there, as an absolute Lord and Master in his proper Home: And the miserable Wretches Condition is in all Humane Appearance hopeless and irreco-verable.

ol.II.

ling

and

For

irits

will

r to

eat;

nem

past

beir

, as

For

and

ion,

of of evil

out

ble,

lay

the y a

ely

ph.

pe-

ing

ney

ed, ith

nize

m

'Tis very rarely seen, if ever, that an Apostate has been recover'd to the Faith; and Obstinacy and Heresy go hand in hand together; and 'tis but too often that a Relapse into an habitual course of Vice, hath likewise prov'd incurable. I say, a Relapse into an Habitual Course of Vice, for as for falling into the single Commission of a Crime, that hath been formerly repented of; 'tis, Blessed be God, very often otherwise. But as for those that have given themselves up to a Life of Wickedness and Debauchery, after they have had a Pious Education, and led their first Years well, or as the Apostle expresses it, Having begun in the Spirit, end in the Flesh, Gal. 3. 3. This is a Moral Practical Apostacy; they deny God and their Saviour by their Works, being abominable and disobedient, and to every good Work reprobate; Tit. 1. 16. and the Consequence here, is usually as fatal as in the other Instances. In each of which, the Unhappy Creatures have expos'd themselves to the Devil's utmost Malice, and at the same time thrown themselves out of God's Protection, and forfeited his Grace and Affistance; and with strange Folly join with their worst Enemy in their own De-How then can it be otherwise, but that the last State of such Men must be worse than the first, more profligately wicked and incurable! And if any one wants further Affurance of him, let him feriously weigh and consider the two following Places of Scripture; 2 Pet. 2. 20, &c. and Heb. 6. 4, &c. In the former of which, St. Peter speaking of those that had for saken the right way, and gone astray in vicious Practices, v. 15. after they had made Profession of Christianity, tells us, that if, after Men have escap'd the Pollutions of the World through the Knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are ag

Vol.II

the lai

beginn

not to than o

the I

them.

ing to

to his

was n And

of A

terrib

who r

of the takers

the g the W

to ren they o

afresh

whic

fame fin w

Knor

no m fearfi

Indi

Saries

with

Of b

vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 249

are again entangled therein, and overcome;

1.11.

neir

ffes

the

di-

heir

able ork

nce

In-

ppy

the

ame

od's

and

join

De-

vise.

nust

tely

one

him

fol-

20, r of

that tray

had

us,

ollu-

edge

they

the latter end is worse with them than the beginning. For it had been better for them not to have known the way of Righteousness, than after they have known it, to turn from the Holy Commandment delivered unto them. But it is hapned unto them according to the true Proverb, the Dog is turn'd to his own Vomit again, and the sow that was wash'd to her wallowing in the Mire. And St. Paul in the other Place, speaking of Apoltacy from the Faith, hath these terrible Words, It is impossible for those who were once enlightned, and have tasted of the Heavenly Gift, and were made Partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good Word of God, and the Powers of the World to come; if they shall fall away, to renew them again to Repentance: Seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame. To which we may add what is faid to the same purpose, Chap. 10. 26. For if we sin willfully after that we have received the Knowledge of the Truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins: But a certain fearful looking for of Judgment, and fiery Indignation, which shall devour the Adver-Saries. He that despised Moses's Law died without Mercy under two or three Witnesses: Of how much sorer Punishment, suppose ye, 250 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath count. ed the Blood of the Covenant wherewith he was sandify'd an unholy thing, and hath done despight to the Spirit of Grace?

By all which, it appears to be a great and awakening Truth, that as much Happiness as Christianity is design'd to bring to Mankind, and will certainly bring, unless Men are their own hindrance; yet they may hinder it if they will, and make it turn to their infinitely greater Misery: And that the Condition of a Jew or Insidel will be better at present, and more tolerable at the Day of Judgment, than that of an irreclaimably wicked, or Apostatizing Christian; one that falls from the Faith or Practice of the Religion of the Holy Jesus.

Let him therefore that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he thus fall; and work out his Salvation with fear and trembling, with great Caution and watchful Circumspection, lest he be hardned thro' the Deceitfuluess of sin, Heb. 3. 13. and made an irrecoverable Prey to the great Deceits.

ftroyer.
Our Bleffed Lord hat

Our Blessed Lord hath already triumph'd over him, and so perfectly freed us from his Tyranny, that he can't do us the least Injury, unless we expose our selves to him,

Vol.II and as and ta do fo, rent to and li feldon When even (and (Furni cies an to op found trim'c we th ty, ar preser

> Cond ever, again next we b ceffar wont little,

which dies a

Dang (for and as 'twere invite him to come again lden unt.

h he bath

I.II.

reat

lap-

unyet

nake

ery:

more that

tati-

the the

and-work

ling,

De-

nade

De-

ph'd

from least

him,

and

and take Possession of us. And then we do fo, when we are careless and indifferent to Religion, neglect the Duties of it, and live a vain, idle, trifling Life, and seldom think a serious good Thought. When he finds our Souls thus empty, and even clean swept of any substantial Piety and Goodness, and without any other Furniture than wanton or worldly Fancies and Imaginations; and nothing like to oppose his Entrance, but all in a profound Security, and in this manner ready trim'd and garnish'd for him: How can we think he'll lose so fair an Opportunity, and how can we expect God should preserve us from him, when we take so little, or no Care to preserve our selves? But let us consider, how dreadful our Condition will be, even much worse than ever, should he get us into his Power again; and how extreamly difficult, and next door to impossible our escape. Can we be so unnaturally cruel as to be accessary to our own Eternal Ruine; and wont we do that to secure our Souls, which we constantly do to secure our Bodies and our Goods.

When we are continually in so much Danger, but yet may be safe if we please (for tho' our Enemies are mighty, and rage horribly, horribly, yet God who dwelleth on high is mightier, and more are for us than against us) shall we be false and treacherous to our felves? Shall we fet open the Gates to give the Infernal Powers a free Entrance, or at least, when we know what close Siege they lay, shall we keep no Guard, make no Provision for Defence? Tis true, God is our Defence and our shield, and under the Protection of the most High we shall not miscarry; but 'tis as true that he expects the Concurrence of our own best Endeavours, and then he will be our Refuge and our Fortress, and no secret Attempts by Night, no open Affaults by Day shall hurt us; He will give his Angels charge over us to keep us in all our ways, and enable us to tread upon the Lyon and the Adder, and to trample the young Lyon and the Dragon under our Feet, Psal. 91. But to expect his Protection when we are not only negligent and thoughtless of our own Safety, but of a Party with the Enemy, and do what in us lies by our Irreligion and Impiety to bring him in; this is strange Presumption, with which God must needs be highly displeas'd. And as good and gracious as he is, as defirous of our Happiness, and as ready to affift and deliver us in the time of need; yet if we are refolv'd to throw our felves away, Vol.II.

lous I

Confe unacco And

rtwas make tire Comade more from protect the Tithe m ferable fault,

glect,

our se

So whole for us Baptis Spirit, very, Sons Aid to we'll

with bim fe

his D

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 253

we may: no irresistible Force, or miraculous Desence will be us'd to preserve us from it, but we shall be lest to the sad Consequences of our most wretched; and unaccountable Choice.

ol.II.

his

inst

s to

ates

Envhat

no no

ice ?

our

most

true

OUr

11 be

ecret

ts by

ngels

ways,

and

Lyon

1. 91.

re are

f our

Ene-

Irre-

this

God

nd as ous of

t and

yet if

away,

we

And this we may be affur'd of (and 'twas our Lord's design in this Parable to make us sensible of it) that the more intire Conquest our great Champion hath made over the Spirits of Darkness, the more perfect Deliverance he hath given us from them, and the more ready he is to protect us from their Insults, and detect the Traps and Snares that they lay for us; the more inexcusable, and the more miserable shall we be, if by our own Default, our own supine Carelesness and Neglect, or incurable Wickedness, we betray our selves to him again.

So that this is the Conclusion of the whole Matter: God having done so much for us, thrown out the unclean Spirit by Baptism, and by the Grace of his Holy Spirit, since rescu'd us from his cruel Slavery, and restor'd us to the Liberty of the Sons of God; and given us sufficient Aid to preserve our Freedom inviolate, if we'll make good use of it, and co operate with it; nay, and taken Possession for himself too, by the In-dwellings of that his Divine Representative, whose merci-

ful

ful Defign is to change our Souls from Dens of Thieves, Cages of unclean Birds a Harbour for Devils, and vile Affections and Lusts, into Temples for the Bleffed God, and make them Houses of Prayer, full of Devout and Holy Thoughts, and a Resemblance of Heaven upon Earth; fo that now we must resist and drive out even the Holy Ghost himself, to make room for Satan and his Legions: God having done all this for us, expects on our part, that we should vigorously de fend our felves against all Attempts that he shall make upon us, be watchful and circumspect, and fortify with more than ordinary Care, on that fide where we are weakest, and most likely to yield to his Assaults. And then if instead of this, we are idle, and carelefs, and do nothing but drowze away our time, and enconrage the foul Fiend to come again; is but just with God to abandon us fore ver; and permit us, fince we will needs have it so, to be as wicked and as mise rable as Hell it self can make us.

Vol.II

destront before dread thou thy no but contact thou and that shoul fore me Up

T

and

from Da me

dov

Vol.II.

from

Birds, Ctions Bleffed rayer,

s, and

arth;

re out

make

God

ets on ly de

's that

al and

e than

we are to his

is, we

thing

encou-

; tis

for e-

needs mile

The

The PRAYER.

I.

BUT thou, O most Compassionate Saviour Jesus, God manifest in the Flesh to destroy the Works of the Devil! Thou Divine Conqueror of the Powers of Darkness, before whose Presence they tremble, as their dreaded Judge! Have pity on me, whom thou hast redeem'd from their Tyranny with thy most precious Blood; and suffer me not any more to fall into their merciless Hands, but cover me with the shadow of thy Wings, that under thy defence I may be safe!

Thou knowest, O Lord, whereof I am made, and remembrest that I am but Dust; and thou thy self hast experienc'd how powerful and how subtle my spiritual Enemies are, so that of my self it cannot be expected that I should stand before them: O do thou therefore come to my Assistance, and never leave me nor forsake me for thy Mercies sake! Up Lord disappoint them, and cast them down; make bare thy Almighty Arm, with which thou once didst throw them down from Heaven like Lightning, and in all my Dangers and Temptations stand up to help me: Confine their Malice, confound their Devices, 256 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. Devices, and chain them up from doing any further Mischief to me!

II.

Thon Gracious Lord, (I bless thy Good. ness) art always ready on thy part, to give me seasonable Succour and Relief; O may I never be wanting to my self, but always vigilant and sober, and in a Posture of Defence; that I may give my Enemy no advantage over me, but whenever he assaults me, beat him off with Shame and Disap.

pointment!

O do thou uphold me with thy Powerful Grace, that I may never fall from my Stedfastness, nor repent of my Repentance, nor change thy gentle reasonable Service for the intolerable Slavery of the Infernal Ty. rant; nor be deceived by his Allurements, nor affrighted by his Terrors into a neglet of my bounden Duty to thee, and a Complyance with his cursed Will: But having begun well, go on with Constancy and Resolution in the good way that I have chosen, to the last! So shall I likewise conquer by thy Might; and giving thee intire Possesfion of my Soul, be secur'd against the undean Spirits return: So shall I be full of Comfort and Joy, and Holy Hope in this World;

World me he in Sa there Heave Merci

Bleffee

Tower.

e Coff

ndati

are his

Region

SE and

th Tea

Geath

10 825

teffect

107 387

1083

1

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 257 II.lo World; and when thou shalt please to call any me bence, be guarded by thy Holy Angels in Safety to thy Blissful Presence; and there for ever triumph with thee in thy Heavenly Kingdom. Which grant for thy Mercier Sake, O most Compassionate, and ood. Bleffed Saviour Jesus A Amen. give may Lake Niv. 28, 800. pays e of For which of you intending to build a Tower steets not stown first and counters the Cost y no ults at their he have sufficient to simile it Sap-Les papty, after be back laid the Loundan on, and is not able to finile it, all rful behold it begin to work him. my Saying, this Man began to build, nce, not able to finish. for Or what King going to make war again Ty. no With north son South mill PARAconsoliteth which he be able with In nts, lect I bouldned, to meet hird that comerb weath plyhim with Inem ! bouland ? ning the mostle the other see a great way of eso-Souderh are A baffage, and defred sen, 69 seffaketh not all the keth, ke come unl of this The about Verite of this Complet, W ld; find our Lord retting the great Mult oblig

PARABLE VIII.

Of a Builder that was not able to finish, &c.

Luke xiv. 28, &c.

For which of you intending to build a Tower, fitteth not down first and counteth the Cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it?

Lest haply, after he hath laid the Foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him.

Saying, this Man began to build, and was not able to finish.

Or what King going to make War against another King, sitteth not down first and consulteth whether he be able with Ten Thousand, to meet him that cometh against him with Twenty Thousand?

Or else, while the other is a great way of, he sendeth an Ambassage, and describe Conditions of Peace.

So likewise whosoever he be of you, that for saketh not all that he hath, he cannot he my Disciple.

I N the 26th Verse of this Chapter, we find our Lord telling the great Multi-

Vol.I tudes the n If an Fath and I Life . is, no barba too, that ! 10. 3 that I Dang me : our L not be not be

Who so him sel Mark of the that for not recovered to the selection of the prefer wheth own most hor b fuffer his ve Discip Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 259 tudes that follow'd him upon account of the many Beneficial Miracles he wrought If any Man come to me and bate not his Father and Mother, and Wife and Children. and Brethren and Sisters, yea and his own Life also, he cannot be my Disciple. That is, not absolutely bate them, (which is so barbarous and unnatural, and fo impious too, that Christ could never mean it in that Sense) but as the parallel Place, Mat. 10. 37. teaches us to understand it, He that loweth Father, or Mother, or Son, or Daughter, more than me, is not worthy of me: And the same is to be understood of our Life too. And v. 38. Whosoever doth not bear his Cross and come after me, cannot be my Disciple; or as St. Mark hathir, Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his Cross and follow me, Mark 8. 34. That is, as 'tis in the Close of this Parable, Whosoever he be of you that for saketh not all that he bath, or is not ready in Preparation of Mind to do lo, whenever I shall call him to it, but will prefer any thing before me and my Service, whether it be his nearest Relations, his own Flesh and Blood, any thing that is most dear to him in this World; and will not be content to bear the Cross too, to fuffer Affliction and Persecution, and lose his very Life for my fake, Cannot be my Disciple. Now ıi.

9

to

Cost,

datithat

d wa

gainst F and b Ten

gainst

ay off, lesereth

at formot be er, we Multi-

260 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Now this, our Lord thought fit to tell the People, that in such vast Numbers crowded after him, not to discourage them from believing in him, and affright em from embracing his Doctrine, and giving themselves up to his Discipline, which he fo earnestly invited all that heard him to submit to s but that they might not deceive themselves with expeding great Worldly Advantages from being his Followers (as they were very prone to do) and have a right Notion of the Nature and Defign of the Religion he taught: Which was to wean Men from this periliing World, and fit and prepare 'em for Heaven; and likewise to warn 'em beforehand of the ill Treatment they would meet with here, and that purely for their being his Disciples, that so they might not be too much surpriz'd when it came, mor tempted to defert him by reason of it, but bear it with Patience and Constancy; and which, who oever did not, should not be owned by him, not esteem'd as worth of him. He dealt thus plainly with them, that they might know what they had to trust to, if they became his Disciples, and what as fuch he expected from them; that fo if they were refolv'd to follow him, they might do it fincerely and confi derately, and with Souls ready arm'd'a s gains May gain wor fake for Mati and abor tend first Kin fittei And like fucc thin ratio Min wha able fign. WOU and Rui giot con ly,

Vol.

llow by confi-

the

ing

ame, of it, ncy; d not orthy hem, ad to and iem; ollow consi 'd'a gaiul

I.I.

tell

bers

rage

ight

and

line,

that

they sed.

eing

ne to

Na-

ght:

rifh-

1 for fore-

ould

their

night

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 261 gainst all Difficulties, and prepar'd for the worst that could come upon them for his fake. And to shew how needful it was for him to tell them the Truth in this Matter, and for them ferioully to weigh and confider it; he spoke the Parables above recited: Namely, Which of you intending to build a Tower, sitteth not down first and countetb the Cost, &c. Or what King going to War against another King, fitteth not down first and consulteth, &c. And, as in these and all other Cases of like Nature, no Man can hope to proceed fuccessfully, by rashly venturing upon any thing without previous mature Confideration; and a Man must revolve in his Mind, by what means he may best attain what he aims at, and think whether he is able to go thorough with this or that Defign, before he meddles with it, if he would have it end prosperously and well, and not expose himself to Shame and Ruine: So in the great Concern of Religion, we must fit down and consult, and confider, and proceed warily and prudently, that we may be able effectually to do the Duties of it, (express'd here by building a Tower) and as effectually to relist all Temptations to the contrary (expres'd by one King's meeting with Ten Thousand, another that comes against him with Twenty. Twenty.) And he that takes so wise a course as this, need not doubt of finishing his great Undertaking successfully.

Having thus shewn the true Meaning and Design of these Parables; we shall in discoursing upon them, first sit down with the Builder of the Tower, and consider what will be needful to be done to compleat and finish the Spiritual Building of a Christian; what it will stand us in to be true Disciples of the Holy Jesus, and a fit Habitation for himself and his Divine Spirit to dwell in: That so, counting the Cost before-hand, we may manage this great Affair with such Prudence and Caution, as that we may at length bring it to a happy Conclusion.

I. And First, Let us consider the Nature of the Building, and what kind of Structure it is that we are to raise: That is, Let us enquire what that is which Christ hath made the great End of his Disciples Actions, to which all their Endeavours must tend; as a prudent Builder first lays his Design, and often reslects upon it, and then proceeds accordingly.

Now the End which our Holy Savious requires us chiefly to propose and aim at, is Threefold. First, that in all things we may glorify our Great and Good Creator; (2.) That we may live up to the Dignity of o Profession of the Proof than them can upon as we than

139397

our
A
of o bout
tion
to li
tion
are
out
and hav

who

act

so,

to a first 1

Prov

of

of our Excellent Nature, and most Holy Profession; (3.) That we may make our felves really and intirely happy. And to those that have read the Scripture, this is fo evident, that it needs no particular Proof. And what can more become us than to have such Aims as these, and constantly to regulate all our Actions by them? For as for the first of them, what can be more our Duty, and that bound upon us by all the Reason in the World. as well as the Commands of our Religion; than in every thing we do to endeavour to advance bis Glory, from whom we at first received our Being, and whose good Providence it is, that continually supports it, and preserves to us the free Use of all our Powers and Faculties?

-

0

d

t-

1-

of

ch

nis

nler

p.

ur

at,

we

or;

ity

ot

And as for our Living up to the Dignity of our Excellent Nature, this is what is bound upon us by the Law of our Creation, by which every Creature is oblig'd to live and act like it felf; only the Irrational Creatures do it by Instinct, as they are led and guided by their Maker, without reflecting upon their own Actions, and can't do otherwise: Whereas Man, having a Reasoning Power within him, whereby he knows what 'tis to live and act like a Man, and that he ought to do so, has withal a Liberty of Choice; so that

264 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

that he can do contrary to what he knows to be his Duty, if he pleases.

But now, this Liberty of ours, is no Excuse for our abusing it, and running Counter to our Reason, and degrading our felves in so vile a manner, but rather very much the contrary; and is a very cogent Argument to a constant Care and Circumspection, lest we be drawn into Brutish Practices when our Nature is so much above them, and make fo ill a Ufe of that Freedom of Acting, which to eminently distinguishes us from the Beasts, as by it to fink our felves to a Level with them. And all the World must own, that nothing is more highly reasonable, and fitting to be done, than for a Rational Creature, and a free Agent to make use of his Reason, and his Liberty, in doing what is most suitable to the Dignity of his Nature; and in chusing those things before all others, which will add new degrees of Perfection to it.

As for our Living worthy of our most Holy Profession, as well as our Excellent Nature; nothing can be more reasonable than when a Man has given himself up to the Guidance of such a Master, whose Wisdom is unquestionable, and whose whole Endeavour is to promote his Good, and has ty'd himself by the most Sacred

Vol.II.

and It fuch a
to his more

ably, a Excelled Direction

And

due me tirely h very g Every and 'ti be so ; staken about s Mistaken rectify)

So the Religion most we our Re of, eve And the mentio we all

ter, an

yet the tween i in effect ever we

and

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 269

and Inviolable Obligations, to observe fuch a Discipline as is directly conducive to his greatest Interest : Nothing can be more reasonable than for him to act agreeably, and conform his whole Life to fuch Excellent Rules, and comply with all the Directions of fo good a Guide.

S

0

1

y

d

0

0

h it d

al fe

g gs

e-

oft

nt

ole

up

ofe

se

d, ed nd

And as for a Man's endeavouring by all due means, to make himself really and intirely happy; to this, every one finds a very great and uncontroulable Defire-Every Man would be happy if he could, and 'tis his Creator's Defign that he should be so; and tho' we are often fatally mistaken as to what is our Happiness, and about the means to attain it, (and which Mistakes Religion only can thoroughly rectify) yet Happiness in general, is what we all do naturally and earnestly press after, and endeavour to attain.

So that we fee, that which the Christian Religion doth direct us to as our End, is most worthy of us; highly agreeable to our Reason, and such as must be approv'd of, even by those that act contrary to it. And the the last Branches of it but now mention'd, be subordinate to the first; yet there is fuch a perfect Harmony between them, that he that aims at one, must in effect aim at the other likewise (as whoever would be truly bappy, must live like a Man and a Christian; and that is the best Course he can take to glorify God) and the very same Endeavours are proper to attain them all.

Thus Noble and Compact is that Building, which our Lord requires his Followers to raise; thus exact the Symmetry of its Parts, and so inseparably link'd together, that he who builds in this manner, will indeed erect a most Glorious Structure that will last for ever.

II. But then Secondly, it must be serionfly confider'd, by what means we may be best able to compleat so great a Work; left having with much Cost and Labour laid the Foundation, and are not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock w, Saying, these Men began to build but were not able to finish. That is, lest having begun well in the great Affair of Religion, and propos'd to our felves the right end of the Actions of a Man and a Christian, and made some Advances towards it; we should be at a stand, and able to proceed no further: And thereby become the Scorn and Triumph of the great Enemy of Souls, and of profligate wicked Men; who are never better pleas'd, than when they fee hopeful Beginnings in Piety come to nothing; and make great use of such Instances to discourage Men from Vol.II.

from a

fuch ill ral, as larly count way w fully v compunish'd. inform means mentio vigorou then me

Introda

close of Places, the Work bearing going were Tolicou his fake to our confide effectuate best was

Vol.11. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 267 from attempting, what so few are able to go through with.

II.

est

nd

to ld-

W-

of ge-

ner,

ure

eri-

may ork;

nuoc

le to mock

but

hav-Re-

the nd a

s to-

ereby

f the ligate

eas'd,

ngs in great

Men

from

To prevent this therefore, which is of such ill Consequence to Religion in general, as well as to those that are particularly concern'd; We should sit down, and count the Cost, seriously enquire which way we shall best be able to go on successfully with this Spiritual Building, and compute at what Expence it may be sinish'd. That is, we must endeavour to inform our selves of the most effectual means in order to the great End beforemention'd, and in the due use of them vigorously and constantly pursue it; and then no fear of Success.

Now our Lord having told us in the Introduction to these Parables we are disourling of, v. 26, 27. - 33. and in the Close of them, as likewise in several other Places, that Self-denial and Contempt of the World, Mat. 10. 37. and a patient bearing the Cross, Mark 8. 34. or undergoing with Courage and Constancy whatever Troubles and Afflictions, or other Discouragements we shall meet with for his fake; that this is absolutely necessary to our being his true Disciples: We shall consider these Particulars, as the most effectual means for our great End; the best way we can take, and which of neceffity cessity we must take, to build up our selves as a Holy Temple for the Spirit of God to inhabit, and carry on the great Work to Persection.

means in order to this great End, and without which no Man can truly glorify his Creator, nor live up to the Dignity of his own Nature, and Holy Profession, nor consequently ever be truly and intirely happy.

Now, by Self-denial, is meant, first, the curbing and restraining the irregular and inordinate Appetites and Affections of our corrupt sinful Nature, and bringing them into Subjection to the wise and good Government of right Reason and Religion; and by no means suffering the Interests of the Soul to be disregarded for the sake of any fenfual Enjoyments:

And (2) 'tis likewise intirely to subjugate our Wills to the Will of God, and make all our Choices in conformity to his good Pleasure; and when at any time he chuses for us, and disposes of us into such and such Circumstances, and Condition of Life, how averse soever our inclinations may be to it, to say with our Blessed Lord, and with the same Sincerity and intire Resignation, Nevertheless, not my Will but thine be done:

Vol.

N our T refer been repu own (by v and l the P and? faid. high ring 1 dom, upon and a more by hi So of o follor new t out, bis, vi him of us. defire and D them Frailt he is

Nor

II.

ves

to

to

ary

end

ify

ity

on,

ire-

the

and

OUT

nem

Go-

on;

s of

e of

Sub-

and

y to

time

into ondi-

r In-

our

erity

, not

No

Nor is this all, for (3.) we must submit our Understandings too, without the least referve, to whatever Truths God hath been pleas'd to reveal to Mankind, how repugnant foever they may feem to our own Reason, or to our present Interest (by which our Reason is often corrupted and biass'd the wrong way;) and when the Revelation appears plainly to be bir, and 'tis evident that thus and thus be hath faid, immediately to bring down every high Thought to it: Admiring and adoring his infinite and incomprehenfible Wifdom, and reflecting with great Humility upon our own Blindness and Ignorance, and earnestly beseeching him more and more to enlighten our Minds, and lead us by his Bleffed Spirit into all useful Truth.

So that to deny our selves, for the sake of our great Master, and that we may sollow him as his true Disciples; is to new mould and frame our Souls throughout, to a Temper and Disposition like to bis, when he was pleased to take upon him our Nature, and converse amongst us. 'Tis to think, and chuse, to shun and desire as he did; to have the same Aims and Designs as he had, and to prosecute them by the same Means, so far as our Frailty and Impersection will allow. For he is our Divine Head, and we are his Members:

Members; and therefore as we are influ. enc'd by the same Spirit, we should mind the same things, and conform our selves in all respects to him, as our Leader and Guide, and study to be as like him as we And because in this our State of Degeneracy, our Propensions and Inclinations, and Appetites, press so violently after the Gratifications of Sense, and the things of the World; and our Notions of Good and Evil, of Truth and Falshood. are so mightily vitiated ; and we are so extreamly fond of our lower selves, our Bodies, as to make them the great Object of our Love, and lay out our chief Endeavours to please and humour them: Therefore that Wifer and Nobler Courfe above-mentioned, is call'd felf-denial; and indeed it is fo, according to the common Notion of felf, which makes the Bruit, the Man. But alas! How are the mighty fallen! What Shame, what Contempt, what Mifery, what Ruine, hath Sin brought upon our Excellent Nature! And what pains must we take to become tolerably like our selves as God first made us! And how infinitely are we indebted to our Gracious Lord, who was pleas'd to condescend so very low, as to rake our Nature upon him, that he might by his Example, his Doctrine, and his Sufferings Vol.II Sufferi us eve than t

But

will b

this: our fe really neglig differ incon never

nal R ed th that mend Fo as it Tis ! best I Natu high capa with and the d Eart in t thine

blefc

brig

10

Members :

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 271

Sufferings effect our Recovery; and raise us even to greater Honour and Excellency than that from which we fell!

Pu-

ind

ves

and

We

of

cli-

itly

the

of

od.

fo

OUT

ject

En-

m:

urse

al;

the

ikes

are

hat

ine,

Na-

e to

God

e we

was

is to ight

his

ings

But be the pains never so great, they will be well bestow'd in such a Work as this: And tho' we ought not to flatter our selves that less will accomplish it than really will, for that will make us idle and negligent, and proceed at such a cold indifferent rate as will render us like the inconsiderate Builder here in the Parable, never able to finish, and turn to our Eternal Reproach; yet when we have counted the utmost Cost, the Glorious Success that will attend it, will make ample amends for all.

For, this self-denial, as uncomfortable as it may feem at first, is really felf-love : Tis the direct Pursuit of our great and best Interest; 'tis the way to perfect our Natures, and advance our felves to the highest pitch of Happiness that we are capable of enjoying. 'Twill fill our Souls with perfect Serenity and Satisfaction here; and when we have shaken off this troublesome Load of Flesh which present down the Soul, and as 'twere chains it to this Earth, 'twill fix us in an Orb of Glory in the highest Heavens, where we shall thine for ever; and joyn with all the bright Intelligences there, in the true Mufick 272 Practical Discourses upon the Volis.

fick of the Spheres : Singing the Praises of the Eternal Fountain of Light, and Love, and Bliss; and together with the Morning Stars, and all the Sons of God, Shouting triumphantly aloud for Joy, Job 38.7.

II. As for Contempt of the World, which is another requisite to make us true Disciples of Jefus, 'twill naturally follow upon this felf-denial; and he that hath thus gotten the Victory over himself, will eafily overcome the World too, and be dead to all its little Enjoyments, and ready to part with all, when his Duty to his great Mafter requires it.

When the Soul is become truly Christian, and hath fuch Noble Aims and Defigns, as our Lord hath taught us to propole to our felves, and hath conquer'd the main Hindrances in her Pursuit of them, which fpring from vicious Self-love; this will make the happy Man fit to loofe to every thing here below, that he will value the dearest things here, as nothing in comparison with the Favour of God, and the Hopes of Eternal Life; and forfake them as readily when inconsistent with that his great End, as a poor Mechanick would do the Tools of his Trade, and his little dirty Shop, for a stately Palace, and a great Estate. For how can he but contemn the World, who lives in continual View

Vol.I of H God, Pray the I after after God, come my G fuch the So bim fe than ' Bleffe and I and 1 Imme ness a for hi III.

An and Ca to the on hi the ta his Sa his fal

Th and w Lord's ty Te

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 273 of Heaven! And daily converseth with God, and his Saviour, by Meditation and Prayer, and Holy Breathings, like that of the Royal Psalmist, As the Hart panteth after the Water-brooks, So panteth my Soul after thee O God. My Soul is athirst for God, even the living God, O when shall I come to appear before the Blissful Presence of my God! Pfal. 42. 1, 2. The Life that . fuch a one lives, He lives by the Faith of the Son of God, who lov'd him, and gave himself for him. He lives by Faith more than by Sense, even by the Faith of his Bleffed Redeemer, who hath brought Life and Immortality to light by his Gospel: and his Thoughts are fix'd upon those Immense Treasures of Glory and Happiness above, which Jesus hath purchased for him.

And he that has thus learn'd Self-denial, and Contempt of the World, is in a fair way to the 111

of

ve,

ing

ing

ich

ſci-

noc

hus

ea-

ead

to

reat

ian,

ns,

to

ain

ich

will

ery

the

ipa-

the

nem

his

nld

ittle

da

emn

iew

of

III. Third thing requir'd to his carrying on his Spiritual Euilding to Perfection, the taking up his Cross, rather than desert his Saviour, and even losing his Life for his sake.

This indeed is the great Tryal of all, and when 'twill cost so much to be our Lord's faithful Disciple; 'twill be a mighty Temptation to do as those did in the

T

Gospel,

274 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Gospel, who went back and walk'd no more with him, John 6. 66.

back, and flies from Pain, and Trouble, and Affliction, and most of all from Death, that King of Terrors; especially when led on by Persecution, and attended with Shame and Reproach, and all the Torments that cruel Men can invent. This is terrible indeed; and it requires great Consideration in our selves, and extraordinary Assistances of the Spirit of God to enable a Man to bear up under such disheartning Tryals as these, and with Courage and Constancy to hold out, and endure to the end.

But this we may depend upon, that if we do our part, God will not fail of doing his; if we prepare our felves before hand for such sad Times by proper Confiderations, and put on the Armour of Righteousness on the Right Hand and on the Left; we need not doubt, but when God shall think sit to call us actually to the Combat, he will carry us through, and bring us off with Triumph.

Let us therefore with the King in the other Parable, that was going to war against another King, sit down first, and consult, whether we be able with ten Thousand to meet him that cometh against us with twenty

Thousand;

Thou, of the vastly preva

and v

Bu our p fend of Pe Powe into ! ardice the B has fo Tyra him o open again and r Propo the g but o no C parle Stren in the on bo Rebe

Davi

pion engag Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 275 Thousand; even the Prince of the Powers of the Air, whose Strength and Cunning vastly exceeds ours, and who must needs

II.

ore

iks

ole,

om.

illy

all

ent:

and t of

nder and

out,

at if dofore-

Con-

r of

d on

when

ly to ugh,

n the gainst

nsult,

nd to

wents

fand;

prevail over us, if confider'd nakedly, and without respect to some Foreign Aid.

But what then? Must we, while this our potent Enemy is yet a great way off, send an Ambassage, and desire Conditions of Peace? Must we yield to his greater Power, and give our felves up as a Prey into his Teeth? This would be vile Cowardice indeed, in those that fight under the Banner of the Victorious Jesus, who has fo often triumph'd over that Infernal Tyrant, and rescu'd us so gloriously from him once already. No, we must declare open War against him all our days, and against all his Confederates and Allies; and not in the least hearken to any of his Proposals of Peace and Amity: For he is the great Deceiver, who aims at nothing but our Ruine; and therefore, no Truce, no Ceffation of Arms, nor fo much as parlee in this Religious War. But in the Strength of our great Leader Jesus, and in the Power of his Might, we must march on boldly against him, and defy this great Rebel to the Lord of Hosts. Saying as David did to Goliah, that monstrous Champion of the Philistines, when he went to engage him, Thou comest to me with a Sword, and with a Spear, and with a Shield, with all the dreadful Weapons of Destruction, with Legions of Temptations and Snares, and a mighty Force to crush me into Ruine; But I come to thee in the Name of the Lord of Hosts, the God of the Armies of Israel, I Sam. 17. 45. who once threw thee down from Heaven like Lightning, and compleated his Conquest over thee upon the Cross, and by his Aid I shall not fail of Victory.

Such a Faith as this, as it will overcome the World, so will it overcome the God of it too; and all the Principalities and Powers, and the Rulers of the Darkness of it that are employ'd against us. But then we must be constantly upon our Watch and our Guard, and put on the whole Armour of God, that we may be able to stand in the evil Day, and having overcome all to stand, Eph. 6. 11, &c.

Stand therefore, having your Loins girt about with Truth, and Sincerity; which will make you resist your great Enemy in earnest, with Life and Spirit, as those that have indeed a Desire to conquer. And have on the Breast-plate of Righteousness, a Conscience word of offence both towards God and Man: for nothing makes a Man so brave as Innocence, and Virtue, and nothing so faint-hearted and timorous as Guilt;

Guilt Prov pursu And ration with in yo and thor Trap laid Figh Caln tion, best of th the I fet u tho' the I the 1 A the l

Vol.I

the nish shall the nish of s fed grea

h

n,

S,

ų-

be

of

W

g, ee

ot

me

od

nd

ess

But

Jur

the

ble

er-

girt

ich

in

hat

And

refs,

ards

Man

and is as

ilt;

Guilt; as Solomon long ago could observe, Prov. 28. 1. The wicked flee when no Man pursueth, but the righteous are bold as a Lyon. And let your Feet be shod with the Preparation of the Gospel of Peace, be prepar'd with Patience to go through all Hardships in your Spiritual Conflict, to tread boldly and confidently in the most rough and thorny ways, and to break through the Traps of what kind soever, that shall be laid to ensnare you; and fight the good Fight not with Rage and Fury, but with Calmness of Mind, and a sedate Resolution, which is the truest Courage, and best becomes the quiet, peaceful Temper of the Gospel; and is most agreeable to the Example that our great General hath fet us, who conquer'd Hell and Death, tho' with undaunted Bravery, yet not with the Fierceness and Roar of a Lyon, but the Meekness and Stillness of a Lamb.

Above all, taking the Shield of Faith, in the Promises of God and our Saviour, and the certainty of Eternal Rewards and Punishments in another World, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery Darts of the wicked one. For what can be of Force sufficient to affright a Man from the ways of sincere Religion, and Duty to the Blessed Jesus, who attends to the exceeding great Reward he hath promis'd to crown

T:

·K

it with in the Kingdom of Light and Glory? And what can prevail with any one to walk in the ways of Sin, that confiders whither they tend, even to outer Dark. ness and Despair in Hell, where shall be weeping and wailing and gnashing of Teeth for ever? And take the Helmet of Salvation: That is, repose your Confidence in the meritorious Efficacy of your Redeemer's Sufferings, who has overcome the Powers of Darkness, and will secure all those from falling into the Hands of the Destroyer, who fight couragiously and put their Trust in his Help. This Hope will cover your Heads in the Day of Battle, and inspirit you with true Christian Fortitude, and make you able to maintain your Ground: But then, you must likewise take the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God, be diligent in the Study of the Holy Scriptures, whereby ye shall grow wife to Salvation, and be able to detect the Hellish Stratagems of your Infernal Enemy; and be ready to repel his more open Affaults, as our Divine Champion did in the Wilderness, with "Thus and thus it is written, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou Germe Mat A: 10 The Wages of Sin is

" serve, Mat. 4: 10. The Wages of Sin is " Death, but the Gift of God is Eternal " Life, through Jesus Christ our Lord, "Rom.

Vol.II

" Ro

" his

" in " De

" Fi

as the with ment rours

and by fe

Advi

not i

your Suffic

> whi Spir

Sup

we

it a

our

ma

I.II.

10-

One

lers

rk-

be

of

t of

nfi-

Our

me

ure

of

ind

ope

at-

ian

ain

ke-

bis

ldy

nall

to

In-

his

m-

bus

the

bou

1 15

nal

rd,

m.

" Rom. 9. 23. For what shall it profit a " Man to gain the whole World and lose " his own Soul, and what shall a Man give " in exchange for his Soul ? Mark 8. 36. " Depart from me ye cursed into everlasting " Fire, prepared for the Devil and his " Angels, Mat. 25. 41. Such home Thrusts as these will make the Fiend fly from you with Terror and Shame, and Disappointment; and render you more than Conquerours through Christ that strengthneth you? and whose Aid you must always call for by fervent Prayer, and watch thereunto with all Perseverance: (which was our Lord's Advice to his Apostles, in the Garden of his Agony, Watch and pray that ye enter not into Temptation, Mat. 26. 41.) for of

This is that whole Armour of God which will render us invulnerable in our Spiritual Warfare; and this will be our Support too in all other Troubles and Afflictions that are of God's sending, and we do not foolishly and wickedly bring upon our selves. And then, we may count it all Joy, that we have fallen into divers Temptations, Jam. 1. 2. when the Tryal of our Faith hath wrought Patience, and Patience Experience, and Experience Hope, that maketh not asham'd, Rom. 5. 3, 45.

And

your selves ye can do nothing, and all your

And should we lose our Lives for our dear Lord, rather than prove false and rebellious to him; that Death would be our Gain: And Eternal Life, in Joy unspeakable and full of Glory, Mat. 10.39. Thall compensate the Loss of that which scarce deserves the Name of Life, it is so short, so uncertain, and so full of Trouble, Tho' we must expect therefore to be exercis'd with Temptations, with Troubles and Afflictions in the Faithful Service of our Lord, (and the more we expect them the better able shall we be to behave our felves well under them when they come) and tho' fometimes 'twill be necessary for us to refift even unto Blood; yet let us not be dismay'd, for if God be for us, who can be against us? And he that with a true Christian Courage and Resolution maintains his Post, and looks up to Jesus for Help, shall either be supported under all his Tryals, and carry'd fafely through them; or else, as his Lord did, he shall conquer by dying, and be made perfect by those very Sufferings, which seem'd to crush him to pieces. Therefore, says our Lord, Fear none of those things which thou Shalt Suffer, but be thou faithful unto Death, and I will give thee a Crown of Life, Rev. 2. 10. And in the 5. Matt. 10, &c. Blefsed are they which are persecuted for Righteousness

vol.II.

Heave vile ye manne

Sake 3

The fering World one of our Hall world from would Patien Knife, to tal Refigure of Jo is Important State Chall cordinate Temp dive

that o

preve

teousness sake, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven. Blessed are ye, when Men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of Evil against you falsty for my sake; Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your Remard in Heaven.

II.

ur

nd

be

m-

39.

ich

fo

ole.

be

les

of

em

our

ne)

for

US

oho

rue

in-

for

all

igh

nall fect

to

our

bou

ath.

ev.

lef-

igh-

ness

This Doctrine of rejoycing under Sufferings, I know is look'd upon by the World as unpracticable Nonsense, and is one of the Atheistick Objections against our Holy Religion; and were we all Body, and our Duration confin'd to this World, and did our chief Happiness arise from the Gratifications of Sense, there would be something in it: And to preach Patience and Silence to a Swine under the Knife, would not be more ridiculous than to talk to such a sensitive Man as this, of Resignation and Acquiescence, much less of foy, under what is painful and afflicitive to his Sense.

But if we have Reason, and a Soul that is Immortal, and expect a future endless State in a Spiritual World, in which we shall be for ever happy or miserable, according to our Behaviour here, and the Temper and Disposition of our Souls in this first Life; Then whatever tends to that our chief Hap
* Hoc incolumi; non tantum piness, * and will secons Oculos tuos esse, sed prevent Eternal Mi
* Hoc incolumi; non tantum piness, * and will secons Oculos tuos esse, sed prevent Eternal Mi-

fery,

282 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

fery, however sharp and pungent it may be to Flesh and Blood, ought to be born, not with Pa. tience and Refigna.

Calamitates in Remedium Ceffere ; & Levioribus Incommodis Graviora Sanata funt. Seneca.

tion only, but with Chearfulness and Joy. And nothing does more fenfibly demon. frate the Excellency of our Holy Religion, nor do more Honour to the Divine Author of it, than for those that profess it, thus nobly to bear up under the Preffures of Affliction. It shews there is something very extraordinary in it, that railes the Soul thus above the World; and fills the Heart and Mouth with Praise, and A. doration, and Love, of that very Being who takes from us our present Comforts, It shews what glorious Expectations they have, who account their Sufferings here, how great soever, as light and nothing, when in the Ballance with that exceeding weight of Glory, that maffy substantial Fe-

Nihil aque Magnam apud nos Admirationem Occupat, quam Homo fortiter Mifer. And as in the Pri-licity referved in Heaven for them. mitive Times nothing did more recommend the Christian Religion to the World as truly Divine, than the Constancy, and Patience, and Heroick Bravery of those that fuffer'd for it; fo now, the same Patience, tho' exercis'd Vol.II. cis'd b vincin fitutio ness o

No in Tri 12. Cl own I his gr ciful I have 1 accou Ha Mode our S have God's own I is bec Excel what ness. this E Pains to Pe our / ready follo Chri

ence

men

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 283 cis'd by other Tryals, must needs be a convincing Argument that 'tis a Heavenly Institution, which teaches such true Greatness of Mind as this.

II.

nay

and be

Pa.

na-

oy. on.

eli.

ine

fess

ref-

me-

iles

fills

A-

eing

orts.

they

nere;

bing,

ding

Fe.

nem.

Pri-

110-ftian

vine,

and

d for exer-

cis'd

No wonder therefore if St. Paul gloried in Tribulations, Rom. 5. 3. 2 Cor. 11. 6. 12. Chap. which tended fo much to his own Eternal Happiness, and the Glory of his great and good Creator, and most merciful Redeemer; and all good Christians have reason to do so too, upon the same accounts; 1 Pet. 3. 14. - 4. 16.

Having thus feen what is the Defign or Model we are to propose to our selves in our Spiritual Building, and always to have in our Eye as we proceed; namely, God's Honour and Glory, the perfecting our own Nature, and doing nothing but what is becoming the Dignity of it, and the Excellency of our Holy Profession, and what may conduce to our Eternal Happiness: And having counted the Cost of this Building, and feen what Charge and Pains we must be at if we would bring it to Perfection; namely, that we must deny our selves and contemn the World, and be ready to for sake all Earthly Comforts to follow our great Master in the ways of Christian Vertue, and to bear with Patience whatever Troubles and Discouragements shall be laid in our way, and with unshaken unshaken Resolution to resist to the utmost, whatever Temptations we may meet with to leave the great Work unfinish'd, and even to lose our very Lives for his sake, when he shall please to call us to that Tryal of our Faith; I shall now draw a few Inferences from what hath been discours'd, and so conclude.

And first, from hence we may learn how needful frequent and serious Consideration is, to carry on this most important Busi. ness of Salvation with Success. no Business can succeed well without it, unless by some strange unusual Chance; much less can we expect that of Salvation should, which hath so many Difficulties attending it: And tho' a Man may happen to become rich by fome lucky unthought of Hit, and prosper in some Affairs of the World he knows not how; yet no Man ever did or shall arrive at Heaven by chance, and fave his Soul before he thinks of it, or has done any thing in order to it in the way that Christ hath directed.

For it is not so easy a matter to be a true Christian, as many of us are apt to believe; and to be renew'd in the Spirit of our Minds, quite chang'd and alter'd in the Temper and Disposition of our Souls, according to the Holy Rules of the Gospel,

vol.II
and m
and be ment
Readi
nefs,
crify,
like,
prefly
Kinge
to tree our in

Thou Wate Indula

W

Paffiv

in all

pel of

of ficonfide Work we me to it. Life, coun way

ls, what

III.

ut-

neet

h'd,

his

s to

raw

dif-

NOC

tion

Busi-

leed

t it,

ice;

tion

lties

hap-

un-

Af-

ow;

re at

l be-

hing

hath be a pt to rit of

'd in

ouls,

spel,

and

and made new Creatures; to be converted. and become as little Children, in Contentment and Humility, in Meekness, and a Readiness to Reconciliation and Forgiveness, in a Freedom from Guile and Hypocrify, and hurtful Diffimulation, and the like, without which our Lord hath expresly told us, we shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, Mat. 18. 3. Finally, to tread in the steps of our Blessed Saviour in the Practice of both the Active and Passive Virtues of his Holy Religion, and in all respects to live as becomes the Gospel of Christ: This is not so easily done as we may be apt to imagine; and much Thought, and Care, and Circumspection, Watchfulness and Contrivance, and great Industry and Diligence is necessary in such a Work as this.

We should therefore frequently sit down, and with that Seriousness which a Matter of such infinite Consequence requires, consider with our selves what a mighty Work we have upon our hands, and how we may most effectually apply our selves to it, and not spend our short uncertain Life, in that thoughtless, trisling unaccountable manner, as is but too much the way of the World. We should often look to our great End, and bethink our selves what are the best Means to attain it; and not live so perfectly at random as too many do, making their own Fancy and Humour the sole Rule of their Actions, and studying nothing but how to gratify their sensual Appetites, living in Idleness, Luxury, and Riot, as if they had no higher Principle in them than the Beasts that perish.

not

But can any Man that has the Light of Reason only to direct him, think that he was born for fuch a Life as this? * Much less can any Christian that has read the Scriptures, be so befotted as to expect to fave his Soul at this rate? Why are we exhorted to strive to enter in at the strait Gate, and told that many shall seek to enter in, in a careless, indifferent manner, and (ball not be able? Luke 13. 24. Why does the Apostle advise us to work out our Salvation with Fear and Trembling? Phil. 2. 12. Why this, and a great deal more of the same Nature every where to be met with in the Holy Writings, if 'twere not a matter of Difficulty, and fuch as requir'd our best endeavours to accomplish? And Vol.II from fidera it wo it wo use o his Fobelt thing these name our pexpressions.

finish

ter fo

layin nify, if w

^{*} Est aliquid quo tendis, & in quod dirigis Arcum?
An passim sequeris Corvos, testaq; luteq; Securus quo pes serat, atq; ex Tempore Vivis?
Discete q; O miseri, & causas Cognoscite Revum, Quid sumus, aut quidnam victuri Gignimur—Pers. 3. Sat.

if so, why is it so strangely neglected a why every thing prefer'd before it? Why do we defer from time to time, the fetting about this great, this necessary, this difficult work, and create to our felves other vain Employments on purpose to put this by; or if we are perswaded at any on it, break it off 1.11.

ma-

Hu-

and heir

UX-

her

pet of

t he

luch

the

t to

We

trait

nter

and

does

Sal-Phil.

nore

met

not air'd

And

t.

if

Sine Proposito vagantur queperiwaded at any rentes negotia, nec qua Desti-time to enter up- naverunt agunt, sed in qua Incurrunt. Seneca.

again, almost as soon as begun?

All this, proceeds in a great measure, from want of Thought, and ferious Consideration; and therefore he that thinks it worth his while to be fav'd, must think it worth his while to consider; and make use of all his Reason, his Prudence, and his Forefight, in contriving how he may best finish that great Work, which if not finish'd, 'twould have been infinitely better for him if he never had been born.

II. And this puts me in mind of another thing I would infer from the former of these Parables we have been considering, namely, the Necessity of Perseverance in our pious Endeavours; and as the Apostle expresses it, of Perfecting Holiness in the Fear of God, 2 Cor. 7. 1. For what will laying the Foundation of a Building signify, tho' with never fo much Exactness, if we then leave off, and take no care to finish finish it? And should we go on to raise the Superstructure; the higher we go, the more Expence and Labour will be loft, if we don't go thorough with it, and by giving the finishing Stroke to it, make it fit for use. Without this, the Builder does but expose himself to Peoples Talk and Censure, and his Building will soon come to nothing. And fo it is in Religion: The continuing stedfast in it to the End. Heb. 3. 14. is that which will intitle us to the Immense Rewards of it. Thus our Lord, Mark 13. 15. He that endureth to the end the Same shall be Sav'd; But if any Man draw back, fays St. Paul to the He. brews, my Soul shall have no pleasure in him, Heb. 10. 38. And therefore we are fo often exhorted to hold fast the Profession of our Faith without wavering, to be stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, and the like, 1 Cor. 15. ult. that fo our Labour may not be in vain, and in due time we may Reap if we faint not. And upon this account it is that St. James fays, Faith without Works is dead, and unprofitable, being alone; 'tis as useless as a Foundation without a Building rais'd upon it: And accordingly St. Jude advises us to build up our selves in our most holy Faith, Jude 20. not to content our selves with having laid a good Ground-work, but to compleat vol.I comply vertuit to how Natur Adilige our Mas need proceed day for a li witho Current of the Wildowage Vas foo a Mad to reb What from f For fob, I thou the thy. Sel and ar

Cast ab bold ev

Then n

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 289 compleat the beauteous Pile of Christian Vertue, and labour continually to bring it to Perfection. And whoever reflects how averse to true Piety our corrupted Nature is, and how rapidly the Stream of our Affections runs against it; and how diligent our great Enemy is to quicken our Motion the wrong way: Will find it as necessary for a Christian to be always proceeding onward, and making every day some further Progress in Religion; as for a Man to ply his Oars vigoroufly, and without intermission, that rows in a strong Current againd Wind and Tide.

I.II.

aise

the

, if

by e it

loes

and

ome

on:

nd.

us

our b to any He-

him.

fo

Tion

faft,

pork

ult.

and

not.

imes

un-

as a

pon s us

with,

with it to

leat

III. In the last Place; if, as the latter of these Parables represents it, 'tis the Wisdom of a weak Prince, not rashly to wage War with one of double Force, but as soon as he can to make Peace: What a Madness is it for a poor weak Creature to rebel against his Almighty Creator! What but utter Ruine can be expected from such an unequal Conflict!

For let me demand, as God once did of Job, Hast thou an Arm like God, or canst thou thunder with a Voice like him? Deckthy self now with Majesty and Excellency, and array thy self with Glory and Beauty. Cast abroad the Rage of thy Wrath, and behold every one that is proud, and abase him. Then will I also confess unto thee, that thy

U

own

own right hand can save thee, Job 40.9, &c. What stinging Upbraidings are these, and how to the Life do they express the Impo. tency of a poor despicable sinful Mortal, when contending with his Maker! How do they force from us Job's Confession and Self-Abasement; Behold, I am vile, what shall I answer thee? I will lay my hand upon my Mouth, Job 40. 4. Because I have added Rebellion to my Sin, and clapp'd my bands, and multiply'd my words against God, Job 34. ult. Can we think that God will always tamely put up the Indignities we offer him, and that our Rebellion and Disobedience shall always go unpunish'd? Will he never think we vindicate his Honour, and shew a Difference between the righteous and the wicked? Are all his terrible Threatnings meer Noise, and those dreadful Descriptions he has given us of the Process at the great Day of Judgment, wherein he will require of us an Account of our Works, and judge us according to them, and of the Wrath to come against those that have been Workers of Iniquity, when the most exquifite Torments both of Soul and Body, shall be their sad Portion for ever, with. out the least Allay or Mitigation? Is all this nothing but Poetical Fiction, or high words that will never be made good? For God's

Vol. God with be p titud Veng able terri too and Merc great who ceffic true come

> M thy (Jesu Man prepa

who

who

upor

in G

nify

God's fake let us not footh our felves up with fuch ridiculous Fancies as thefe: Bur be perswaded, if not by Love and Gratitude, yet by the Terrors of the Divine Vengeance, against which none shall be able to stand, immediately, before that terrible Day shall come (for then 'twill be too late) to fend an humble Ambassage, and desire Conditions of Peace. To beg Mercy and Compassion through Jesus the great Mediator between him and us whose Merits are all-sufficient, and Intercession most prevalent for all that with true Faith, and unfeigned Repentance come to God by him. That for his fake who is the Eternal Son of his Love, in whom he is well pleased; he would look upon us with Pity and Compassion!

The PRAYER.

MOST Blessed, and Holy God! who graciously desirest the Happiness of all thy Creatures, and in infinite Mercy hast sent Jesus the Son of thy Love, to rescue sinful Mankind from the Depths of Misery, and prepare them for the Enjoyment of thy self in Glory: All Love and Praise be to thee, and may thy inexpressible Goodness be magnify'd for ever!

II.

xc. nd

al, ow

ion ile,

use

and ords

ink the

our ays we

iffewic-

neer

ions

reat

idge

rath been

ex-

ody, vith.

Is all

high For

God's

How Holy, Just, and Good; how noble, how lovely, and how excellent above all other, is the Religion which Jesus hath vouchsafd to teach us; and that Duty and Service which he requireth of us I How directly do bis Divine Precepts tend to perfect our Na. ture, and make us fit for Heaven! But since, Alas! it is so hard for us in this our degenerate State, to do the Good that we defire and ought to do, and we find our selves too ready to comply with Temptations to Evil: O grant that we may be so wife as. Seriously to lay to Heart the bazardous Condition we are in, and employ all the Reason thou hast given us to discover the Snares of the great Deceiver, and take those Measures which are most conducive to our Happiness! And do thou keep us by thy Divine Protection from all things hurtful, and by the Guidance of thy good Spiritlead us to all things profitable to our Salvation.

17.

What mighty Encouragement, hast thou given us, Blessed Redeemer, to be stedfast, unmoveable, and always abounding in the Works of Holiness; by promising such Glorious Rewards to those that do so, as Eye hath not seen, nor Ear heard, neither can enter into the Heart of Man to conceive! We earnestly beseech thee, therefore, merciful Lord,

230

Vol.II Lord, the T

may p sition and F

Discorn Scorn

compa

An King thou clean) Defile that the Will, Obed we man

feveri

and Ame

10 3

all III

Lord, to give us Grace so duly to attend to the Transcendent Excellency of those thy precious and invaluable Promises, that we may persist in thy Service against all Opposition what soever: And bear up with Courage and Patience, under all Difficulties and Discouragements, and with Contempt and Scorn reject all Temptations, how alluring soever to the contrary; as not worthy to be compared with our glorious Reversion above.

And since, into thy Presence and thy Kingdom no unclean thing can enter, do thou enable us by thy Heavenly Aid, to cleanse and purify our Souls from all those Desilements which are abominable to thee; that we may no tonger resist thy Heavenly Will, but submit our selves intirely to thy Obedience. That so at length, after a persevering Piety and Holy Preparation bere, we may be admitted into those Regions of Purity and Love, of Happiness and Glory; where thou, most Blessed God, Father, San, and Holy Ghost, livest and reignest for ever. Amen, Amen.

Design of his Parable being now defined our good Gud is of fast,

II.

le,

er.

f'd

nice

do

Va-

But

our

ne

OUT

ons

vise

lous

the

the

bose

our

thy

tful,

lead

on.

Glo-Eye can

ive!

ciful ord;

Dire

PARA

PARABLE IX.

Of the Lost Sheep.

Luke xv. 4.

What Man of you having an Hundred Sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the Ninety and Nine in the Wilderness, and go after that which is lost until he find it?

And when he bath found it, he layeth it on bis Shoulders rejoycing.

And when he cometh Home, he calleth together his Friends and Neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoyce with me, for I have found my Sheep which was lost.

I say unto you, that likewise foy shall be in Heaven over one Sinner that repenteth, more than over Ninety and Nine just Persons which need no Repentance.

THE Design of this Parable being the same with that of the Prodigal Son, Ver. 11. of this Chapter: Namely, to shew how desirous our good God is of the Recovery of a Sinner from a Course of Wickedness to a Sense of his Duty, and

Vol.l and ed it ing

Para Tho fider

Sens to d flect

· A

and faith that to h we way go

wit. her

gre kin

The the

N th

W

and how pleas'd he is when he hath effected it; I once intended to pass it by, having formerly discours'd upon that other Parable, Vol. 1. 7. 365. But upon second Thoughts, having duly weigh'd and consider'd it, I found enough in it of peculiar Sense, as well as Variety of Expression, to deserve our serious and particular Reflections upon it.

II.

eep,

the

and

and

on oge-

ing

ave

e in eth.

just

ing

igal

ely,

s of

arfe

aty,

And because both in the New Testament and the Old, we frequently find God's faithful People call'd his Sheep, and those that wander from the Paths of their Duty to him, compar'd to stray or lost Sheep; we will first consider the Reason of this way of Expression, and improve it as we go to our Practice; and then conclude with some Remarks upon the good Shepherd's so diligently feeking his Lost Sheep, and great Care to bring it back again fafe to his Flock; which is an Argument of greater Tenderness than only to receive it kindly when it should return of its felf, (as the Father did his Prodigal Son.) Therefore, of the two, this Parable exalts the Divine Compassion to a Sinner to the greater Height: And gives us a clearer Notion of his infinite Mercy. And as for the Joy that was occasioned by the lost Sheep's being found; that being the same with what is faid upon the return of the 296 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Prodigal, we shall need say the less upon that Particular now, having considered it before upon that Parable.

on what Accounts God's Faithful People, or Men under the Discipline of the true Religion, especially the Christian, are so often call'd Sheep in the Holy Writings?

1. And it may be, in the first Place, because a Sheep is a Creature remarkable for its being perfectly barmless and innocent, and free from all hurtful Qualities and Dispositions. And such, is every one oblig'd to be, that is under the Discipline of the Religion of Christ Jesus; and such will every one be that fincerely and intirely gives himself up to that Holy Discipline. For what more strictly forbidden in the New Testament especially, than the offering any Harms or Injuries to any Man, even to an Enemy, or so much as the returning those that are done to us; unless it be in the necessary Defence and Preservation of a Man's self, which is the prime Obligation of Nature? And what an admirable Example in this Instance, has our Saviour set us, that spotless Lamb of God, in his Conversation in the World, and then expresly commands all his Fold to learn of him, Mat. 11. 29. and tread in his Bleffed Steps. And accordingly, all along,

Vol.I

along Religion

Ar those Busin can g to do on the

and Difg
ing t fpeci fpeci
Title
anity

not t

of R

polit Sensi Winto

from

Floc meen mitte

of h

Reli

along, from the beginning of our Holy Religion till now, none so remarkably inoffensive in their Intercourse with Men, as the truly good Christian.

II.

on lit

ip-

le,

ue

fo

be-

for

nt,

nd

ob-

of

ich

inci-

len the

iny

las

us;

ind

the hat has

b of

rld,

old

l in

ng,

And if fo, what fort of Creatures are those to be esteem'd, who make it their Business to ensnare and prey upon all they can get within their reach; who delight to do Mischief, and value themselves upon their being able to circumvent their Neighbour to his Prejudice? These are not the Qualities of harmless Sheep, but of Ravenous Wolves, and Crafty Foxes, and Devouring Lyons: And whatever Difguise such Persons may put on, shrowding themselves under fair Professions, and specious Pretences, and good Names and Titles, this is not the Temper of Christianity, and no part of the Wisdom that is from above, which is peaceable and gentle, and not at all injurious; but rather a Difposition that is most evidently Earthly, Sensual, and Devilish.

Wherefore let no Man deceive himself into an Opinion of his being one of the Flock of Christ, and a Sheep of his Pasture, meerly because he was, when young, admitted into his Fold by Baptism, and has ever since gone in and out with the rest of his Sheep in the outward Exercises of Religion; for he that hath not the Spirit or Temper of Christ is none of his, and a harmless Innocence is the inseparable concomitant of such as are Christians indeed, and truly under the Discipline of the great Shepherd of the Sheep Christ Jesus.

298 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

II. Secondly, As a Sheep is a very barm. less Creature, so 'tis a very useful and profitable one; and so should every Christian endeavour to be in all his Relations to the best of his Ability. Hence it is that our Lord calls his Disciples the Salt of the Earth, such as should season the prophaner World by their pious Conversation; and a Light that is fet in an eminent place, and therefore, fays he, Let your Light fo shine before Men, that they may see your good Works, and glorify your Father which is in Heaven, by praising God for them, and imitating your Excellent Example. And the Apostle says agreeably, the manifestation of the Spirit, or the manifold Gists and Graces that Christians receive from God, is given to every Man to profit withal, 1 Cor. 12. 7. and our great Master has lead the way, in spending his Days, nay his Blood, in doing Good to Mankind.

A Sheep then of the Flock of Jesus, should make it his earnest, and his constant Endeavour, to be as beneficial as he can to all Men. All narrow spirited Selfishness should be quite laid aside amongst Christian stians;

Vol.

frian

Let

anoth

we a

ceffit

recei

Advi

us, a

when go a

our

we i

fervi

to en

Bretl Tritab Man and rate Supp Adv

selve.

and liger uleft of a

that labor

have

stians; according to that of the Apostle, Let no Man feek his own, but every Man another's Welfare, 1 Cor. 10, 24. And as we are very defirous in our feveral Necessities and Troubles, and Afflictions, to receive Help and Relief, Comfort and Advice, from fuch as are able to give it us, and think it very hard and unnatural when it is deny'd; fo are we oblig'd to go and do likewise to others, and to love our Neighbour as our felves. And that we may be capable of being effectually serviceable to others, we must not neglect to enlarge our Ability, by improving our selves in what may do any good to our Brethren.

Thus he that would be thoroughly charitable to the Poor, must be prudent in the Management of his own Circumstances; and by Industry and Sobriety, and moderate Care, enable himself more freely to supply another's Wants: Agreeable to the Advice of St. Paul, Eph. 4. 28. Let a Man labour working with his hands, that he may have to give to him that needeth.

And he whose Business it is to instruct, and exhort, and advise, should labour diligently to improve his own Mind in all useful Knowledge; and first cure himself of all irregular Affections and Practices, that he may the more effectually and experimentally.

perimentally

II.

oned,

eat.

m-ian

to hat

the

ha-

on;

ace,

t fo

your

hich

iem,

iple.

ani-

Gifts

rom

thal,

lead

his esus,

Stant

e 'can

hness

Chri-

ans;

300 Practical Discourses upon the Vol II.

perimentally apply the Cure to others,

Physician heal thy Self.

And in a word, he that is made a Steward of any of the good Gifts of God, and intrusted with any Talent by our great Master; must by no means be stothful and idle, much less unfaithful in his Trust, but employ what he has received to the good of the Community, that his prositing may appear unto all, and he may communicate to others of the Bounty which God has bestowed upon himself.

But if this be true Christianity in this Instance, how strangely unlike it is the general Practice of the World! Where self is all that is regarded, and so a Man's own particular private Interest be advanc'd, he cares not what becomes of his Neighbour of the Publick. and to tramon illinent die

What more commonly seen than Mens cringing and fawning when they hope to advantage themselves, but when their own turn's serv'd, they are as hard as Flint to others that desire their Help; nay very often, even to those that before assisted them?

And how Unchristian and even Unnatural is it, to be heaping up continually great Stores, and adding to ones Abundance, and yet to do still less and less Good, the more our Ability of doing

Vol.1

Care Manias to

vicea

In mind other by p tion, Prop as be he m ture, vant obey to al Chui nerat

that anot Duty Lora befo Puni to C Kin

ture

it increases! And on the contrary, how inexcusable is it, by Sloth and Idleness, Carelefness and Extravagancy, to fink a Man's Parts or Fortune to that low Ebb, as to be no longer capable of being ferviceable to Mankind!

V-

id

at

ad

ut

od

ay

ite

las

his

he

ere

n's

d, gh-

ens

to wn

to

ery

ted

na-

ally

unless

ing It

In short, a Christian should be publick minded, and defirous to be some way or other, a universal Friend to all Men; and by prudent Care, and Industry in his Station, endeavour to make his Ability bear Proportion to those his Desires: That fo. as becomes a Sheep of the Flock of Chrift, he may be useful and beneficial in his Generation.

III. A Sheep is a very governable Creature, not stubborn or unruly, but observant of the Shepherd's Call, and ready to obey it. And fo should a Christian be, to all his lawful Superiours, whether in Church or State.

Christianity makes void no Obligations that are not plainly finful, but rather adds another stronger Tye to 'em; making that Duty and Subjection to be now for the Lord's sake, and for Conscience Sake, which before was only for fear of Wrath and Punishment. Many are the places of Scripture which strictly command Obedience to Civil Governours, whether it be to the King as supreme, or to those that are set in Authority Authority under him; and as many oblige us to be ordered and directed by our spiritual Governours, in Spiritual Things, as those that are commission'd by Christ to watch for our Souls, and instruct us in every part of our Religious Duty. And these Governours are often call'd Pastors of the Flock, and our Lord is the Great Shepherd that superviseth all the rest; and he knows his Sheep, and they obediently bear his Voice and follow him; as the Custom of the Eastern was and is still, to lead, and not to drive their Sheep.

But now, if this be the true Temper of a Christian, what shall we think of those, who despise Government, and speak evil of Dignities, are turbulent and factious in the State, and rend and tear the Church by groundless Schisms and Divisions; and for the sake of small indifferent things, such as a Posture in Publick Worship, the Colour of the Minister's Garment, and the like, break the Unity of the Spirit, and the Sacred Bond of Peace?

And what shall we think of those too, who in lesser Societies and Families, are impatient of all Restraint, throw off all Discipline, are head-strong and untrastable, and are drawn to Obedience by nothing but meer Force and Compulsion? And finally, what shall we think of those that

Vol.l that himf nate fiona

If be the what

acco

his L

What of J control in his rents in the under

God, the c fayir when

Gove

offer him great

earne terril

the I

that spurn at the Commands even of God himself, and are deaf to all the Affectionate Calls of their Saviour, that compassionate good Shepherd, who laid down his Life for his Sheep, to rescue 'em from the Jaws of the Infernal Lyon?

i.

35

0

in

nd

rs

at

be

ly

m

ıd,

of

ſe,

of

in

rch

ind

igs,

the

the

and

too,

are f all

ract-

no-

on?

hole

that

If then an obedient governable Temper be the Temper of a Sheep of Christ's Flock, what kind of Creatures may those be accounted which we but now described? Whatever they may pretend, the Sheep of Jesus they cannot be, for this is quite contrary to the submissive Spirit of his Institution, and to his own Example. Who in his tender Years was subject to his Parents in all things, and when he appear'd in the World, was obedient to the Law under which he was born, and to the Government under which he liv'd, and to God, his Heavenly Father to Death, even the cruel ignominious Death of the Cross; faying, with admirable Self-Refignation, when the bitter Cup of his Sufferings was offered him (the very fight of which put him into so great an Agony, that he sweat great Drops of Blood, and beg'd most earnestly, that if it were possible, that terrible Cup might pass from him). Nevertheless, not my Will but thine be done.

Now can any one, after all this, have the Face to stile himself one of Christ's Sheep,

Sheep, who is remarkable for nothing fo much as Disobedience; and that not only to every Humane Ordinance, but even to that Bleffed Saviour of his, whose Name he bears? No, no, 'tis plain to whom he belongs, and whose Government he is under, even that of the great Apostate Spirit, who was a Rebel from the beginning, and tempted our first Parents to that Fatal Transgression of their Creator's Command, which we all fo fadly fmart for ever fince, and who still works in the Children of Disobedience. His servants we are to whom we obey, and he that will fubmit to no Government but that of the Prince of Darkness, who makes it his constant Business to embroil and unhinge all Government besides, must expect no other than to have his Portion with that his Governour in his Infernal Kingdom. And whoever hopes to be plac'd among the Sheep, on the Right Hand of Jesus at the Day of Judgment, must first learn to be governable and obedient to him here; and to those likewise who are his Lawful Representatives and Ministers, whom he hath fet over us, whether in Church or State.

IV. A Sheep is a quiet, patient Creature, not noify and clamorous, and refractory when under the Shearer's hand, or even

Vol.I when deadl

An der G posals No n ly diff should let his here b to lear and qu the Ha the lea have t ample, afflicted with (unwor ed not i as a La the shea nor cry dreets,

Wha ient C nd Aff

him los

to a tit

only fu nakes'

when

when going to the Slaughter, or when the deadly Knife is applied to his Throat.

And thus should every Christian be under God's Chastisements, and all the Disposals of his wife and good Providence. No murmurings and repinings, unfeemly discontented Language or Behaviour should proceed from any of Christ's Flock. let his Sufferings and his Circumstances here be what they will. 'Tis our business to learn to possess our Souls in Patience. and quietly and filently to lie down under the Hand of the great Shepherd, without the least Resistance. And for this too we have the Shepherd's own admirable Example, who when he was oppressed and afflitted, a Man of Sorrows, and acquainted with Grief (tho' perfectly innocent and unworthy of fuch Treatment) yet he opened not his Mouth. And when he was brought as a Lamb to the Slaughter, as a Sheep before the shearers is dumb, so he did neither strive nor cry, nor was his Voice to be heard in the freets, Isa. 53. As Isaiab prophecy'd of him long before, and which he fulfilled to a tittle.

What shall we say then of those impaient Creatures to whom every Trouble and Affliction is intolerable, though it be only such as is common to Men; and makes'em break out into unsitting Complaints,

X

ory ven hen

e

0 rt

ts

he

n-

all

er

his

nd

he

the

be

re;

ful

he

or

plaints, and extravagant Reflections, sometimes, even upon God himself? 'Tis well known, such Creatures there are in the World, and but too many; and 'tis a Rarity to meet with a Soul that is truly patient and resign'd. But this is to act more like a Swine than a Sheep; like those who live a Brutal Life, and place all their Happiness in the Pleasures of Sense here below, rather than those who have such glorious Expectations as a Christian has in a World that is infinitely better.

Where the true Spirit of our Holy Religion is, there will be this Patience; and therefore, whoever finds himself of a contrary Temper under the Afflictions and Troubles he meets with in the World, it concerns him highly, to do what he can to amend and alter it, and earnestly to beg of God to furnish his Soul with this excellent Grace, which is so needful to carry us through the manifold Changes and Chances of this Life, and is a Disposition of Mind as inseparable from true Christianity, as a passive Quietness is from the Nature of a Sheep.

V. But after all, in the last place, tho's Sheep is an Innocent, Profitable, Governable and Patient Creature, and therefore very apt to represent a Christian by, who should be all this; yet 'tis a Creature very apt

Vol.

to n

too the

to fe

have ftran those in, a ftrict can't

II. confithofe and it to the

to R

Dang Beafts by the forth ner is dom, to gra

from

0

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 307 to wander, and be lost, and so are we, God knows, the very best of us, too much!

II.

ne-

ell

is a uly

ore

vho lap-

OW.

ious

orld

Re-

and con-

and

d, it

e can

ly to

h this ful to

anges Dispo-

n true

from

tho'a rnable

hould

ry apt

to

In this particular we all resemble Sheep too nearly; and were we as like 'em in other respects, as this, it would alleviate the Fault, and incline the good Shepherd to seek and pity, rather than to punish us.

But this is our Condemnation, that we have very little of the Sheep in us but a strange Proneness to go astray; and leave those Paths we know we ought to walk in, and go in those, which we know are strictly forbidden us, and which too, we can't but know, will certainly bring us to Ruine.

II. Wherefore we will now proceed to consider, how aptly the Condition of those who leave the Paths of their Duty and follow wicked Courses, is compar'd to that of a Sheep that is stray'd and lost.

is expos'd to many great and unknown Dangers, particularly to the Fury of wild Beafts in those Countries that are infested by them; and what can more lively set forth the sad Condition a wandring Sinner is in than this? He straggles at random, thoughtless of every thing but how to gratify a present unreasonable Brutish Humour; and goes thus heedlesly on from one Vice and Folly to another, till X 2 he is lost before he is aware in a Wilderness of Sin and Delusion, barren of every thing that is truly good; where his Soul suffers a Famine of the Grace of God, and is torn by the Briars of dismal Cares and Anxieties, Fears and Misgivings of Heart, and often feels the Lashes of a guilty Conscience: And instead of the pure Streams, and green Pastures, to which the good Shepherd us'd constantly to lead him, while he continued in the Flock, nothing but a vast comfortless Desart, in which he must daily pine away till he perish.

That is, instead of the unspeakable Comforts of Religion, the Peace and Quiet of Mind, and the continual Blessing of God, which a good Christian experiences while under the Government of his Saviour; the wandring Sinner meets with nothing of true Content and Satisfaction, but every thing that is contrary to it; and in a short time both Body and Soul must feel the dreadful Consequences of his Extravagancy; Diseases, and Poverty, and a hasty Death, and then, which is work of all, a sad after-reckoning in another World.

Sheep should meet with Beasts of Prey?
What Defence could it make? Is it swift enough

Vol.I enoughtron count Strata the I fubmout a a wallefs I ready who and I going that whice et, h

A

by the and and water want than our fcrib O

wou

dec

zard

enough to fave it self by slight? Is it strong enough to defend it self in the Encounter? Or is it cunning enough by some Stratagem and ready Contrivance to avoid the Danger? No, nothing of all this, but submit it must to its miserable Fate without all Remedy. And just so is it with a wandring Sinner. Naked and defenceles he is to every Temptation, and a ready easy Prey to the great Destroyer; who was a Murtherer from the beginning, and like a roaring Lyon, is continually going to and fro, seeking whom he may devour.

And now, let any Man fay, whether that is not very dear bought Liberty, for which a Man must pay not only his Quiet, his Safety, and his Innocence, but his Life; and that which is infinitely more precious, his Soul?

II.

r-

ry

oul

d, res

of

a

he

ich

ead

ck,

in

he

·m t of od,

hile

ur;

ing

eve-

in a

feel

tra-

nd a

rorst

ther

tray

rey?

ough

And is it not much better to be guided by the prudent Care of a good Shepherd, and continue fafe in the Flock by Day, and in the Fold by Night, under his watchful Eye and fure Protection, and want no manner of thing that is good; than for a little fancied Liberty, to run our felves into so many unavoidable Hazards and Dangers, as were before described?

One would think, no Man in his Wits, would make so ill a Choice as every Sin-

X 3

ner

Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

ner does, when he grows weary of Security and Happiness, and presses hard after Mifery and Ruin. But so it is, God knows, too often, and so it will be still, as long as Men give themselves up to follow the Stream of their own vile Inclinations and Lusts; and he that once lets loofe the Reins to them, tho' but a little, in all Probability will foon be out of call of the Shepherd, and go aftray like a Sheep that is loft, and be exposed to all the Misfortunes of that wandring Condition, and that beyond all help.

II. For Secondly, as a lost Sheep is out of the Government of the Shepherd, fo is it out of his Protection too; it is not only out of his Call, whereby it may be put in mind of returning to the Flock, and directed where to find it, but whatever Accidents befal it, it can have no Succour, or Relief. And just thus is the Condition of a wandring Sinner. He is not only foon out of reach of good Advice and Reproof, and either will not hear or not regard any Calls or Invitations to return to his Duty; but has forfeited the Profection of the great Shepherd of our Souls Christ Jesus, by throwing off his Government, deferting his Flock and his Fold, and fetting up for himself in a new way of Life. My Sheep, fays he, bear my Voice

Vol.I and

Shall John

> Bu nor their not o but

> > own

T fligh are will or N shal!

> hav der ked

I and aba him rea the.

are wh ma

> tio Sh fee

th

and

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 311 and follow me, and they that do so, none shall be able to pluck them out of my hand, John 10. 28.

But those that neither hear his Voice, nor follow him, but stray about where their own Fancy leads them; these are not of his Sheep, and he regards 'em not, but leaves them to the fatal Issue of their own wicked Choice.

III.

Cu-

fter

WS,

ng

the

ind

the

all

of

eep

the

on,

out

) is

nly

in di-

Ac-

ur,

ion

nly'

ind

not

arn

ro-

uls

rn-

old,

ray

nd

That is, the obstinately vicious, that slight and spurn at all the Methods that are taken to reduce their Wandrings, and will have their own way whatever God or Man can do to reclaim them; these shall sadly feel the want of what they have rejected and abus'd, and smart under the dismal Consequences of their Wickedness.

Indeed the Mercies of God are infinite; and though it is but just that he should abandon those, who first have disown'd him; yet an intire Desertion we never read of, but where Men have first given themselves up to a Reprobate Mind, and are become incureable. And therefore, when the Miseries a lost sheep suffers make it become sensible of its sad Condition, and cry aloud for Help, the good shepherd, as the Parable assures us, will seek and bring home upon his shoulders the poor miserable Creature. For the Son of Man, says our Lord, is come to seek and to save that which was lost; Luke 15. 5.

X 4

of

312 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

O 19. 10.

But yet, tho' this, to our unspeakable Comfort, is true, Let no Man vainly prefume upon God's extraordinary Protection from spiritual Dangers, when he wilfully runs himself into them, and will not hearken to the usual Methods that are appointed to recall him. For there is a degree of wandring which he will not restore; and every Degree of it for the time, puts us out of his Protection till we are brought back; and where our wandrings will end, we cannot tell. may be fatal to us fooner than we think for; for there is no Promise of God's defending us but when we keep within the bounds of our Duty.

Wherefore, let no Man sin, in hopes that Grace will abound, lest he provoke God for ever to deprive him of it. Or in the Language of the Parable, let none of Christ's Sheep dare to stray from his Fold and his Flock, presuming that he will seek him out, and bring him safe home again; lest in Anger he permit him to take his own course, and leave him to himself, till he be devour'd by the great Destroyer, or fall into the Bottomless Pit.

III. For

Vol.II

III. a stray back, is nev again upon and tl tempt Misch milera a Sinn God's thing ons ar him o him a more ling h of the pinch is, he ligion wakes

> him in mazer Refug

piness Horro

If this like a

III. For Thirdly, every Body knows that a stray Sheep, if not fought and brought back, will daily stray still further on, and is never likely of its felf to find the way again to the Fold. 'Tis wholly intent upon picking up what it meets with here and there in the way, every green Turf tempts it still further and further; till Mischief befalls it, and puts an end to its miserable Life. And just thus it is with a Sinner that wanders from the Paths of God's Commandments. He thinks of nothing but gratifying his present Inclinations and Lusts; one sensual Delight draws him on to taste of another, and that gives him a View of a third, and that of still more and more, and fo he goes on, regaling his Brutish Appetites, and thinks not of the Shepherd or the Fold, till Hunger pinches him, or the Wolf appears; that is, he takes no thought about God on Religion, till some Affliction or Sickness awakes him, and Death and Judgment stare him in the Face, and then Fear and Amazement seize him, and fly he would for Refuge but he knows not whither.

t

t

e

-

y

S

n

at

bd

je

of ld

ek

1;

118

ill or

or

O wretched Exchange, of Plenty, Happiness and Safety, for Danger and Want, Horror and Despair, and endless Misery! If this be the consequence of going astray like a Sheep that is lost, what Reason have 314 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

we all, who all like Sheep have gone astray, to cry out with the most importunate Earnestness in the Words of David, Psal. 119. ult. O seek thy servants, for we do not forget thy Commandments!

Having thus shewn upon what Accounts Men under the Discipline of true Religion, especially the Christian, are so often in Scripture compared to Sheep, and why fuch as leave the Paths of their Duty, and take wicked Courses, are said to go astray like a speep that is lost; (whereby we may fee how expressive the beginning of the publick Confession of Sins in our Church is, and which if we are not much affected with, 'tis our own Fault) and having made some Improvement of both to our Practice: I come now to conclude with fome Remarks upon the good Shepherd in the Parable, his so diligently seeking his loft Sheep, and tender Care to bring it fafe home to his Flock : He goeth into the Mountains after it until be find it; and when he bath found it, he layeth it on his (houlders rejoycing.

And indeed, unless our merciful Saviour, in pity to a Sinner's lost undone Condition, first feeks him, by his preventing Grace, he can't so much as desire to be brought back to the Fold he hath deserted: there is such a bewitching, stupisying

Quality

Vol. Qua habi of I

of M feeli

cour

fron

broudefir from all v

noth B ever his h thof

is o

will Onl we we

deer and Gui else and will Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 315

Quality in Sin, that when a Man is once habituated to it, 'tis beyond the Power of Humane means effectually to turn him from it; and he only that made the Soul of Man, knows how to give it such a feeling Sense of the Error of his ways, as to incline him in earnest to take a better course.

And when the wandring Creature is brought to a fight of his Danger, and defires never so earnestly to be deliver'd from it; yet without the Divine Guidance all will be in vain, for all our Sufficiency is of God, without whom we can do nothing.

STATE OF

II.

у,

te al.

ot

its

n,

in

hy

nd.

ray

lay

the

rch

ted

ing

our

ith

erd

ing

ing

into

and

his avi-

on-

ting

be be ert-

ving

lity

But then, for our Encouragement, whoever fincerely and importunately implores his Aid shall have it; he will be found of those that seek him; the good Shepherd will hear their Cry, and will help them: Only this must always be remembred, that we must co-operate with the Assistances we receive from our compassionate Redeemer; we must observe his Directions, and give up our selves intirely to his Guidance, and follow him close, with the greatest Care and Circumspection, or else all is to no purpose: We shall stray and be lost again, and our last wandrings will become more fatal than our first.

Limink that he thould ever feek

And

316 Practical Discourses upon the Vol II.

And how can we think, but that he who is truly sensible, that he has lost himself in the ways of Sin beyond all Recovery, if left to his own Ignorance and Impotence; and fees by a daily Experience that he is still more and more bewildred in his evil Courses, and unless the great good Shepherd would pity his wretched Condition, and feek him out and bring him back, he must for ever stray till he perish : How can we think but that fuch a one should cry out with the most passionate Earnestness, and feeling Concern, of one that is in a lost undone Condition, O feek thy Servant! and be ready gladly to do any thing that might contribute to his Safety!

Indeed, there is no other Remedy in so forlorn a Case as this, but for the Sinner to lift up his Voice and cry aloud to Jesus to seek and to save him; to beg that he would send out his Light and his Truth, that they may lead him and bring him to his holy Hill, and to his dwelling, Psalm 43. 3. and make him once more hear the Voice of Joy and Gladness.

But how can I expect, may a wretched Sinner say, that Christ should ever seek so vile a Creature as I am! What Advantage will my return be, to that great Shepherd, whose are the Cattle upon a thousand Hills? How can I think that he should ever seek a stary'd

Vol.I

a star wilfu regar Warn prove Coul agair as I it be

Prefi TI to a tion knov and guilt Defp State his B Ende as ir fhall Prefi mucl defer hope

trary

34. his

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 317

a starv'd and famish'd Sheep, which by its wilful wandrings from the Fold, and disregard of all his affectionate Calls and Warnings to come back; may justly have provok'd him to abandon it for ever! Could I find the way back of my self, 'twould be an inestimable Favour to be again receiv'd; but for such a Miscreant as I to hope to be sought after, how can it be! Oh, no; 'twould be unpardonable Presumption to expect it.

0

is il

1,

le

W

d t-

is

y

1!

er

ius he

h,

to

m

be

ed fo

ge

rd,

s a ek

y'd

Thus may a dejected Sinner, when come to a thorough feeling of his fad Condition reason with himself: And when he knows not which way to direct his Steps, and is amaz'd and confounded in his guilty Thoughts; 'tis but too often that Despair of ever recovering that happy State, which once he despis'd and turn'd his Back upon, makes him lay afide all Endeavours after it, and give himfelf up as irrecoverably gone, and take what Path shall offer next. And indeed, the highest Prefumption it would be, to look for fo much tender Care, when we have fo little deferv'd it, and so much deferv'd the contrary; were we not encourag'd thus to hope, by him whose Compassions are infinite. For thus Saith the Lord God, Ezek. 34. 11. with respect to the Kingdom of his dear Son, and the Favour he would Urera shew to wretched Mankind, by and through him; I will feek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick, Ezek, 34. 16. What unparallel'd Goodness is here, and what ample Encouragement for every wandring Sinner to hope, and cry aloud, even for such great and undeserved Mercy as this!

But as David, when he confess'd that he had gone astray like a sheep that was lost. and thereby acknowledg'd the miserable Condition he had brought himself to by leaving the way of God's Commandments: and then beg'd earnestly that God would seek his servant, restore him to his Integrity, and bring him back to those Paths of Holine's from which he had fo shamefully wandred: As David, makes it an Argument to incline God to be thus gracious to him, that he did not forget his Commandments, Pfal. 119. ult. fo there can be no greater Inducement to our merciful Saviour to bring back one of his loft Sheep by his special Grace, to a due Sense and Performance of his Duty, than his being heartily desirous to return to a new Life; not altogether forgetful of the manifold Obligations that lie upon him to Obedience, and fenfible that after all the

Vol.I

Expe is his

dred fucce need fecula affur that lost

ner

of the who dies all hav fear Sin ligit Co and to an

in

hi

is tic

Ex-

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 319

Experiments he has try'd, fincere Religion is his only Happiness.

II.

igh

and

ay,

ind

ek.

is

for

cry

er-

hat

ost.

ble

by

ts;

ald

te-

ths

ne-

an ra-

his

ere

er-

oft

ise

his

ew

1a-

to he x'Twas this Temper of Mind that rendred the return of the Prodigal Son so successful; and a Sinner thus dispos'd, need not doubt of all needful Help, to secure his safe Retreat; from him who has affur'd us for our greater Encouragement, that he rejoyceth more at the finding one lost Sheep, than for ninety and nine that never went astray.

Wherefore, whatever Temptations a Sinner may comply with to forfake the Paths of God's Commandments, and wander in the ways of Sin; let him have a care of wholly forgetting his Obligations of Obedience to God, and quite throwing off all sense of his Duty. That is, let him have a care of a hardned Heart and a fear'd Conscience, of making a mock at Sin, and laughing and drolling upon Religion, and deriding those that make more Conscience of their ways than he does, and advise him better; For this is the way to fix him irrecoverably in vile courses. and will make all Methods to reclaim him ineffectual: 'Twill at length bring upon him an utter Oblivion to every thing that is good, and feal him up to Destruction.

And what a miserable hopeless Condition are they in, who have sin'd themselves

into

and have not only wandred beyond all Possibility of returning of themselves, but can't so much as cry out to the good Shepherd to seek and save them, having quite forgotten all things that are Religious and good!

Indeed, there will be a time when their Consciences shall be awaken'd from this dead Sleep; and then they'll call and cry, in the Bitterness of their Souls for Mercy: But then, alas! 'twill be too late. They have let slip the happy Opportunity of Grace and Salvation that once was put into their hands; and then there will be no retrieving it, but submit they must to the dreadful Punishment, which their incorrigible Wickedness has deserv'd.

This is a very melancholy Consideration, but 'tis a very true one; and may we all so seriously lay it to Heart now, as to prevent our experiencing the Truth of it hereafter !

And let us imitate the good Shepherd in the Parable, and as far as in us lies endeavour to reduce our wandring Brother: And by affectionate Advice and friendly Reproof, to make him fensible of his lost Condition, unless he returns by a speedy Repentance, and bring him off from those vicious Practices, which if persisted in, will will cowe me the Cortis even his No him for lig'd to greater able to

Vol.II

and far is to b
good anima
fincere Christ

obedie

to con

the gray and after a

in this and b might we do

disobl

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 321 will certainly bring him to Ruine. This we may all of us do, in some measure, not the Clergy only but the Laity too; and 'tis every one's Duty not to suffer Sin upon his Neighbour, Lev. 19. 17. but to rebuke him for it; and if the Law of Mofes oblig'd us to to this, much more does the Law of Christ. And nothing can be a greater Charity, nor a Work more acceptable to God, and our Bleffed Saviour, than to convert a sinner from the error of his ways. and fane a Soul from Eternal Death. This is to be Workers together with him for the good of Mankind; it shews that we are animated with the same Spirit, and are fincerely defirous that the Kingdom of Christ may flourish, and that all may be obedient Sheep under the Government of the great good Shepherd Jesus Christ.

II.

all

ut

bc

g

ir

y,

: ey

of

n-

no he

r-

1-

ve

to

it

rd

1-

r:

ly

oft

ly

(e n,

ill

Tis true, this good Work must be managed with Discretion, if we would have it thoroughly successful; and the Time, the Manner, the Person, and other incidental things must be considered, to carry it on smoothly, and without Offence. But after all, we may be too nice and curious in this Matter, as well as too downright and blunt; and more good a great deal might we this way do one another, than we do; were we not too much asraid of disobliging. Indeed 'tis an ungrateful Office

to

to tell People of their Faults, and they cannot tell how to bear it even from those who have the highest Authority for doing it, the Bishops and Pastors of Christ's Flock, much less from those who are upon a Level with themselves, and only Sheep as they are. However, he that truly loves his Neighbour, and heartily defires his Happiness, will not see him make haste to be undone for ever, and not stop him a little, and acquaint him with his Danger, even with some Warmth and Earnestness. for fear of his Displeasure. And tho' the Man may be very angry at first with the impertinent bufy-body, as perhaps he may call him, for giving him Disturbance in a way he fo much delights in; yet in cool Blood he may consider better of it, and it may do him good. He may then begin to see his Error, which he took but little notice of before, and find Reason to be thankful for the Faithful Wounds of his Friend; Prov. 27. 6. for as Solomon long ago observ'd. He that rebuketh a Man, afterward shall find more favour, than he that flattereth with the Tongue, Prov. 28.23.

But, whether 'tis well receiv'd or not, feasonable Reproof is a very great Charity, and shall not lose its Reward; and 'tis so much a Christian's Duty too to give it when there is just Occasion, that the

Omission

Omithe Covery ligio and dang shall quiry

Merc

Mat.

Vol.

had his Slipoyci Frien with lost; any the R who told

Sins)

Adm

wo R

no Ic

Omission of it, in the Laity, as well as the Clergy, is a very great Fault, and of very ill Consequence: and such an Irreligious Connivance at our Brother's Sins, and uncompassionate Disregard of his dangerous and most deplorable Condition, shall be severely accounted for, when Enquiry shall be made into our Works of Mercy, of which this is none of the least. Mat. 25.

And as the good Shepherd, when he had found his stray Sheep, laid it upon his Shoulders, and brought it home rejoycing, and told the good News to his Friends and Neighbours, saying, Rejoyce with me, for I have found my sheep that was lost; so 'tis an inexpressible Pleasure to any truly good Man to be instrumental in the Recovery of a poor deluded Creature, who was almost dead in Trespasses and Sins; and had it not been for his kind Admonitions, in all Probability would have been irrecoverably lost.

This is matter of true Joy indeed: And every good Christian, and even the Angels in Heaven, and our Blessed Lord himself, will gladly bear a part in it; for he hath told us, that there shall be for in Heaven over one Sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just Persons which need to Repentance, Luke 15.7. The greater

Y 2

and

ission

spinies.

I.II.

hev

ofe

ing

ilt's

pon

leep

oves

his

him

ger,

ness,

the

may

in a cool

and

egin little

to be

f his long

Man,

an be

8. 23. not,

Cha-

and

give

and more hopeless the Danger is, the greater and more surprizing will be the Joy, when 'tis escaped; and that in the Deliverer as well as him that is deliver'd: And the rescue of a wretched perishing Soul out of the very Talons of the Prince of the Powers of the Air, is so much to the Honour of God, the Shame and Disappointment of the Devil, and the poor Creatures Happiness, that it may justly cause extraordinary rejoycing. As a Man would be more sensibly affected with the Recovery of a Child from the Brink of the Grave, than with the continued Health of all the rest of his Family.

The PRAYER.

bobilleba

I

AND thou, most Holy, and most Compassionate Jesus, thou great and good Shepherd and Bishop of our Souls, who camest down from Heaven to seek and to save that which was lost, and not to call the righteom but sinners to Repentance: Have Mercy upon me, a poor wandring deluded Creature, and leave me not to my own Counsels, lest my Errors and my Ignorances increase, and my Sins abound to my Destruction, and I fall before my Adversary, and the Enemy of Souls rejoice

Vol.II

knowe Comm. Sad C Folly Hopes the pome ba fend rest n. Refor that Guid shall leave and nend!

in em future Holy Patie
Injur
in my Flock
and whole

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 325 rejoice over me, as his miserable Prey, whose tender Mercies are cruel.

I have shamefully strayed, O Lord thou knowest, from my Duty, and the way of thy Commandments; and now groan under the sad Consequences of this my wickedness and Folly: I am lost and bewildred, even past Hopes of return, unless thou seek me out by the powerful Calls of thy Spirit, and bring me back by his unerring Conduct. O therefore send that Blessed Spirit down, that he may rest upon me, and effectually move me to a Reformation of every evil Work! And grant that I may intirely give my self up to his Guidance, chearfully following wherever he shall lead me; and never provoke him to leave me and for sake me!

Convince me, I befeech thee, daily more and more, of my true Interest, and my great end! That I may waste my days no longer in empty vain Pursuits; but live up for the future to the Dignity of my Nature, and most Holy Profession, in Innocence and Purity, Patience, Humility and Obedience, doing Injury to none, but all the good I am able in my Generation: As becomes one of thy Flock, who wert holy and harmless, meek and lowly in Heart; and mad'st it thy whole Business to glorify thy Father, and do 2000

1.11.

the the the

'd:

ing nce

1 to

Dif-100

Iftly

Man

the

k of

alth

om-

good meft that

teoms

upon and

my

1 my

fall

Souls

joice

good to Mankind, setting us an Example that we should follow thy steps. And O, do thou enlarge my Soul that I may tread in those thy blessed steps, and run with chearfulness the way of thy Commandments! Then shall I truly walk at Liberty, when I have regard to thy Precepts above all things, for thy Service is perfect Freedom! so shall I glorify thee with my Body and my spirit, which are thine; so shall I live worthy of the Blessed Name by which I am called, and as besits a Candidate for a Crown that sadeth not away, Eternal in the Heavens; and which thou, Blessed Jesus, with wondrow Love, hast purchas'd for me with thy most precious Blood.

Lord! Let thy tender Eye of Mercy always look upon me, as I sincerely put my Trust in thee. Convert my Soul, and lead me in the Paths of Righteousness for thy Name's sake: I have gone too long astray from thee, like a Sheep that is lost; O do thou seek thy Servant, for I do not forget thy Commandments!

1,903

Amen, Dearest Redeemer, Amen.

my Generalism: ils licenses one of the eds si' it have here a straid on PARA.

Vol.II

And

cei

an

he And

is

A

be

Jr.

fi

t

P

Ia

So

The

1.11.

ple, do

hen

for ll I

y of

and

leth

and

ows

rost

al-

my

ead

thy

ray

do

get

PARABLE X.

Of the Unjust Steward.

Luke xvi. 1, &c.

And he said unto his Disciples, there was a certain Rich Man which had a Steward, and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his Goods.

And he called him, and said unto him, how is it that I hear this of thee? Give an Account of thy Stewardship, for thou mayst be no longer Steward.

Then the Steward said within himself, what shall I do? For my Lord taketh away from me the Stewardship, I cannot dig, to beg I am asham'd.

I am resolved what to do, that when I am put out of the Stewardship, they may receive me into their Houses.

So he call'd every one of his Lord's Debtors unto him, and said unto the first, how much owest thou unto my Lord? And he said, an hundred Measures of Oil; and he said unto him, take thy Bill, and sit down quickly, and write sifty.

Then

Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Then said he unto another, and how much owest thou? And he said an Hundred Measures of Wheat; and he said unto him, take thy Bill, and sit down quickly, and write fourscore.

And the Lord commended the Unjust Steward because he had done wisely; for the Children of this World, are in their Generation wiser than the Children of Light. And I say unto you, make to your Selves Friends of the Mammon of Unrighteousness, that when ye shall fail they may receive you into everlasting Habitations.

HE Ancient Fathers look'd upon this as the most difficult and obscure of all our Saviour's Parables; and so have several Modern Writers since, and Cajetan particularly (a great Doctor of the Roman Church) confesses he can't tell what to make of it: And out of the Abundance of his Modesty, and profound Respect to our Lord, because he can't, thinks no Body else can, and says that is not only difficult, but impossible to give its true meaning. As if Christ spake so unintelligibly in it, that he could never be understood M barband up

But I suppose the Reason of this was, their attempting to make every Circumstance in the Parable suit exactly with the T best

Scop ly in

Vol.I

Para from to re or co

and I find as fo

not t00 I

freel Subst whic

Expl the S difre

ble F celle N

Para repr diffe

Lazi grea with

Indu to t

at, this wise

Scope

II.

ich

ed

nto

ly,

w-

the ie-

ht.

ves

te-

ray

on ob-

nd

nd of

tell the

nd

n't,

hat

to ike

ne-

as,

m-

the

pe

.

Scope and Defign of it, and answer directly in every thing: Which though in some Parables it does, yet must not be expected from the most; which are only intended to represent, by some familiar resemblance or comparison, a Piece of useful Doctrine and Instruction. And therefore if we can find out what that is, 'tis sufficient; and as for the manner of expressing it, we must not squeeze, and strain and torture that too much, but be content with what comes freely and naturally from it. But tho' the Substance, or Kernel of a Parable is that which is to be chiefly look'd after in the Explication of it, yet the Circumstantials, the Shell and outfide, must not be wholly difregarded; being like that of some noble Plants and Fruits, not without its Excellence and Use.

Now the main Drift and Design of this Parable seems to be two fold; First, to reprove Mens strange Carelesness and Indifference to Religion, and Thoughtless Laziness in the Prosecution of it, tho' the greatest Concern of all; by comparing it with the cunning Contrivance and great Industry of Men that give themselves up to the World to gain the Point they aim at, tho' a meer Trifle in comparison with this: For the Children of this World are wifer in their Generation, &c. v. 8. And Secondly, Secondly, to shew, the great Wisdom of improving the present Blessings, and good things God has here below committed to our Trust and Management, to the Furtherance of our Eternal Future Happiness above; Make to your selves Friends with the Mammon of Unrighteousness, &c. v.9.

I. The First of these is represented thus. There was a certain Rich Man which had a Steward, and the same was accused unto him that he had masted his Goods; upon which he called him to account, and told him he should be no longer Steward. made the Steward full of Thought what he should do hereafter for a Livelihood; He could not dig (forfooth) he was too good for that, and had not been bred to work, but to Idleness and Ease, and was better at cheating and purloining, than honest Industry and Labour (as is the Case of too many Servants still;) and to beg he was ashamed, as Pride, and Fraud, and Idleness usually go together. What then should he do? Why this at last he resolved on; Namely, to be true to his Principles, (tho' very bad ones) and to go on in cheating and defrauding his Lord; and accordingly he call'd every one of his Lord's Debtors privately to him, and ask'd them one by one, How much owest thou unto my Lord? And when they had told him, he gave them Volument the in for a then as 1 Oyl,

ow' bid and

not

Gra pend dire

into him he r

nesty of h

ture this not

of it

Gene is, N below are a more plica ting ingbtors e by ord? gave hem

S

6

5.

a

to on

ld

his 1at d;

00

to was han

ase

g he dleould

on;

tho

them the Writing which he had of them, in which they acknowledg'd themselves fo and fo indebted to his Lord, and bid them change the feveral Sums into a lefs; as he that ow'd an Hundred Measures of Oyl, he bid him turn it into Fifty; he that ow'd an Hundred Meafures of Wheat, he bid him fet down Fourscore instead of it, and fo on. And by this he oblig'd them, not only upon account of Kindness and Gratitude (which was no more to be depended upon then, than now) but by a direct Compact and Bargain, to receive him into their Houses, when his Lord had turn'd him off. And by this cunning Contrivance, he made that same Falshood and Dishonefty, which was the occasion of the Loss of his Stewardship, the means of his future Support. And the Policy and Craft of this way of proceeding, his Lord could not but commend, tho' not the Honefty of it you may be fure; and our Saviour makes this first excellent Remark upon it. the Children of this World are wifer in their Generation than the Children of Light. That is, Men that place all their Happiness here below, and mind nothing but the World, are a great deal shrewder in their way, and manage their fordid Affairs with much more Thought, and Contrivance, and Application, than the Children of Light, those that that profess to seek a better Country, the Regions of Eternal Glory, do their Heavenly Interest, tho' it be of such infinitely greater Consequence.

And then, from the particular Course the Unfaithful Steward took to ingratiate himself with his Lord's Debtors, and with his Lord's Substance to make a good Provision for himself hereafter; our Saviour takes occasion to give us another very Excellent, and Useful piece of Advice; Namely, that fince we are but Stewards of the good things of this World, which God hath intrusted us with, to promote his Glory, and to be beneficial to one another as we have opportunity, and of which we must render Account to him at last: We would imitate the Prudence, tho' not the Unfaithfulness of the Steward in the Parable, and be so wise as to make Friends with the Mammon of Unrighteousness, to improve that Portion of Worldly Wealth, which God shall give us, and which is too often abus'd to very ill Purposes, and the occasion of much Wickedness; to improve it by Charity and good Works, to the promoting our Eternal Happiness in Heaven, That when we fail, and the time comes that we must be strip'd of every good thing here below, and return into the World of Spirits as naked as when we first Vol first gels rece and Re and Joy

F

of Par furt Na tho

fent

097 ftra fere grea Salv in t Lig Hol Wh Ric God

Dil tion whe felv

thei Dro

Vol II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 333

first came into this; They, the Blessed Angels, the Ministers of God's Kingdom, may receive us into those everlasting Habitations, and give us Possession of those immense Rewards which are prepar'd for faithful and wise Servants, and welcome us to the Joy of our Lord.

1.

y

se se

te

th

our

ry

ds

ch

ote

10-ich

A:

10t

the

nds

to lth,

1 is

and

im-

to in ime

ery

we

first

Having thus seen the two-fold Design of our Blessed Saviour in speaking this Parable; we shall, without taking any surther notice of the Particulars of the Narration, apply our selves to consider those things which he intended to repre-

fent by it; and more especially

I. The First of them; which is the strange Carelesness, and thoughtless Indifference and Coolness, with respect to the great Bufiness of Religion and Eternal Salvation, which is but too visible even in those that profess to be Children of the Light, to be Christians, Disciples of the Holy Jesus, and Candidates for Heaven: When the Men of the World, who make Riches their Heaven, and Mammon their God, are quite another thing, all Life and Diligence, and Prudence in the Profecution of those Trifles in comparison. Nay, when the Children of the Light themselves are all this, in the Management of their secular Affairs; and inconsiderate Drones only in the Pursuit of Happiness Eternal.

Eternal. This is unaccountable indeed, and deserves the severest Reproof. For what Interest can be greater than that which the Children of Light, as such, profes to pursue? What of so great Consequence as Everlasting Salvation? And what will it prosit a Man if he should gain the whole World, and lose his Immortal Soul; and what in it is of value sufficient to be accepted in exchange for it, when it is once loft, to redeem it?

To fave our Souls is to make our selves for ever happy in the largest and highest Sense of that Blessed Word; that is, as full as we can hold of the most exalted Pleasure and Delight, the most perfect Satisfaction and Joy that our Natures are capable of; in the Society of Saints and Angels, of Jesus our dear Redeemer, and of God himself; in a place of infinite and inexpressible Glory, and all this without the least Allay, Intermission or Disturbance, to Ages without end. And to lose our Souls, is the direct Reverse.

That is, it is to make our selves for ever Miserable, in the largest and most comprehensive Sense of that dreadful Word, and as sull as we can hold of the most exquisite Torment, Vexation and Remorse that our Natures are capable of; in the Company of the worst of Men, of Hellish Fiends

brai enc

ing

Vol.

Fien

Ener Plac

and

Miti

to a

a M

Wor Tru

Inte

belo

furt

his :

unce

and

or a

pine

Hov

the whe

And

Opp

God

ged

wil

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 335

Fiends and Furies, and of our greatest Enemy and Destroyer the Devil; in a Place of infinite and inexpressible Horror and Dread, and all this without the least Mitigation, Intermission, or Hope, to all Eternity.

d,

or

at 0e-

at

be

l;

be

is

es

est

as

ed

Sa-

are

nd

nd

ite

thurlose

ver

m-

rd,

orfe

the

lish nds

Now what can more concern us, than to attain such a Happiness, and escape such a Misery as this? And what is there in this World that is comparable to either? The Truth is, Man's only true Interest is the Interest of his Soul, and every thing here below, ought to be so far valu'd, and no further, than as it may be instrumental to his future Happiness. For what is a short uncertain Life here, in this State of Tryal and Probation, whether it be prosperous or afflicted, in comparison with the Happiness or Misery of a boundless Eternity! How will all the Glories and Gayeties of the present World vanish like a Shadow when our Eyes shall be clos'd by Death! And if abus'd to Luxury, and Pride, and Oppression, and the Extinction of true Goodness; they will be immediately changed into the intolerable Stings and Upbraidings of a desperately guilty Conscience, which will be pricking and wounding the distracted Soul for ever.

And on the other hand, what Nothings will the Troubles and Affictions of this World

World seem, the Labours of Repentance, the Struggles we have had with our corrupt Affections, the Straits of a scanty Fortune, the ill Treatment we have met with from unreasonable and wicked Men, and the like; what Nothings will every thing of this Nature seem to a pious Soul when admitted into Heaven! Where all Tears shall be wip'd from his Eyes, and Sorrow for ever chas'd away by the Welcomes of his Redeemer Jesus!

So that this World, take it which way we will, and on whatever side we view it, is really as nothing to us, and the other is our All. As we use the present well or ill, it will be instrumental indeed to our future Happiness, or Ruine; but those Futurities are the chief Object of our Care and Concern, and things present are to be regarded with respect to them. are plac'd to make our Fortunes for Eternity; that is our great End, and proper Business, and he that does not that, does nothing. He fools away his Life in a vain Pursuit of Trifles, and is fatally busy in filling up the Measure of his Iniquities, and then drops away into the dreadful Place of Eternal Weeping, and Wailing, and Gnashing of Teeth.

Salvation then being of such infinite Importance, and our greatest Concern of all,

Vol.II all, to one v Regai than I than 1 ferent ry lit of the not w little ! do, W W ness d casion the W all Of

and in feems fure: ness in Eterna if we upon

And Condinary to and being the

a Dre

make fible.

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 337

all, to which nothing elfe is comparable ; one would think it should have a suitable Regard. But yet, what more common than for People to mind every thing more than their Salvation, and to be so indifferent to nothing, as to that! To let every little inconsiderable thing take place of the Care of their Souls, as if they were not worth the caring for, or that a very little Care when they had nothing else to do, would be sufficient!

-

y

et

1,

y ıl

11

d

1-

y

t, er

or

ır

(e re

e

re

r-

er

es

in

in

nd

ce

nd

te

of 11,

What Industry, and Warmth, and Eagerness do we see in Men upon all other Occasions, when bustling for the things of the World; what Contrivance to manage all Opportunities to the best Advantage. and improve every the smallest Matter that feems to lead to Honour, Wealth or Pleafure: But all the Coldness and listless Dulness imaginable to whatever relates to our Eternal Interest in the World to come; as if we were perfect Infidels, and look'd upon things of this Nature, as a Fable or a Dream.

And in this stupid and truly dreadful Condition, Men feem to be easy and quiet, hay to be afraid of being rous'd out of it; and by an affected Forgetfulness of its being the one thing needful, endeavour to make themselves still more and more insenlible. As if they were resolv'd effectually to ruine themselves notwithstanding all the Care that God and Man can take to prevent it; and in the midst of such Advantages, as the Christian Church hath not enjoy'd greater, since the times of the Apostles.

What can be at the bottom of this, but downright rank Infidelity, or strange Thoughtlefness and Stupidity? And if 'twere only among the Children of this World, who don't pretend to any thing beyond the present, it would not be so much to be wondred at; but for those that profess to be Children of Light, and to have the Hopes and Expectations of a Christian, for these to take so little notice of their Heavenly Reversion, is strangely unaccountable. The Children of this World are much wifer in their Generation, and the Children of Light too, can be wife and diligent enough in the Management of the Affairs of this World; but as for the great Business of Salvation, 'tis slighted and neglected by almost every Body, or at least is not pursu'd with that Vigour as it ought to be, and as both the Children of this World, and the Children of Light, pursue the worthless perishing things here below.

But, do we really hope to be fav'd, and know what Salvation means, and yet do fcarce any thing in order to it, nay rather do us o Who to fo wha do r pull whice

to p

Mad Pe well. hear the f mov have that fo f Sigh and we t inal cont Ame but " he fithat for Com

the b

do every thing almost that will deprive us of it, and bring us to Destruction? When God and Jesus have done so much to save us (and which demonstrates of what infinite Moment it is to us) shall we do nothing for our selves? But violently pull down upon our Heads that Ruine, which so many Miracles have been wrought to preserve and secure us from! Strange Madness this!

Perhaps now and then we may purpose well, and resolve upon a more serious and hearty Prosecution of our Salvation for the suture; and when we have heard a moving Sermon, or read a pious Book, or have had some good Advice from those that truly desire our Happiness, this may so far work upon us as to cause a sew sighs, and some good Wishes, and Desires, and it may be Resolutions, and thereupon we think our selves very well inclin'd, and in a hopeful Condition: When after all we continue just as we were before, no visible Amendment of our evil ways, nor any, or but very faint Endeavours towards it.

But can any one be so weak as to think he shall go to Heaven with a Wish? That that Salvation which cost our Lord so dear, for which he suffer'd what would move Compassion in the most slinty Breast at the bare Relation of it, shall without any

Z 2

more

ret do rather do

, and

.II.

all

to

Adath

the

but nge d if

this

ning

e fo

hose

and of a

otice

gely

d the

d dif the great

d ne-

tht to

orld,

340 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

more to do become ours, whenever we faintly and lazily defire it?

One would wonder what such People are made of, who in this greatest Concern of all, act so quite otherwise than they would do in any other Matter of Importance. Tell them of a great Advantage, as to this World, so and so to be gain'd, or of a great Loss or Missfortune they are in danger of, which by such and such means may be prevented, you'll find much more than cool Wishes, and idle Desires; all their Powers will be summoned together to assist in a vigorous Prosecution of the thing. But when Heaven and Hell, Salvation and Damnation is the Business, a Wish and a Sigh is all.

You'll say perhaps, those good Wishes and Desires may come to something in time, and are a Sign that Conscience is not quite sear'd and insensible; that there is some Spiritual Life and Feeling in the Soul, and as long as there's Life, there's Hope. But, when the Life is next Door to Death, the Hope is next Door to Despair; however, the more Sense and Feeling there is in the Conscience, if it does not influence the Man's Conversation, and produce Repentance and Amendment, 'tis so far from being an Argument for his hoping well of his Condition, that it rather shews it to be fins of claim process he us on h we i breal

tion,

do w just doin corre a Te do tl

lutio merl Conf and this our i

and

is no Bu Goo as fo

from

to

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour: 341

to be extremely dangerous; when he thus fins on against all his Convictions, and a clamorous and awaken'd Conscience, and proceeds in the way to Destruction just as he us'd to do, only with this Aggravation, that his Eyes are now open, and he

fees and knows where he is going,

Well, but it may be at length, Religion has wrought fo far upon us, that now we folemnly refolve for the future to break off our former ill Courses, and live as becomes Christians. Let us effectually do this, and we shall be happy. do we perform these Resolutions? Even just as Children keep their Promises of doing so no more, when they are chid or corrected for their Faults; the next time a Temptation attacks us, the good Refolution is forgotten, and we yield as formerly. And then, when afterwards our Conscience upbraids us, we resolve again, and then again break our Resolutions; and fo round and round continually in this vain Circle, and all the while deceive our selves into an Opinion, that because our Resolutions are good, our Condition is not much amiss.

But those Resolutions are very far from Good, which are over and over broken as soon as made; and his Condition far from safe, who trifles thus with God and

Z 3

his ws it to

II.

we

ple

ern

ney

-10

ige,

ı'd,

are

uch

uch

res;

gen of

tell,

ness,

ishes

g in

not re is

Soul,

lope.

eath,

10W-ere is

ence

Re-

from

well

his own Conscience, and that in a Matter of the greatest Moment. But because God is infinitely good, and merciful, and long-suffering, therefore we thus presume upon him; forgetting that he is infinitely holy and just too, that he hates Iniquity with a perfect Hatred, and has sworn, that the incorrigibly wicked shall never enter into his Rest.

But after all; 'tis to be hop'd the time will come at last when we shall be wiser, and hereafter these Resolutions of ours will stand sirm, and be punctually made good. At present we are so incumbred with the World, and link'd to such and such Companions, and engag'd in such a way of Life, that we can't do as we would do; but we purpose, by degrees, to disentangle our selves, and then we will in earnest set about the One thing needful.

That is, in plain English, when I have gained such an Estate, and have had my swing in such and such Vices, and am tyr'd and surfeited with them, and am no longer able to enjoy them; then for Religion and another World. When I'm grown Rich, and Old, and Insirm, and have nothing else; then I'll begin to take care of my Salvation.

Then Total who trifles thus with God and

Vol.1

ly at till t

my (

Tro

But 1

mid

the

becc

for app

that

my

Tha

ano

for

my

per

too

tio

gre

are

qu

the

or

w

th

to

pa

A

C

TI

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 343

Then I'll begin! As if I had Life perfectly at my Command, was fure I should live till then, and had Salvation so intirely in my own Power, as that with a very little Trouble I could secure it when I pleas'd!
But suppose I should die to Morrow, in the midst of my neglects of Religion, and in the full Carriere of my Vices, what would become of me then?

ol.II.

tter

God

ing-

pon

olv

with

the

into ime

ifer.

ours

rade

ored

and ch a

bluc

dif-

Il in

lave

my am

1 110

Re-

I'm

and

for care

ben

Or suppose I should live to be too old for the World, and then begin to think of applying my felf to good things, but find that God has left me to my felf, and that my Soul is as dead to Religion as ever: That I only change one Wickedness for another, Lust for Avarice, Intemperance for Malice and Spite, but as for purifying my guilty Soul by a deep and fincere Repentance, I'm so much hardned that 'tis too late for that. Suppose such a Condition as this should grow upon me with my grey Hairs (and too many Instances there are of this Nature) and nothing confequently but Terrors inexpressible should then fill my Breast; and when I think upon God and the Eternal World, into which I am just dropping, should feel nothing but horrid forebodings of the Wrath to come: What shall I then think of my past Conduct with respect to my Salvation? And how shall I curse, in the bitterest Anguish ZA guish of my Soul, that fatal Indifference to it formerly, that provoking Neglect of it, which now hath deprived me of it, and feal'd me up to Ruine!

Would the Children of this World, thus depend upon uncertain Futurities, and let flip a prefent favourable Opportunity in a Matter of any confiderable Confequence. much less when their whole Worldly In. terest was at Stake, and their Making, or their Ruine did depend upon their good or ill Success? Nay would we our selves be idle and unconcern'd, and put things off, and not do our utmost immediately in such a Case as this? No question, but we should be much wifer for this World, than we generally are for the next; nay we find that we are so, by every Day's Experience. But what unaccountable Folly and Sottifhness this is, we have seen already.

What then is to be done by us, and how must we prosecute this great Affair of our Salvation? Must we shut our selves up from every thing that is secular, and throw aside all Worldly Business, and deny our selves all Pleasures but those of Religion, and be continually upon our Knees, and converse only with Heaven? No, this is to stretch the thing too far the other way, and would be inconsistent with many other

Oblin

Obl tis Bufi fure are grea ther with God avo the deal Ind ings App not and we mor in 1 plu ness and upo mat Ship Sen awa

dwi

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 345

I.

e

of

t,

115

eŧ

in

e, n.

or

bd

es

ly

ut

d, ay

X-

lly

a-

W

ur

up

W

ur

on,

nd

s is

ay,

ner

lia

Obligations that God hath laid upon us; it is the excessive Application to Worldly Business, and immoderate Pursuit of Pleasure that we are obligid to avoid, which are indeed the greatest Hindrances of the great Work of our Salvation. We should therefore be so wise, as to use the World without abusing it, and take heed of being Lovers of Pleasure, more than Lovers of God.

And First, 'twill be our Wisdom to avoid too great Earnestness in following the Business of the World. There is a great deal of Difference between a moderate Industry and Diligence in our several Callings and Employments, and fuch a total Application to them, that we can mind nothing else. The former is our Duty, and the latter will be our Ruine. For this we may have always observ'd, that the more People are greedy of the World, and in haste to raise Estates, and therefore plunge themselves into an Ocean of Business, and the Hurries and Encumbrances, and Temptations, that on all fides beat upon them: The deeper Men are in this manner engag'd, the fooner they make Shipwreck of a good Conscience; and the Sense of Divine Things decays and wasts away apace, and at length, too often dwindles into nothing. minuage in

And

And indeed, How can it be otherwise? How can he expect to be a truly Pious Christian, that will allow himself to think of nothing but the World? Religion does not work unaccountably and irresistibly, like a Charm, which steals its Effects upon us insensibly whether we will or no; but must be cherish'd and improv'd in a rational way, as all other Endowments of the Mind are, by Study, and Meditation, and close Application of Thought: And if Salvation is not worth this, as well as other things, 'tis very strange.

'Tis true, God works in us to will, and to do of his good Pleasure, and 'tis by his Grace and Assistance that we are enabled to serve him acceptably; but what then? Must we therefore expect miraculous Calls, and such powerful Impulses as cannot be resisted; and that whilst we go on in a Course that God has expressly forbidden, and affur'd us will end in our Destruction?

Do we think God so fond of our Happiness, as to increase the Measure of his Grace, the more we neglect and despise it; to shower it down in greatest Plenty on our Souls, when we least regard it, and seldom or never desire it, and make no manner of good use of it when we have it, but rather abuse it to a presumptuous Continuance in a Life of careless Irreligion?

Vo. gió Wł

definal Whadjafte

ove FIR

cern

Mo giv plic

vie

Ete Ord thin

ctic ligi wil

the Ap

flot.

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 347

gion? What strange Notions are these?

What fatal Delufions!

S

k

n

i-

of

n,

nd

as

nd

nis

ed

n?

lls,

be

na

en,

n?

ap-

his

it;

on

and no

ave

ous

eli-

But fince Religion, as was faid, is not defign'd wholly to exclude Business, how shall we adjust the Matter between them? Why in short, as our Saviour has already adjusted it, Matt. 6. 33. Where he says, after having caution'd his Hearers against over-carefulness for the World, Seek ye FIRST the Kingdom of God, and his Righteousness. That is, as to serve God acceptably, and fave our Souls, is our main Concern, fo in all Reason it should engage our chief Care, and the best of our Endeavours; and all things else being of infinitely less Moment and Importance than this, should give place to it, and have no greater Application and Regard, than may be subservient to, or at least is very well consistent with, our Duty to God, and our own Eternal Welfare. But when we invert this Order, and mind the World above all things, give it the first place in our Affections, and take little or no notice of Religion; this is utterly inexcusable, and will be of very fatal Consequence. And therefore 'tis excellent Advice that the Apostle gives us, Rom. 12. 11. not to be flothful in Business, and yet withal, fervent in Spirit, serving the Lord.

II. But Secondly, as too much, so too little Business, and a Habit of Idleness, and constant Course of Pleasure is to be carefully avoided by him that would be wife to Salvation.

For People that have no Employment, and whose Time lies upon their hands like a useless Drug; tho' they may indeed improve that Leisure to very happy Purposes, yet 'tis seldom seen that they do so: And sinful Pleasures, to which they have abundance of Temptation, do too often waste the precious Opportunity of laying up vast Treasures of Happiness in Heaven.

Whatever therefore Mens Circumstances and Quality may be, some useful way or other should be found out, of spending those many Hours, which for want of a fettled Course of Business, would otherwise be lost, or spent amiss. What vast Improvements in divers Parts of Knowledge might those Men make who are disengag'd from the Hurries of the World, and have Time at their Command, and may enjoy Solitude and Privacy, when, and as long as they please! And what a delicious Life must that needs be, which is divided between Religion, and noble Studies; the furnishing our Minds with the most excellent and beneficial Truths, and the faving of our Souls! But how pitifully

mean

me. Di

be

ter

dif

in

an

Ex

be

for

the

wl

dy

fuc

ply

ble

be

me

an tal

to

Sp

D

to

Bi

th

fre

ry

ma

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 349

mean is it on the contrary, and below the Dignity of a Rational Creature, either to be fick of one's Time, and drone and faunter it away, as perfectly at a Loss how to dispose of it; or else, to wast it by Day, in what they call Sports and Recreations, and by Night, in Riot, Uncleanness and Excess!

Not that all Diversions are wholly to be laid aside by a wise and good Man; for Health sometimes requires them, and the weary'd Mind, or the Body rather, whose Spirits are exhausted by much Study, and close thinking, stands in need of such Refreshments, that it may again apply it self with fresh Vigour to those nobler Employments. But then, they must be us'd only as Refreshments, now and then, and sparingly; as we taste of a Rich Cordial to chear our drooping Spirits, but not in full

e.

e

t,

e

1-

S,

d te

p

es

or ıg

a

rıst

V-

if-

d.

nd

n,

a

is u-

he

nd

ly

an

Uti quidem Illis licet, fed sicut somno, & Quietibus cateris; tum, cum gravitus, seriisq; Rebus satis fecerimus. Cic. 1. Offic.

Draughts, as we drink of common Liquors to asswage our Thirst.

To make Recreations and Sports a Man's Business, is a kind of Contradiction; for the Notion of a Recreation, is a short Refreshment of Nature, when tyr'd and weary'd out with Business: And therefore to make that our Business, which is design'd of Business, is very odd and preposterous.

No doubt, but our Life is given and continu'd to us for much higher Purposes; and whoever confiders feriously what those Purposes are, and particularly that he has an Immortal Soul to fave, through the Merits of Jesus, and which, if not sav'd, must fink for ever into bottomless Misery; and withal reflects what 'tis to fave that Soul, what great Changes must be made in it e'er it can be capable of Salvation, a new and God-like Temper form'd, and many things bewail'd, and quite left off, which once were look'd upon as the chief Happiness of Life, and in their stead new Loves and new Defires planted, directly contrary to those that once were delighted in so much: Whoever will but ferioufly confider thus, and withal look upon the Shortness and great Uncertainty of Life, and see how near Eternity is to him, I can't but think will be more than a little startled, and confess it strange Imprudence, and even next door to Madness, to trifle away in Vanity and Fooleries, much more to waste in Vice and Luxury, those Minutes which for ought he knows may be his last; or however bring him still nearer and nearer to that which will be so indeed. O that we were fo wife as ferioufly to ponder this, and Vol.

our that

rep need rali thi ble, is afh Co and a b the dic for Po per rat fel the ro

tl

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 351

and consider our latter end! So teach us, Lord, to number our Days, that we apply our Hearts unto Wisdom! O spare us a little that we may recover our Strength, before we go hence, and are no more seen!

II.

es

15.

nd

S;

fe

as he d,

Y 3

at

in

W

ny

ch

pres

ry

fo

fi.

rtlee

out

ed,

nd

ay

to tes

ft;

ar-

hat

nis,

nd

To these Considerations, concerning the great Folly of that Coolness and Indisference in the Prosecution of the One thing needful, which is too visible in the Generality of Men; before I proceed to the next thing that is to be considered in this Parable, I shall add one Advice more, and that is that Men would have a care of being ashamed to own and amend their unwise Conduct in this most important Business; and not drop their good Resolutions of a better Life as soon as they have taken them up, for fear of the Censures and Ridicules, the Slights and Abuses of their former lewd Associates. As if 'twere a Point of Haraur to

Point of Honour, to perfift in the wrong, rather than own themfelves in a Mistake; and they dreaded the being laugh'd at as timorous Precisians, by a few loose Wretches, more than the sad Sentence, Depart from me ye cursed into everlasting Burnings.

In male Cæptis Honestior illis Pertinacia Videtur, quam Panitentia. Seneca.

But shall I damn my Soul for ever, through a base Cowardly Fear of what a Company of vile People will say of me, should

should I grow serious and repent? Would the Children of this World be asham'd to acknowledge an Error in the Methods they take in pursuing any secular Interest, and take no Care to correct it, tho' they see their Ruine will follow it, for fear of the Jeers and Flouts of those who make what haste they can to be undone themselves, and don't care to see any Body take better Courses than they do? No, they are much wifer in their Generation, and why should not we be so in ours; who have an insinitely greater Interest at stake, than that of Ten Thousand Worlds?

Rather let us despise all Treatment of that Nature as below our notice; and confider what Joy our Conversion will cause in Heaven, and to all wise and good Men, and what Transports we our selves shall feel, when at the great Day of Recompence we shall hear these Blessed Words, Well done, good and faithful Servant, enter thou into the foy of thy Lord! And withal reslect upon those words of our Saviour, Mark 8. last v. Whosoever shall be asham'd of me, and of my words, in this adulterous and sinful Generation; of him also shall the Son of Man be asham'd, when he cometh in the Glory of his Father, with the Holy Angels.

II. I shall now briefly consider the other thing our Lord design'd to represent by this

Vol.II. this P of imp good t our T theran and fo Christ, Mamm fail, th Habita unjust to mak in the perishi ways, t go fro make h call yo hip, t and re tations And Charity with of For be peculiar of our tion of all white to him

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 353 this Parable, namely, the great Wisdom of improving the prefent Bleffings and good things God hath here committed to our Trust and Management, to the Furtherance of our Eternal Future Happiness, and so conclude. I say unto you, Christ, Make to your selves Friends of the Mammon of Unrighteousness, that when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting Habitations. That is, so far imitate the unjust Steward in the Parable, as wifely to make a good Provision for your selves in the other World, with those fading, perishing Riches which you can't keep always, but must leave behind you when you go from this; and by Deeds of Charity make him your Friend, who will one Day all you to give Account of your Stewardhip, that so his Holy Angels may conduct and receive you into their Eternal Habitations above.

d

0

d

e

e

t

T

h

.

t

f

e

e

n

.

r

y

And indeed, nothing more likely than Charity to procure a favourable Reception with our Lord at the Day of Judgment. For besides that it is an Observance of his peculiar Commandment, and an Argument of our sincere Love to him, and an Imitation of him in doing good to Mankind, all which must needs render us acceptable to him; for so he tells us, He that keepeth my Commandments he it is that loveth me, A a and and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest my self (very Graciously no doubt) unto him; and this is my Commandment that ye love one another : Besides this, he hath expresly told us that when he comes to judge the World in Righteoufness, he will make particular Enquiry into our Works of Charity; and make mention of that, before all other Instances of Christian Duty, as the Reason of his acquitting or condemning us for ever, as we have or have not Conscientiously observ'd it. As you may fee at large in the 25. Matt. 31st, and following Verses.

And one Reason of his then proceeding in this manner, may be the openly vindicating his Heavenly Father's Honour to the whole Intelligent Creation which shall then be affembled together, from those unjust Imputations which have been cast upon his Providence, by Reason of the extream Poverty of some, while others abound in Plenty, and waste that Plenty in Riot and Excess.

Now no Man being the Proprietor but God's Steward only of that Portion of Worldly Good, which he hath committed to his Trust and Management; and those that are Rich being more eminently fo, and oblig'd to distribute of their Substance

according

acco

give

that

be d

acco

are

ly,

plai

fort

Goo

in th Pro

of i and

Bafe

ful t

able the mor the !

Stew lickl

justi

of 1

of t

to a utm

Bou

fign fery

vile

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 355 according to the Ability that God hath given them, to those that are in want. that so none of his great Houshold may be destitute of what is needful for them. according to the Place and Station they are in; and which, if perform'd faithfully, there would be no occasion of Complaint, but every one would have a comfortable Subfistence: But notwithstanding God the great Housholder hath put things in this excellent Order, and made this wife Provision for all his Family, a great part of it groaning under great Necessities, and even perifhing for Want, through the Baseness of his Stewards who are unfaithful to him, and thereby bring Dishonourable Reflections upon him; therefore, at the great Day of Account, Enquiry shall more strictly and particularly be made into the Discharge of this part of every Man's Stewardship; that so God may be publickly clear'd from all Appearance of Injustice, and a hardned Difregard of any of his Creatures, and the Unfaithfulness of those wicked Stewards of his, expos'd to all the World, and punish'd with the ntmost Severity, for with-holding his Bounty from those for whom it was defign'd, and thereby bringing fo much Mifery upon their Fellow-servants, and such vile Aspersions upon their Gracious Lord.

Aa 2

II.

my

ent

he

he

our

of

isti-

ing

ave

it.

latt.

eed-

enly

our hich

111011 rom

been

n of hers

enty

Chiy

but

n of

n o

itted

hose

y fo,

tance

ding

He then that expects to have the Judge his Friend at the terrible Day, when he shall be call'd to give an Account of his Stewardship, must make Friends with him before-hand by Acts of Charity and Pity to the necessitous; he must consider the sick and needy, as the Psalmist expresses it. Psal. 41. 1. take their Case into his serious Thoughts, and contrive how he may best supply their Wants, and do accordingly. He must not forget to do good and to communicate, but gladly shew Mercy to the miserable, for with such Sacrifices God is well pleas'd, Heb. 13. 16. and will there. by be inclin'd to deliver him in the time of Trouble, and shew him Mercy, then when he wants it most: And be it little or much that we are intrusted with, we must proportion our Charity accordingly. bave much, we must give plentifully ; if little, we must do our Diligence gladly to give of that little, for so shall we gather to our selves a good Reward in the Day of Necessity. For as our Saviour fays, v. 10. of this Chapter, He that is faithful in that which is least, will be faithful also in much, and he that is unjust in the least, is unjust also in much: And where there is a true Principle of Fidelity, and Charity, whatever the degree of the Man's Ability is, he will do fuitably to it. If Vol.

not & mon, it to great with the to shou! more Glor faith for e Cont ble h corru throu v. 12 is and which. have your fuch to di

embe use o can y of the

as we

venly vour

upon

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 357

If therefore, as he goes on v. 11. ye have not been faithful in the Unrighteous Mammon, or Worldly Wealth, but have abus'd it to ends quite contrary to what your great Lord defign'd when he entrusted you with it; Who will commit to your Trust the true Riches? How can you expect God should bestow upon you the infinitely more valuable Treasures of Happiness and Glory, which he hath laid up for his faithful Servants in Heaven, and which are for ever fecure from all those Dangers and Contingencies to which every thing is liable here, which neither Moth nor Rust doth corrupt, and which Thieves cannot break through and steal? And if, as he concludes v. 12. ye have not been faithful in that which is another Man's, who shall give you that which is your own? If that in which you have no Propriety, but is only put into your hands by God, to be dispos'd of to fuch and fuch Uses, as he hath been pleas'd to direct, and that for the Benefit of others as well as of your felves; if this hath been embezzled by you, and wickedly made use of to quite different Purposes: how can you think he will ever give you one of those everlasting Mansions, in his Heavenly Kingdom, which by his Divine Favour and Bounty, shall be so firmly settled upon their blest Inhabitants, that they m Aa3 t' IV

If

e

is

m

y

be

it,

1-ay

d-

nd

to

od

re-

of

ien

ich

ro-

we

tle,

e of lves

For

ter,

east,

t is ch:

e of de-

do

on the undisturb'd Enjoyment of them to all Eternity?

If therefore, 'twas wifely done of the Unjust Steward in the Parable, to make a Provision for himself with his Lord's Goods committed to him, against the Time when his Stewardship should be taken from him; 'twill be our Wisdom to imitate his prudent Foresight tho' not his Fraud and Injustice: And by a Faithful Discharge of our Trust, and Improvement of our great Lord's Talents to his Honour and the Good of our Brethren, to make to our felves Friends with the Mammon, which is too often abus'd to very Unrighteeus Purposes; that when we fail, Jesus may look upon us with Favour and Mercy at the last great Audit, and the Blessed Ministers of his Kingdom may Receive us into those everlasting Habitations, where those that truly ferv'd him here, enjoy perpetual Felicity and Rest.

So shall we be as wise in our Generation, as the Children of the World are in theirs; and by approving our selves to be indeed Children of the Light and of the Day, and true to our Blessed Principles, and Holy Profession here below, enjoy in God's good time, Eternal Happiness, in the Regions of Glory above.

of Glory above.

Vol.I

A Bound by the Reje they most Soul fo we thin my to t

fore

thor

thin

bell from near I a from

Sucan

The

The PRAYER.

T.

AND Thou, most Bleffed Saviour Jesus! Who art all Love and Tenderness and Bounty, to thy poor miserable Creatures, till by the Abuse of thy Goodness, and obstinate Rejection of the Methods of thy Mercy, they force thee to do Justice; Awaken, I most humbly beseech thee, my drowzy stupid Soul, that at length I may look up, and be so wife as to see, and vigorously pursue the things that belong to my Eternal Peace before they be hid from my Eyes! O make me thoroughly sensible, that to Salvation all things else are Trifles, that so I may apply my self with the utmost Care and Diligence to this one thing needful, and work it out with Fear and Trembling!

What hast thou done, and suffer'd, O most compassionate Redeemer, for Vile Rebellious me, to rescue my poor sinful Soul from Hell! And shall I, like a stupid hardned Wretch, do nothing for my self! Shall I again rush headlong into that Destruction from which thou hast redeem'd me with thy most precious Blood! Jesu, Defend me from such fatal Madness! And teach me more and more to prize, and with the utmost Cir-

Aa4

cum pettion

ook the ters bose hat Feon, irs;

and

oly

ons

The

II.

p-

to

he

ke d's

me

om

his

nd

of

eat

the

our

is

ur-

360 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

of Glory didst become a Sacrifice to purchase for me! O wondrous Love! O Miracle of Mercy and unfathomable Goodness!

O may it lead me to an immediate, and sincere Repentance! May I detest those Vices with a perfect Hatred, which brought my Saviour to the Cross; and would have sunk me into the bottomless Abyss of Misery, had he not been my kind Deliverer; and will again sink me still deeper in it, if I abuse that Mercy, by a continu'd Course of Sin!

II.

I know, most Gracious Lord, I can't but know, that every thing on Earth is empty and unfatisfying, apt to corrupt my Soul, and make me miserable; but'tis thy Service only that can make me happy: O therefore more and more estrange me from the World! Redeem me from all vain and irreligious Conversation; and save me from the Power as well as Punishment of all my Sins! And fix my Thoughts and my Affections So Steadily above, that I may difregard the flitting. momentary things I meet with here; and pass through all the Stages of this my Earthly Pilgrimage, with all the Indifference that becomes an Inheritour of thy Eternally Glorious and Blissful Kingdom! And may I be

be sthis and a fa

thou grad

And adm bere

Sav

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 361

I.

g

of

d es

y

k

d ll

ı t

l, ce

15

r

d

e-

d ıt

1-

I

be so wise as to make all the Varieties of this mortal Life subservient to thy Honour and my own Salvation; and improve, like a faithful Steward, whatever good things thou shalt please to intrust me with, to the gracious ends for which thou dost design them! So shall I serve thee acceptably here; And through thy Merits and Mercies, be admitted to share in endless Joys with thee hereafter.

Amen! Thou most Adorable, and Blessed Saviour Jesus, Amen, Amen!

Mora war. Saliferalis in makin or fadil hero dans all those thinks with him commended you

The ter or appropriate a semicores of the base done what which we en duty to day role to be this. In the art Verland dis-

Chapter, -we tells them now lape filte it is.

vewscence and sense amon Ton town (1) tad's and

drawless, and observed

PARA-

PARABLE XI.

Of the Unprofitable Servant.

Luke xvij. 7, &c.

Which of you having a Servant, plowing or feeding Cattle, will say unto him by and by when he is come from the Field, go and sit down to Meat?

And will not rather say unto him, make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thy self and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?

Doth he thank that Servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, we are unprofitable Servants: We have done that which was our duty to do.

THE Occasion of our Lord's speaking this Parable to his Apostles, I suppose to be this. In the first Verse of this Chapter, he tells them how impossible it is but that Offences will come; that some way or of

cern

be vand at le

tho

Chr

who a A

he de fende

litt

tha

lar gre wa

So

fa

fo

or

or other, Men will be injurious to one another, and too often in the greatest Concern of all, that of Religion: By ill Example or ill Doctrine, doing what may be very mischievous to each others Souls, and hindring the Progress of the Gospel, at least in its true Life and Energy, among those especially that are weak and unstable. not well fix'd and fettled in the Faith of Christ; and so, easily led away from the Truth, into destructive Errors and Delu-But wo unto him, fays Christ, by whom they come; it were better for him that a Milstone were hang'd about his Neck, and be cast into the Sea, than that he should offend, v. 2. or harm and mischief, and put a Stumbling-block in the way of one of thefe little ones. Whereby he gave his Apostles fufficient Caution to avoid every thing of that Nature in the Discharge of their Ministry; and to treat every one, particularly the wavering, and ignorant, and ill grounded, with all the Tenderness that was confistent with the Safety of their Souls, (for there is a Tenderness that is very ruinous and destructive) as St. Paul fays he did, when he became all things to all Men, that by all means he might save Some, I Cor. 9. 20, &c.

d

11

u,

)-

is

is

y

or

And as for any injurious ill Treatment they might meet with themselves; he warns

them

them to beware of Malice and Implacability and Revenge, Ver. 3. Take heed to your selves, says he, if thy Brother trespass against thee, rebuke him, in the Spirit of Meekness, to make him sensible of his Fault; and then, if he repent and is forry for it, forgive him. And if he trespass against thee seven times in a Day, and seven times a Day turn again to thee, Saying I repent, thou shalt forgive him, v. 4. Thy Charity shall not be tired out, tho' with many and often repeated Provocations, especially if the Man returns to a better Mind; according to what he had taught them to beg of God in their daily Prayers. Forgive us our Trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us.

But this was so contrary to the corrupt Tendencies of Flesh and Blood, and seem'd a Doctrine so very difficult to be practic'd, that the Apostles distrusted their own Ability in this matter, and said to their great Master, Lord increase our Faith! v. 5. "So "strengthen our Considence in thy mighty

"Aid and Affistance; that it may incline thee to enable us, effectually to perform

" all thou requireft of us!

To this good Prayer of theirs our Lord answers, as by way of Approbation of it, and to assure 'em that such a firm Faith was indeed all in all; If ye had Faith as

A

Vol

this

the

and faid

poss

and

Aid

ma

dea

pec

Pro

be tru

hin

and

An

the

der

apt

ou

ble

plo

Ser

fuc

bu

Mo

tire

Ma

a Grain of Mustard seed, ye might say to this Sycamine Tree, be thou pluck'd up by the Root, and be thou planted in the Sea, and it should obey you, v. 6. For as he faid upon another occasion, all things are possible to him that believeth, Mark 9. 23. and he that stedfastly relies upon God's Aid, in the Performance of what he has made his Duty, and does his own best endeavour towards it; and confidently expects the Completion of any of his gracious Promises, tho' seemingly never so hard to be made good, shall find God faithful and true. Nothing shall be too difficult for him in Morality and Christian Virtue; nor in Nature, when God fets him about it, and has promis'd to carry him through. And this the Event shew'd to be true as to the Apostles, in both respects, to the Wonder of the World.

But lest this should make them hereafter apt to arrogate too much to themselves, our Lord subjoins the above recited Parable. But which of you having a Servant plowing or feeding Cattle, that is, not a Servant hired for so much Wages, and for such a Time, to do such and such Work; but a Servant, or Slave, bought with his Money, or taken in War, who was intirely at his Master's Disposal, and whose Maintenance, and the Preservation of his Life

e

d

f

4

Life was a sufficient Recompense for the best Service he could do: Which of you having fuch a Servant that has been all Day employ'd in the Field, will say unto him by and by, or presently, as soon as he is come home, go and sit down to Meat? And will not rather employ him in his Domestick Affairs, when he had finish'd those abroad, and say unto him, make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thy self, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken, and afterward thou shalt eat and drink? Doth be thank that fervant? Is he oblig'd to him for all this, because he did those things that were commanded him, and it may be quietly and diligently too? I trow not; because his Life and his Livelihood being owing to his Master, he is paid before hand, for all that he can do for him. So likewise ye, fays Christ (applying what he had said to his Apostles,) When ye shall have done all those great things that are commanded you, don't be exalted by it in your own Conceits, and think you merit great Matters at my hands; but rather humbly fay, (and which is no more than the very Truth) We are unprofitable servants, still indebted to God, not he at all to us; for we have done that which antecedently, upon innumerable Accounts was but our Duty to do.

fig

ev

th

D

m lik

A

an

CC

ev

re

fa

th

G

200 bl

is,

A

no

fc

th

h

u

11 0

be

)-

eve

rd

th

m

at

ly

ng for

ye,

to

ou,

on-

ters

and

th)

oted

bave

nu-

do.

So

So that this Parable, 'tis plain, was defign'd to cut off all pretence to Merit, even in the Apostles themselves; and that though they should entirely perform their Duty, how great and difficult foever it might be. And no doubt, but it was likewise intended for the Instruction of all Ages and Persons in the Christian Church; and is as effectual now, as it was then, to convince every one of us of our no Defert. even after the Performance of our fincerest Duty: And that as the good Patriarch faid, We are not worthy of the least of all the Mercies, and of all the Truth, which God bath shew'd to his unprofitable Servants, Gen. 32. 10.

In discoursing therefore upon this Parable, I shall endeavour to shew how utterly without Reason, and highly arrogant it is, for even the best Man living upon any Account whatever, to pretend to merit any thing at the Hands of God, much less Eternal Salvation; and then conclude with some proper Inferences from the whole.

As for the great Unreasonableness and Arrogance, of any Man's pretending to merit any thing at the hands of God, be the Man never so excellent and good, one would think it should be granted at first hearing by every one that knows what God, and what Man is: and to attempt seriously feriously to prove it, seems a great Reproach to Humane Nature, as if it were extremely ignorant, or intolerably proud. And indeed, the wifer and the better any Man is, the more intimately sensible must he needs be of this great Truth, and need no Arguments to convince him of it.

But there being a great Body of Men, and who assume to themselves the Venerable Character of the only true Catholick Church of Christ, and pretend to be infallible too, who maintain the contrary Doctrine; and tell us that our good Works are Meritorious, and that for others as well as for our selves, for the Dead as well as the Living: (and Infallibility, and Merit, are Doctrines that may well go together, and shew what manner of Spirit those are of who hold them) for this Reason, 'tis but needful to preserve our selves from the Infection of fo poylonous an Opinion, (and which our corrupt Nature is but too apt to fuck in) by fuch Considerations as may be a proper Antidote against it.

I. And first, Let us consider that we are God's Creatures, that he gave us a Being when we were not; and that our Continuance in being, and the Possession and Use of any of our Powers and Faculties, wholly depends upon his good Pleasure and Support: Which if he should withdraw, fall fupp this in th can who who be is of Be and ceits 'em a ting we f and I we h done receir depe his

Vol.

draw

deriv the C doth for t the f and i dow upon

Being

Fo

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 369 draw, tho' but for one Moment, we should fall into our Primitive Nothing. This, I suppose, no Christian will deny; and if this be true, what room is there for Merit in this first Step? What possible Pretence can there be of his deferving any thing, who t'other Day was Nothing; from him who out of that nothing, made him what be is? Suppose our Endowments, whether of Body or Mind to be never fo excellent. and even to equal our own highest Conceits of them; and suppose we employ'd 'em all to God's Honour, and in promoting the Interests of his Kingdom; suppose we spent our whole Lives in his Service, and loft'em for his fake: What Plea could we have for Merit, even when we had done all this?

For what had we, that we did not first receive from him? And what can a poor dependent Creature either do or suffer for his infinitely good Creator; which his deriving his very Being from him, and all the Comforts he ever enjoy'd all his Days, doth not bind him to in strict Duty, and for the Neglect of which he would deserve the severest Punishment? And the Nobler, and more Excellent, our Being and Endowments are, the greater Obligation lies upon us to that Divine and Munisicent Being, who gave us all we are, and have,

370 Practical Discourses upon the Vol. II.

and rais'd us to this Heighth out of Nothing; and upon whose Bounty and Support we intirely depend for all our future Hopes.

Now, How is it possible for such a vast Debt as this to be ever over-paid? And over-paid it must be, before we can pretend to merit any thing of him. For could we be suppos'd to have fully paid the Debt, even to the utmost Farthing, (which is a Supposition so wild, so extravagant, so impossible that it confounds our Thoughts to suppose it) that would only take off the Obligation which me before lay under to God; and some new thing must be done to lay any Obligation upon God to us: And from the Blasphemy of thinking that to be ever possible, good Lord deliver us!

But Secondly, We should consider, that we are not only God's Creatures, but vile, ungrateful finful Creatures too; obstinately persisting in our Iniquities, notwithstanding all the wonderful Methods his infinite Goodness hath taken to reclaim us: Which removes us still further from all Poffibility of Merit.

A stubborn sinful Creature, (and such we are all, more or less) is the very worst of Characters, and includes every thing that is apt to provoke God to Anger and fierce Indignation, and make him hate and deteft

tell

fro

Go

Bei

at t

reig

fitio

De

Gif

bell

diff

hol

fing

con

mer

of

to c

mer

and

ung

this

the

a wi

to n

fed,

not

Pro

ferv

very

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 371 test us; but is the furthest thing in Nature from deserving any thing of him that is Good.

ft

d

d

re

ot,

a

n-

its

off

ler

ne

5:

bat

is!

hat

ile,

te-

th-

his

im

om

we

of

hat

erce

de-

teft

Rebellion against the Author of our Being and of all our Comforts; spurning at the Authority of him by whom Kings reign; setting up our own Wills in Oppofition to his, and taking part with the Devil against him; abusing the excellent Gifts, and innumerable Bleffings he hath bestow'd upon us to his great Dishonour; difregarding, nay, violently breaking his holy, just and good Commands; despifing his Rewards and precious Promifes. contemning his Threatnings and Punishments, impudently flying in the Face even of Omnipotence it felf, and daring him to do his worst; turning his Grace and merciful Forbearance into Lasciviousness, and an Encouragement still to go on in our ungrateful and unnatural Rebellion: All this, and infinitely more, is included in the Notion of a stubborn finful Creature.

And now, I would fain know, what such a wretched Miscreant as this, can pretend to merit at the hands of his so vilely abused, and so justly offended Maker? Does not such base Ingratitude and intolerable Provocations of the Divine Majesty, deferve an Eternal Curse, rather than the very least Blessing? It does, it does; and B b 2 we we must all of us with Shame and Confufion of Face confess it; and O that we would so sincerely judge and condemn our selves for it, as to prevent our being condemn'd by thee, our Righteous Lord!

But tho' as Creatures, and Sinners, we can't pretend to merit; yet may we not as Christians? As those whom Jesus, the Eternal and Well-beloved Son of God, hath redeemed from all Iniquity with his most precious Blood, and purchas'd to himfelf as his peculiar People, and who are influenc'd by his Bleffed Spirit, and so nearly united to him? Will not all this make us capable of doing fomething that may be meritorious, and deserve God's Favour, and a fuitable Reward? All this will indeed intitle us to a Share in the Merits of our Bleffed Saviour, if we perform what is required on our part; but as for making room for any Merit of our own, 'tis fo far from it, that it utterly excludes it, both as needless and impossible. As needless, because our Redeemer's Merits are All-sufficient to purchase Salvation for Myriads of finful Worlds, and he hath already obtain'd Eternal Redemption for us; and likewise as impossible, because this wondrous Goodness of God to us, has made us more deeply indebted to him than ever: And if 'tis impossible for us ever to pay what we owe owe in c of wer add

Vol

to me

tha bin

by tiv

tho Ha

nit yet

lef wi

lig Pa

by U

mo

th

for Sp

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 373 owe him for the Benefits he confer'd on us in our Creation alone; his rescuing us afterwards from Eternal Misery, by the Death of his Divine Son, even then when we were in actual Rebellion against him. This adds such infinite Sums to the Account, as must make it more impossible than ever to discharge our just Debts to our most merciful God, much more to do any thing that may lay the least Obligation upon him to us. And as for our being ransomed

e

t

is

1-

e

-

e

y

r,

1-

of

is

ıg

ar

h

e-

i.

of

d

ſe

d-

re

if

ve

ve

by Christ from the Devil's miserable Captivity, and bought by him with a most inestimable Price to be his Servants for ever; tho' this indeed is our great Honour and Happiness (and for ever Blessed be the infinite Compassions of our dear Redeemer!) yet so far is it from putting us into a Capacity of meriting any thing of him, much less Eternal Salvation, tho we serve him with never so much Faithfulness and Diligence; That 'tis directly the Case in the Parable we are discoursing of: And after we have done all, we must confess that 'tis by no means meritorious, but that we are

Unprofitable Servants, having done no more, than upon the highest Obligations, was our Duty to do. According to that of the Apostle, 1 Cor. 6. 19, 20. Te are not your own, for ye are bought with a Price; therefore glorify God in your Body, and in your Spirit, which are God's. Bb3 III.

III. Farther yet, there is another Confideration which will likewife effectually cut off all Pretence to Merit, for the future; and that is our Unthankfulness, and ungrateful Forgetfulness of what we have already receiv'd of God's undeferved Bounty and Goodness.

One would think that Creatures in our Circumstances, who enjoy so much, and deferve nothing; who are indeed Vessels of Wrath, and by our Numberless Iniquities fitted for Destruction, and yet are forborn, and repriev'd from time to time. and affur'd, upon our fincere Repentance, of Pardon, nay of Heaven, through the Merits and Mediation of our Bleffed Lord: One would think, Creatures in such Circumitances as these should be so over-joy'd fif that Expression may be us'd in this Case) at such inestimable Mercies as these. as that nothing but Praises and Halleluja's should come out of our Mouths as the Overflowings of the inward Joy of our glad Hearts, and all our Conversation be humbly chearful, eafy and ferene.

This one might reasonably expect indeed; but do we find it so? Is not Murmuring and Repining, Envy and Discontent, rather to be met with almost every where? And instead of grateful Acknowledgments of our infinite Obligations to dood which are God's.

Vol.

God far b at C

we

VOL

leaft

is y

eft ;

mo

and of

at tit

nit in

an rit

be

CG th

V

be h

t 1 Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 375

H.

n-

y

1-

ve

d

ır

d

i-

re

e,

le

dis

e

r

e

God, who hath loaden us with Benefits fo far beyond our Defert; don't we grumble at our Portion, and proudly think that we deferve much more than we have?

Now he, that altho' he deserves not the least Expression of God's Goodness to him. is yet ungratefully unmindful of the greateft; becomes, by fuch vile Carriage still more undeferving than ever: Still further and further remov'd from all Possibility of Merit, which nothing can let a Man at greater Distance from than base Ingratitude. An humble and thankful Recognition of past Mercies, is the best way to incline God to bestow upon us still more; and 'twas not Merit, but the mant of Merit, that was good Jacob's Plea, when he begg'd God's Favour and Protection. He confesseth himself unworthy of the least of the Mercies which he had formerly received of him; Gen. 32. 10. and therefore begs the Continuance of his Goodness to him. Well knowing that of our felves we have nothing to recommend us, but our Miseries and Wants; and therefore, that the deepest Humility and great Thankfulness for every thing, best becomes such a wretched Condition as ours.

These Considerations, the fo plain and obvious, are yet sufficient, without entring further into the Depths of Dispute, to B b 4 preserve preserve us from the Infection of the pernicious Doctrines of Merit, and Works of Supererogation, which the Church of Rome is so fond of, for the sake of the Worldly Gain, and Advantage she has by them: They being the great Foundation of Indulgencies for the living Sinner, and Masses for the dead, which bring in so much Treasure to her, and are the Support of her outward Pomp and Splendor.

But bleffed be God, We have not so learn'd Christ; and our Holy Primitive Mother, the Church of England, whatever false Imputations of being Popishly affected some may throw upon her, utterly abhors what is Popery indeed; and openly declares against it, and is at a greater Distance from it, than those who so maliciously, and without ground, asperse her. And as to the particular Doctrines we have been now discoursing of, the utterly disowns any Merit in our own good Works, and reposes all her Trust in the Merits of Christ Fesus only for Salvation; as may be feen in her 11th Article : and in her 14th censures the Doctrine of Works of Supererogation, in and for others, as arrogant and impious, and directly contrary to our Lord's Words in the Close of this Parable, When ye have done all those things that are commanded you, Say, we are unprofitable Servants. I shall

Vol.

wha

our havi own redu Greato v port Real Man beco For that draw Mon who be,

fuch

W

muc

lent of C ture give Con it fro didft

thee

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 377

I shall now infer some few things from what hath been discours'd, that may influence our Practice.

S

f

e

y

n

d ò

rt

6

re

t-

y

y

1-

er

3-

r.

10

G-

S,

of

ly

er

 \mathbf{f}

0-ry

is

gs

0-

I. And First, from the Consideration of our being at first nothing, and therefore having nothing now, that we can call our own but our Sins; and being liable to be reduc'd to nothing again, if our great Creator shall please, tho' but one Moment, to withdraw his Conservation and Support: From hence we may see what little Reason even the best and most excellent Man living hath to be proud, and how much better the deepest Humility would become him.

For shall a poor dependent Creature, that t'other Day was nothing, that now draws in precarious Breath, which in a Moment may be taken from him, and whose Excellencies, whatever they may be, are only less him, not his own; shall fuch a Wretch as this be proud?

What shall he be proud of? His excellent Nature, as being made after the Image of God? 'Tis true, 'tis an excellent Nature; but then, who made it so? Didst thou give being to thy self? That is a palpable Contradiction; but if thou didst receive it from some other, Glory not as if thou didst not receive it, but remember who made thee to differ from the more inferiour Parts of the Creation, and let his be all the Praise and Glory for ever.

378 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II:

Instead then, of priding our selves in our excellent Endowments, let us be curious to fearch out our Spots, and our Defilements; and those indeed, are so many and fo great, that without any curious fearch they are foon visible. But how came those Defilements upon such excellent Natures, which were made after the Image of an infinitely pure and perfect God? Most certainly they came clean out of the hands of their Divine Maker, not the least Flaw or Blemish did then adhere to them, for he himself approv'd of this part of the Work of his Hands as well as of the rest, and pronounc'd it very good.

Whence then, these Spots, these Filthinesses which now o'erspread our Natures, and render us so vile in the fight of our good God, and his Holy Angels, and when our Eyes are open in our awn Sight too? Whence are they, but from our own base Lusts, and ungovernable Affections! God made Man upright, says the Wise, Royal Preacher, Eccl. 7. 29. but he hath fought out many Inventions; and those of fuch a Nature as tend to degrade him from a Man to a Brute, and deface the Image of God upon his Soul, and in its room impress that of the Prince of Darkness.

This

Vol

Thi

Det

cha to b

Sha

Vile

is a

Pro

for deg

as b

our

riou

exc

Goa

Pra

Bler

us,

Iniq

belo

of

agai

are inni

Bou

hen

able

forn

I

I

Vol.11. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 379

This is our own Act and Deed, and all the Deformities consequent upon it, we may challenge as our own. But is this a thing to be proud of? Will we glory in this our Shame?

If nothing be our own then, but such Vileness as this is (and this in very Truth is all that we can lay claim to as our own Propriety) Pride certainly was not made for Man, but rather the greatest possible degrees of Humility and Self-Annihilation, as being originally nothing, and fince, by our own Fault, all cover'd over with various Pollutions. Whatever is good and excellent in us, is intirely deriv'd from God, and therefore to him should all the Praise be ascrib'd; but our own are the Blemishes and Defilements that are upon us, the Refult of our great and manifold Iniquities; and therefore to our felves belongs nothing but Shame and Confusion of Face.

is

15

i-

es,

ur

nd ht vn s!

se.

th

of

mc

age

om

ess.

II. Secondly, From what has been faid against all Pretence to Merit, and that we are utterly unworthy of the least of those innumerable Blessings which God's free Bounty hath bestowed upon us; from hence I infer the Vileness and Unreasonableness of Envy.

And this Inference may well follow the former, because there is always Pride at the bottom of Envy; and if that be destroy'd this must fall together with it. For why does any Man pine away at the sight of another's greater Prosperity, but because he thinks he deserves at least as mell as that other; and therefore can't bear to see him more flourishing than himself?

the

And accordingly 'tis observable, that our Equals are for the most part the Objects of our Envy, or those that are not very much above us. Thus one Prince envies another, and one Beggar too another; (for Envy is no Stranger even to the meanest Cottages) but we shall seldom meet with a Beggar that really envies a Prince: He may admire him, and his splendid Retinue and Equipage, and the like; but there is too great a Distance between these two Conditions, to admit of that which is properly Envy; and the like may be faid in any other Instance where there is any great Inequality. But when Mens Circumstances and Condition come nearer together, then 'tis that Envy reigns; and because a Man thinks himself in his Birth perhaps, and natural Endowments, or upon any other Account as good and deferving as another, who hath much better Fortune in the World than he ; therefore this Fury gnaws upon his Liver, and confumes him into a Skeleton,

Envy

froi

gre

De

any thin

can

bei

and val

val

pro

real

loo

to

to 1

to

ple

our rea litt

Pro

pin

who

pre

our

we

Envy therefore, manifestly proceeding from Pride, and high Thoughts, and a great Esteem of our selves, and our own Defervings: Could I throughly convince any Man, that the very least of the good things he enjoys, is much more than he can pretend to deserve; no fear of his being envious at others, that enjoy more and greater than he does. 'Tis an overvaluing our own Deferts, and an undervaluing God's present Mercies to us, that produceth Envy: but how vile and unreasonable he is, who values that very highly which deserves nothing at all, and looks upon that as nothing which deferves to be highly esteem'd; I may leave even to the envious Man himself to judge.

0 ıt

)-

ot

n-

r;

net

e:

eut

ese

ich

be

is

ens

rer

ind

rth

up-

fer-

tter

ore

on-

nvy

Wherefore for the future, let us learn to look upon the least Blessing God is pleas'd to bestow upon us as far beyond our Desert, (which is no more than the real Truth) and then we shall find very little Temptation to envy others greater Prosperity: For with what Face can I repine, because another has more than I have; when at the same time I am sensible, that I have much more than I can any ways pretend to merit, or be worthy of, already?

III. Thirdly, From what has been faid of our great Unworthiness and no Desert, we may see how great the Sin is of Murmuring

muring and Discontent (whether we envy any Body else or not, tho' they generally go together) and what great Reafon every one of us have, be our Circumstances never so mean, to be easy and satisfy'd with our present Lot. There is no Man that has Health and Food enough, tho' never fo plain, to support his Life, and sufficient clothing, tho' never so course, to keep him from the Injuries of the Weather; but must confess that even this is more than he can pretend to deserve. For he is not only a Creature, which was but lately nothing; but he is a vile Ungrateful Sinner too, and a Rebel to his great and good Creator, and if he deserves any thing it must be ruine. Since therefore God's Mercy reprieves him from that Ruine, nay defigns through the Merits and Mediation of his Bleffed Son, at length to make him for ever happy in Heaven, and that upon most reasonable Terms; and in the mean time gives him bere more and greater Bleffings than he is worthy of upon any account whatever: What Reason has he to be discontented, even with the meanest Condition of Life? He would be basely ungrateful if he should, and a thankful Chearfulness is no more than his Duty.

But how few of us are in fuch low Circumstances as those we mention'd but

now ?

Vol.1 now joy t

Life : hast have thy 1 full, dant and wort Merc

us : ones

and i Year Pe

Crof knov part and of o with

agail Prov

great in e Desi

beco our

our

EloI

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 383

now? How plentifully do most of us enjoy the Comforts as well as Necessaries of Life; and may say with the Psalmist, thou hast cast my Lot in a sair Ground, yea I have a goodly Heritage, thou daily heapest thy Benefits upon me, I have Bread to the full, and my Cup runneth over! What abundant Reason have me therefore, to be easy and chearful and satisfy'd, who tho' unworthy as we are of the least of all the Mercies which God hath bestow'd upon us; have yet enjoy'd so many and so great ones from our Youth up even till now, and have a comfortable Prospect of the Years to come!

-

h

it

Ó

it

n

A

n

d id

e.

m

he

n,

in ole

m

is

r:

ed.

e?

ld,

ore

OW.

out v ?

Perhaps we may have met with fome Crosses and Disappointments, and have known some Sorrow; but for the most part this is the effect of our own Folly, and always is no more than the due Desert of our Sins; and yet we are apt presently with equal Impiety and Ingratitude to fret against our good God, to quarrel with his Providence, and over-look the many and great Blessings we already have, because in every thing we can't have our vain Desires gratify'd. But how ill does this become us! How strangely do we forget our selves, and the undeserv'd Benefits of our Gracious Creator!

Thus Jesurun grows fat and kicks; thus we become wanton with the large Bounty of Heaven, and then brutifhly spurn at our Divine Benefactor. We surfeit of too much Plenty, and grow weary of, and loath, what many a poor Wretch as good, and it may be better than our selves, would think himself very happy if he could enjoy. For shame let this great and most provoking Fault be for the future amended; and if Shame will not, let Fear teach us the great Wisdom of Contentment; lest God deprive us of those Blessings which we so slight and undervalue, and keep his hand thut to us for the time to come.

IV. Lastly, From what hath been said of God's great Goodness to w, his undeferving Creatures and unprofitable Servants, we may fee how much Thanksgiving is our Duty ; and what strong Obligations lie upon us to have his Praifes ever in our Months. An easy cheap return this, and yet very acceptable to the Father of Mercies, if it proceeds from a fincerely grateful Spirit. And what can be a greater Motive to it than this, that fuch Wretches as we, should receive such infinite Favours, who have deferv'd nothing but the Flames of Hell! O that our Hearts were duly touch'd with a Sense of our own Vileness and Unworthiness, that so we might worthily magnify God's infinite Goodness! What SW

Wh work spir greather Time know for work factor often to be

rem

can,

place heed Value To may this Care Entire from poor should who great in the care that t

thou

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 385

11.

ty

at

00

d

d.

ld

y.

0-br

he

bc

fo

nd

id

lets.

ur

lie

nur

nd

er-

te-

ter

nes

Irs.

nes

uly

ess

or-fs!

hat

What can look worse, than to see an unworthy Sinner furrounded with Bleffings Spiritual and Temporal, numerous and great, and he all the while insensible of them; or at most, bring out at some set Times a few cold, customary, general Acknowledgments! God forbid it should be fo with any of us any longer, whatever it has been hitherto! And to the end we may be more deeply affected with the wondrous Kindness of our Heavenly Benefactor, it is very adviseable, that we would often fet our felves in our Retirements. to look back to the earliest Days we can remember, and muster up as well as we can, God's particular Mercies to us, and place them in order before our Minds, and heedfully confider the Number and the Value of them.

Thus, (to give some Hints whereby we may the better direct our Meditations upon this Blessed Subject) how great was God's Care over every one of us at our first Entrance into this World, preserving us from those many sad Accidents, which a poor Babe is then in danger of, and which should they befal it, would render its whole Life after miserable! And how great was his good Providence towards us in the helpless State of Insancy, and busy thoughtless Childhood; how often have we been strangely preserv'd from sad Mischances in those our tender Years; any of which would have put an end to our fhort Life, had not our Heavenly Father given his Angels charge over us to keep us in all our ways!

We may further confider, how happy 'twas for us, that we were born in a Chriftian Country, and early dedicated to God in Baptism; wherein we were made Members of Christ, Children of God, and Inheritors of the Kingdom of Heaven; that we had good and indulgent Parents, who gave us a pious and ingenuous Education, and brought us up in the Fear and Service of God; that we have all along enjoy'd the free use of our Senses and our Reason, and some of us an uninterrupted State of Health (the greatest Bleffing in this World) for many Years together; that we have had the great Advantage of good Company, and Excellent Example, and most of us a comfortable Maintenance, and many of us a very Liberal one; whereby our Minds have been freed from anxious Care and Solicitude about to Morrow's Support (or at least, had no need to cark and pinch whatever our Covetoufness may have prompted us to do) and our Thoughts at Leifure for a vigorous pursuit of our great End!

Vol.1

main our I (as I ry th

Hand W rais'd aid a to m part e joym What Profe vatio Book ing R of a affect Guide whole ty and most of it linefs Do one N

cies o every end e wond

And

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 387

And how hath God prosper'd us in the main Strokes of our Lives; in our Callings, our Estates, our Marriages, our Issue; and (as I believe many of us may say) in every thing of Moment that we have set our Hands unto!

12

d

2i-

ve

10

n, ce

od.

n,

of

d)

ve

most

my

our

are ort

ach

ave

hts

OUR

Ind

What Friends hath he unexpectedly rais'd up to us, to counfel and advise, to aid and affift, to support and comfort us: to make light our Burthens, by bearing part of our Troubles, and add to our Enjoyments by their endearing Conversation! What great Helps have we enjoy'd in the Profecution of our main Interest, the Salvation of our Souls! How many excellent Books have we met with to enliven our dying Religion, and re-enkindle the Flames of a fincere Piety in our Breafts! How affectionately and impartially have the Guides of our Souls laid before us the whole of our Religion in its Native Beauty and Lustre; and stirred us up with the most prevalent Arguments to walk worthy of it in all Holy Conversation and Godlinefs!

Does not one Day tell another, and one Night certify another, that the Mercies of our God never fail, but are new every Morning? Where shall I make an end even of these general Hints of the wondrous Goodness of God? There is no

CC 2

End.

End, nor Bottom, 'tis a boundless and unfathomable Ocean.

But though the Bleffed and Delightful Theme be endless, our Discourse of it must not be so too; and therefore let us sum up all in that amazing Expression of the Divine Love, the Redemption of the World, from the Eternal Miseries of Hell, by the Death and Passion of the Son of Who became a Man of Sorrows, and acquainted with Grief, that he might be an Attonement and Propitiation for our Sins, and bore our Punishment, that through his Stripes we might be heal'd, and our finful Souls cleans'd by his Precious Blood. What words can express the Value of this Mercy! What Adoration and Praise can be sufficient for such unparallel'd Love as this! O Bleffed God, as is thy Majesty, so is thy Mercy, both infinite and inexpressible!

And now, Let's breath a while; and being I hope, by this faint Glimpse of the Glory of the Divine Goodness to us, become sensible in some measure of the infinite Obligations he has laid upon us, let us cast an Eye upon our selves; and see whether or no we deserve any of the least of these his Mercies. And if we don't, as certainly we don't, and as we have prov'd fufficiently before; then let us ask our felves

Vol.I felve I to ved many recei And that and' tion ment less i Trut thy a

Refo

Bleff

and able we f End him bear and King Prai Jefu of ther all] in t 14.

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 389 felves this Question, What Return ought

I to make for such, and so many undeserved Favours and Blessings, as I have for many Years received, and do daily still receive, at the Hands of my good God? And I can't but believe the Result will be, that we shall feel our Souls full of Love and Thankfulness; of Joy, and Admiration and Praise; of humble Acknowledgments, that as good facob said, we are less than the least of all the Mercies and the Truth which God hath shewn to his unworthy and unprofitable Servants; and of sirm Resolutions of intire Obedience to his Blessed Will, who is our greatest Friend and Benefactor.

I.II.

ind

tful

nust

ium

the

the

lell,

of

ws,

ght

for

that ıl'd,

Pre-

the

tion

pa-

, as

infi-

and

the

be-

in-

, let

fee

least

t, as

b'vc

our

lves

And indeed this last, is the most acceptable Return of all; and in making which we should employ our utmost and sincerest And they that thus praise Endeavours. him for his Mercies here, shall at length bear a part in the bleffed Choir of Saints, and Angels, and beatify'd Spirits in the Kingdom of Glory: Chaunting out the Praises of the great Father of Mercies, of Jesus his beloved Son, the bleffed Redeemer of the World, and of the Divine Spirit of them both, our Comforter and Guide, to all Eternity. Wherefore let us conclude in the words of the Psalmist, 71. Ps. 13, 14. My Month shall daily speak of thy Righteousness. Cc3

290 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. teousness and Salvation, for I know no end thereof; I will go forth in the Strength of the Lord God, and will make mention of thy Righteousness only.

The PRAYER.

AND thou, O Father of Mercies, and God of all Comforts, the Eternal Fountain of Life and Blessing, in whom I live and move, and have my Being, and who hast given me richly all things to enjoy that are needful to my Happiness both in this World, and one infinitely better; I praise and magnify, with all my Soul, thy wondrous and disinteressed Goodness, to one who is so extremely unworthy, and less than the least of thy Mercies.

My Goodness, O Lord, extendeth not to thee, nor can it be in the least to thy Advantage, should I be able to make my way pensect; and could I perform all that thou hast commanded, (which yet alas, how far am I from doing!) I must confess I have but done my Duty, for which thou hast rewarded me before-hand, with Blessings greater than my Eternal Service, could ever make a Suitable Return for,

O therefore, Gracious Lord, preserve me, I beseech thee, from trusting in my own impersect Volimp vain in a my Me

por

mb

be s

up my be the M

Spe an N. est

ga H fa

A

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 391 imperfet Righteousness; and from all other vain Dependencies, and ill grounded Hopes, in a matter of such infinite Consequence as my Salvation! And may thy boundless Mercies, O my God, and thy prevailing and all-sufficient Merits, blessed Redeemer, be my only Considence, my Comfort and Support; through all my Life, and in the Hour of Death, and at the Day of Judgment!

.II.

nd

of

of

nd

ral

. [

nd

oy

in

I

by

ne

271

to 1-

zy

u

r

e -

5

r

Thou Lord, hast out of nothing made me mhat I am, through thee have I been holden up ever since I was born, and thou hast been my Trust from my Youth : O may I never be unmindful of my low Original, and of thy constant Favours to me; but let my Mouth be filled with thy Praise, that I may Speak of thy Glory and Honour all the Day, and in all Lowliness and Humbleness of Mind, think meanly of my self! So shall I escape being split upon the Rocks of Arrogance and Pride, and Safely arrive at the Haven where I would be, through the Satisfaction of thy dearly beloved Son, Jesus the Righteous, my ever Bleffed Lord and Saviour, Amen, Amen!

and was froken force our tords, profehodly taking boot . Cc4 To PARA-

PARABLE XII.

Of the Wife, and Foolish Builder.

Matt. vij. 24, &c.

Therefore, whosoever heareth these Sayings of mine, and doth them, I will liken him unto a wise Man which built his House upon a Rock;

And the Rain descended, and the Floods came, and the Winds blew, and beat upon that House, and it fell not, for it was founded upon a Rock.

And every one that heareth these Sayings of mine and doth them not, shall be likened unto a Foolish Man that built his House upon the Sand; and the Rain descended, and the Floods came, and the Winds blew, and beat upon that House, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.

THO' this is not stilled a Parable, and was spoken some time before our Lord's professedly taking up that Mystical way of discoursing to his Hearers in the 13th of Matthew, yet I think I need not

Vol not the

tiz'

Hea rit Hea

who Aft

Wi Con

foll for (th

Pra

Ma Fol

tho lice

for his ing

of we

Di

car

as

vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 393 not scruple the considering it as such, and the occasion of it was this.

The Holy Jesus, after he had been baptiz'd by John in Jordan, and declar'd to be the Messias by the opening of the Heavens, and a visible Descent of the Spirit of God upon him, and a Voice from Heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased; Mat. 3. 16, 17. After his Triumph over the Devil in the Wilderness, as an earnest of his compleat Conquest of him which was e'er long to follow; and his forty Days Preparation for the vast Work he was to set about, (the Reformation of the whole World) by Prayer, and Fasting, and Contemplation, and recess from secular Disturbances; Mat. 4. 1, &c. After he had chosen some Followers to minister to him, and profecute this great Affair, ver. 18. when he should be remov'd from hence by the Malice of wicked Men, and made a Sacrifice for Sinners; and after making way for his better Reception by miraculoufly healing all manner of Sickness, and all manner of Disease among the People, ver. 23. He went up into a Mountain to instruct his Disciples in the Heavenly Doctrine he came to teach the World, and which they after him were to preach to all Nations; as that Will of God, which all, to whose Notice 394 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

Notice it should come, should thenceforward be oblig'd to observe and do, upon

Pain of his highest Displeasure.

Indeed, the Promulgation of this Law of Christ was not attended like that of Moses, Exod. 19 .- 18. with Thundrings and Lightnings, thick Clouds and Darkness, with Fire, and Smoke, and the Ecchoings of loud Trumpets, and Threatnings of Death to Man and Beast who should but touch the Mountain, which it felf quaked greatly; fuch Terrors as these might become the Law of Ceremonies, and Ordinances, and that killing Letter, but not the gentle Service, and easy Yoke of the Lamb of God. Here was only the Small fill Voice; and yet the Lord was here in a more August and Glorious Manner, than in the strong Wind, the Earthquake, or the Fire, 1 Kings 19. 11, 12.

For here, nothing was requir'd to be done, but what is perfectly reasonable in its own Nature, and will advance Mankind to a near Resemblance of God himself; and is so directly conducive to our Happiness in all respects, that the hearty Practice of it will cause unspeakable Satisfaction and Delight, and the highest rais'd Pleasure that the Soul is capable of on this side Heaven. The Man's Condition will be all over Beatitude; happy

will

D

he

fr

O

tl

R

to u

16

n

n

a

a

h

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 395

will he be at present in himself, and a Happiness to all about him; happy in his Divine Expectations and Hopes, whilst here below, and beyond Expression happy, when he shall be admitted into his Master's Joy above.

1

t

e

n

n

n

1-

1-

y

a-It

of

i-

y

So that here we have a secure Retreat from this unsatisfying, wicked, miserable World; and to withdraw more and more, and expect less and less from it, and busy our selves in studying, and practising, these admirable Lessons of our most Holy Religion; we shall find, when all's done, to be the only blessed and happy State upon Earth, and the sure way that will lead us to the Regions of Glory.

And as this will be our infinitely best Employment, so will it be a full Employment too; and whoever makes it his business in Sincerity to conform his Temper, and his Life, to these Heavenly Rules, will find himself neither at Leisure, nor at all desirous if he were, to trifle away his Time in that vain manner, which is but too too much the Custom of the World.

But lest we should think, that although these Directions are indeed most excellent, yet 'tis but few that can attain to such extraordinary Heighths of Religion; and therefore they are to be look'd upon only 396 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

F

fo

as Counsels of Perfection, and a Man's Eternal Condition, tho' it will not be fo Glorious indeed, yet may be fafe without them; and fo take but little notice of what is fo much above our Reach : Our great and good Master, to set us right in a matter of fuch mighty Importance, and prevent a Mistake which would be of most dreadful Consequence, has plainly told us, not every one that Saith unto me Lord. Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, but he that doth the Will of my Father which is in Heaven, Matth. 7. 21. even that Will of his which he had just before made known unto his Hearers. And then, he affures us, v. 22, 23. that whatever high Thoughts we may have of our felves and our Performances, and whatever Boasts we may make of the strength of our Faith, in any other Respects; yet if fincere Holiness be wanting, according to these Rules he hath given us, every thing else will fignify nothing: And at the Day of final Recompence he will profess unto us, after all our fair Pretences of being his Disciples and Followers, I never knew you, Depart from me ye that work Iniquity. And at the close of all, to give this great Truth a deeper Impression upon our Minds, he resembles those that hear those Sayings of his and do them, to a wife Man

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 397

Man that built his House upon a Rock; which, though the Rain descended, and the Floods came, and the Winds blew, and beat upon it, yet fell not, because it was founded upon a Rock. But on the contraty, those who hear but do them not, he likeneth to a foolish Man, which built his House upon the Sand; and when the Rain descended, and the Floods came, and the Winds blew, and beat upon it, it fell, and great was the fall of it.

From all which it is undeniably evident, that our Lord defign'd those admirable Lessons he hath taught in his Sermon on the Mount, which he concludes with this Parable, not as Counsels of Perfection only, to his Apostles, and some few of extraordinary Abilities; but as the standing Rule of every Christian's Practice : And that upon our acting agreeably to it in Sincerity to the best of our Power, depends our Eternal Happiness. And confequently, what is contain'd in it, however difficult it may feem to our corrupted Nature, is yet practicable by every fincere Christian; for otherwise, our Bleffed Saviour would not have made it a necessary Duty, and that to all without Exception, as we see he hath, and upon pain of the severest Punishments if not perform'd. And therefore, be only that is so wise as knows of the Duties of Christianity, has any good ground to hope for the Rewards of it; and 'tis as vain and foolish a thing to hope to be sav'd without Christian Obedience; as for a Man to expect any durable Shelter and Defence against the Injuries of Wind and Weather, from a House that he hath built without any Foundation, upon the treacherous Sand: Which instead of being a Comfort and Security to him, will fall when it should do him most Service, and become his Ruine.

Having thus feen the Meaning and Defign of this Parable, or Similitude, call it which you please, we will now consider the feveral parts of it.

Wisdom and happy Consequence of reducing to practice the Sermons of the Gospel; and not thinking it sufficient to be instructed in our Christian Duty, and to talk of it, and admire its Excellency, and pretend to much of Faith and Love to Jesus; unless we heartily set about the Performance of what he requires of us in order to our Salvation. Whosoever, says our Lord, beareth these Sayings of mine and doeth them; I will liken him to a wise Man which built his Honse upon a Rock; and

wh Uff Sup Stollen

tha wi wh

for

of fer

in H

an

It all the n o u

1

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 399

and by laying so firm a Foundation (and which was no more than the Nature and Use of a Building requir'd) secur'd the Superstructure from yielding to those Storms of Wind and Rain, and the Violence of Floods, which a prudent Man that looks before him, can't but know will sometimes happen; and accordingly, when the Rain descended, and the Floods came, and the Winds blew, and beat upon that House, yet it fell not, because it was founded upon a Rock.

And of this Nature is the Wisdom of not hearing only but practifing the Duties of Christianity. It shews, that we are duly sensible of the Nature of those Duties, and the reason why they are commanded, and the indispensible Necessity of our paying Obedience to them, in order to our Happiness; and the stead they will stand us in hereafter, at the great Day of Tryal. It shews that we wisely consider that they are intirely defign'd for Practice; for nothing can be more ridiculous than to imagine, that Christ hath drawn up such admirable Rules of Life only to shew his own Wisdom, without intending to oblige us to do accordingly. And if he does indispensibly require our Observance of them, as most certainly he does, and as we have shewn but now; we may be fure there is good Reason for it.

And the Reason is this; because the Happiness which he came to purchase for us is such, that unless we fit and prepare our selves by the Methods he hath taught us, we can never be capable of its Enjoyment. For how can an impure, vile, wicked Wretch, as such ever come to Heaven, and enjoy the Blisses of that Holy Place? But we are all of us by Nature, since the Fall, such impure vile Wretches; and therefore 'tis necessary we should be wash'd, and cleans'd, and purify'd, and made meet to be Partakers of the Inberitance.

of the Saints in Light.

'Tis true, (and for ever bleffed be the infinite Mercy of God, for it) whatever might have been imputed to us, or we were liable to, upon Account of the Sin of our first Parents, is done away by the Blood of our crucify'd Saviour, and the Waters of Baptism; whereby, tho' we were born in Sin, and the Children of Wrath, we are made the Children of Grace: But notwithstanding this, so strangely prone are we to Evil, fince their Fall, and fo averse to what is Holy and Good, that nothing is more needful than good Laws, bound upon us with the strongest Sanctions, to keep us from utterly forfeiting God's Favour again; and to train us up for that Happiness, which the Divine Goodness

Go

Ru us nal

Fat

He pre ties of and Per are 'tis con mer agree here and terri our kind and not

and

Day

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 401

Goodness has design'd for us through Christ. And therefore it is that our blessed Redeemer hath given us such Excellent Rules of Life, and so strictly commanded us to observe them, and promis'd us Eternal Glory with himself and his Heavenly Father if we do, and threatned us with an Everlasting Banishment from him in Hell if we do not: And after all, can prevail with but sew, to take the course to be happy.

e

Such then being the Nature of the Duties of the Gospel, and such the Reason of their being so peremptorily injoyn'd. and fo much depending upon our fincere Performance of them, and to which we are so strangely backward and averse; as 'tis very needful seriously and often to consider these things, so 'tis a great Argument of our Wisdom so to do, and to act agreeably. And with the wife Builder here, to prepare against a time of Storms and Tempests; and look forward to that terrible Day, which is coming on apace, and will try the Strength and Solidity of our Building to the utmost, and shew what kind of Foundation it was rais'd upon, and ruine both that and us, if it stands not very firm. For God has appointed a Day in which he will judge the World in impartial Righteousness; when every Man's Work

Work shall be try'd, and we shall all be call'd to give an Account of our past Lives before one that is infinitely Holy and lust, and from whom nothing can be conceal'd, no not the most secret Thoughts and Intentions of our Hearts, and who will reward every one according to his Deservings. And this great Judge is that very Jesus, who has so expresly told us, that fincere Obedience to his Commands, is that which must bring us off at that Day; and without which, his Father's Wrath, like an impetuous Torrent, will then overwhelm us, and irrefiftibly drive us down with all our vain Pretences, and groundless Expectations, into the Burning Lake prepar'd for the Devil and his Angels.

In that Day, says Christ, immediately before this Parable, I will profess to all the Workers of Iniquity, Depart from me, I never knew you. Therefore, as he begins this Parable, lest you should be deceived into any Hopes of my Favour then, without being obedient to my Commands now; Therefore whosoever heareth my Sayings, and doeth them, I will liken to a wise Man that built his House upon a Rock, &c.

'Tis very plain then, that 'tis utterly in vain to hope for Heaven upon any other Terms than fincere Evangelical Obedience 3

W

de

St.

Cl

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 403 ence; and that the most consident Faith will never save us if destitute of good Works ; 7am. 2. 24.

S

11

e

d

g

n-

ly

all

ne,

ins

v'd

th-

nds

ag-

wise 820

y in ther edi-

ice s

Christ indeed, is the only Rock of our Salvation, and his Merits the only fure ground of our Hopes; and Faith in him, and a steady unshaken Belief of our Pardon and Acceptance with God through his Intercession, and in Vertue of his Allsufficient Sacrifice, is the Foundation we are to lay upon this Rock, and the deeper 'tis laid the better, Luke 6. 48. But then, it must be such a Faith as Christ requires : (i. e.) a Faith that is obediential and operative: Not fuch a barren notional Faith as wicked Men, and even the Devils themfelves may have, for that will be to as little purpose as none; but a Faith that influences the Heart and Affections, and makes us entirely devote and dedicate our felves to our Redeemer's Service, and with a chearful Readiness do our best endeavour to perform what he has made our Duty.

If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them, and if ye love me keep my Commandments, says our Lord, John 13. 17. & 14. 15. And St. James says, that Faith without Works is dead, Jam. 2. 17. And St. Paul makes it a Motive to Deeds of Charity, and to be rich in good Works,

Dd 2 that that thereby we shall secure to our selves a good Foundation against the time to come, that we may attain Eternal Life, 1 Tim. 6.

And accordingly at the Day of Judgment we shall be try'd and rewarded, not according to our Faith only, but according to our Works; Come ye Blessed, &c. for I was hungry and ye gave me Meat, &c. Depart ye Cursed, &c. for I was hungry and ye gave me no Meat, &c. So that a true Gospel Faith, and the Works of a Gospel Righteousness are inseparable; and both together make up the only sure Foundation for a Christian to build his Hopes upon of Eternal Life.

And this is the true Notion of Edification in Scripture, or as St. Jude expresses it, Building up our setves in our most holy Faith, Jude 20. 'Tis not the filling our Heads with unprofitable Notions, and pleafing our itching Ears, with heaping to our felves Variety of Teachers, and pretending to be mightily mov'd and affected by them, as a fort of People did whom St. Paul mentions, I Tim. 4. 3, 4. who yet could not endure sound Doctrine, but turn'd away their Ears from the Truth: But'tis to grow in Grace, to shew out of a good Conversation our Works with Meekness of Wisdom, Jam. 3. 13. To give all diligence, as St. Peter adviseth.

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 405 adviseth, 2 Pet. 1. 5, &c to add to our Faith Vertue, to Vertue Knowledge, 10 Knowledge Temperance, to Temperance Patience, to Patience Brotherly Kindness, and to Brotherly Kindness Charity; for if these things be in you and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the Knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. But he that lacketh these things, whatever Illuminations he may pretend to, is blind and cannot see far off, is destitute of saving Knowledge, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old Sins by Baptism, and then engag'd to lead a new Life for the future. Wherefore the rather Brethren give diligence, by this means, to make your Calling and Election sure, for this is the only way of doing it effectually; and if ye do these things ye shall never fall. For so an Entrance shall be ministred unto you abundantly, into the Everlasting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

This is true Christian Edification; and you see 'tis well founded, and so are the Hopes that are rais'd upon it. 'Tis Christian Practice that must build us up into a Holy Temple for the Spirit of God, and prove the Sincerity of our Faith, and procure us Mercy at the Day of Judgment, and Admission into Heaven. And yer, which is very strange, there are a great

Dd 3 many

406 - Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

many who pretend to edify most by those Teachers, who say least of the necessity of Obedience and good Works in order to our Salvation; and withdraw from and give ill Names to those who urge this great Truth home upon them, as becomes all Faithful Ministers of Christ to do.

But 'tis a very ill sign when People (with those St. Paul speaks of mention'd before) can't bear found Doctrine; and are most fond of those that speak unto them smooth things, and make the Way to Heaven easier than our Lord has made it: And 'twill prove a very fatal Delusion at last.

Our Saviour says most expressly here in this Parable, that he only is wise unto Salvation, who does as well as hears his Sayings: And that whoever hears, but doth them not, and builds his Hopes of suture Happiness upon a dead unactive Faith in him, and bare Knowledge of his Will without suitable Obedience, shall find at length that he has built without a Foundation, and his vain Expectation shall come to nothing, as that soolish Man's House did which he built upon the Sand.

And fince our Saviour hath said so, we dare not but say so too; and should we say otherwise, we should basely betray

our

n

b

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 407 our Trust, and deceive you into Ruine, and have a fad Account to make at the Day of Judgment. And therefore, we must again and again, urge you not to be unprofitable Hearers but doers of the Word, deceiving your own selves, Jam. 1. 22. for whoever knows his Lord's Will, and does it not, instead of receiving a Reward for some fine Words and fawning Pretences which he may have bestow'd upon him, shall only be beaten with the more Stripes. And as nothing can be more foolish than for a Man to be very bufy, and take a great deal of pains in building a House upon the Sand without a Foundation, and please himfelf with vain Hopes of Security and Shelter in it, when the next hafty Rain, or Storm of Wind, or Flood, will tumble it down again upon his Head; fo there is equal Folly and Danger, in depending upon that fort of Religion for Happiness, which confists only in an empty Profession of Christianity, without a fincere Conformity to its Holy Rules of Life.

II. And this is the next thing to be consider'd in this Parable, Every one that heareth these Sayings of mine and doth them not, shall be likened to a foolish Man that built his House upon the Sand, &c.

Dd 4

And

408 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

And indeed, one would wonder what any Man can propose to himself from constantly hearing of his Duty, but concerning himself very little about putting it in Practice.

For if it be his Duty, his being inform'd in it, is only in order to his Performance of it; and when he hears himfelf often and affectionately urg'd to pay Obedience to it, and reprov'd for his neglects of it, and encourag'd by the inestimable Promises of the Gospel to obferve it better for the future, and threatned with the dreadfullest Punishments if he does not, and all this by those who act in his Saviour's Name, and are by him commission'd so to do: For a Man to have all this constantly ringing in his Ears, and pretend that he believes it all to be very true, and yet to be very little if at all influenc'd by it, is strangely unaccountable. But it is much more fo, for a Man to build his Hopes of Salvation upon fuch Christianity as this. For this is to hope against the Nature of that Salvation, and the whole Tenor of the Gospel; against all the Promises and Threatnings of it, against our Lord's own express Words over and over again repeated; and against the very End and Defign of his coming into the World:

W

an ze

tra th fre ta is th m th ar th

> N be hi P ut

to

on th le

Fafo

ft.

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 409

Which was to redeem us from all Iniquity, and purify to himfelf a peculiar People, zealous of good Works.

A Man of any Sense, or indeed of any Modesty, could never hope at such an extravagant rate as this; and one would think should be very uneasy to be so frequently told of that Duty which he takes so little. Care to practice, and yet is convinc'd is his Duty, and no more than is highly reasonable, and will be of most happy Consequence to him both in this World and for ever, if it be done. and of the contrary if it be not. He that is not very stupid and thoughtless, and withal (which usually go together) utterly without Shame, can never bear to hear fo much faid to him of this Nature, without endeavouring to be the better for it: Much less can he persist in his confident groundless Hopes of being Preach'd into Heaven, without fetting one foot forward in that way, which those very Sermons tell him does alone lead to it.

This is the most obstinate hardened Folly in the World, and must needs have a very terrible Conclusion. A House thus foolishly built upon the Sand, can never stand the Shock of Storms and Tempests, but will quickly fall, and great will be the a Christian in the Day of Vengeance but a Miracle, and that the greatest that ever was; even God's falsifying his Word, and acting quite contrary to his own Nature, and all the Revelations that he has ever yet made to the World.

But can any Christian be so besotted as to think, that all God's Threatnings, and what is faid of the Day of Judgment, and the impartial Proceedings of it, and the dreadful and irreverfible Sentence that shall then be pass'd upon the wicked; that all this is but a Bugbear to affright timerous Minds? A Contrivance to keep Men in some Awe, but shall never really be? Is our most Holy Religion nothing but a Romance; handsomely put together, but with little Ground of Truth? A thing to furnish Matter for Discourse, or an Amusement to employ our Thoughts for an Hour or two, but not defign'd for a Rule of Life and Manners? No Christian, one would think, could ever entertain such . Thoughts of it, and footh himself up with such wild Fancies as these; and yet there are Abundance whose Practice bespeaks no other than fuch a Faith as this.

But if we indeed believe that Creed which we so often repeat, particularly the

Vol.
the

Hol don have

Ever Hap feve

our

the Noi ferv

Wor if n

as to

pare

four blan

der upo ceiv

pavi Ter

Teft

Fav

the two last Articles of it, the Resurrection of the Body, both of the Just and Unjust, in order to their Tryal by the Holy Jesus, according to their Works done in their first Life, whether they have been Good or Evil; and the Life Everlasting, in endless and unspeakable Happiness, or Misery, according to their feveral Defervings here: If 'tis indeed our Belief, that this Day of the Lord will come as a Thief in the Night, in the which the Heavens shall pass away with a great Noise, and the Elements shall melt with fervent Heat, and the Earth also, and the Works that are therein shall be burnt up; if we really look for such dreadful things as these, what manner of Persons ought we to be in all manner of Holy Conversation and Godliness! And how diligent to prepare for this his coming, that we may be found of him in Peace, without spot and blameless ! 2 Pet. 3. 10, &c.

f

-

e.

0

e

-

y

of

or

y

ut

1-

k,

of

ld.

n-

er

ed

ly

he

He that does thus will be a Wise Builder indeed, and stand firm and unshaken upon a Foundation that will never deceive him. Si fractus Illabatur Orbis, Impavidum ferient Ruina. Amidst all the Terrors of a burning sinking World the Testimony of a good Conscience will bear him up, in good Hope of the Judge's Favour, and in joyful Expectation of the the Bleffed Sentence, Well done good and faithful Servant, enter thou into the Joy of thy Lord; Come ye Blessed Children of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the World.

412 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

But what a dismal Condition will that wretched Creature be in, who has all along lead an idle thoughtless Life; and only talk'd a little of Religion, and at most been an unprofitable Hearer, but no Doer of the Word: And so has built his Hopes of Salvation upon the Sand, which will presently give way when it comes to the great Tryal, and deceive him into Eternal Ruine! (O Dreadful Words!) which God of his Mercy prevent!

But 'tis not only the careless lazy fort of Christians that are such unhappy foolish Builders, but some that make a great Bustle, and take a great deal of Pains; but yet to as little Purpose, for want of laying a good Foundation at bottom.

I mean those, who are very constant, and exact, in the outward parts of Religion, the Instrumental Duties of it, but want the inward Spirit and Life of it; or as the Apostle expresses it, have the Form, but not the Power of Godliness. Vol.

Such were Serv vers they Tit thin gre Ref

wat An mu

but of the the pre

> th D fo

pe Ol B

to R

0 W W

1

Such

Vol.II. Parables of our Blessed Saviour. 413

II.

nd

toy

en

re-

be

nat

and

at

uit

ilt

d.

it

ve

ul

e-

rt

by

of

or.

at

t,

i-

ut

10

S.

h

Such were the Pharifees of old, who were great Frequenters of the Publick Service in the Temple, and nice Obervers of the Ceremonial part of the Lav; they pray'd and fasted often, paid their Tithes exactly, even of the most minute things, Mint, Annise, and Commin; took great Care of not breaking the Sacred Rest of the Sabbath, and in every outward Performance were irreprovable: And upon this they valued themselves much, and made a great Noise with it but all the while took little or no notice of the weightier Matters of the Law, and therefore were branded by our Lord with the Hateful Name of Hypocrites, and reprov'd with the greatest Sharpness,

And too much like them are some in the Christian Church, and that of all Denominations, who are mighty zealous for their several ways of Worship, appear constantly in their Publick Religious Assemblies, are very regular in their Behaviour there, and in all Respects, as to what relates to an outward Shew of Religion, seem to have a great Sense of it upon their Minds: When all the while they are very great Strangers to what is Religion indeed; and both their Temper, and their Conversation, are very far from Christian. And yet upon

fuch

414 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II. such outward Performances do they build their Hopes of suture Happiness; there they set up their Rest, and look no surther.

Now, tho' these things indeed ought to be done, as our Saviour said to the Pharifees, and Decency and Regularity looks no where better than in Religion; yet 'tis in order to what is of infinitely greater Importance, and which, if we hope to be sav'd, must not be left un-'Tis the inward Disposition of the Heart that God chiefly regards; and which, if it be right, will influence all our Actions: And therefore, if we have fo heard the Sermons of the Gospel, and made that good Use of our Attendance upon Publick Ordinances, as to be renewed in the Spirit of our Minds, and to walk as Chrift walk'd in all our Conversation, fincerely tho' imperfectly, and according to the Holy Rules he hath given us, to the best of our Power; then we may have good Hope towards God, and our Expectation shall not be cut off. But if we have spent all our Time and Care about the Externals of Religion, and are very little the better for it in our Souls, and shew no Fruits of it in our Lives: Tho' we may have taken a great deal of Pains in raising a fine fine loo we ma do have laft en rea fig

liv fe he th

V

t

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 415

II.

ild

ere

ır-

ht

he ty

1;

ly

ve

n-

of

nd

Ill

ve

bl

ce

v-

to 1-

d

h

is.

e

ır

of

r

S

e

a

fine appearance of Christianity, which shall. look very well to the Eye, and with which we our felves as well as others, 'tis like, may be mightily pleas'd at present; yet we do but deceive our selves all the while, and have labour'd to no purpose, and shall at last find we have done so by a sad Experience, because there wants a Foundation of real folid Holiness, without which all will fignify nothing at the last great Day.

Now if all this be true, and those that live the best Lives are the best and the wifest Christians, we may plainly see from hence the great Vanity of Mens valuing themselves upon being of this or that Persmassion, how Orthodox soever it may be, without taking care to lead a Holy and Unblamable Life. For let our Notions and Opinions be never so unexceptionable, they will do us no real Service, unless fanctify'd by a truly pious Conversation; and will be in great Danger too of being quickly corrupted, if our Lives are led in direct Opposition to our Faith. According to that of St. Paul, Holding Faith and a good Conscience, which some having put away, concerning Faith have made shipwreck, 1 Tim. 1. 19.

Error in Notion is but too often the Consequence of Debauchery of Manners; and a Man that cares not how he lives, will in a short time care as little what he believes; nay make it his Business to corrupt his Belief, that he may find out some Excuses and Palliations for his wicked Life.

He therefore that would avoid pernicious Errors in the Doctrinals of Religion, must carefully conform his Practice to the Duties of it; and first endeavour to tread in the Steps of his great Master's Life, if he would have his Mind enlightned with his Heavenly Truth. And 'tis no ill Rule of judging of Mens Pretences to extraordinary Light and Inspiration; first to look into their Manners, and the Tendency of their Doctrines to good Life. And agreeably when our Lord bids us beware of false Prophets, he tells us, by their Fruits ye shall know them. Mat. 7, 15, 16.

know them, Mat. 7. 15, 16.

But further, if from this Parable, and what has been said upon it, it appears that a good Life is the very Soul of Christian Religion, and without which, let a Man believe and profess what he will, his Hopes of Salvation will have a very sandy and deceitful Foundation; what strange Divinity is that which is so much cry'd up by some among us, that Faith is all in all, and that to Preach up good Works smells very rank of Popery! 'Tis very strange that these extraordinarily enlightened Persons, as they would

cou

anit

to gre

tog

W

Pec

tha

Ch

Ca

of die

to

the

W els

up

for

Ex

lig

G

an

in ex

th

Wol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 417 would pretend to be, should run thus counter to the main Design of Christianity; and make it their great Business to divorce and put asunder, what our great Master has thus inseparably join'd together.

For a Christian to disparage good Works; how odly does it look! For People that pretend to more Holiness than ordinary, to find fault with a Church, because it makes it its chief Care to urge the indispensible Necessity of Holiness of Life; what a Contradiction is it! But it seems, according to this Divinity, the best Christians are those who have least regard to good Works, and those God's choicest Jewels, to whom Piety of Life is not look'd upon as necessary to their Salvation.

And indeed, to those that know these fort of People best, 'tis evident from Experience, that the main of their Religion consists in great Considences in God's peculiar Love and Favour to them, and presumptuous enrolling themselves in the Book of Life, and uncharitably excluding almost every Body else; but as for good Works, there is as little of that fort of Christianity to be found amongst in a short time care as little what he believes; nay make it his Business to corrupt his Belief, that he may find out some Excuses and Palliations for his wicked Life.

416 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.11.

He therefore that would avoid pernicious Errors in the Doctrinals of Religion, must carefully conform his Practice to the Duties of it; and first endeavour to tread in the Steps of his great Master's Life, if he would have his Mind enlightned with his Heavenly Truth. And 'tis no ill Rule of judging of Mens Pretences to extraordinary Light and Inspiration; first to look into their Manners, and the Tendency of their Doctrines to good Life. And agreeably when our Lord bids us beware of false Prophets, he tells us, by their Fruits ye shall know them, Mat. 7. 15, 16.

But further, if from this Parable, and what has been said upon it, it appears that a good Life is the very Soul of Christian Religion, and without which, let a Man believe and profess what he will, his Hopes of Salvation will have a very sandy and deceitful Foundation; what strange Divinity is that which is so much cry'd up by some among us, that Faith is all in all, and that to Preach up good Works smells very rank of Popery 1 'Tis very strange that these extraordinarily enlightened Persons, as they

would

word courant to great

We Peotha Ch

die to the W

of

els up

lig Gran

ex

In

it

Wol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 417 would pretend to be, should run thus counter to the main Design of Christianity; and make it their great Business to divorce and put asunder, what our great Master has thus inseparably join'd together.

For a Christian to disparage good Works; how odly does it look! For People that pretend to more Holiness than ordinary, to find fault with a Church, because it makes it its chief Care to urge the indispensible Necessity of Holiness of Life; what a Contradiction is it! But it seems, according to this Divinity, the best Christians are those who have least regard to good Works, and those God's choicest Jewels, to whom Piety of Life is not look'd upon as necessary to their Salvation.

And indeed, to those that know these fort of People best, 'tis evident from Experience, that the main of their Religion consists in great Considences in God's peculiar Love and Favour to them, and presumptuous enrolling themselves in the Book of Life, and uncharitably excluding almost every Body else; but as for good Works, there is as little of that fort of Christianity to be found amongst amongst them, as with any that pretend to be Disciples of Christ Jesus. And in this they act but according to their Principles, as we shew'd before. But, sad Principles are those, which lead Men to such Practices; and I pray God keep us all from being infected with them.

And fince we of the Church of England, are instructed in much truer Notions of Christianity; and are taught, what the Scriptures plainly affert, that without no Holiness no Man shall see the Lord, that Faith alone cannot fave, but without good Works is aead, and the like; Since these are the Principles of the Church of England, let us all be true to these our Principles, and act according to them. Let it no more be faid of us that our Lives run counter to our Doctrine, and that careless Libertinism is all the Effect they can discern of the numerous Discourses we hear about the Necessity of good Life.

Indeed, it is a Shame we should give so much occasion, as too many of us do, to have such things laid to our Charge; and one would think, a Man of a generous Spirit should not

en-

n

to

al ra H

of

ar

of

QL

ev

ry

QU

gr

an ne

fec

me

W

Vol.II. Parables of our Bleffed Saviour. 419 endure to expose himself thus to the Lash of ill Tongues, and do irreparable Damage and Dishonour to what he believes to be the true Religion.

An unblameable Conversation, when all's done, will be the most unanswerable Argument for the Truth of our Holy Religion, against the Opposition of Atheists, and Insidels, and Scepticks, and Schismaticks, and all its Enemies of whatever Denomination; and without which, all other Arguments, however convincing in themselves, will very much lose their Force.

t

e

et

e

e I-

d

ır

n

le

le

ld

id

4

ot nIf then, we fincerly believe and love our Religion, and defire that it should grow and increase; let us take that Course which of all other is the most likely to make it do so That is, let us amend our Lives, and conform our Manners to that Holy Rule which our Bleffed Saviour hath set us, and which the Church of England so earnestly recommends to our Observance; and then, we may defy all other Objections that can be made against us.

Wherefore, to conclude this Parable; (and which I have placed last, as a good Gg 2 Con-420 Practical Discourses upon the . Vol.II Conclusion to all the rest) since our ever Blessed Redeemer, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, and hath told us, that no Man can come to the Father but by him, hath in great Mercy plainly mark'd out to us the Way that leads to Eternal Glory, and commanded us carefully to walk in it, and forewarn'd us of the Danger of turning from it, and cutting out new Ways to our felves, which will bring us to Destruction: Let us be fo wife, as heedfully to follow his Guidance and Direction, tho' we find the Way narrow and difficult, that at last we may enter into that ffrait Gate, which leads to Life everlasting. Reslecting often upon this Parable of the Wife and Foolish Builder; and upon those Words of our Lord, Matt. 5. 19. Whofoever Shall break one of the least of these Commandments, and shall teach Men so, shall be called the teast in the Kingdom of Heaven : but whofoeder (ball do, and teach them (and nothing so instructive and perswasive as Example) the same shall be called great in the Kingdom of Heaven: And devoutly begging his Grace and A fliftance from whom is all our Sufficiency; and who has promis'd to give to those that ask, Mat. 77. and to open to those that knock, boogs and that those who seek shall find. The -nol)

Vol

har ly har Sch

1130

and

to

An

ob

str

I i

F

pr

di

the resolve lafferent for last a Free at

The PRAYER.

5

0

e

y

S

)-

rk

5,

o-

1be

g-

m

a· k,

k,

ne

ealefs chowhelp his Infirmstres, premother AND thou, most Holy Jesus! Have Mercy upon me miserable Sinner! Who have so long been thy Disciple, and constantly instructed in thy Blessed Will, and yet have made such small Proficiency in the School of Righteousness! How often have I read thy Divine Sermon on the Mount, and other thy most Excellent Discourses; and had the Duties they contain earnestly urg'd upon my Practice by thy Ministers, to gether with the happy Consequence of Obedience, and the dreadful end of the contrary: And yet, my Life hath been as if thy Laws were only to be read and talk'd of, not obey'd; and all the while I have had the strange Confidence to hope for Heaven at auserely Prous and Religious

O rouse me powerfully from this Fatal Negligence and stupid Presumption! That I may no longer build my Hopes of Happiness Eternal, upon so Sandy, Treacherous a Foundation; but immediately apply my self with all possible Sincerity and Diligence, to practice every Holy Lesson thou hast taught me, and pay thee a Chearful, Uniform Obedience!

422 Practical Discourses upon the Vol.II.

But who is sufficient for such a Task as this, without thy Aid! Who can bend his stubborn Will, and square his crooked Life, by such a perfect Rule, as thou hast given us; unless thou help his Insirmities, strengthen his Weakness, and work in him both to will and to do, according to thy Good Pleasure!

O therefore, most Gracious Lord, leave me not to my impotent self; but be assisting to me in the Performance of every part of my Duty: That so my Hearty Endeavours may at last be crown'd with Success!

So shall I have good ground to hope, to see thee smile upon me at the Day of Judgment, and having fought the good Fight, through thy Merits and Mercies receive that Crown of Righteousness, which thou, the Righteous Judge wilt then give to all that love thy appearing, and prepare for it by a sincerely Pious and Religious Life.

Amen; Blessed and most Holy Saviour, to Smay, Treatherbes &

Buc

tion; but immediately apply my felf

Mile Simewers and Diligence, to me, and was the I.M. I.A. Chiforge Ob.

arence!

ve of of

to st, at ne at

r,

